

Always Been Yours Chapter 899

Always Been Yours (Tessa and Nicholas)

Chapter 899

Chapter 899 Fashion Show

Looking at the three of them coming out of the hotel, Linville felt it was a feast for the eyes.

Although Nicholas was still in a black suit, as usual, there was some difference from the usual ones he wore on the details.

There were dark embroideries on the collar and sleeves of the suit, making him look noble and mysterious. The suit, along with his extraordinary aura, attached the attention of everyone around.

Gregory was in a little suit as well, and the pattern was quite similar to Nicholas', but the style was completely different. It had the playfulness of a child in it.

On the other hand, Tessa was in a puffy, see-through purple dress. She had one arm linked with Nicholas and the other hand holding Gregory. Unsure whether it was because she was pregnant, but her aura at this moment had turned more elegant and gentler than before.

"When I saw this dress, my first thought was that it'll suit you well. It seems like what I thought was right," Linville complimented Tessa with a smile while studying her attire from head to toe.

Tessa was getting a little shy from the compliment, but Gregory said with a proud face, "My mommy is the most beautiful mommy in the whole world."

The next second, everyone was laughing at his comment. As they were chatting, they took the car and headed to the venue of the fashion show.

As expected from a well-known event, the place was vivacious and crowded, with many celebrities walking on the red carpet.

Tessa just took a look and kept her glance right away since she wasn't interested at all. Then, she followed Linville and Warner into the venue through the VIP channel. The venue was already all set up and decorated.

The runway was uniquely decorated with an aisle of oil paintings, and the seats were arranged beside the aisle. The elements' collision between the bold oil paintings and the classical decorations made the whole venue look posh and brought a whole new visual experience to the guests.

Linville brought Tessa and the others to sit in the front row. In fact, Nicholas and Warner didn't have much interest in this fashion show, so they started talking about business as soon as they sat down.

On the other hand, Linville introduced the fashion show to Tessa in detail, explaining, "The main design concept of the clothes in this show today is color blocking, combined with many classy elements. This will definitely be an astonishing show."

Hearing that, Tessa nodded and looked around the venue. Almost immediately, she was attracted to the oil paintings in the oil painting aisle.

"The oil paintings on the wall are very detailed and bold. Are they by famous painters?" she tilted her head and asked Linville.

With a nod, Linville answered, "Yes. To fit the show's concept, we've specially invited a few famous oil painting masters to create the paintings together. The paintings are a big highlight of today's show too."

"Luckily, I'm here for today's show." Tessa planned to look at the paintings in the oil painting aisle after the show.

As they were talking, people started to enter the venue as well.

Since Linville was a senior in the fashion industry, many people came to greet her. But, of course, they didn't leave Tessa out, either.

Although Tessa was not a familiar face to them, they thought that she was definitely an extraordinary woman to be able to sit beside Linville.

At the same time, Tessa reacted gracefully to their greetings too.

Meanwhile, Gregory was sitting beside her obediently.

There were many reporters at the venue as well, and they were taking all sorts of photos. It was obvious that they wouldn't miss Linville, who was a star in the fashion industry.

Linville didn't mind having her photos taken, either. She sat closer to Tessa and introduced her to the guests sitting opposite them. "That person is the fashion director of VOGUE. Their main focus is on modern fashion elements..."

Hearing her introduction, Tessa nodded and asked her questions about the fashion elements of designing. Although she didn't study fashion design, there were no boundaries in artistic expression after all. She also found out that there were beautiful stories behind each fashion element concept, which touched her a lot.

Both of them were having a deep conversation, but that scene surprised many people since Linville gave people a chic and stern image previously. This was the first time they saw her being so friendly with a person. At that moment, many of them were curious about who Tessa was.

Soon, it was time for the opening of the fashion show.

Always Been Yours Chapter 900

Always Been Yours (Tessa and Nicholas)

Chapter 900

Chapter 900 Phoenix Flame

"Welcome to H&G's annual fashion show! I believe all of you can tell the concept of this year's show from the decorations around you..." the host stood on the stage and explained this year's fashion show concept in a humorous tone.

With that, the audience was not bored, but they were anticipating the show.

"I hereby announce that the show has begun." As soon as the host said that, the venue was filled with thunderous applause and melodious music.

Almost immediately, the first model walked elegantly onto the runway in an exquisite dress.

That was an airy blue off-shoulder long dress with a bold lace pattern. No other color could replace the tenderness of airy blue. The most special part of this dress was the thin, airy blue bowknot on the neck, making the model look like a sweet little princess.

When the silver light shone on the model, it was as though a halo was covering the dress. It was so beautiful that there were no words to describe it.

At this moment, the host's deep voice resonated in the venue once again, explaining the design concept of this dress.

Everyone in the venue was admiring the dress in silence.

Tessa was drawn into the dress as well, since no woman in this world could resist the charm of a pretty dress.

Throughout the whole show, it was unsurprisingly that all the designs were unique and astonishing.

The media were busy taking photos of the models on stage, afraid that they would leave a detail behind. There were discussions starting to rise around the venue as well.

Just then, Gregory tugged on Tessa's hand and told her softly, "Mommy, these dresses are all so beautiful."

"Yes. They're gorgeous." Tessa nodded in acknowledgment, but her eyes were fixed on the models.

Gregory noticed his mommy liked the dresses, so he stuck his body out and asked, "Miss. Linville, are these dresses for sale? I want to use my pocket money to buy one for Mommy."

When Linville heard that, she was stunned for a moment and couldn't help but laugh. "Aww, Gregory. How much pocket money do you have? Tell me. I'll see if I can buy one for you."

"I have a lot, a lot of pocket money. I can definitely buy it." He used both of his hands to make a gesture showing 'a lot'.

Tessa looked at this sensible and good boy and felt a warmth in her heart. "Greg is so nice, but I don't need these dresses now."

She hugged him on the shoulder and said gently, "Let's continue with the show."

The pieces were getting classier and exquisite.

However, from the pieces, Tessa felt that there should be backstories for them. Subsequently, the host's introduction proved her instinct.

Suddenly, she was growing curious about the designer of these pieces. She wanted to know which genius could integrate mythologies into clothes.

"Miss Linville, may I know who's the designer of this show?"

"This is our company's designer, Tabitha's, designs. She's very famous in the fashion industry nowadays," Linville briefly told her the profile of the designer.

Hearing that, Tessa said in realization, "Oh, it's her! No wonder all of the pieces are excellent."

She knew about Tabitha, the genius designer in the fashion industry. Every piece that she designed was unique, and the tickets for her fashion shows were always hard to get.

The time passed really quickly, and it was time for the final dress.

With a piece of uplifting classical music, a slender model stepped onto the runway in a red and gold dress.

Under the stage light, the embroidery of the wings on the dress looked real. On top of that, the hemline on the floor displayed its elegance and classiness. This caught the eyeballs of the audience at once.

The media personnels were pointing their cameras at the model and snapping photos like crazy too.

At this moment, the host started introducing the dress, "This is the last piece of the show and also Tabitha's proudest piece, 'Phoenix Flame'. It has the meaning of reborn..."

Below the stage, Linville was telling Tessa some stories about the details that the host didn't know. "This is the only piece in the whole world. It took half a year to make this dress.

Tabitha even visited Xerthania and stayed there for a few months for it. I heard that she researched the mythology of Xerthania. Take a look at the hemline. It was designed based on the phoenix in Xerthania's mythology."