

Read Novel Always Been Yours Chapter 1231

Always Been Yours Chapter 1231—After hearing what Belinda said, Francis thought she had a point. Still, he stared doubtfully at Oliver. “Was it really not you?”

“It wasn’t me,” Oliver declared firmly. Francis frowned. “If it wasn’t you, then why is Sawyer Group still coming after Hadfield Group? Did someone do it in your name?” As soon as Francis said those words, Oliver immediately thought of Wanda. He grew pale with fury. Francis noticed Oliver’s reaction and instantly asked, “Did you think of something?”

“I suspect that Wanda might have made the arrangements using my identity.”

Oliver shared his suspicions without hiding anything. His parents were taken aback and in disbelief. “Why would Wanda do that?”

Francis looked at Oliver with a puzzled frown.

Oliver told the truth. “Wanda never liked me. The one she likes has always been Nicholas Sawyer of the Sawyer Group. She’s the one who talked me into targeting Sawyer Group.”

“How could that be? I don’t think Wanda would do such a thing. Are you just trying to shift the blame on her instead?” Belinda eyed Oliver suspiciously.

Oliver knew that Wanda acted like an innocent, obedient girl in front of the elders so he didn’t bother explaining any further. He simply told them, “If you don’t think it’s possible, then you can get someone to look into it.”

Francis immediately instructed his assistant to do just that. The next day, Francis’ assistant brought the results of the investigation to Hadfield Residence.

“Chairman Hadfield, according to our investigations, it was indeed Wanda Muller who arranged for the media to defame the young Mrs. Sawyer under Mr. Oliver’s name.”

Francis’ assistant reported the findings. Francis and Belinda were furious to hear this. They never thought that Wanda would do such a thing. Belinda was so mad that she turned bright red.

“Here I was thinking that Wanda was a good girl. Who would’ve thought she would go behind our backs and do such a thing to our family?”

“I had no idea this girl would do such a thing. She seemed so well-mannered and mature.”

Francis sighed. Belinda fumed, “Well-mannered, huh? She must’ve been putting on an act to fool us! Thank goodness the engagement was called off. Otherwise, judging by how vicious and cunning she is, Oliver would be no match for her!”

Francis agreed wholeheartedly. “She’s no ordinary woman, alright. She did such a good job maintaining a facade. It was even enough to fool me.”

As Oliver listened to his parents, his expression didn’t ease up. It was just as dark and stormy.

Wanda was the reason why he ended up like this! “Wanda Muller!”

In his fury, he clenched his jaw so hard that even the veins in his forehead started throbbing. How vicious of her. She didn’t hold back at all, even when she used me

At this moment, he found that all of his genuine affection toward her had been nothing but a joke! His eyes slowly turned bloodshot.

Don’t even think about having it easy after what you did to me, Wanda! At the hospital.

Wanda had no idea that what she did using Oliver’s identity had been exposed. She came to the hospital because it was time for Horace to be discharged.

After staying in the hospital for two days, Horace was doing well, so he wanted to go home.

Once he got home, he sat down on the couch and sighed. “Home will always be the best. Even the VIP rooms in the hospital still smell of disinfectant.”

“I’m sorry, Grandpa. You fainted because I was Immature. I won’t do it again.” Wanda apologized out of guilt. Horace was glad to see that she was remorseful.

It had only been two days, but he could sense that she had truly changed..

“I’m not the one you need to be apologizing to, Wanda.”

He patted her on the shoulder and said with a smile, “Call up Old Master Sawyer and tell him that I’m inviting his whole family over for a meal.”

Wanda understood what her grandfather meant. She nodded and called up Sawyer Residence. The next evening, Remus came over to Muller Residence with Stefania and Tobias.

Read Novel Always Been Yours Chapter 1232

Always Been Yours Chapter 1232—During the meal, Wanda poured out glasses of wine for Remus, Tobias, and Stefania. However, Remus raised his eyebrows and began to form educated guesses when he observed her behavior. Then, he subconsciously glanced at Horace, his best friend.

After so many years of friendship, Horace instantly knew what Remus meant by that glance, and he responded with a subtle nod.

When Wanda had finished filling the glasses with wine, she stood off to the side. Then, she said sincerely, “Old Master Sawyer, Mr. Sawyer, Mrs. Sawyer, today’s meal is not simply because grandpa wanted to meet up with you. We invited you here today because I also want to apologize for my previous immature behavior.” Following that, she bowed to the Sawyers.

Tobias and Stefania were stunned when they noticed the girl’s action. Nevertheless, Tobias’ wife was even more shocked and pondered, There’s something unusual about her bowing to us. Still, I can’t put my finger on what’s wrong with her.

Then, Horace observed their reactions before speaking languidly to help his granddaughter. “Speaking of which, I am grateful for my illness. It truly made Wanda grow up and open her mind. I hope you can give her another chance.”

