

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 121 - 121 - Unrequited Love

Jean had already walked ahead. She toured the campus alone and left her two best friends behind. Actually she only came there just to accompany Jae-hwa. She has no fees if she has to go to college. Just to eat everyday she had to work hard. However, if there was a choice, of course she really wanted to go to college again.

But Jean's fate was very unlucky. She was also not smart enough to apply from the track of achievement to get a scholarship.

Soo Yin and Jae-hwa surround the medical school alone. Soo Yin didn't even know why to visit there. Even though Dae Hyun told her to go to college, Soo Yin feels unsure. The money in her savings will not be enough to register there.

"Are you here to register? I really hope we can be together," Jae-hwa who looked very happy said as his eyes looked around the campus area.

"I don't have that much money," Soo Yin said with a long sigh. Her eyes wandered far away.

"You can definitely get a scholarship," Jae-hwa said to encourage Soo Yin not to give up.

"I'm not even as smart as you. I feel unsure," Soo Yin said.

"Soo Yin, you can't give up. I'm sure you can," Jae-hwa said. If he was not in the same university with Soo Yin, it will be very sad.

"Anyway, you have to register with me," Jae-hwa continued.

"I'll think about it later," Soo Yin said while smiling faintly at Jae-hwa's excited statement. She is not a woman who is still alone so she can do something at will. If she weren't married maybe she would have tried a little harder.

After being satisfied touring the campus. Soo Yin, Jean and Jae-hwa decided to go home. Unfortunately Jae-hwa was already in a hurry to leave first because he has to take his grandmother shopping. Now it was just Jean and Soo Yin.

"Jean, can we talk for a moment?" Soo Yin said hesitantly. She wanted to straighten out what really happened so Jean was indifferent to her.

"Say it!" Jean said as she continued to walk without looking back.

"It's better not to talk here. How about we chat while eating? I'll treat it because I miss our time together," Soo Yin said happily.

"We'll talk here," Jean said. This was the first time refusing Soo Yin's invitation to eat even though it's free.

Well, Jean still felt hurt every time she remembered how the last time she was a mosquito repellent between Soo Yin and Park Soo Hyun. Especially yesterday she had just witnessed Park Soo Hyun who almost put his feelings for Soo Yin.

"Then we'll just sit there," Soo Yin said, pointing to a long bench under a tree. Actually, there was a sense of disappointment when Jean refused her invitation.

Jean immediately preceded Soo Yin to sit down but didn't want to look at Soo Yin because every time she saw her her heart felt very tight. Her chest cavity felt sore. She hated her friend even more even though it was not Soo Yin's fault at all. Love really has blinded the eyes of her heart.

"Jean, actually what happened to you? Why are you seeming away from me lately?" Soo Yin said carefully, she sat right beside Jean even though Jean moved her body a little. She did not want to insult Jean's feelings.

"Nothing, I'm just ordinary. It's probably just your feelings," Jean said briefly. Her eyes didn't to dared look at Soo Yin. She couldn't possibly tell the truth that she was jealous of her. Yes, she felt very jealous because the man she loved, loved Soo Yin. Her feelings really one-sided.

"Well, then how is your relationship with Mr. Park Soo Hyun? Have you become closer?" Soo Yin asked. She didn't want to discuss why Jean had been ignorant of her lately.

"Don't pretend to ask me that. If you just want to laugh at me," Jean said with a tone that was quite sarcastic in Soo Yin's ear.

"What do you mean? Why do you say that?" Soo Yin asked while frowning. What's the point of laughing at it anyway. She even felt happy if Jean someday had a match with Park Soo Hyun so that one day they would become family. Just imagining it looked beautiful.

Soo Yin almost forgot that she was currently upset with her husband.

"You asked my relationship with Mr. Park Soo Hyun? Whereas you know if he likes you. What do you mean?" Jean sneered with her lips parted one way.

"How do you know if Mr. Park Soo Hyun likes me? That's not true at all," Soo Yin argued.

"Didn't you realize that Master was sending you flowers and chocolates every day? He even sent you a love poem. Are you playing dumb or something?" Jean said in a slightly high tone.

Soo Yin slowly remembered that the poem she thought was written by her husband was actually from Park Soo Hyun. But she didn't think that man liked her. Because every time Park Soo Hyun gave her flowers and chocolates he always said it just as a thank you. Except for the first one sent which she thought was from Dae Hyun.

"Jean, but Mr. Park Soo Hyun always said if it was just a thank you. Nothing more than that," Soo Yin said, trying to explain so that Jean believed her words.

"Then what about the poetry he sent you?" Jean asked as she rolled her eyes.

Soo Yin did feel a little odd when she read the poem. It really didn't occur to her if it was from Park Soo Hyun. If Soo Yin found out from the start she would return it.

"Jean, that's not true. There's no way Mr. Park Soo Hyun likes me," Soo Yin said.

"Never mind, there is no need to pretend to hide your feelings from me. I am also very sure that you like him too. Moreover, he is a handsome and rich man," Jean said sarcastically stabbed Soo Yin's heart.

"Jean, I don't like Mr. Park Soo Hyun at all," Soo Yin said defensively. Her chest was a little tight because it was as if Jean considered her a woman who saw a man from her face and treasure alone. How could she possibly like another man when she already has a husband who was none other than Park Soo Hyun's brother.

"No need to be hypocritical in front of me!" Jean said while chuckling.

"Jean, I can't possibly like him because I already have hus...." Soo Yin didn't continue. It was impossible for her to tell Jean at this time. She was still afraid that her secret will be leaked. Many people have not been able to know their relationship.

"There will be no woman who rejects a man like him." Jean lifted her lip. She couldn't easily believe Soo Yin's words just like that.

"Jean, enough! So just because of that you stayed away from me?" Soo Yin asked in disbelief. Jean even stayed away from her for reasons that were not certain.

"Even yesterday, didn't he confess his love for you? He even asked me about a suitable gift to give you." Jean said furiously with her hands on her chest.

"Yesterday?" Soo Yin recalled the incident yesterday when Park Soo Hyun took her to the basement. There, suddenly opened the car cover but Park Soo Hyun only gave the same poem as at that time. That's where she found out if Dae Hyun was lying about his poetry. Is that what Jean meant when Park Soo Hyun confessed his love? Because at that time Dae Hyun rushed her to go.

"You must be very happy, right?" Jean sneered. It's true that people say sometimes love can destroy a long-standing friendship.

"Jean, I really don't like him," Soo Yin said honestly.

"Never mind, it's up to you! I do not believe your nonsense," Jean said as she left Soo Yin. She walked very quickly without caring about Soo Yin who kept calling her.

With full determination Soo Yin intended to tell everything to Jean even though not at this time. Soo Yin didn't want to lose the only friend she has. She didn't want to just because a misunderstanding, destroyed a friendship that has existed for a long time. It made Soo Yin sad.

Soo Yin could only look at Jean's back which was slowly getting farther away.

Soo Yin decided to go back to the villa because there was no more business. Just walking a few meters, it turned out that a red car stopped right in front of her so Soo Yin stopped in her tracks.

A man got out of the car with a black glass perched on his nose. He looked very handsome and dignified. A smile on his lips that made every woman might be fascinated by him. A man who was familiar to Soo Yin's eyes.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 122 - 122 - Cannot Avoid

"Looks like we are really destined so God brought us here," Park Soo Hyun said while walking over to Soo Yin while taking off his glasses. He was very lucky to meet Soo Yin on a holiday like this. The goddess of luck seemed to be on his side.

"Mr. Park Soo Hyun?" Soo Yin who widened her pupils said. Soo Yin regreted that at a time like this, she actually met that man. Moreover, she just found out the fact which was quite shocking.

"Soo Yin, I want you to accompany me to lunch. Lunch alone makes me not in the mood," Park Soo Hyun asked without further ado.

"Sorry, I have to go home," Soo Yin said gently.

"Then I'll take you home," Park Soo Hyun said, he insisted. He didn't want to waste it while he had a chance with Soo Yin.

Soo Yin massaged her head. Why were the two brothers so pushy? She must have a plan in order to escape from Park Soo Hyun. If Jean found out that she was with Park Soo Hyun then Jean would surely hate her even more.

Soo Yin didn't want to lose her best friend because of some unclear misunderstanding. Didn't let them fight just because of a man.

"Come on, there are also things I want to say. Yesterday I didn't have time to say anything to you because my brother always bothered," Park Soo Hyun said with a disappointed face. He really wanted to confess his love right now. He wanted to immediately introduce to all hotel employees that Soo Yin was his lover.

Soo Yin felt even more scared. Is it true what Jean said that Park Soo Hyun liked him? if that happened she did not know what to answer. She didn't have any feelings for that man.

"Better just next time because I have some business," Soo Yin said, trying to find the right reason but could not find it.

"No problem, just tell me where you're going?" Park Soo Hyun urged. He will happily deliver wherever Soo Yin wants.

"Hmmm ... I ... I want to find Jean in front. We will go to the bookstore then tonight there will be a movie at the cinema," Soo Yin said, stuttering. But she hoped that Park Soo Hyun didn't follow her anymore. Soo Yin believed that a man as handsome as Park Soo Hyun didn't like going to the cinema.

"Then let's look for Jean, I saw her on the road ahead," Park Soo Hyun said, pointing to the sidewalk across the street.

Soo Yin was getting furious about wanting to be released but it turned out to be very difficult. If she said she wanted to go home she would definitely still insist on delivering. It felt like Soo Yin wanted to cry right now.

"Then you have to pick up Jean first and then you pick me up here," Soo Yin said, she had found a bright spot so she could escape from Park Soo Hyun.

"It will take a long time. We better go now. I know where a bookstore that sells quality books but not too expensive," Park Soo Hyun said.

Soo Yin bit her lower lip. It seemed useless looking for excuses because Park Soo Hyun could even read her mind.

By force, Soo Yin followed Park Soo Hyun into the car to pick up Jean first. Soo Yin asked to sit at the back with the excuse that she was afraid to get drunk if she sits in the front. She didn't care anymore if the reason didn't make sense because Soo Yin was out of her mind.

Park Soo Hyun started driving at a moderate speed down the road. Soo Yin kept looking left and right to find Jean. Hopefully she's not too far from around here yet. Already a few meters the car running Jean has not been found. Made Soo Yin nervous. If there was no Jean, it would likely be even more difficult to avoid him.

Right near the red light, Jean finally came into sight. She looked like she's about to cross. Soo Yin can sigh in relief.

"That's Jean! After the green light we have to approach her," Soo Yin said while pointing to a girl who had crossed.

"Calm down. You better call her before Jean gets further?" Park Soo Hyun said.

"Quickly stop the car," Soo Yin said as soon as their car was only a few meters away.

Park Soo Hyun stopped his car on the side of the road then opened his car window to greet Jean so that the girl stopped.

"Hi, Jean," Park Soo Hyun said, who poked his head out.

Jean immediately stopped her steps when she heard a familiar, melodious voice in her ears. Every night she even wanted to always listen to that distinctive voice.

Jean turned her head towards the source of the sound.

"Mr. Park Soo Hyun?" She said with a fluffy face. It cannot be denied that she felt happy every time she met this man.

Even though Park Soo Hyun loved another woman, Jean could never hate him. She actually hated the woman he loved. Granted, that's a little unfair. But this was what she felt because love blinded her senses.

"Jean, get in," Park Soo Hyun said.

Jean seemed to have heard wrong when she heard Park Soo Hyun asking her to get into his car. Hopefully there's nothing else behind it.

"Hurry up!" Park Soo Hyun said once again.

Soo Yin who was in the back seat remains silent. She was afraid that if Jean found out she was in the car she would not want to get in.

Jean nodded her head with a smile etched on her lips. The girl went straight to the front passenger seat because Park Soo Hyun told her to.

As soon as she sat down, Jean's expression immediately turned grim when she saw the figure she now hated appeared in the rearview mirror.

"Hi, Jean," Soo Yin said. She tried to look casual as if nothing had happened between them.

"You?" Jean looked back while looking at Soo Yin and Park Soo Hyun alternately. Her eyebrows looked furrowed.

"Then we will immediately go to the bookstore," Park Soo Hyun said as he drove his car back.

"Bookstore?" Jean didn't understand why they had to go to the bookstore.

"Soo Yin said you two would buy a book," Park Soo Hyun said.

"Yes, I haven't said if I want to take Jean to the bookstore." Soo Yin hurriedly answered before being caught by Jean.

Jean looked at Soo Yin while narrowing her eyes. She wondered since when Soo Yin wanted to go to the bookstore when she never went to the library at school.

If she found out that Soo Yin was inside she will definitely refuse Park Soo Hyun's invitation. Jean felt too confident about this. Before getting in, she should have felt suspicious first. Jean felt cheated by their charade.

Soo Yin only bit her lower lip as Jean gave her a look of dislike.

It turned out that the bookstore wasn't too far. Once they arrived they immediately entered the bookstore which was quite large in space. Soo Yin hopes that there was a chance for her to run away. But it turned out that Park Soo Hyun was still following her without paying attention to Jean which made Soo Yin feel even more uncomfortable.

When Park Soo Hyun and Jean were in the same place, Soo Yin deliberately went a little away and kept walking sneaking around so as not to be caught.

Soo Yin hid between the bookshelves then peeked out from behind the bookshelves as Park Soo Hyun and Jean seemed to pick up a book with the same title.

"It's for you," Park Soo Hyun said while handing the book to Jean.

"No," Jean said. Actually she had accidentally taken the book. After all, she came to the bookstore just to follow them.

"Oh yes, where's Soo Yin?" Park Soo Hyun looked around for Soo Yin around the room.

Soo Yin who was listening remained silent in her place. Hope Park Soo Hyun didn't find her. Really she felt bad for Jean. While they didn't see her, Soo Yin intended to leave the bookstore immediately.

"Soo Yin, where are you going?" Park Soo Hyun said when she saw Soo Yin who was about to leave the bookstore.

"I... I just want to go to the toilet for a while," Soo Yin said.

"Over there the toilet," Park Soo Hyun said while pointing at a door.

"Okay." Soo Yin was forced to actually go into the toilet. She saw the clock on her cellphone, which was already five in the afternoon. It didn't seem like she had been gone all day.

Soo Yin's body slumped against the toilet wall. She thought about how Dae Hyun was right now. Hopefully her husband was fine.

Whenever Dae Hyun makes a mistake, Soo Yin's heart can always be melted again.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 123 - 123 - Rich Man Seducer

Before they went to the cinema Park Soo Hyun invited Soo Yin and Jean to eat at a cafe. Even though Soo Yin was actually tired and wanted to go home soon.

"Hurry up and order whatever you want," Park Soo Hyun said as he leaned his head on the chair. His heart felt happy because this day he could spend time with the person he liked. Even though there was Jean, it didn't matter at all. Besides, Jean also knew that he liked Soo Yin.

Soo Yin and Jean looked at each other for a moment before Jean looked away.

"Don't hesitate. Just order everything you want," Park Soo Hyun said.

"It's up to you," Soo Yin said. Even though she was hungry, she had no taste at all. Her mind floated in the air thinking about her husband who was not feeling well.

Park Soo Hyun finally ordered all the main menu items at the cafe.

Soo Yin just messed up the food on her plate with a blank stare. Jean who saw it frowned. But she was also reluctant to ask what happened to Soo Yin.