The last sentence was directed at Remus. In his mind, any dissent from the other Sawyers would be moot as long as Remus spoke up.

However, Remus was aware of Horace’s schemes, but he said nothing. Instead, he turned to scrutinize Wanda from head to toe. She no longer exudes a caustic air but rather one of gentility. Then, he looked away from her and secretly nodded to himself. “Everyone makes mistakes,” he calmly said. “As long as one can turn over a new leaf, everything is forgiven.”

To Horace’s relief, Stefania and Tobias dropped the subject once the word had been spoken.

After decades of friendship, severing ties between the two families would be devastating for everyone involved, so there was no point in harboring resentment. Since the conflict had been resolved, the rest of the meal went off without a hitch.

Afterward, Wanda initiated a conversation with Stefania about fashion, makeup, and other related topics. Meanwhile, the men kept themselves busy with talk of business.

After the meal, Wanda helped Horace and accompanied him to the door to see the Sawyers off.

Due to his happiness, Remus drank a great deal of wine throughout the night, and as he was pretty inebriated, he returned to Sawyer Residence.

After the meal at the Muller Residence that evening, Stefania and Tobias knew they had to inform Nicholas and his family about what had happened, so they went to Dynasty Gardens.

Meanwhile, Gregory was in the living room when the couple walked in, and he was overjoyed to see them. "Grandma, Grandpa, why are you here?" Then, the little guy trotted over to them on his short legs.

"That's because I missed you," said Stefania. She tenderly lifted him into her arms. "Did you miss me?"

"I did. I really missed you, Grandma." He solemnly nodded before kissing her on the cheek. Gregory's gesture made his grandma so happy.

Meanwhile, Nicholas and Tessa got up from the couch and walked over to them. They greeted the elderly couple with smiles before inviting them to take a seat.

After they took a seat, Tobias glanced at Tessa's visibly pregnant belly and inquired concernedly, "How have you been? Is the baby all right?"

"I'm good, and the baby is healthy." Following that, Tessa stroked her belly as she replied with a bright and gentle smile.

After exchanging some polite niceties, Stefania had the servant lead Gregory out of the room.

When Nicholas and Tessa saw that, they exchanged glances and realized the elderly couple had something to tell them.

As expected, Stefania immediately began to tell them about the dinner with the Mullers. "I think Wanda has completely moved on from you," she declared.

However, Tessa was surprised to hear that, but then she smiled. My previous reprimand is effective. At that thought, she proudly turned to face Nicholas and winked. Her facial expression suggested that she was bragging. See? That is my work.

When he saw the playful look in her eyes, he fell in love again with her mischievous personality. Her eyes were so full of love that one could drown in them.

Stefania did not notice their exchange, though. "Honestly speaking, you two should have been invited to tonight's dinner as well," she said with a sigh. "You're the ones she should be apologizing to."

Read Novel Always Been Yours Chapter 1233

Always Been Yours Chapter 1233—"That would not be necessary," Nicholas said. Then, he held Tessa's hand as he continued calmly, "Grandpa silently allowed it in the first place. To put it bluntly, both parties are in the wrong. I will not force Wanda to apologize to us. I only want her to stop bothering us."

Stefania and Tobias frowned, realizing what their son had said made sense. In the end, she turned to look at Tessa. "Do you think that too?" Tessa was pleasantly surprised that her opinion mattered to Stefania. So, Tessa glanced at

Nicholas and nodded, "I also think an apology doesn't matter much as long as she doesn't trouble us in the future."

Anyway, she had already taught Wanda a lesson. Moreover, Tessa did not tell Stefania about it because she did not want her mother-in-law to have a negative impression of her.

So, when the elderly couple saw that Nicholas and Tessa were not bothered by the issue, they stopped talking about it..

Then, Stefania asked the servant to bring Gregory back into the room. Nevertheless, the little guy did not even know that he had been intentionally lured away earlier.

Soon, he returned to the room with a bundle of flowers that he separated into two bouquets.

before offering them to Stefania and Tessa. "Mommy, Grandma, I found the prettiest flowers in the garden. They're for you." "Thank you, Sweetheart. They're gorgeous."

Stefania and Tessa thanked him at the same time. Tobias felt somewhat jealous at that sight. "That's not fair, Greg. Grandma has flowers, but what about grandpa?"

"You have my kiss, Grandpa." Gregory then dashed over to kiss his grandpa on the cheek. The gesture eventually pacified Tobias. Afterward, the family chatted and laughed as time slowly ticked away.

It was already late, and the elderly couple decided to head back home. Before leaving, they recalled something they needed to convey to the young couple.

"It's Friday tomorrow. Tessa, take care of yourself when you head to work tomorrow. Don't tire yourself out." Stefania's reminder came out of concern. Tessa smiled and nodded. "I know. Don't worry."

"I can't stop worrying." Stefania replied. "You travel so far and work so hard. If worse comes to worst, why don't you quit?" The more she spoke, the more she worried. In the end, she began to advise Tessa to give up.

Moreover, Tobias agreed with Stefania's view on the matter. While the Sawyers would benefit from the job, their reputation was nothing compared to the baby.

Suddenly, a smile and a chuckle erupted from Tessa's lips as she felt a glow of happiness spread through her. She could tell the elderly couple genuinely cared about her. "We made the deal a long time ago. Breaking the contract now would be irresponsible. It's not a good thing. Don't worry. I'll rest if I get tired." She tried to dissuade Stefania from the idea.

Hearing that, Stefania had no choice but to turn her focus to Nicholas. "Keep a close eye on her tomorrow. Do not let anything happen to her or the baby, or you will have to answer me."

"I will." Nicholas solemnly nodded. The following morning, Alice drove Tessa to the set while Gregory and Nicholas tagged along.

On the way there, Gregory kept holding onto his mother's hand as he asked all sorts of questions in his high-pitched voice. Meanwhile, Nicholas was sitting beside them as he worked on his laptop. Throughout the trip, a feeling brought warmth to everyone in the car. A while later, the group arrived at the set.

The entire production team was waiting for them. When the crew saw Nicholas and Tessa step out of the car, they were all shocked by their extraordinary beauty.

Nicholas was dressed in a black suit as usual. With the way he held himself and the imperious air that hung around him because of his station in life, he gave off a very overwhelming aura.

Meanwhile, Gregory was dressed in a beautiful blue suit that suited his fair cheeks so well that he was the perfect picture of a beautiful boy and looked cute.

Tessa was surrounded by both of them as though she were being guarded by knights. "Miss Reinhart is here," a crew member called out. "President Sawyer," another greeted. "Gregory is so cute."

Later, the crew members, who had been mesmerized, came to and warmly greeted the trios.

Read Novel Always Been Yours Chapter 1234

Always Been Yours Chapter 1234—Tessa patiently responded to all of the greetings sent her way. At that moment, a makeup artist walked over to the group. "Hello, Miss Reinhart. My name is Amy, and I will be your makeup artist today."

“Hello.” Tessa responded with a polite greeting. Then, Amy nodded and began to busy herself with work. “Do you have any ideas for today’s shooting, Miss Reinhart?” she asked.

Tessa looked at herself in the mirror and hesitated. Moments later, she smiled. “I think I look quite good today. I don’t need a lot of makeup. Why don’t you add some color to my lips? As long as it makes me look a little livelier, it’s enough.”

“Do you plan to appear on camera without makeup?” Amy inquired because she was surprised by her response. The rest of the crew overheard the conversation and thought Tessa was quite bold to do that.

On the other hand, Tessa had no idea that she needed to wear a certain amount of makeup for the shoot. So, she nodded and spoke in a melodious voice, “This is a public service announcement, after all.

I don’t think I need to have exquisite makeup on. Looking natural and real would give people a better impression.” “You’re right,” Amy replied. With a nod, she began to put some lipstick on Tessa.

Soon, Tessa was done with her makeup. One had to admit that even though she only had some lipstick on, her skin was so fair and smooth that she looked as good as if she had full-face makeup.

The contrast of her red lips against her skin made her look extraordinarily healthy. In addition, she was dressed in a white dress that exposed her smooth skin. It made her look so elegant and ethereal that everyone who looked at her felt relaxed. Many of the crew members who spotted her felt unusually calm. Soon, it was time to start filming.

As the director knew she had never acted in such a video before, he patiently explained the video’s core message to her. “The main vision for the video is healing and new life. To put it bluntly, we want to give off the feeling of darkness suddenly pierced through by a beam of light.”

Tessa listened to every word he said. Nonetheless, she was perceptive, and by the time the director had finished explaining, she had a basic grasp of the concept. “Let me give it a go,” she suggested. “See if it is what you want. If not, we can tweak it after.”

“Okay. Let’s do a take.” The director nodded and ordered the crew to stand by. Then, she stood in front of the cameras and presented the concept she had been formulating earlier.

However, the director was shocked at her performance. That was because what she acted out was much better than he had anticipated. Moreover, he expected Tessa to take her time due to her lack of experience, but he did not expect her to be so talented.

“That’s it, Miss Reinhart. Keep it up. Camera one, focus on her face and slowly zoom in.”

She wore a white dress at that moment, so her on-screen appearance was exceptionally pristine and stunning. Moreover, she appeared to exude a very calming and comforting vibe when coupled with her easygoing and friendly smile.