"Soo Yin, is the food not good? You don't look in the mood," Park Soo Hyun said in the middle of chewing his food.

"I'm full," Soo said Yin as she put down her tableware.

"Soo Yin, you even only ate a few mouthfuls," Jean said, who had been observing Soo Yin. She felt guilty about her attitude towards Soo Yin earlier.

"Ah, that's not true. I've already eaten half of it," Soo Yin said with a big smile. She felt so happy that Jean finally noticed her. She missed Jean who was always kind and considerate to her.

"Ah, it looks like the movie will start soon," Park Soo Hyun said as he looked at the clock on his wrist.

Fifteen minutes later they immediately entered the Megabox Coex Mall to immediately watch a movie in the cinema.

"You better wait here. Let me buy food and drinks," Park Soo Hyun said, who immediately went to find snacks to be brought in. It felt like there was something missing if watching movies but didn't buy snacks.

"Soo Yin, I'm sorry about my attitude earlier," Jean said while lowering her head to hide her face. She felt ashamed of Soo Yin.

"Jean, there's no need to apologize. I can understand how you feel," Soo Yin said with a smile etched on her lips. Being able to chat again with Jean made her feel relieved.

"I really feel ashamed," Jean said.

Soo Yin hugged Jean's body then rubbed her back. But immediately let go because it wasn't long before Park Soo Hyun arrived.

"What's wrong with you?" Park Soo Hyun said with both hands carrying plastic.

"We'd better get in because the film will start soon," Soo Yin said while holding Jean's wrist.

They immediately entered the cinema. It turned out that the audience had already filled some of the seats. Moreover, tonight a popular horror film will be shown.

Soo Yin sat in the middle between Jean and Kim Soo Hyun. She had to think of a way to get out of the cinema. She wanted to give time alone for them. Soo Yin wanted Park Soo Hyun to be close to Jean.

Everyone in the audience seemed very enthusiastic when the film had just started showing a serial murder. They screamed hysterically at each other until it echoed in the room.

Kim Soo Hyun also looked enthusiastic so that his gaze remains fixed on the big screen in front of him. Soo Yin didn't enjoy the film at all. Her heart was restless and wanted to go home to see her husband's condition.

"Jean, can we switch seats?" Soo Yin whispered. She glanced at Park Soo Hyun, who was so busy that this could be used to escape.

"Why?" Jean said.

"Don't talk too much." Soo Yin kept glancing at Park Soo Hyun who was enjoying watching while sipping drinks.

With great difficulty for fear of being caught they managed to switch places. The film was very tense, so the atmosphere was a bit boisterous to hear the screams of the audience.

"Jean, I'm going home first. Have a good night." There was no longer any time to linger in the cinema. Soo Yin immediately left them already.

Jean, who now left alone with Park Soo Hyun was nervous. She's afraid that if the man found out that Soo Yin was leaving then he will be very disappointed.

30 minutes later the film was finally over. Now the lights were turned on so that the audience can easily find their belongings so they won't miss it.

"Where is Soo Yin?" Park Soo Hyun asked, who frowned because suddenly Jean was beside him. He was too engrossed in watching him that he didn't even notice they had switched seats.

"Soo Yin has come home," Jean said fearfully.

"When? Why don't you say it? Ah, what a shame," Park Soo Hyun muttered with a disappointed face. Even though on the way home he already has a plan. That's why he kept Soo Yin from going home until evening. It's a pity the girl has come home.

"Soo Yin said goodbye to the toilet but not long after that she sent a message that she came home," Jean explained.

"Alright, let's just go home." Park Soo Hyun stood up from his seat. Jean also followed the man's footsteps in a silent state and showed her face.

"Sir, I'd better go home by taxi," Jean said. She felt self-conscious about her status as just an ordinary worker which might not be worthy of loving a prince.

"It's already night. You better come with me," Park Soo Hyun said as he turned to stare at Jean's manic eye.

"But...." Jean said while lowering her head. She felt a flutter when the man looked at her. His gaze was so warm that the defensive wall that had been built so far from falling in love had now completely collapsed.

"Yes." Park Soo Hyun suddenly grabbed Jean's wrist until the girl looked at the two interlocking hands.

"Mr. Park Soo Hyun!" a female voice called out, coming from behind them.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 124 - 124 - Not Bad

"Yes." Park Soo Hyun suddenly grabbed Jean's wrist until the girl looked at the two interlocking hands.

"Mr. Park Soo Hyun!" a female voice called out, coming from behind them.

Park Soo Hyun and Jean immediately stopped in their tracks to see who it was. It turned out that it was Li Sa.

"Have you been watching too?" Li Sa asked with a happy face but suddenly turned displeased when he saw Park Soo Hyun and Jean who were still holding hands.

"Li Sa?" Jean narrowed her eyes. She asked herself how could Li Sa know Kim Soo Hyun.

"Geez, it turns out that you and your best friend are both seducers of rich men," Li Sa sneered while looking at Jean from top to bottom with a look of disgust.

Li Sa immediately let go of Park Soo Hyun and Jean's interlocked hands. Then Li Sa immediately hugged Kim Soo Hyun's arm.

Park Soo Hyun, who felt uncomfortable and really didn't like Li Sa's presence, immediately pulled his wrist.

"Don't touch me!" Park Soo Hyun said as he rubbed his arm. He glared at Li Sa but the girl didn't feel it at all.

"Why didn't you tell me if you also went to watch when we could watch it together earlier," Li Sa grumbled while pursing her lips. She shamelessly rested her head on Park Soo Hyun's shoulder.

"I said let go!" Park Soo Hyun pushed Li Sa's body so as not to stick too close to him.

"Jean, let's go home," Park Soo Hyun said, who immediately grabbed Jean's wrist. He didn't want to be too close to a magician like Li Sa.

Jean just obeyed without wanting to say anything to Li Sa because in the past they used to fight at school.

"Wait, I'm coming!" Li Sa exclaimed.

"Don't bother us," Park Soo Hyun said. He kept holding Jean until he got into the car.

Li Sa stopped in her tracks while clenching her fists. She was very angry because Park Soo Hyun would rather deliver Jean than her. She won't stand still. She will definitely give her a warning as well as a lesson later.

Li Sa stomped her feet on the ground holding back her irritation. She planned to ask Aeri for help to approach Park Soo Hyun's family immediately if she didn't want to lose her ideal man.

=====

Pyeongchang-dong Villa.

Soo Yin only got home after nine in the evening. She felt relieved and very grateful to be separated from Park Soo Hyun. She hoped tonight can bring Jean and her husband's brother closer.

Soo Yin climbed the stairs in a hurry. She began to open the door to her room but did not find the figure of the man she was looking for. Soo Yin even looked for him to various corners of the room but still Dae Hyun was not visible. Because her body felt sticky due to activities outside all day, Soo Yin decided to clean up first.

Today was really tiring. Soo Yin flushed her head with warm water. Really, it made her feel good

After finishing the shower, Soo Yin went back down the stairs to find out where Dae Hyun really was. Actually, she wanted to call his cellphone immediately but Soo Yin felt guilt. If she obey her ego, of course, Soo Yin was still angry when she remembered Dae Hyun, who had lied to her twice, her emotions returned to want to explode. For a while she had to keep her emotions in check until Dae Hyun got better.

"Auntie, has my husband gone?" Soo Yin asked. Luckily Auntie Xia wasn't sleeping yet so she could ask where her husband was. If it was true that if Dae Hyun went to work then she will immediately make calculations.

"He has not been anywhere since this morning, even you did not come out of his office. Was he not there?" Aunt Xia asked. An hour ago she was just upstairs to deliver dinner but Dae Hyun insisted on refusing it. The master said he would not eat until his wife came home. That's what he said earlier.

"I haven't checked his study. I think he left because he wasn't in the room. Has he had dinner and taken his medicine?" Soo Yin asked.

"Since noon he didn't want to eat or take medicine. Auntie has repeatedly brought food but he still refused it," Auntie Xia said, explaining how Dae Hyun was from last afternoon to night.

"Really? Then please make food for the master again, Auntie," Soo Yin said. Actually she wanted to prepare dinner herself, but what power if she was not good enough at cooking. Not getting better, her husband might have a stomachache.

How could he have not eaten since noon even though his body was not in good condition. Soo Yin can't stop thinking that her husband was so stupid that he tortured himself.

"Yes, miss."

Auntie Xia started to get some groceries from the refrigerator. Earlier, Auntie Xia actually cooked a bowl of Juk or porridge that was usually consumed when she was not feeling well, but it seemed like Dae Hyun didn't like it because it tastes a little bland.

"What are you going to cook?" Soo Yin asked because she really didn't know which menu to eat when not feeling well.

"Auntie will make Samgyetang. You better go upstairs, let me prepare everything," Auntie Xia said, who began to slice some ingredients.

Samgyetang was a ginseng chicken soup that used chicken as the main ingredient. This chicken was cooked with garlic, spring onions, Korean jujube (Korean dates), Korean ginseng and other spices that were cooked together with chicken meat. The content of ginseng has the benefit of increasing endurance, reducing fatigue and stimulating the immune system. This was very suitable for consumption by someone who was not feeling well.

"It's okay, I will help Auntie to finish quickly," Soo Yin said, who immediately washed the chicken meat in the sink. It seemed like it's useless to go upstairs if she didn't bring dinner for her husband.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 125 - 125 - Forgive Me

It didn't take long before Samgyetang was ready to cook. Soo Yin immediately put it on the tray along with the rice. Then hurried to her husband's study.

Soo Yin slowly opened the knob, it turned out that the door was not locked so she immediately walked in without knocking first

Soo Yin widened her eyes until her eyeballs almost fell when she saw the many papers that had been scattered on the floor. The irregular paper filled the floor of the room.

Soo Yin then walked over to Dae Hyun who put his head on the table while closing his eyes. His right hand gripped the pen. There was also a piece of paper under his cheek.

Soo Yin immediately put the tray she was carrying on the table. She stretched out her hand to touch Dae Hyun's forehead which was still hot but not as hot as last night.

"Dae Hyun, wake up," Soo Yin said while shaking her husband's body.

Feeling the shock in his body Dae Hyun lifted his head which felt heavy while rubbing his eyes with both hands. After that, he raised his hands to stretch his muscles, which felt stiff and sore. All day long he sat there just for a few words of poetry to be given to his little wife.

"What did you do? Why is this room so messy?" Soo Yin said. Her gaze wandered around the scattered lump of paper. Soo Yin crouched down to pick up one of the papers on the floor.

"What is this?" Soo Yin muttered as she opened the paper which was already wrinkled irregularly.

"Do not!" Dae Hyun rushed to grab the paper from his wife's hand. He didn't want Soo Yin to read all those embarrassing words.

"You're so stingy!" Soo Yin grumbled as she glared at her husband.

"You can't see it!" Dae Hyun said, who immediately tore the paper into pieces.

Soo Yin didn't lose her mind. She returned to take the paper on the floor. Just like the first time Dae Hyun always grabbed it but Soo Yin was now running away so Dae Hyun can't reach her.

"Honey, give me the paper," Dae Hyun said with a flushed face. He was very embarrassed if Soo Yin read it.

"Let me see it first," Soo Yin said, who stood in a corner while opening the paper.

* You are like a leaf.

* You seem unimportant but very * needed.

* Without you I can't breathe.

* Like a dry fish.

* Like penguins living in tides of sand

Soo Yin read the words written on the paper. A smile spread across her thin pink lips. Those words were actually not that bad but a little strange.

"Honey, quickly give it to me," Dae Hyun said, who was like a child fighting over toys with his friends.

"So you haven't eaten since lunch just for making this writing?" Soo Yin said with a smile. If she didn't remember Dae Hyun wasn't feeling well she would have laughed out loud.

"How could I do that," Dae Hyun argued with a flushed face.

"I never thought a grown man like you could act stupid like this," Soo Yin sneered.

"I just want you to forgive me." Dae Hyun walked over to his little wife.

"Besides, even if you bothered to make it, not necessarily I will also forgive you." Soo Yin rolled her eyes.

"Was my mistake so fatal?" Dae Hyun asked with sad eyes.

"Of course. Which woman do you think is kind enough to forgive immediately after being lied to twice?" Soo Yin said while chuckling.

"I'm really sorry." Dae Hyun lowered his head. He becomes very weak in front of his wife. Now he can only surrender and will obey whatever was said by her.

"You better eat first. Auntie Xia said you haven't eaten since noon. Are you tired of living?" Soo Yin said as she put the paper into her shirt pocket. She walked to the table to take the food she was carrying.

"Hurry outside, you better eat in the room," Soo Yin said, she turned to glance at her husband before stepping outside.

After arriving in the room, Soo Yin put the tray on the nightstand. She started to put the rice and soup into the bowl.

Dae Hyun dragged his feet following Soo Yin's footsteps and then sat on the side of the bed. His neck ached from sleeping improperly.

"Eat it." Soo Yin handed the bowl and spoon to her husband.

"I want you to feed me," Dae Hyun whined. He didn't stretch out his hand at all to accept the bowl that Soo Yin offered to him.

"Geez, since when are you acting spoiled like this? Did Aeri never pay attention to you all this time?" Soo Yin said in a slightly cynical tone. Although upset, Soo Yin still spooned the food and then handed it to Dae Hyun.

"If you're still angry I'll go on a hunger strike," Dae Hyun threatened. He turned his face in another direction. Did not want to open his mouth even though his stomach felt sore.

Soo Yin rolled her eyes. Since when did this man become spoiled and act like a child. Shouldn't she be the one acting like that? Has the world really turned upside down?

"Okay, I'm not angry anymore," Soo Yin said with a flat face.

"You're not sincere," Dae Hyun protested.

"Don't talk too much," Soo Yin said irritably. Over time, her patience will disappear in facing her husband's behavior.

Dae Hyun finally opened his mouth as he continued to stare at his wife's beautiful face. Actually, he didn't want to eat because he got news from his subordinates that Soo Yin went out with Park Soo Hyun. His appetite completely disappeared this afternoon.

"Do you know if Park Soo Hyun likes me?" The question suddenly came out of Soo Yin's lips. She wondered if her husband knew about this.

"Cough... cough... cough...." Dae Hyun's throat suddenly tightened like something stuck when he heard his wife's question.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 126 - 126 - Please, Don't Leave Me

"Slow down!" Soo Yin handed her husband a glass of drinking water. Which was immediately drunk by Dae Hyun.

"How do you know that?" Dae Hyun asked as he looked at Soo Yin. He actually wanted to know the reaction of his little wife

"Jean said it," Soo Yin said honestly.

"Then what do you think? Will you accept it?" Dae Hyun asked.

"It could be, after all he's still young and very handsome. If I was with him it would be very suitable," Soo Yin said with a beaming face. It was as if she was very happy to know that Park Soo Hyun liked her. She wanted to go back to make her husband burn with jealousy.

Dae Hyun didn't answer. He even stood up and then stepped into the bathroom until he vomited his stomach contents. His wife's statement made his stomach feel sick.

Soo Yin smiled in satisfaction because she managed to make her husband jealous. It was his own fault for lying to her. But Soo Yin immediately stepped closer to the bathroom door when he heard Dae Hyun vomiting. His voice sounded so loud.

"Are you okay?" Soo Yin exclaimed from outside. She became worried about her husband's condition.

No answer. Only heard the sound of running water in the sink. Dae Hyun felt annoyed with his body which has now become weak like this.

Dae Hyun came out, bending his face without looking at his little wife. He was very angry to hear her answer earlier.

"Sit down! I'll put aromatherapy oil on your body," Soo Yin said, who pushed Dae Hyun's burly body to sit on the side of the bed.

"No need, I'm not as weak as you think," Dae Hyun said nonchalantly.

"Ugh, don't be stubborn!" Soo Yin started unbuttoning Dae Hyun's shirt one by one. Then she took off her clothes so that she could see her husband's burly and muscular body.

Soo Yin immediately rubbed aromatherapy oil on Dae Hyun's back to warm his body. Looked like he caught a cold.

Dae Hyun felt another sensation as Soo Yin rubbed his stomach which was like torn bread. But he couldn't do anything about it. His body was too weak to do so.

"Are you serious about what you said?" Dae Hyun said. He was very curious about it. Better to disappear from this world than to lose Soo Yin.

"Hmm," Soo Yin said with no intention of answering his question. She was about to stand up to put the aromatherapy oil on the nightstand but Dae Hyun pulled her until she lost her balance. She fell into a broad chest that was not blocked by the cloth.

"Please do not leave me." Dae Hyun hugged his wife tightly. Then hid his head in his wife's niche. He didn't care if Soo Yin thought he's acting like a child. He was really afraid to lose her.

Soo Yin didn't answer. She only returned Dae Hyun's hug by rubbing his back. How could she leave him. If she was far away from him, her heart continued to worry. Soo Yin put his face on Dae Hyun's shoulder.

"Why didn't you tell me that Park Soo Hyun likes me?" Soo Yin asked.

"Is there a husband who will tell his wife if there is another man who loves her too?" Dae Hyun just turned around to ask.

"It's not like that, if you tell me at least I'll be more careful," Soo Yin said while patting Dae Hyun's back.

"I don't want you to be seduced by him," Dae Hyun said softly.

"I wonder how did you find out if your brother had feelings for me?" Soo Yin slowly let go of her embrace.

"I know because father said it right when he found out about our relationship." Dae Hyun took a deep breath then looked at Soo Yin.

"He knows this too?" Soo Yin can't stop thinking that her father-in-law also knew about this.

"Hmmm, but my father told me so Park Soo Hyun not to know about our relationship before he studied the hotel business. You should know if Park Soo Hyun wants to work in a hotel because he wants to be close to you." Dae Hyun said everything honestly about his younger brother. He didn't want to hide anything from his wife. This was a right time to say everything thoroughly.

Soo Yin can't stop thinking if the two brothers like her who was just an ordinary girl. Though they deserve better than her.

"Your body feels hot, you better take medicine first," Soo Yin said.

"I don't need medicine. I just need you to stay by my side, for me you are a medicine for all diseases," Dae Hyun said, staring at Soo Yin with a gaze.

Dae Hyun rubbed Soo Yin's lips with his thumb then pressed their lips together for a few moments before finally taking them off. He didn't need any medicine. He only needed Soo Yin's warm touch to treat all the pain in his body.

Soo Yin grabbed Dae Hyun's wrist for him to release the kiss which was getting hotter and hotter.

"Let go! I haven't even forgiven you yet," Soo Yin said as she stared deep into Dae Hyun's eagle eyes.

"If you haven't forgiven me how could you be so attentive," Dae Hyun whispered in a sensual voice.

"It's because I don't want to be an ungodly wife," Soo Yin argued while glaring at Dae Hyun. Even though her small heart says that she has forgiven him, Soo Yin didn't want to show it yet.

"Are you sure?" Dae Hyun smiled so seductively that it made Soo Yin's defense slowly melt too.

"You're not feeling well anyway. I don't want to stop halfway." Soo Yin said with a flat face. She tried to get up but Dae Hyun did not let her get off of his lap.

"Then let's try so you can find out how much strength I am," Dae Hyun said with a lopsided smile Then immediately pushed Soo Yin's body to lie on the bed.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 127 - 127 - Prepare Breakfast

Soo Yin tried to sit up but her hands were held above her head so Soo Yin couldn't struggle at all.

Dae Hyun grabbed Soo Yin's lips as if he was teasing her every time. Playing his fingers and tongue in every inch of his little wife's body.

Soo Yin felt a hot screen all over his body. So slowly returning Dae Hyun kiss. Their tongues danced to one another.

Although there was still resentment in her heart, Soo Yin can only surrender with every touch that was so intoxicating that Dae Hyun gave her. He just closed his eyes while tightly gripping the sheets to vent everything. Even though her heart was annoyed, her body gave the opposite response.

The night was getting late and quiet. Outside there were the sounds of crickets and nocturnal animals shouting to each other. Meanwhile, in the room there was only the sound of two people making love to each other through the silence of the night. Sweat ran all over Dae Hyun's body.

Dae Hyun quit after doing it twice. He collapsed next to Soo Yin's body after spitting out the seeds of his love in his wife's womb.

"Thank you, darling. For a night you gave so beautifully. Thank you for being a medicine for me." Dae Hyun gently kissed the top of his wife's head. Even though he was tired, now his body condition felt much better than before. It was probably because the sweat that came out made his body return to normal.

Soo Yin can't get up anymore. She immediately closed her eyes because she was very tired. She had to be outside all day long. Tonight, Dae Hyun also wanted her body.

"Tomorrow morning I'll finish everything," Dae Hyun said while rubbing those smooth cheeks. He will finish his relationship with Aeri. Although for the time being they still couldn't relate frankly in front of everyone. At least he can be free and can stay with Soo Yin in the villa whenever he wants.

"I'm so tired. Don't do it again if you still want me to be alive," Soo Yin said while opening her eyes a little which was already sticky. If Dae Hyun did it again surely she wouldn't be able to wake up all day like that time. Meanwhile, tomorrow they have to go back to work.

"Go to sleep." Dae Hyun kissed Soo Yin's eyes as he raised a blanket to cover her innocent body without a single thread.

Dae Hyun also closed his eyes while hugging Soo Yin's body tightly.

=====

Soo Yin groped the bedside to find her husband, still with her eyes closed. There was no sign of Dae Hyun so Soo Yin immediately sat down.

She looked around the room but couldn't find him either. Not even the sound of water in the bathroom. Her gaze suddenly fell on something that was located on the dresser right beside her.

There is a bouquet of white tulips along with a piece of paper folded on the side.

Soo Yin reached out to grab the paper. There was a pen scratch in it.

- * I'm not good at composing words.
- * I can only say that I love you very much.
- * You will always be in my heart forever.

Those were just ordinary words but full of meaning for Soo Yin. She didn't need beautiful words, but the most important thing was Dae Hyun made it himself, not someone else's.

That woman actually melted easily with just a flower and only one sentence of sweet words. But if he lied to her then she will turn into a terrible wolf.

"Has he left?" Soo Yin muttered. She looked at the clock on the wall that still showed seven in the morning. It's too early if Dae Hyun leaves for work.

Soo Yin immediately got out of bed by wrapping herself up in a blanket. She dragged her feet to the bathroom to wash up. When she looked in the mirror, she looked all over her body reddened by the bite made by her husband. Even though her sensitive area didn't hurt, her body still felt crushed like the first time she did it on Jeju Island.

Soo Yin soaked for a while using warm water to restore her stamina. Today she also had to go to work because she could no longer take holidays. She didn't want other employees to suspect her.

Soo Yin wore a navy blue blouse combined with a brown knee-length span skirt. Then she tied her hair like a ponytail. Fortunately, the blouse was able to cover her neck so she didn't have to bother wearing a scarf.

As she descended the stairs, Soo Yin smelled delicious cooking aromas from the direction of the kitchen. Made her stomach struggle to ask to be filled. She walked into the kitchen holding her stomach to approach Auntie Xia.

It wasn't Auntie Xia who was standing at the stove but a shirtless man wearing only an apron and wearing knee-length shorts.

Soo Yin walked over to him when she recognized the man's figure from behind. She still dreamed of seeing her husband cooking early in the morning. It's a very rare thing even though Soo Yin has tasted his quite good cooking.

"What are you doing?" Soo Yin said. She stood beside Dae Hyun while peering at the contents of the pot that was still on the stove.

"I just wanted to prepare breakfast for you," Dae Hyun said as he continued to stir the contents of the pot.

"Where's Auntie Xia? Why don't you just wake me up?" Soo Yin said. It should be a wife's job to prepare breakfast for her husband, not the other way around.

"Auntie Xia is out. Besides, I'll be the one to prepare breakfast for you when we live together." Dae Hyun brought his face closer to Soo Yin's face until their breaths collided with each other.

"You better take a shower. Let me put it in the bowl." Soo Yin felt bad if Dae Hyun did it.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 128 - 128 - Understand

"Wait for this soup to cook in a little while," Dae Hyun said with a smile. He was very happy because his wife was no longer angry.

"You're not even wearing clothes," Soo Yin says as she pressed Dae Hyun's abdominal muscles which made the man feel amused.

"I was hot so I took it off." Dae Hyun pointed to the white shirt draped over the chair.

"Aren't you embarrassed if Auntie Xia sees you?" Soo Yin raised an eyebrow. She was a little unwilling to let her husband's body be spread over to many women. Although Soo Yin realized that Aeri had definitely seen him too.

"Okay I'll wear my clothes again." Dae Hyun didn't want to argue with his little wife. He was afraid that his wife would get angry again like yesterday. It was better if he obey her words which were not too difficult to do.

"Hurry up and take a shower, you'll be late." Soo Yin pushed Dae Hyun's body out of the kitchen.

"Okay." Dae Hyun immediately left Soo Yin after making sure the food was cooked.

Soo Yin starts to put the soup into the bowl. It turned out that Dae Hyun cooked Seolleongtang, a food made from beef bones, beef head and beef. All these ingredients were cooked in milk broth for hours until the sauce was clear.

Soo Yin wondered what time did Dae Hyun wake up so the food was cooked. It must be that the man worked really hard to make it. Soo Yin only knew a little about how complicated it was to cook the menu.

While waiting for Dae Hyun to come down, Soo Yin immediately arranged everything on the dining table. Soo Yin kept trying to hold back her saliva from coming out when she smelled that very seductive scent. Even Soo Yin thought that the food asked to be eaten immediately.

"Geez, he took so long," Soo Yin grumbled while holding her stomach that had been rumbling for a long time.

Fifteen minutes later Dae Hyun headed for the dining room wearing his tie. He raised his eyebrows when he saw Soo Yin instead put her head on the table.

"Honey, are you sleeping again? If you're still sleepy you shouldn't have to go to work," Dae Hyun said. He didn't want her to be exhausted after what he had done last night.

Hearing that her husband had come, Soo Yin immediately lifted her head by pursing her lips.

"You've been so long, I've been starving for waiting for you," Soo Yin said while narrowing her eyes.

"Sorry, then let me get the food for you." Dae Hyun immediately brought the rice and side dishes into Soo Yin's plate until it was full. Actually, there were several types of food prepared by Auntie Xia on the dining table.

"Geez, do you want to make me fat?" Soo Yin shook her head at the rice and side dishes piled up like a mountain.

"You will look prettier if you are a little chubby. Look at your body that is so thin. Don't let your father meet him that he thinks that I don't feed you," Dae Hyun said.

"I will not be fat. I've always been small. Would you not like me if I was thin?" Soo Yin said. She immediately spooned the food into her mouth, impatient.

"I like whatever your body shape," Dae Hyun said, who did not want to make his wife's appetite disappear.

Soo Yin didn't answer anymore. She lowered her head to savor all her food.

Dae Hyun just looked at his little wife who looked really good at chewing food. Looked like he has to cook every day if he wants to see Soo Yin like that.

"Don't look at me. Hurry up and finish your food if you don't want to be late," Soo Yin said, who lowered her head. She realized that Dae Hyun had been looking at her. She didn't care if Dae Hyun didn't like her sometimes excessive appetite.

After finishing breakfast they immediately went to work. Dae Hyun went first, followed by Soo Yin, who got into the car with Chung Ho. Soo Yin refused

Dae Hyun's invitation to get into his car. Moreover, they also had to hide their relationship from Park Soo Hyun.

After arriving at the hotel, Dae Hyun immediately ordered Chang Yuan to check with all the investors, maybe there were those who suddenly withdrew their investment. However, something was a little strange, according to Chang Yuan, none of them had attracted their investment. Dae Hyun could breathe a sigh of relief but he also had to be aware of Aeri's plans. He really believed that Aeri must be planning something to survive like she did before.

≠=====≠≠≠=====

Dae Hyun was not overtime tonight. He intended to return to UN Village to finish his relationship with Aeri. He also wanted to confirm whether the woman had left or not.

"Honey, tonight I can't go home with you," Dae Hyun who approached Soo Yin's desk said.

"It's okay, I can understand," Soo Yin said with a smile.

"But I can take you back to the villa first," Dae Hyun said.

Today was somewhat safe because Park Soo Hyun was busy holding several meetings with relatives. Soo Yin was invited by Park Soo Hyun earlier but fortunately Dae Hyun was able to thwarted him.

"No, I have sent a message to Chung Ho to pick me up immediately." Soo Yin stood up as she put the bag on her shoulder. In a few minutes Chung Ho will definitely arrive so she will be waiting in the lobby.

"No need to hurry, let's just wait for Chung Ho here first." Dae Hyun blocked his wife's path and then he grasped Soo Yin's fingers tightly. Put it on his lips to kiss his wife's hand.

"Tonight I will finish my relationship with Aeri," Dae Hyun said. This was the most awaited time for a long time.

"Are you sure? What about Jo Yeon Ho?" Soo Yin said doubtfully. There was a sense of sadness when knowing that if they split up, Jo Yeon Ho will definitely live with Dae Hyun. She felt sorry if Jo Yeon Ho had to be away from his biological mother.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 129 - 129 - She Is Liar Woman

"I'm sure he will agree. He will definitely understand all this. We can take care of Jo Yeon Ho later. Do you want to do?"

"Hmmm, of course." Soo Yin nodded her head while looking up to see Dae Hyun's eagle eyes.

"Thank you." Dae Hyun couldn't help wanting to eat those thin, moving lips. He grabbed Soo Yin's nape to hold her from swaying back as he scooped up the thin object. It tastes very sweet and made him want to want it again and again.

Their tongues danced and linked to each other until the room was getting hot and hot. Soo Yin only accepted when Dae Hyun's tongue broke in which gave a sensation of not wanting to let go.

But Soo Yin immediately remembered that Chung Ho must be in the parking lot now. She didn't feel comfortable to make him waiting for too long.

"Honey, that's enough... hhh...." Soo Yin said after successfully pushing Dae Hyun's body. The man really didn't allow her to rest if she didn't push his body.

Dae Hyun smoothed Soo Yin's hair, which was messy because of him. He combed it with his finger.

"Let's go down," Soo Yin asked.

"Okay, when you get home let me know immediately," Dae Hyun asked. He wanted to make sure that Soo Yin got home safe.

"Don't worry, I'll definitely get home safely. You also have to make the right decision. Don't hurt Jo Yeon Ho," Soo Yin suggested. She had another hunch about this. Suddenly, her heart pity Aeri when Dae Hyun divorced her. But Soo Yin immediately brushes it off because Aeri was also guilty of betraying Dae Hyun.