The plan was to film throughout the day, but as noon approached, Tessa’s legs began to ache due to her pregnant belly and constant movement throughout the morning. In addition, her back ached so severely that it was difficult for her to stand upright. Finally, they had completed the final shot of the morning, and she could no longer conceal her exhaustion.

As Nicholas observed, his heart ached, so he pushed through the crowd and approached her. Meanwhile, Gregory trailed closely behind his father.

“Mommy, are you tired?” The little guy raised his head and stared at her with round, black eyes that sparkled with concern.

Tessa found her heart softening when she saw that. So, she reassured him by running her fingers through his soft strands of hair. “Thank you for your concern, Sweetheart. I’m not that tired, though.”

However, Nicholas disagreed with her statement. She is clearly exhausted, but she is pushing herself to keep going. As he pondered, he pursed his lips. As he escorted her to a seat, he turned to Gregory and commanded, “Keep an eye on her.”

Following that, he turned around to search for the director. Tessa was taken aback by his words, but as she watched him leave, she realized what he was planning to do. A part of her wanted to sigh at him, but more than that, she felt an overwhelming sense of happiness,

Meanwhile, the director noticed Nicholas walking over to him. “President Sawyer,” he greeted, respectfully shooting to his feet.

Read Novel Always Been Yours Chapter 1235

Always Been Yours Chapter 1235—“I think we should wrap up the shoot for today, director, Nicholas said. “My wife is tired and needs rest. We can continue filming tomorrow.” He stated his intentions in a very blunt manner. Hearing that, the director hesitated.

Knowing what the director was hesitating about, Nicholas continued, “The Sawyer Group will take full responsibility for the fees that come with renting the set for another day, including paying for the workers. The company will pay for it all.”

With that offer, the director realized that it would seem rather inhumane of him if he continued to reject Nicholas' suggestion. Tessa's condition was rather unique in the first place. That was understandable. Even so....

"Mr. Sawyer, I do not have the final say on this. Still, I will pass the suggestion on. I think they will understand Miss Reinhart's difficulties. They will surely not blame this on her, so you can bring her back to rest now."

"Thank you."

After giving a few polite thanks, Nicholas turned and returned to his family. When Tessa saw him enter the break room, she smiled and teasingly asked, "How did the negotiations go?"

"We'll be taking a break this afternoon. Filming will continue tomorrow."

He then lifted her into his arms and strode out of the room. Upon seeing that, Gregory hurried after them, and Alice did so too.

As for the other crew members, they were sick with envy when they saw that.

This was especially true for several of the female crew members. "Goodness, Mr. Sawyer is just so hot," one of them exclaimed with starry eyes and her hands clutching at her chest.

"Yeah, particularly when he was negotiating with the director. He was so cool!" another said. "Mr. Sawyer has all the qualities of my ideal boyfriend. He's absolutely perfect."

"I envy Miss Reinhart so much. She's so lucky. and Mr. Sawyer dotes on her so much."

"Did you realize that when we were filming, he didn't look away from her for a single second?"

Many of the women on set began to compare their boyfriends and husbands against Nicholas. The end results made them feel even more dejected than before.

"How can there be such a huge gap between men?" one cried out. "They are all men, so why is Mr. Sawyer so outstanding? Compared to him, my husband can't even be considered a man."

"Mine is ugly and broke. Let's not even talk about doting on me. After work, I still have to wait on him." The more they chatted, the more jealous they were.

Finally, they concluded, "Miss Reinhart must have saved the entire galaxy in her last life. That's why she gets someone as amazing as Mr. Sawyer."

On the drive home, while Tessa was still rather tired, she still had some energy left in her.

She leaned her head against Nicholas' shoulder and chuckled. "My condition isn't as serious as you thought. I could have worked for a while longer."

To her surprise, when she said that, his face turned into a severe look. "I told you to never fool around with your health."

He turned and shot an angry glare at her.

Even Gregory had a stern look on his face as he lectured, "You're being naughty, Mommy. You have to listen to Daddy and take care of yourself."

She stuck her tongue out at the two guys in her life who looked extremely identical. "All right," she said. "I won't ignore my health in the future."

She glanced at Gregory before wrapping her arms around Nicholas' arm and pleaded, "Don't be angry."

Nicholas was not truly angry in the first place. Hence, her simple plea was enough to make his face soften. He sighed and helplessly asked, "Why are you working so hard for? It's not like I can't afford to clothe and feed you."

Hearing the upset tone in his voice, she knew it was because he did not want her to exhaust herself. "I swear, this will be the last time I'm going to work, she promised. "Once this is over, I'll stay home and rest until I give birth."

She gently tugged at his arm as she coyly pleaded once more with a sincere look in her eyes. After all, there was only a month or so left.

As Nicholas looked down at his pleading wife, his eyes darkened. "I recall a certain someone promising to stop working as well last time."

Did she? She blinked at him, unable to recall such a moment.