Dae Hyun grabbed Soo Yin's body for a moment to hug her then took her into the elevator together until they finally separated after exiting the elevator because in the lobby there were still many hotel guests passing by.

=====

UN Village.

Dae Hyun parked his car in front of the mansion he had lived with Aeri for several years. From the outside, the house was lonely. Jo Yeon Ho, who usually greeted him when he came home, was also nowhere to be seen.

The man went straight into the house. He thought his parents had not come home yet, but it seemed like they had returned because before arriving in the living room there were voices of people talking.

Before greeting, Dae Hyun looked around the room it turned out that there was no Aeri there, so Dae Hyun felt relieved that the woman might have left. Perhaps Aeri has admitted that she wanted to live with Han. So that tomorrow it will be easy to take care of divorce papers.

Having not had the chance to say hello Dae Hyun felt strange with the sharp gaze of his parents when they saw him just coming. They put on sharp faces as if they wanted to interrogate. There seemed to be something was off with this.

"Father, Mother, are you back?" Dae Hyun said, pretended not to notice the expressions on their faces. He casually sat on the sofa.

"What did you do to Aeri?" Park Ji Hoon who wore a sour face asked.

"Nothing," Dae Hyun said curtly. He put his foot on top of the other.

"Then why did you kick out our daughter-in-law?" Mrs. Park was furious to see her son's behavior. So just ask straightforwardly.

Park Ji Hoon knew the reason it all has to do with Soo Yin. He definitely wanted to part with Aeri so that he won't marry Soo Yin in secret. Hopefully Dae Hyun can hide their relationship from Park Soo Hyun first because his youngest child now seemed to be enjoying studying the hotel business.

"Why don't you just ask Aeri why I kicked her out?" Dae Hyun leaned his head on the back of the sofa. He didn't need to worry because he already has sufficiently strong evidence.

"What a brat!" Mrs. Park rubbed her chest so as not to get carried away by her son's answer, who looked relaxed and did not feel guilty at all.

Dae Hyun took out one of the photos that was in his coat pocket. He placed it on the table for his parents to see.

"No need to show this again. Aeri has told us in detail about this. You shouldn't be overly jealous like that. They went to a friend's party that night and then Han took her to the apartment to treat Aeri's wound because your wife fell," Mrs. Park said.

"You believe in her? I'm jealous of her? Geez, really," Dae Hyun said, chuckling in disbelief. He didn't even care if she would sleep with anyone out there. For him the most important thing was to get away from her immediately.

"Aeri and Han have been friends for a long time so you don't have to worry about it," Mrs. Park said. No mother wants her child's household to fall apart especially this was just a misunderstanding.

"She is a liar woman, Mother. You don't have to believe her words too much," Dae Hyun said with a slightly high tone to open the door to her parents' hearts so that they would not be entangled by Aeri's nonsense anymore.

"You are the one who is stupid to be a man. You should be grateful that your wife has now changed. She is willing to leave her career to care for Yeon Ho," Mrs. Park said, who still insisted on defending her daughter-in-law.

Park Ji Hoon didn't say anything. He chose to just listen to the debate that took place between his wife and son.

"Mother?" Dae Hyun said while ruffling his hair. It seemed like any evidence was pointless.

"Dae Hyun, now also pick up our grandchildren and daughter-in-law. Bring them back to this house right now!" Mrs. Park asked. She was annoyed by Dae Hyun who was so relaxed about losing his son.

"Where's Yeon Ho?" Dae Hyun immediately stood up without waiting for his mother's answer, he immediately climbed the stairs to his son's room. He really wanted to know where his son was at this time.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 130 - 130 - The Evidence Is Not Strong

Dae Hyun opened the door to the room Jo Yeon Ho used to live in. Then turn on the light so that the room looks bright. There was no Jo Yeon Ho there, even Dae Hyun had looked for him in the toilet and all over the room but still couldn't find him.

Dae Hyun closed the bedroom door firmly and checked into his room to find Aeri's whereabouts, but neither of them could be found. Now Dae Hyun's hunch was really bad. He immediately descended the stairs to return to meet his two parents.

"Where's Yeon Ho?" Dae Hyun asked Mrs. Park. He clenched his fists to hold back his emotions.

"Jo Yeon Ho is with Aeri. You'd better pick them up if you don't want to lose your son," Mrs. Park said. She also didn't want to be separated from his favorite grandchild.

Without saying anything else, Dae Hyun immediately stepped out to his car. No wonder he felt something strange about Aeri's attitude this time. He would not let her keep him away from her only son. Jo Yeon Ho was like the air that always gave him life.

Dae Hyun slammed the car door hard. He couldn't wait to see his son.

After half an hour of traveling, Dae Hyun finally arrived at Aeri's house and her mother. He could already guess that Aeri would have brought Jo Yeon Ho to her mother's house.

Knock knock knock ....

Dae Hyun violently banged on the door. He didn't care if nights like this would wake the inhabitants of the house. He even wanted to break down the door when no one had opened it for a long time.

Check....

The door slowly opened. A middle-aged woman came out showing her teeth. The look on her face pretended to be surprised when she saw Dae Hyun. Even though she could already guess that tonight there would be guests.

"Dae Hyun, it's been a long time you don't visit mom. It's like I dreamed of seeing you come to this house," a woman named Sun Book said, who was Aeri's biological mother.

"Mother, where's Jo Yeon Ho?" Dae Hyun said, ignoring what his mother-in-law said. He tried to speak politely to his mother-in-law. Too bad it wasn't Aeri who came out so he had to reduce his emotions first.

"Calm down, he's in the room with Aeri. My son-in-law, sit down first. I'll call Aeri because you must be looking for her," Mrs. Sun Book said with a warm smile.

Dae Hyun was forced to enter and first sit on the sofa to honor his mother-in-law. It was a long time since Mrs. Sun Book appeared. Dae Hyun was getting impatient but he also can't do anything rude at other people's homes.

"Looks like they intend to test my patience," Dae Hyun muttered as he looked at the clock wrapped around his wrist. It's been fifteen minutes but they still don't come out.

Just as Dae Hyun was about to stand up, apparently Jo Yeon Ho had jogged down the stairs.

"Yeon Ho, slow down," Aeri said, who walked right behind him.

"Father!" Jo Yeon Ho exclaimed, who was always excited when he saw his father.

"Yeon Ho, dad missed you a lot. Are you okay?" Dae Hyun said. Then crouched down to hug his son. He was grateful that Aeri didn't do anything to him because he knew that since childhood Aeri didn't really like and care about Jo Yeon Ho.

"I'm fine, Dad," Jo Yeon Ho said, who broke away from Dae Hyun's arms.

"Let's go home," Dae Hyun asked as he embraced his adorable son's cheek. Even though he was rarely at home, he didn't want Jo Yeon Ho to be with Aeri.

"Is mother coming home with us too?" Jo Yeon Ho said with an innocent face.

"Aeri, I want to talk to you alone. Yeon Ho, wait here a moment," Dae Hyun said looked at his son for a moment then stepped out of the house to the yard. He wanted to anticipate the fear of an argument between himself and Aeri that Jo Yeon Ho didn't deserve to see.

"Yeon Ho, stay here for a while with Grandma," Aeri said to her son before finally following Dae Hyun out of the house.

Dae Hyun kept walking until he came to a bench on the side lawn. There the light was dim because the lights were blocked by the trees. He stood up with his hands in his pants pockets.

"I want to bring Yeon Ho home. I hope you don't mind," Dae Hyun said when Aeri was one meter behind him. He tried to speak calmly and not use his emotions.

"Jo Yeon Ho won't want to come home without me," Aeri said with a confident smile.

"Yeon Ho has never liked you so I'm sure he can live without you. After all, he's used to it since childhood," Dae Hyun said while turning back to look at Aeri.

"Are you sure? He even asked me to go with me yesterday after you kicked me out," Aeri said with a chuckle. She felt funny about Dae Hyun who was too confident.

"It must be because you seduced him. You should be happy because I let you go, then you will be free to do anything with Han," Dae Hyun sneered.

"So you really accused me of having an affair with him?" Aeri said with a little emotion and tears. She started playing her acting again. Even though she loved Han, Aeri didn't want to let Dae Hyun go.

"You think I've been stupid all this time?" Dae Hyun said in a cold tone. His gaze was fiery towards Aeri.

"Dae Hyun, you are so cruel!" Aeri said, who was sobbing and then ran into the house. She did this so that Jo Yeon Ho would see that Dae Hyun hurt her.

Dae Hyun rubbed his face in a huff and despair. He was forced to follow Aeri's steps. It was really annoying if she had acted like that.

"Dad, why make my mother cry?" Jo Yeon Ho who got mad at Dae Hyun. But his expression made him look cute instead.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 131 - 131 - Conquer

"Father didn't do anything. Yeon Ho, let's go home," Dae Hyun persuaded him without caring for Aeri who kept sobbing.

"I'm going to go home, but after Dad apologized to Mom. You also have to take my mother home," Jo Yeon Ho said, who then approached Aeri. He embraced Aeri's legs with his little hands.

"Son-in-law, if you have a problem you should solve it carefully. Don't be like this which can sacrifice Yeon Ho's feelings." Mrs. Sun Book joined in the conversation. She will try hard so that Dae Hyun would not divorce her daughter. She didn't want to lose her running ATM so she didn't have to bother to work.

"Mother, never mind. Dae Hyun will not listen to what you say," Aeri said during her sobs.

"Yeon Ho, I'm sorry I haven't taken good care of Jo Yeon Ho all this time." Aeri knelt down and grabbed her son's face.

"Mother, I wouldn't go with father if you didn't come," said Jo Yeon Ho while wiping Aeri's tears with her tiny hand. He didn't want to see his mother sad.

Dae Hyun didn't know what to do. No wonder he felt something was wrong with Aeri this time. It turned out that she already had Jo Yeon Ho on her side. If he left his son he was afraid that Aeri would do something bad to him.

"Yeon Ho, go with Dad." Aeri reached out to rub the top of Jo Yeon Ho's head.

"Dad, please take mom with us," Jo Yeon Ho said, who suddenly hugged Dae Hyun's leg tightly. He sobbed. The child did not want to be separated from his mother.

Dae Hyun really can't bear to see his son cry. Aeri's actions were now completely beyond his expectations.

"Father, I beg you not to separate us," Yeon Ho said, who kept tightening his hug at Dae Hyun's feet.

Dae Hyun was now in a dilemma. Wanted to leave his son with Aeri but he really can't do that. He didn't want to lose his son.

"Okay, let's go home with mom," Dae Hyun said, forced to obey his son's wishes.

Aeri felt like jumping because she was so happy. Her efforts to survive through Jo Yeon Ho seemed easier than having to meet old man investors who often want her body. However, Aeri only put on a flat facial expression so as not to show too much joy.

"Is it true?" Jo Yeon Ho said, who immediately stopped his tears. His eyes sparkled at his father's statement.

"Hmm," Dae Hyun said lazily. Looked like he must have other plans in order to completely escape from Aeri.

"Thank God, it turns out that you just misunderstood. Aeri, you also shouldn't just walk away. I'm sure because Dae Hyun is emotional so he talks like that," Mrs. Sun Book said. She smiled happily as she glanced at her daughter. It turns out that her idea to do good to her grandson was very useful

"Well, we should go right now because my parents are waiting for Jo Yeon Ho," Dae Hyun said, who didn't want to linger at the house any longer.

"Then be careful on the road. Mother sends greetings to them," Mrs. Sun Books said.

Dae Hyun finally nodded his head before finally inviting Jo Yeon Ho to get into his car. While Aeri of course immediately got into the car without caring if Dae Hyun was not happy.

The image of being immediately released from Aeri has yet to materialize. This annoyed him even more. Dae Hyun let Aeri sit in the back with Jo Yeon Ho even though it's something that was very rare.

=====

During the trip, Dae Hyun did not intend to say anything even though Aeri kept talking to him.

When he arrived at UN Village, it turned out that Jo Yeon was fast asleep so Dae Hyun immediately took him into the room.

Meanwhile, Aeri was still down to meet her in-laws.

"Aeri, you can't go suddenly like that," Mrs. Park said, who sat beside Aeri.

"Mother, I'm sorry. I just obeyed Dae Hyun's words so that I would leave this house. Even though my heart was very sad when I stepped outside," Aeri said with tears welling up in her eyes.

"Dae Hyun is probably just jealous so he becomes emotional like that. A man is like that, he will be very angry if he finds out that his wife is with another man," Mrs. Park said with a smile to calm her daughter-in-law.

Park Ji Hoon was silent while listening to his wife who was seducing Aeri to stay. He didn't know what had happened before, but he was very sure if Dae Hyun did that there must be a strong reason behind it.

Aeri leaned her head on Mrs. Park's shoulder. If she can't conquer Dae Hyun with his heart then she will conquer Dae Hyun with his family members. She had to get his family on her side so Dae Hyun definitely couldn't do anything about her.

"Go upstairs. Follow Dae Hyun in his room, explain to him if you do not do all that you are accused of," Mrs. Park said. She wanted to see her son's household return to its original state.

"Okay, then I'll go upstairs." Aeri immediately climbed the stairs, wiping her tears. Unexpectedly, it didn't take long to get back into the house.

Aeri immediately climbed the stairs to her room. She slowly opened the door to the room, it turned out that Dae Hyun had just cleaned himself and changed his clothes.

"Thank you for bringing me back into this house," Aeri said while smiling brightly.

"I did it for Yeon Ho. You don't have to think that I still want you to stay in this house," Dae Hyun said in a flat tone as he clicked his shirt button.

"For me it doesn't matter at all. Dae Hyun, you won't be able to kick me out of this house," Aeri said with a sly smile. She didn't need to be nice to Dae Hyun because it seemed useless.

"We'll see," Dae Hyun said. He grabbed a pillow and blanket to carry him into his study. He was better off sleeping there than sleeping in a bed with a cunning woman like Aeri.

Aeri was so angry that she threw away everything that was on her dresser.

"You'll see, I'll make you bend your knees before me!" Aeri said with fiery eyes while clenching her fists tightly.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 132 - 132 - Bad Mood

In the morning Dae Hyun immediately went to work without joining breakfast with the others even though Jo Yeon Ho nagged Dae Hyun to have breakfast first. The boy insisted that his father stay behind because they had not had breakfast together for several days.

"Dad is in a hurry. You can have breakfast with Grandpa and Grandma," Dae Hyun said as he crouched down to grab Jo Yeon Ho's shoulder. Actually, he could not bear to refuse his wish. However, seeing Aeri in the house made him not eager to eat.

"Are Mom and Dad still fighting?" Jo Yeon Ho asked with an innocent face.

"No, daddy is just a little busy. Well, daddy goes first," Dae Hyun said without answering his son's question because children his age don't deserve to know adult problems.

"All right, then be careful on the road." Jo Yeon Ho alternately kissed Dae Hyun's cheeks.

Jo Yeon Ho followed Dae Hyun's steps to the terrace then waved his hand when Dae Hyun's car passed in front of him. He immediately rushed back in after Dae Hyun's car was out of sight.

"Where is Hyeong?" Park Soo Hyun who just came out of his room asked. He's been busy these days, so he had to work overtime. Yesterday, he regretted not being able to meet his beloved.

"Your brother is gone. He looks like in a hurry," Mrs. Park said, who was setting the food on the table.

"Mother, it looks like Dae Hyun doesn't eat breakfast because I'm in this house again," Aeri said, bowing her head. She put on a face that looked very sad as if she was really hurt.

"Aeri, you shouldn't talk like that. I'm sure Dae Hyun is busy," Mrs. Park said to calm Aeri down.

"So you guys fought?" Park Soo Hyun guessed with a crooked smile. He didn't know about yesterday's problem.

"It's just a misunderstanding," Park Ji Hoon said.

"Geez. If in the end you always fight why are you married?" Park Soo Hyun sneered. He can guess if it must be Aeri's fault.

"Park Soo Hyun!" Mrs. Park glared at her son. She was afraid that she would offend Aeri. Moreover, there was Jo Yeon Ho.

"Aeri, don't think about it too much. I'm sure Dae Hyun isn't like that," Mrs. Park said.

"Alright," Aeri said while wiping the tears that only slightly pooled on her eyelids.

"Father, yesterday Grandma called me so brother could visit her in Busan. Grandma just moved yesterday," Park Soo Hyun said.

"Yeah, it looks like your grandmother misses Dae Hyun. Maybe it's because they haven't seen each other for a long time," Park Ji Hoon said. Actually yesterday his mother had sent a message to him, but he had not had time to convey it. Several days ago he went to Busan to help his mother move from Ghosan.

"I think so," Park Soo Hyun said.

Now they eat in silence. Only occasionally heard conversation between Mrs. Park and Aeri.

After finishing breakfast, they returned to their respective activities. Aeri was actually very bored at home but she can't help but take Jo Yeon Ho to his school.

Aeri closed the door to her room after breakfast to change clothes. Before that she wanted to contact Han first. She had to remind Han to be more careful now. Aeri immediately rushed into the bathroom for fear that someone would listen.

"Morning, sweetheart. What was the call in the morning? Do you miss me?" Han asked with voice which was crisp when the phone was connected.

"Stop your nonsense. You better be careful now. Dae Hyun seems to have suspected contact us," Aeri said in a low voice.

"Really? Then what about you now?" Han asked.

"I've made it back to this house but Dae Hyun was cold towards me," Aeri said.

"Then what should we do?"

"For the time being, don't call or meet me," Aeri said. She still needed Dae Hyun who was a source of money for her.

"Mother!" Jo Yeon Ho shouted from outside the room while banging on the door.

Aeri hung up the phone immediately without saying anything else. This was very urgent already. If her in-laws find out about it. It was certain that she would immediately be kicked out of the mansion. She couldn't imagine that she would work hard again like before she married to Dae Hyun.

"What's wrong, Yeon Ho?" Aeri said after opening the door.

"Why are you taking so long? This is already noon I will be late," Jo Yeon Ho said while looking up.

"Sorry, mom was going to the bathroom. Let's go.

Aeri immediately grabbed Jo Yeon Ho's hand. Then hurry to take him to school.

=====

The Silla Seoul Hotel.

Today, Dae Hyun seemed to be in a very bad mood. To the extent that he scolded the worker who was cleaning the room. Even though the worker was completely innocent. Today, every employee who made a small mistake will make him burst out with emotions.

Soo Yin walked over to Dae Hyun to find out what really happened to her husband who was very strange today.

Last night he looked fine.

"Honey," Soo Yin said softly so that she was able to melt Dae Hyun's frozen mood.

Today there was no opportunity for Soo Yin to ask that question because there were always employees who come. Moreover, today there was a new employee acceptance test which made them very busy. It was lunch hour so Soo Yin use it to greet her husband. Not to forget she had locked the door first for fear that if someone would suddenly barge in without permission.

Dae Hyun who was struggling on the monitor screen immediately looked at the source of the soft voice. The resentment in his heart gradually got better with Soo Yin. He stared at Soo Yin's beautiful beaded eyes. Seeing his little wife smiling made the burden on his shoulders slowly disappear.

"Honey, what exactly happened to you? If you are tired better rest first," Soo Yin said.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 133 - 133 - False Hope

Soo Yin walked behind Dae Hyun's chair and then put her arm around her husband's neck.

"I'm just annoyed with myself," Dae Hyun said while tilting his head to embrace Soo Yin's cheek.

"Why?" Soo Yin pressed her face against Dae Hyun's cheek. She wanted to bring her husband's bad mood back to good again.

"I can't get away from Aeri yet," Dae Hyun said with annoyance that enveloped his heart.

"Didn't you say you threw her out of the house?" Soo Yin asked while frowning.

"She did leave the house but it's a shame she even took Yeon Ho with her." Dae Hyun took a deep breath as he sipped his saliva until he saw his neck muscles moving up and down.

"Really? Is she evasive with the photos you showed yesterday?" Soo Yin guessed.

"Hmm, she even looks very pathetic in front of Yeon Ho and my parents. I'm getting annoyed seeing her linger at home," Dae Hyun said with a snort.

"So she's back home?"

"I had to take her home because Jo Yeon Ho begged me. It was very difficult for me to refuse my son's wishes." Dae Hyun rubbed his face in a huff.

"Well, now don't think about it. I'm sure someday we can expose Aeri's crimes and lies so far," Soo Yin said with a smile. Although her heart was a little disappointed to hear this, she will try to be okay.

"We were forced to have to wait even longer for us to live together," Dae Hyun said softly.

"No problem, I will wait patiently for that time," Soo Hyun said with a warm smile.

"Thank you, honey. You are the best wife," Dae Hyun said. After talking to Soo Yin his heart now felt more relieved.

"Let's have lunch because I'm really hungry," Soo Yin said while holding her stomach.

"Okay." Dae Hyun stood up and took Soo Yin's hand even though the door had to remove it.

=====

Park Soo Hyun leaned back in the chair and stretched his arms to stretch his body muscles. He has been tired these days because a lot of work was demanding. While working at the hotel it seemed that his brother kept him too busy so there was no time to see Soo Yin. Even though in the lunch break was not possible because the time was limited.

Park Soo Hyun took a deep breath while looking at the circular object on his wrist. The time was still eight o'clock in the evening. Soo Yin shouldn't be home yet.

Park Soo Hyun immediately grabbed a bouquet that he just bought this morning. He intended to give it to Soo Yin. Too bad he hasn't had the opportunity to confess his love again. He smelled the scent of red roses before finally heading to Dae Hyun's room.

Park Soo Hyun opened the door slowly. He peeked through the door to see where Soo Yin was. It seemed like she was packing his things. This was the perfect time to give her a lift.

"Hmmm." A sudden voice startled Soo Yin so she immediately turned her head to look at the source of the sound.

Park Soo Hyun hid his right hand that was holding the flower behind his back. It seemed like a lucky time as his brother was not in the room. No regrets over to the girl tonight. Park Soo Hyun kept on walking while tidying his tie and shirt with one hand.

"What did he come here for?" Soo Yin thought with a bad feeling.

"Soo Yin, where is my brother?" Park Soo Hyun asked for pleasantries first.

"Oh, Mr. Dae Hyun was out for a while. He must be back soon. Please, Sir, wait on the sofa," Soo Yin said. She breathed a sigh of relief because Park Soo Hyun went to the room just to find Dae Hyun and he had nothing to do with her.

"No, I'm not here to see my brother." Park Soo Hyun smiled so wide that Soo Yin started to get suspicious.

Soo Yin only smiled faintly at Park Soo Hyun's statement. Hopefully that guy won't say anything that made her uncomfortable.

"This is for you." Park Soo Hyun held out a bouquet of red roses.

"You shouldn't bother," Soo Yin said. She didn't want to give Park Soo Hyun any false hopes. By accepting the flower he gave her, Park Soo Hyun will definitely pursue her even more.

"It's no bother at all for a girl as beautiful as you," Park Soo Hyun said with a wink.

Soo Yin only bit her lower lip. She hoped that Dae Hyun will come back soon so she can get away from this uncomfortable situation.

"Take it, I even happily will give flowers for you every day." Park Soo Hyun still held out the rose while staring at Soo Yin with smiles of his own. He wondered how happy it would be if they got married one day. They will definitely make the most suitable pair. Live happily with their very cute children.

Soo Yin stretched out her hand to accept the flower. Just about to hold it, suddenly heard the sound of the door opening.

Soo Yin immediately turned her head towards the door to see who had come. She smiled happily that Dae Hyun finally came at the right time.

Park Soo Hyun's face turned grim. He seemed displeased with Dae Hyun's presence. He was annoyed with his brother because he always thwarted every surprise plan that will be given to Soo Yin.

"Park Soo Hyun, what have you come here for?" Dae Hyun asked as he walked over to his wife and brother. He raised an eyebrow when he saw the flower Soo Yin was holding. He could already guess if it must be from Park Soo Hyun.

"Nothing, I just want to meet Soo Yin. Hyeong, why are you coming back so fast?" Park Soo Hyun said, who frankly disliked his brother's arrival.

'Geez, looks like he really wants to fly the war flag at me,' Dae Hyun thought.

"Soo Yin is busy so don't bother her," Dae Hyun said in a slightly harsh tone. He thought he didn't know if yesterday he intended to approach Soo Yin by taking her out for a walk. It was fortunate that Jean was among them so he didn't catch up with her to the cinema.

"You shouldn't let her continue overtime. Brother, you really don't have a heart," Park Soo Hyun said.

"She's my secretary so it's up to me to do anything about her," Dae Hyun said with an arrogant tone.

"Soo Yin, you better work with me. You must be very tormented working with my brother," Park Soo Hyun persuaded as he looked at Soo Yin.

"That's not true," Soo Yin argued while glancing at Dae Hyun who had a sour face.

"You heard that, so don't expect her to work with you," Dae Hyun sneered as he lifted his upper lip.

"It must be because you threatened her," Park Soo Hyun said.

"Stop, don't argue." Soo Yin really felt dizzy at their argument. She didn't know what to do.

"Hyeong, you should go to Busan because grandma just moved there. She really wanted to see you," Park Soo Hyun persuaded. This was another chance for Dae Hyun to leave Seoul, even if it wasn't for long. That way he will have a plan to approach Soo Yin without any more obstacles.

"Grandma didn't call me so that I could visit her," Dae Hyun said in a flat tone. He could read Park Soo Hyun's mind when he left.

"If you don't believe it, just ask father. Don't you want to see grandma after all this time? What kind of grandson are you," Park Soo Hyun grumbled.

"I'll think about it later," Dae Hyun said.

"It's late, I better go home first. Please if you still want to chat," Soo Yin who was carrying her bag said goodbye. She's been tired all day so she needed a break.

"Soo Yin, I'll take you home," Park Soo Hyun says with a big smile.

"No, I will take her. After all, there is work to be done by her first," Dae Hyun said. He wouldn't let his brother come near his wife.

"Are you out of your mind? It's late but still telling her to work overtime. Besides, you should go home early to solve the problem with sister-in-law," Park Soo Hyun protested.

"No need to interfere with my business. Hurry and you better go home right now," Dae Hyun said frankly.

"So you kicked me out?" Park Soo Hyun knitted his brows together.

"Whatever if you think so," Dae Hyun said dismissively.

"Soo Yin, hurry to my office if you don't want to go home early in the morning," Dae Hyun said, who immediately walked towards his desk. Hopefully Park Soo Hyun gave up and chose to go home first.

"Sir, excuse me," Soo Yin said, who followed her husband's steps.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 134 - 134 - Just Accompany

Park Soo Hyun clenched his fists about to punch the wall but was discouraged. It seemed like for the sake of his idol girl from now on he must be able to hold back his emotions so that Soo Yin won't stay away because of his attitude.

"Soo Yin, I'll be waiting for you downstairs," Park Soo Hyun exclaimed in a calm tone as if he wasn't angry at all. Although disappointed, he will wait for Soo Yin downstairs. He wouldn't give up just because his annoying brother was hindered. He immediately rushed down to the lobby.

Soo Yin turned towards the door to see Park Soo Hyun but the man was out of sight. She didn't really hear what he was saying earlier either.

"Which one should I do?" Soo asked Yin while frowning. Even though she was very sleepy and wanted to immediately lay down on a comfortable and soft bed.

"Come here," Dae Hyun said as he patted his lap.

"What is wrong?"

"Come here first," Dae Hyun said so that Soo Yin approached him.

With force Soo Yin approached Dae Hyun and stood beside him. But Dae Hyun grabbed her waist immediately causing her to fall right in Dae Hyun's lap.

"Didn't you say there was work?" Soo Yin asked with an innocent face. She put her hands around Dae Hyun's neck.

"Your work is only here to keep me company," Dae Hyun whispered sensually in Soo Yin's ear until she felt amused.

"But...." Soo Yin said.

Having not had time to continue her words, Dae Hyun had covered Soo Yin's red lips with his lips. Dae Hyun was very aggressive this time. Unusually so soft. Soo Yin even groaned because her lips felt sore.

"Ouch, it hurts," Soo Yin muttered when Dae Hyun had already let go of the kiss. Her lips really felt swollen from Dae Hyun biting them several times.

"Sorry," Dae Hyun said, who immediately rubbed Soo Yin's lips with his thumb. His chaotic mind and tired body made him unable to think straight. Moreover, Park Soo Hyun recently came to tease his wife. He felt very angry.

"Don't do it with me if you're like that," Soo Yin muttered as she pursed her lips. Her lips were red and swollen because of Dae Hyun.

Soo Yin was about to stand up because she didn't like what Dae Hyun has treated her tonight. Not having time to get up, Dae Hyun instead hugged her very tightly.

"Honey, let's just go from Seoul," Dae Hyun said while hiding his head in his wife's niche. There was pain and despair in his tone.

"Where are we going?" Soo Yin asked. She stopped struggling at this point.

"I want us to go away from this place. I want to go to a place where no one is bothering us," Dae Hyun said. He was very sorry because it seemed like getting rid of Aeri was very difficult. He didn't want to give Soo Yin false hopes. Making her a mistress must have tormented her mind.

"Then what about Jo Yeon Ho and also your parents. Have you thought carefully?" Soo Yin didn't want to be selfish. Even though she really wanted to live happily alone with her husband, she wanted Dae Hyun to solve all his problems with Aeri even though it was difficult. She didn't want everyone to know about their relationship before Dae Hyun divorced Aeri.

"If we stay here maybe I'll always hurt you. You have to know that Aeri is very cunning." Dae Hyun raised his face to meet his wife's eyeballs.

"I'm sure there will be a solution," Soo Yin said with a sweet smile.

"The only way is to acknowledge our relationship in front of everyone," Dae Hyun said. Although this idea was a bit dangerous, it didn't matter if it made Aeri retreat.

"I don't agree about that. Never mind, don't think too much of it. People will think you are crazy for cheating on Aeri who is a top model with a stupid and uneducated girl like myself," Soo Yin said with a chuckle. She realized that she was just an ordinary girl who was uneducated if the public knew about it, Dae Hyun would definitely receive so many blasphemies.

"Shhh, you don't say that." Dae Hyun covered Soo Yin's lips with his index finger.

"That's the fact. Looks like I have to go to college if I want to keep up with you," Soo Yin said, chuckled.

"Have you decided where to go to college?" Dae Hyun asked.

"I don't know, I don't know because it seems difficult to get into a favorite university," Soo Yin said with a deep sigh. She didn't expect much.

"You can't give up. I'm sure you can," Dae Hyun said excitedly. He will support whatever his little wife will do. After all, it's a shame if Soo Yin's young age didn't continue her education.

"Hmm, looks like I need some books to study so I can enter and pass the test. If I go to college it means you will work alone because I must be busy with some assignments," Soo Yin said while tracing Dae Hyun's face with her fingers.

"Calm down, there is Chang Yuan who will help me." Although he initially disagreed with Soo Yin regarding his wife who was going to college, after considering there was a point. If one day Soo Yin becomes his only wife then no one will dare to underestimate her.

"Or you can replace the secretary position with someone who is beautiful and sexy," Soo Yin teased while glancing mischievously.

"I'm not in the mood!" Dae Hyun said firmly and now his jaw tightened because he didn't like Soo Yin's words. He turned his face in another direction.

"Really?" Soo Yin teased while chuckling with amusement at her husband's tense expression.

"Don't be kidding," Dae Hyun said in a flat tone. He really didn't like Soo Yin teasing him.

Cup ...

Cup ...

Cup....

Soo Yin gave Dae Hyun a short kiss on the cheek.

"Don't be angry, I'm just kidding," Soo Yin said with a laugh.

"Turns out you are very naughty." Dae Hyun tickled Soo Yin's stomach until she twitched because of amusement.

"Dae Hyun, stop it!" Soo Yin whined as she kept laughing until she felt like her stomach hurt.

"Don't tease me if you don't want me to reciprocate," Dae Hyun said, who had stopped the action. He tidied Soo Yin's messy hair then tucked the hair covering her face. Never once did he feel bored to stare at her. He even wanted to always be near her all the time.

"Why look at me like that for?" Soo Yin's face blushed when their gazes met. She immediately looked away and pretended to comb her hair.

"I always want to see your face every day as if teasing me," Dae Hyun said with a very charming smile.

Soo Yin blinked a few times at Dae Hyun's statement. Even though he was no longer young, Dae Hyun still looked very handsome. It's not that Soo Yin fell in love but because his sincerity was able to melt her.

"Come with me to Busan tomorrow," Dae Hyun said.

"Why go there?" Soo Yin said while raising an eyebrow.

"I will introduce you to your grandmother. I'm sure grandmother can help out with our relationship because all this time grandmother has never liked Aeri," Dae Hyun said. Looked like he got enlightened about that.

"I'm afraid your grandmother will hate me. Your father doesn't seem to like me that much anymore. In fact, he was very friendly to me at first." Soo Yin felt a little sad remembering Park Ji Hoon's rather cold attitude towards her this time. Now Soo Yin's face turned grim at the thought.

"Don't worry, Dad might just not know who to side with my brother and I. Trust me," Dae Hyun said as he grabbed Soo Yin's cheek with his palms. He didn't want to upset his wife's mood.

Soo Yin nodded her head with a faint smile etched on her lips. All she can do now was try to believe what her husband was saying.

"I wonder why Park Soo Hyun should like you? As if there's no other girl," Dae Hyun said.

"It's also strange that you already have a top-model wife but has married again. Which makes it strange because his second wife is still underage and doesn't have any advantages." Soo Yin chuckled in amusement as she said that.

"It's because you're so different from other girls. You were able to break down the walls of my love," Dae Hyun said while beating his own chest excitedly.

"No, don't brag. I want to go home now because my eyes feel heavy," Soo Yin said as she got up from her husband's lap.

"I'm telling you honestly." Dae Hyun didn't accept that Soo Yin thinks he was lying.

"Really?" Soo Yin said while smiling.

"If you don't believe, cut my chest," Dae Hyun said as he unbuttoned his shirt one by one.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 135 - 135 - Cut My Chest

"What would you do?" Soo Yin, who was already standing, moved backward when she saw her husband unbutton his shirt, which now revealed his stomach muscles that looked like torn bread.

"I want to prove what I said," Dae Hyun said, who reached for the penknife in the drawer. He stood up then walked over to Soo Yin.

"Stop! What are you going to do?" Soo Yin said once again. She was afraid of Dae Hyun who looked a little creepy because of the knife in his hand. This situation that was so romantic has now turned into horror.

Dae Hyun took Soo Yin's hand and then opened her clenched palm. He put the penknife in Soo Yin's palm.

"Soo Yin, cut my chest," Dae Hyun said while puffing out his chest. His facial expression was serious.

"No need to joke. I'm really sleepy and want to go home soon," Soo Yin said, she put the knife on the table.

Soo Yin immediately reached into her cellphone in her pocket intending to call Chung Ho to pick her up immediately. But just getting connected, it turned out that Dae Hyun has snatched it. Dae Hyun instead told Chung Ho not to have to pick Soo Yin because he will take her home.

After hanging up the call with Chung Ho, Dae Hyun went back to buttoning his shirt button back.

"Aren't you going back to UN Village? It's already late so no need to take me," Soo Yin said. She didn't want to make Dae Hyun go home too late to his extended family.

"I want to enjoy the night longer with you," Dae Hyun said, who immediately took Soo Yin's hand to follow him.

"Is Park Soo Hyun still waiting for me?" Soo Yin said.

"I think he's home. There's no way he's still patient waiting for us to come home," Dae Hyun guessed. He firmly believed that Park Soo Hyun had given up and went home first.

The condition of the building where the employees who work for the hotel are now deserted. The room lights were also almost all dead. Looked like there was only Soo Yin and Dae Hyun left. Soo Yin continued to follow in the footsteps of Dae Hyun who walked a little ahead of her.

=====

Park Soo Hyun never gave up. He has been faithfully waiting for his idol to come down. He saw the circular object on his wrist which now showed that it was almost eleven o'clock in the evening.

"Is my brother crazy? All the employees have even gone home but he still take Soo Yin to work," Park Soo Hyun said, who got up from his seat.

He then walked back and forth in front of the elevator to wait for it to open because he intended to follow to Dae Hyun's room again.

Tring... tring....

Suddenly his cell phone rang so Park Soo Hyun walked to the side to answer the call first.

The elevator doors finally opened. Dae Hyun and Soo Yin looked at each other when they saw Park Soo Hyun's back. Dae Hyun then invited Soo Yin to take another path so as not to meet Park Soo Hyun. He didn't want to argue with his brother anymore. Soo Yin complied when Dae Hyun brought her because she also didn't want to get too close to Park Soo Hyun.

They immediately rushed to the parking lot while sneaking around like thieves because Park Soo Hyun glanced at them.

Dae Hyun immediately drove the car when they got inside.

"It seems that Park Soo Hyun wants to fly the war flag at me," Dae Hyun said while looking straight at the road.

"Dae Hyun, don't fight just because of a girl like me," Soo Yin said while holding her husband's arm. She did not want because of her their brotherly relationship becomes tenuous.

"Calm down, it can't happen. I'm sure that one day Park Soo Hyun will accept our relationship gracefully. Hopefully he finds a good girl," Dae Hyun said with a smile.

"Jean seems to like Park Soo Hyun," Soo Yin said.

"Really?"

Soo Yin nodded her head. She really hoped that one day Park Soo Hyun can open his heart to Jean.

"Then make them close so that Park Soo Hyun can forget about you so we can live in peace," Dae Hyun said.

Derrrtt... derttt....

Dae Hyun's cell phone which was in his shirt pocket suddenly vibrated so he stopped the car first on the side of a quiet road. After checking it turned out to be a call from Park Soo Hyun.

"What's the matter?" Dae Hyun asked lazily.

"Actually, where are you two? I've gone to your room but didn't find you," Park Soo Hyun said from across the phone.

"We're on our way home," Dae Hyun said casually without feeling guilty at all to his brother.

"What?" Park Soo Hyun shouted so loudly that Dae Hyun covered his ears.

"Lower your voice! You want me to be deaf," Dae Hyun muttered.

"Why didn't you tell me?" Park Soo Hyun asked.

"I thought you were home. Let's continue talking later because I'm driving."

Dae Hyun immediately turned off the telephone line without hearing the answer from his brother, who could vaguely grumble with annoyance.

"You won't be able to compete with me," Dae Hyun muttered with a grin that showed off his white teeth.

Dae Hyun turned to see Soo Yin who was already fast asleep. It looked like she was very sleepy.

"Sorry, you must be very tired," Dae Hyun who felt guilty for not letting her go home earlier said. He rubbed Soo Yin's cheek with his thumb for a moment.

Dae Hyun immediately drove the car so that he would immediately arrive at the Pyeongchang-dong villa.

=====

A few days later.

In recent days Dae Hyun will chose to come home late from the hotel. He preferred to spend late at night with Soo Yin. He will come home when all his family have fallen asleep. He also always slept in his study.

Aeri also acted like normal as if nothing had happened between them. Dae Hyun did not think that this woman was so shameless. Aeri acted as if Dae Hyun was angry because he was jealous of her.

Meanwhile, Park Soo Hyun was always busy with his work because Dae Hyun kept him busy. Deliberately delegating his work to Park Soo Hyun so that he did not have time to approach Soo Yin.

Not wanting his parents to suspect that, early in the morning Dae Hyun would return to his room and chose to sleep on the sofa. Today he woke up a bit late because last night he just got back from the hotel at midnight.

Dae Hyun hurriedly walked down the stairs while wearing his untidy tie. If it's a bit late like this then he will have a hard time letting go of Jo Yeon Ho. Actually, he can't bear to see his son who kept on whining, but he felt very disgusted to see Aeri.

"Father, why do you always go to work so early?" Jo Yeon Ho said, who was already under the stairs. He wore a sullen face with his arms folded across his chest. The boy missed to have breakfast with his family like that time.

"Sorry, father is a bit busy these days," Dae Hyun said. There was a sense of not having the heart to see his son looked sad like that.

"Dae Hyun, what's wrong with having breakfast at home first," Mrs. Park asked, who was walking over to her son and grandson. She also felt that Dae Hyun was always busy lately and rarely spent time at home.

"Okay, this morning father will have breakfast with you," Dae Hyun said as he rubbed the top of Jo Yeon Ho's head so that his hair looked messy.

"Hooray!" Jo Yeon Ho exclaimed excitedly. He was jumping up and down because he was so happy to have breakfast with his father. As a child, Jo Yeon Ho didn't want to see her parents fight again.

Dae Hyun's heart was touched by Jo Yeon Ho's excited behavior. He realized that the past few days he was too selfish without giving any importance to Jo Yeon Ho's feelings.

"Let's have breakfast," Aeri asked, who was still wearing her apron with sweat wetting her face.

Dae Hyun was even more surprised to see Aeri's change this time. 'Since when did that woman like cooking? In the past, she didn't want to dwell in the kitchen, even if only to get warm water.'

No wonder her parents believed Aeri so much that Aeri had changed drastically. However, Dae Hyun felt sure that something was planned by her.

"You two first wait in the dining room waiting for the others," Mrs. Park said, who climbed the stairs to call her husband.

"Yeon Ho, accompany your father to chat so your father don't run away. Mom will go upstairs first," Aeri said while glancing at Dae Hyun but the man turned away.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 136 - 136 - Looks Happy

Jo Yeon Ho grabbed Dae Hyun's hand to follow him into the dining room. The kid even pulled out a chair for Dae Hyun to sit on. Seeing Jo Yeon Ho who looked happy and excited made Dae Hyun regretted for ignoring him. His intention to ignore Aeri also affected his son.

While waiting for the others to gather at the dining table Dae Hyun and Jo Yeon Ho chat. Dae Hyun asked how the school was currently. He just realized that Jo Yeon Ho would soon be graduating kindergarten. Even soon a graduation ceremony will be held which required both parents to come.

"Father, I am very happy because soon I will graduate," Jo Yeon Ho said with a sparkling face. He was very enthusiastic about telling how the school was currently developing.

"Right, that means your father's son has started to grow up," Dae Hyun said. If he had been born from Soo Yin's womb they would have been a very happy family. Although that would not be possible due to the fact that Jo Yeon Ho was his son along with Aeri.

"Anyway, I want Mom and Dad to come to my graduation ceremony. In fact, we also have to go on holiday to celebrate," Jo Yeon Ho said excitedly.

"Where do you want to go on vacation?" Dae Hyun asked, raising an eyebrow.

"Wherever I want the most important with Father and Mother," Jo Yeon Ho said.

Dae Hyun was stunned by his son's narrative. Should he obey his son's wish to go on a trip for the three of them when he was desperately trying to separate from Aeri. But as a father Dae Hyun didn't want to disappoint his son.

"Do you want it?" Jo Yeon Ho said as he moved his tiny hand up and down in front of Dae Hyun's face because he didn't answer his question.

"Ah, dad will think about it later," Dae Hyun said while massaging his temples. In his heart he did not promise to obey his son's wishes.

Mrs Park, Park Ji Hoon and Park Soo Hyun have arrived at the dining room. Now only Aeri has not come down because she was cleaning herself and changing her clothes.

"It's very unusual for you not to go to work. Usually you left early in the morning," Park Ji Hoon said.

"Yeon Ho asked me to have breakfast with him," Dae Hyun said with a flat face.

"Hyeong, when are you going to visit Grandma?" Park Soo Hyun asked, who just threw his butt on the chair. He had hoped that Dae Hyun would soon leave Seoul even if it was only for a few days.

"This weekend I will visit her," Dae Hyun said.

"Why don't you leave now, Hyeong?" Park Soo Hyun persuaded to try even harder. If his siblings leave for work holidays it's useless. This meant that there was no time to be with Soo Yin at the hotel. Even though he planned to confess his love in front of hotel visitors.

"What are you doing? It seems like you really want me to go," Dae Hyun said by raising one of his upper lips. He smelled Park Soo Hyun's plan. This must have something to do with Soo Yin.

"I... I just feel sorry for grandmother. She really missed you," Park Soo Hyun said, who kept looking for a thousand reasons.

"Okay, I'll be leaving today. You have to remember not to get work getting stuck while I'm not around," Dae Hyun said. He will follow the game his little brother made.

"You don't have to worry, I promise I will do all your work properly," Park Soo Hyun said excitedly.

Park Soo Hyun immediately put on a happy face when he heard that his brother was leaving soon. This was good news for him. However, Park Soo Hyun returned to his normal behavior so that Dae Hyun would not suspect him.

"Park Soo Hyun, now you seem very excited at work," Mrs. Park said. She felt very happy to see his youngest son, who was now getting older.

"Mother, of course. I'm so mature that I can't play around anymore," Park Soo Hyun said with a chuckle.

"That's great, finally you realize it," Park Ji Hoon said in a flat tone.

Dae Hyun's face now stiffened at Park Soo Hyun's statement because he knew that there was a plan behind it.

"Dad, I want to come to grandma's house," Jo Yeon Ho whined.

"Dae Hyun, you also have to invite Aeri and Yeon Ho. Your grandmother must be very happy because she always asks about Yeon Ho," Park Ji Hoon said.

"Dad, he's still in school. Later when he's off," Dae Hyun said in an indisputable tone. If Jo Yeon Ho wanted to come for him it didn't matter but if Aeri comes along it can fail all his plans.

"He can ask permission to take a day off," Mrs. Park said.

"Next time, I'm afraid he will miss the exam because he will graduate soon." Dae Hyun remained firm in his stance.

Jo Yeon Ho lowered his head. He felt disappointed because he could not go with his father to Busan.

"Yeon Ho, your father was right. If you don't take the exam later you won't pass," Aeri persuaded because she was also reluctant to go to Busan.

The last time she met Grandma, Aeri was traumatized because she never liked her. The grandmother used to insist that Dae Hyun couldn't sleep with Aeri. Fortunately, her in-laws continue to defend if there was no way he can marry Dae Hyun.

"Alright," Jo Yeon Ho said while pursing his lips.

"Now eat a lot, tomorrow mother will take you out for a walk," Aeri said to restore her son's mood.

"Really?" Jo Yeon Ho said with an excited face.

Aeri nodded her head which made the child look very happy.

After finishing breakfast Dae Hyun immediately went to his room to pack a few pieces of clothes that he would bring. Aeri followed into the room while he was unloading clothes from the wardrobe.

"Too bad I can't come," Aeri said while sitting on the side of the bed.

Dae Hyun didn't even glance at her or respond to her. It irritated Aeri that she squeezed the sheets so tightly. She tried to hold back to face Dae Hyun's attitude that was very indifferent to her.

"Here, let me arrange it," Aeri said.

"No need," Dae Hyun said coldly. He will make Aeri tired to try to stay in the house. He will remain cold until Aeri leaves.

Dae Hyun immediately stepped out of the room without saying goodbye to Aeri. He will not be seduced by her seduction like he used to.

=====

After finished breakfast, Park Soo Hyun headed straight to the hotel without lingering any longer. He even drove very fast so he could get to the hotel immediately.

While driving, he suddenly thought of picking up Soo Yin at her rented house. He can't wait to meet his idol.

Park Soo Hyun immediately turned his car towards Soo Yin's rented house. He parked his car on the side of the road not far from the rented house. He purposely didn't get out of the car because he wanted to surprise Soo Yin.

Park Soo Hyun glanced at the clock curled in his hand. It was already half past eight in the morning but there was no sign of Soo Yin. The rented house also looked deserted.

"Maybe she's already left," Park Soo Hyun muttered, he drove back to the hotel.

As soon as he arrived at the hotel, Park Soo Hyun immediately looked in the mirror to tidy up his hair and clothes. He stepped out with dignity and confidence. Throughout his journey to the 10th floor he was very friendly and widened his smile every time he met other hotel employees.

Some of the female employees were even charmed by Park Soo Hyun's appearance this morning who looked very excited.

"Wow, look at Mr. Park Soo Hyun today. He looks very handsome," one of the female employees said, who had just passed him.

"That's right, I heard he likes one of the women who works at this hotel," another employee said.

"Who is she?"

"Well, I don't know. That woman must be very beautiful and smart."

Those were some of the chats of the female workers who passed him. There were also those who hit a pole when Park Soo Hyun smiled so handsome.

The first room Park Soo Hyun went to for the first time was Dae Hyun's room. He was very impatient to give the gift that was in his hand. After going through a lot of research and consideration, finally Park Soo Hyun chose a diamond ring model that was very rare and there were only three in the world. He will give the ring to Soo Yin as a symbol of his love.

Slowly he opened the door while adjusting his tie and cleared his throat to adjust his voice because right now he was feeling very nervous.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 137 - 137 -Travel

He took a deep breath before finally entering the room. His gaze is immediately fixed on Soo Yin's table. Looks like the girl hasn't arrived yet so Park Soo Hyun decided to wait a while. Maybe while on the way the taxi got stuck or damaged.

Half an hour has passed but Soo Yin didn't show herself. Until someone suddenly pushed the door from outside.

Park Soo Hyun immediately stood up and smiled broadly to welcome his idol. When he saw who was coming, Park Soo Hyun's smile immediately disappeared because it was Chang Yuan who came.

"Good morning, Sir," Chang Yuan said, frowning. He was surprised that Park Soo Hyun stood in front of Soo Yin's table instead of going to his room.

"Morning, Assistant Chang," Park Soo Hyun said with a flat face.

"What are you here for?" Chang Yuan asked.

"Do you know why Soo Yin hasn't come yet?" Park Soo Hyun asked.

"Don't you know if Mr. Dae Hyun took Miss Soo Yin away with him?" Chang Yuan said.

"What?" Park Soo Hyun shouted. He could not believe what he had just heard.

"Mr. Dae Hyun called earlier if I had to replace Soo Yin's job to help you," Chang Yuan said.

"So my brother took Soo Yin with him?" Park Soo Hyun asked with a little emotion. He was really angry this time with his brother.

Park Soo Hyun immediately reached into the cellphone in his pants pocket. Trying to contact Dae Hyun but his number was not active as well as Soo Yin.

"Damn, it looks like they deliberately turned off their cell phones," Park Soo Hyun grumbled.

"Then I will follow him," Park Soo Hyun said to Chang Yuan.

"Sorry, you can't go because there will be a meeting soon. You should stay at the hotel until Mr. Dae Hyun returns," Chang Yuan said to remind him because there were so many schedules today.

"Can't you take care of it?" Park Soo Hyun protested.

"No, sir," Chang Yuan said.

Park Soo Hyun ruffled his hair in frustration that his plan had to fail again this time. Without saying anything else Park Soo Hyun immediately came out of the room and slammed the door very hard.

Chang Yuan only shook his head looking at the boss's brother. He also wondered why should they love the same woman.

=====

Pyeongchang-dong Villa,

Soo Yin just came out of the house but suddenly a silver Maybach car came into the yard. Soo Yin frowned when she already found out who the owner of the car was which was none other than her husband.

Soo Yin wondered why Dae Hyun came so early like this. Did he miss her so much that he can't wait to see her at work.

Soo Yin just stood on the terrace carrying her bag then put it on her shoulder. She waited until Dae Hyun got out of the car.

"Good morning, honey," Dae Hyun said as he landed a brief kiss on the sweet lips of his little wife.

"Morning," Soo Yin said.

"Honey, please pack some clothes," Dae Hyun said.

Soo Yin knitted her brows together. She was surprised because he came so early and then told her to pack clothes.

"Where are we going?" Soo Yin asked. She was a little confused because her husband arrived early in the morning and told her to bring clothes. Instantly Soo Yin immediately widened her eyes. She remembered her husband's invitation to leave Seoul.

"You're not planning on taking me away from Seoul, are you?" Soo Yin who was suspicious asked. She was afraid that her husband would be that desperate.

"We'll go to Busan," Dae Hyun said.

"What are we going there for?" Soo Yin asked.

"Grandma wants to meet me. I also want to introduce you to grandma. Didn't I say it a few days ago?" Dae Hyun said.

Soo Yin started to remember when Dae Hyun intended to take her to Busan but now she has changed her mind.

"Hmm, I better not have to come," Soo Yin said.

"Come on, accompany me to meet grandma," Dae Hyun persuaded. He will still carry her even if Soo Yin refuses.

"Grandma only wants to see you, not me." Soo Yin remained adamant in refusing.

"Honey, I beg you," Dae Hyun said while holding Soo Yin's fingers with a sad face.

"Why don't you go with Aeri?" Soo Yin said.

"Never mind, I'm not in the mood to talk about that woman. I just need you to come with me," Dae Hyun said.

Soo Yin rolled her eyes until she finally agreed to Dae Hyun's invitation to go to Busan.

"Thank you, dear." Dae Hyun held Soo Yin's body for a while to express his joy.

"Dae Hyun, don't go overboard like that," Soo Yin protested.

"I'm just too happy," Dae Hyun said.

Dae Hyun trailed Soo Yin up the stairs. Then went into the room to accompany his wife in packing the clothes to be brought.

Soo Yin only brought a few clothes because they weren't there for long too. Maybe tomorrow afternoon they will return to Seoul.

Before leaving, Soo Yin said goodbye to Auntie Xia because she didn't want the middle-aged woman to worry about her if she didn't come home tonight.

Meanwhile, Dae Hyun first checked his car before leaving together with Chung Ho to ensure the safety of his car. The trip to Busan took a while so Dae Hyun wanted his car to have no trouble at all.

"Ready, honey?" Dae Hyun asked when he saw his little wife come out of the house.

Soo Yin nodded her head.

Dae Hyun opened the car for his wife to get in. He was also the one who put the seat belt on Soo Yin's body. Made Soo Yin felt touched because her husband cared so much for her.

Dae Hyun also turned off his cell phone and Soo Yin's cell phone so that Park Soo Hyun can't contact them. Dae Hyun firmly believed that if Park Soo Hyun found out that he brought Soo Yin with him, he will definitely be furious. After that Dae Hyun immediately drove his car through the streets of Seoul in the morning.

"Shall we take the car?" Soo Yin said when Dae Hyun wasn't driving to the station.

"Driving is more comfortable, and the distance is not too far," Dae Hyun said. He continued to focus on staring at the road in front of him.

"Honey, what if grandma get suspicious of us later?" Soo Yin said. She was really nervous about meeting her grandmother-in-law.

"Don't worry too much, I will find the right reason why I took you there," Dae Hyun said, who reached out a hand to stroke Soo Yin's hair.

"I feel scared." Soo Yin leaned her head on Dae Hyun's shoulder.

"Don't worry," Dae Hyun said to comfort his little wife.

Soo Yin just snorted then took a deep breath to ease her nervousness.

"I'm sure Park Soo Hyun must be very upset right now." Dae Hyun chuckled at the thought of his brother who must be very busy and angry looking for Soo Yin.

"What did you do to him?" Soo Yin asked while looking up to see the look on her husband's face, which looked happy.

"Nothing, I just taught him a little lesson for trying to seduce my wife," Dae Hyun said with a smile full of victory. Park Soo Hyun must have thought he didn't know he was up to something. Dae Hyun got news from Chang Yuan about Park Soo Hyun's plan to propose to Soo Yin on the hotel yard.

"Tell me, what the hell are you doing?" Soo Yin looked at Dae Hyun suspiciously.

"I just foiled his plan to propose to you. He thought he could win against me." Dae Hyun chuckled in annoyance and admiration.

"Propose to me?" Soo Yin narrowed her eyes to reveal the astonishment in her heart.

"Don't think about it, I just want you to think about me," Dae Hyun said as he grabbed his little wife's waist for a while before finally refocusing on driving his car.

"Since when did you become possessive like that?" Soo Yin grumbled.

"Since I found out that you love me too," Dae Hyun said while glancing mischievously.

Soo Yin only smiled when she heard her husband's statement. Suddenly Soo Yin yawned so she covered her mouth with her hands. For some reason, Soo Yin felt that in the past few days her eyes wanted to always close, especially in the morning like this.

"Didn't you sleep last night so it's still early in the morning you're sleepy?" Dae Hyun asked.

"How can I not be sleepy? You always drive me home after midnight," Soo Yin grumbled while pursing her lips.

"Sorry," Dae Hyun said while grinning as he scratched his head which was not itchy.

Soo Yin yawned again, it seemed like her eyes really wanted to close.

"Go to sleep if you're sleepy, anyway our trip to Busan will takes about two hours. You can sleep first," Dae Hyun said. He could not bear to see his little wife who had repeatedly yawned.

"Okay, I'll sleep," Soo Yin said, who immediately leaned her head on the chair. Five minutes later she was really fast asleep.

Dae Hyun rubbed the top of Soo Yin's head for a moment then focused on staring at the long road he was going to walk through.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 138 - 138 - Not Alone

A few hours later.

Now Dae Hyun has driven his car on a rather narrow road with gravel and rocky road conditions.

Dae Hyun's grandmother's place was located in a suburb away from the hustle and bustle. Very peaceful and not noisy because cars rarely enter the village area.

It had been ten years that Dae Hyun had not visited this village because his grandmother wanted to move to Ghosan after his grandfather died.

Nothing has changed at all with the village. The clothes were still wearing Korean traditional clothes and the people's work there was also still farming. The village still maintained the uniqueness and traditional Korean culture.

Dae Hyun stopped his car on the side of the road in front of the biggest house in the village. A traditional house with nuances of the Joseon dynasty. Dae Hyun's grandfather was once a village head who was highly respected by the local people. That may be the reason why her grandmother wanted to live in that house again.

Dae Hyun looked at Soo Yin's face who was still fast asleep. It turned out that his little wife was so sleepy that she didn't wake up at all during the trip. Dae Hyun stretched his muscles first before finally deciding to get out of the car.

In front of a house, an old woman with gray hair was struggling with something in her hand. She seemed absorbed in embroidery. Dae Hyun could see it because the gate was wide open.

Dae Hyun smiled when he saw his grandmother who was still healthy even though she was old. It was unexpected that they had not seen each other for almost a year.

"Grandmother?" Dae Hyun called when he was in the yard because his grandmother didn't seem to notice him.

The old woman raised her face when she heard the voice she missed so much. The old woman named Hae Sok narrowed her eyes then she put the minus glasses away.

"Grandma, it's me Dae Hyun." Dae Hyun immediately kissed her wrinkled hand with age and then hugged her body to express his longing. It turned out that the year was long enough that Hae Sok had probably forgotten about him.

"You really Dae Hyun? My grandson?" Hae Sok said while patting Dae Hyun's back. It was as if she dreamed that the man was visiting her.

"Grandma, I'm sorry I never visited you. Your grandson really doesn't know himself," Dae Hyun said regretfully.

"No need to apologize, Grandma is glad you finally came here," Hae Sok said. She was not angry at all with his eldest grandson because she knew Dae Hyun was very busy.

"Thank you, Grandma," Dae Hyun said.

"We should just chat inside. You must be very tired because the journey from Seoul takes quite a long time," Hae Sok said, who started packing her embroidery equipment.

"Grandma, actually I didn't come alone. I came with someone," Dae Hyun said carefully. He really hoped his grandmother will accept Soo Yin.

"Then where is it?" Hae Sok said as she looked around the courtyard but it seemed that no one was there.

"Wait a minute, Grandma. I'll call her because she's still asleep in the car." Dae Hyun immediately rushed to his car which was still parked on the side of the road.

Dae Hyun got back into the car and then immediately woke Soo Yin up, making the girl blink her eyes. Soo Yin yawned while stretching her stiff body muscles. Sleeping in a sitting condition made her waist felt sore.

"Are we there yet?" Soo Yin said while rubbing her eyes, which still wanted to be closed.

"Get up, later you can rest again inside. Your body must feel sore," Dae Hyun said as he reached out to massage his wife's shoulders.

"I'm fine," Soo Yin said as she pushed Dae Hyun's hand off of her shoulder because she was sure Dae Hyun must be much more tired than her.

Soo Yin, who was completely conscious, widened her eyes when she saw the houses on the right and left of the road, it was still traditional and still looked very beautiful.

"Are we at Grandma's village?" Soo Yin asked to make sure. She was amazed that in a modern era like this, there were villages that still maintain traditional culture.

"Come out, grandma is waiting inside," Dae Hyun said. He immediately helped Soo Yin to get out of the car.

Dae Hyun also took out some of the gifts he had brought from Seoul for his grandmother from the trunk. When Soo Yin was about to help carry their luggage, Dae Hyun refused because he didn't want to exhaust his little wife's body.

Soo Yin walked into the courtyard while turning around to look around the house. The yard was quite large with a beautiful environment. Soo Yin was glad Dae Hyun took her there because she can relax a little of her mind from her busy life in Seoul. When she got old Soo Yin also wanted to live in a village like this.

The girl was still standing in the yard even though Dae Hyun had entered the house.

"Honey, come in. Grandma is already waiting inside," Dae Hyun asked so that they immediately met his grandmother.

Soo Yin pursed her lips when Dae Hyun kept calling her to come in even though she still wanted to see the yard that was filled with flowers.

"Meet grandma first, then we can have a look again," Dae Hyun persuaded in a softer tone because his wife had an annoyed face.

"Okay," Soo Yin said, following Dae Hyun into the living room which was really still traditional. There were no sofas or chairs there. We can only sit together on the floor around a table.

Upon entering, it turned out that Hae Sok was not in the living room. She was telling the servants to prepare a banquet for his grandson.

"Where is grandma? You said she was waiting," Soo Yin said. She felt nervous again, so she squeezed her sweaty palms. Even though when she was outside earlier she was fine.

"Grandma was in for a while. Are you still worried?" Dae Hyun asked.

Soo Yin nodded while biting her lower lip.

"Don't be afraid, just think of it like meeting your own grandmother. Besides, my grandmother will not eat a girl as beautiful as you," Dae Hyun chuckled with amusement because his wife kept feeling anxious.

"You ...." Soo Yin pinched Dae Hyun's waist tightly so he won't joke around.

"Sorry, grandmother went for a moment," Hae Sok said while smiling a friendly smile when she saw Soo Yin.

"Welcome to grandma's house," Hae Sok said to Soo Yin.

Soo Yin only gave a faint smile and then bowed her body to greet Hae Sok. In her heart she prayed that her husband's grandmother could accept her as daughter-in-law.

Soo Yin mistaken Hae Sok. After chatting for a bit, it turned out that Hae Sok was very friendly and fun. Not like those annoying, fussy old grannies.

Hae Sok treated them with traditional food and drinks.

"Grandma, just let me pour it," Soo Yin said when Hae Sok was about to pour water into their glasses.

"What is your name?" the grandmother asked while observing Soo Yin's face carefully. Even though she was no longer young, from the look on her face, Hae Sok was very beautiful when she was young.

"I'm Soo Yin, Grandma," Soo Yin said, a little nervous.

"Soo Yin, I hope you don't give up visiting this village," Hae Sok said with a smile.

"Of course not, I am very happy to be able to visit this beautiful village," Soo Yin said.

"Dae Hyun, why don't you bring Jo Yeon Ho? Even though grandmother wants to meet him too. He must have grown up now," Hae Sok said. She wanted to see her great-grandson so badly.

"He's been on an exam for several days so he can't participate. Next time I'll definitely take him," Dae Hyun said. Every time he came to visit Hae Sok, she rarely asked about Aeri. Grandma never forced Dae Hyun to come with Aeri.

"Then how's that model?" Hae Sok put on a sour face.

"She's fine," Dae Hyun said curtly.

"Does Grandma live alone in this house?" Soo Yin asked to change the subject because Dae Hyun must not like talking about Aeri.

"No, I live with some of the servants here. Did you come here with any particular purpose?" Hae Sok narrowed her eyes. She smelled something strange. A married man visits his grandmother with another girl, not his wife.

"She wants to learn to cook from Grandma," Dae Hyun said quickly.

"Really? Is that all?" Hae Sok asked.

"Th ... that's all, Grandma," Soo Yin said, stammered. She glanced at Dae Hyun who was beside her.

"Good girl, grandmother is very happy if a young girl wants to learn to cook because now many of them choose to buy instant food," Hae Sok said with a nod of her head.

Soo Yin only smiled faintly at that. It's true that grandmother said, she can't even cook. She learned a little after marrying Dae Hyun.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 139 - 139 - Feeling Nauseous

They didn't feel like they was just chatting but it was almost time for lunch so Hae Sok asked Soo Yin to help her cook in the kitchen.

Soo Yin was amazed to see so many traditional cooking utensils.

It turned out that the wealth possessed by her children did not guarantee someone to leave a simple life like Hae Sok did. If people who don't know, for sure they will think that their children didn't want to take care of her even though the fact is Hae Sok didn't want to live with them.

Meanwhile, Dae Hyun chose to clean the messy room they were going to occupy. Hae Sok didn't know if his grandson was coming so she hasn't had time to tell the maid to tidy it up.

The house was actually the house where Hae Sok's family lived and her husband grew up with their children before they moved to various regions. This house was the beginning of a wedding with Dae Hyun's grandfather until finally they moved to Ghosan and now Hae Sok wanted to live there again.

Soo Yin, who was in the kitchen, was happy to learn to cook with Hae Sok. It was true what Dae Hyun said that his grandmother was really good at cooking. Even though she didn't help much, at least Soo Yin understands a little about herbs and spices.

Soo Yin started serving the cooked food at the dining table. It looked delicious and she can't wait to eat it.

"Soo Yin, call Dae Hyun for lunch," Hae Sok exclaimed, who was still struggling in the kitchen. She was not alone because there were servants who helped her.

"Alright, Grandma," Soo Yin said in a slightly loud voice.

Soo Yin immediately walked over to Dae Hyun who was tidying up the room. The man was sitting on his back with both hands to support his weight. His unclothed body looked shiny from sweating.

"Sir, grandma called you for lunch," Soo Yin said as she poked her head into the room.

Dae Hyun narrowed his eyes. He hated being called by Soo Yin with a title like that.

"Didn't I tell you not to call me that if it's just the two of us?" Dae Hyun glanced at Soo Yin and then brushed the dust off his hands by patting them.

"There is a grandmother in this house," Soo Yin said while raising an eyebrow.

"Grandma won't listen," Dae Hyun said.

"Come on, hurry up and clean up. You look so dirty." Soo Yin pretended to cover her nose.

"Come here for a moment," Dae Hyun called. He wanted Soo Yin to sit beside him.

"I don't want to because Grandma is waiting," Soo Yin said while sticking out her tongue.

"Hurry up please help me scratch my back which feels itchy," Dae Hyun said, who had found an excuse. He pretended to be having trouble grabbing his back.

Soo Yin looked around first to make sure there were no new people then she rushed in. Not to forget she also closed the door.

"Where?" Soo Yin said, she squatted while observing her husband's back.

Dae Hyun turned around and then grabbed Soo Yin's slender waist until Soo Yin was now on Dae Hyun's lap.

"Clean yourself first! You're very sweaty," Soo Yin said, tried to stand up but her strength was not comparable to Dae Hyun's strong strength.

"This is how it is for just a moment," Dae Hyun said while leaning his head against Soo Hyun's chest. He can hear Soo Yin's heart racing fast

"Your heart is beating really hard," Dae Hyun said, still putting his ear against Soo Yin's chest.

"Dae Hyun, later grandmother will catches us," Soo Yin said, who reminded them that they did not live at home so they can do something at will.

"What if grandma find out? That's even better," Dae Hyun said casually.

"You are ...." Soo Yin continued to struggle to get away from Dae Hyun.

"Dae Hyun, Soo Yin! Where are you?" Hae Sok's voice was heard from the outside.

Soo Yin panicked because she was afraid of being caught so she desperately pushed Dae Hyun's muscular body until the man fell.

Dae Hyun groaned in pain as his back hit the floor hard.

"Grandma, we are here," Soo Yin said, who was already standing in the middle of the door to see Hae Sok.

"You guys took so long. Hurry to the dining room," Hae Sok said from a distance but could still see clearly.

"Fine, Grandma," Soo Yin said.

"Honey, please help me," Dae Hyun said as he stretched out his hand.

"I won't!" Soo Yin immediately went to the next room to take a shower and get changed. Activities in the kitchen made her smell bad.

=====

After finished cleaning themselves, Dae Hyun and Soo Yin rushed to the dining room. The people who eat just three of them but the dish was full one table.

There were various kinds of menus including Tangsuyuk (stir-fried beef with sweet and sour sauce), Nakji Bokkeum (spicy octopus), Mul Kimchi, Sundubu Jjigae (silk tofu soup and spicy seafood), Jjamppong, Miyeok guk, and many more.

Soo Yin immediately sat down in front of Hae Sok followed by Dae Hyun who sat beside her.

"Sir, you are absolutely right that Grandma is very good at cooking. I really can't wait to taste it," Soo Yin said with a very cheerful expression. She was happy to be able to learn a few kinds of spices that she was never known before.

"Of course, my grandmother is a great chef," Dae Hyun said, accompanied by a laugh that was so crispy. Not to forget he raised his thumbs up.

"You guys just embarrass this old grandmother." Hae Sok smiled with compliments from the two young people in front of her.

The three of them started to take the food into their respective plates. Soo Yin as usual she eats heartily even though this time she was more restrained to maintain modesty.

"Since when do you eat spicy food?" Hae Sok knitted her brows together when she saw Dae Hyun take Sundubu Jjigae which has a slightly spicy taste. She knew that all this time her grandson couldn't eat too spicy so she only added a little chili powder.

"I don't know, suddenly I really want to eat it. Besides, I'm fine as long as the food is not too spicy," Dae Hyun said, who began to spoon shrimp into his mouth.

Soo Yin also felt strange about her husband. Once she cooked spicy for him but after that Dae Hyun became stomach ache. She became worried but Soo Yin chose not to comment.

"You better eat this," Hae Sok said, who brought the seaweed soup into Dae Hyun's plate.

Dae Hyun had just tasted one bite, suddenly his stomach felt nauseous. So he immediately went to the sink to vomit everything.

Hae Sok and Soo Yin looked at each other. They seemed confused by what happened to Dae Hyun. Even so Soo Yin still continued to eat because it's a shame if everything was wasted. Soo Yin didn't care if Hae Sok thought she's a small girl but has a big appetite.

Five minutes later Dae Hyun returned to the dining table after washing his mouth. He sat back in his place.

"Actually, what happened to you? It must be because you ate a little spicy. Don't eat it again," Hae Sok said while replacing Dae Hyun's plate with a new one.

"I don't know, Grandma. My stomach feels very sick, maybe because I'm a little late for lunch," Dae Hyun said while wondering how he could be like that even though he was fine before.

"Okay, eat again," Hae Sok said.

Dae Hyun returned to holding the cutlery but it seemed like his appetite had disappeared. He just looked at Soo Yin who was eating heartily without batting her eyes. It turned out that making his wife happy was not that difficult. Hopefully he can part with Aeri soon so he can see his wife all the time.

"Sir, eat." Soo Yin felt uncomfortable when Dae Hyun looked at her so she handed back the bowl containing Miyeok woof.

"Please keep the food away from me," Dae Hyun said as he covered his mouth. He felt nauseous again when he smelled the soup. He rushed out of the dining room today because his stomach was stirring.

"What exactly happened to him?" Soo Yin muttered softly.

Hae Sok just shook her head at the strange behavior of her grandson.

After finishing lunch, Soo Yin helped the waiter to clear the table. Even though Hae Sok forbade it, she did it anyway because she's a guest here who should have more manners.

Soo Yin didn't want to waste time while at Hae Sok's place. She asked to be taught how to embroider because so far she had never learned it. It turned out that embroidery was not as difficult as she thought. After trying a few times Soo Yin was finally able to do it.

HIDDEN WIFE : BEST HUSBAND

Chapter 140 - 140 - Meet Little Friends

Luckily Hae Sok was very patient in teaching her to embroider.

"Finally I did it!" Soo Yin exclaimed with a face that looked very happy.

"You are." Hae Sok chuckled seeing Soo Yin prancing like a child.

"Grandma, please teach me how to make flowers," Soo Yin said.

Hae Sok is delighted by Soo Yin's passion for studying. The arrival of the two of them was really able to comfort her heart, which sometimes felt lonely because she was far from her children and grandchildren. The reason Hae Sok didn't want to go with the kids was because it's useless to come with them if they're all busy working. It would be better if she remained alone.

The 80 year old woman started teaching Soo Yin how to make patterns. She painstakingly taught Soo Yin so that she can little by little.

"Aren't you tired from noon till evening still embroidering?" Dae Hyun asked as he sat on one of the chairs.

They were currently on the back terrace, overlooking the farm which was on a slope. From there they can see green plants as far as the eye can see.

"Which man knows about this," Soo Yin said while laughing. She didn't look away from the cloth she was embroidering.

"It's already late, didn't you say you wanted to take a walk while you were here?" Dae Hyun said, trying to remind Soo Yin because they intended to walk around the village.

"Right, I almost forgot. Grandma, is it okay if we leave for a while? It's a shame if I don't go anywhere while I'm here," Soo Yin said, who got up from her chair.

"If you want to take a walk around here. Wear hanbok because the people here still wear it," Hae Sok suggested.

Hanbok was one of the traditional Korean clothes which has now experienced a more modern development.

"But I don't have it," Soo Yin said.

"Calm down, grandma will take it for a moment." Hae Sok rushed back to her room to get something from her cupboard. It was a hanbok of memories from when she was young. A hanbok with a pink top with a light brown skirt. There was embroidery on the arms which makes it looked so beautiful.

"Wear this," Hae Sok said as she handed the hanbok to Soo Yin.

"Grandma, I'm very grateful." Soo Yin stretched out her hand to accept the clothes then held them to her chest tightly. She immediately went to the room to put it on. It turned out that the size fitted perfectly in her slender body.

Dae Hyun took Soo Yin on a tour of the village because he also missed the place he hasn't visited for a long time. If his grandmother didn't return to Busan Dae Hyun was sure he will never visit the village again.

As a child, Dae Hyun really had a wonderful time in the village. The air was still fresh and far from pollution. A village full of memories.

Dae Hyun continued to walk casually following Soo Yin who has walked far ahead. He felt like a father taking care of his daughter. It was true that his wife was still categorized as a teenager.

"Soo Yin, wait for me!" Dae Hyun exclaimed for Soo Yin to hear.

Soo Yin looked back. She laughed seeing Dae Hyun who was left far behind her.

"You walk like a grandfather," Soo Yin sneered with a chuckle.

"You're really too much," Dae Hyun said. If only they weren't on the street he'd love to scoop up those adorable little lips.

"Hurry up and catch me." Soo Yin jogged to get away from Dae Hyun.

Dae Hyun could have chased her but he was too weak because his stomach was hungry. As a result of vomiting earlier he lost all the food that had entered his stomach.

Dae Hyun continued down the village road until he came to a house. In the yard, a little boy was seen collecting stones.

"You play alone?" Dae Hyun asked, who squatted in front of the boy. The boy reminded him of his old self who liked to collect pebbles together with one of the residents of his house.

"Yes, Uncle," the little boy said.

Soo Yin turned around because Dae Hyun was out of sight. While walking, it turned out that she saw her husband chatting with a boy who seemed to be the same age as Jo Yeon Ho.

"What are you doing?" Soo Yin asked while narrowing her small eyes.

"Nothing, I just wanted to play with him for a while," Dae Hyun said, who got up from his squat.

"Sehun!" a woman's voice exclaimed from inside the house.

"Yes, Mother," the boy who was actually named Sehun said.

A young woman came out of the house. Dae Hyun frowned when he saw who that woman was. Seeing her face he felt like she was familiar in his memory.

"Mother, I was playing with that uncle," Sehun said while pointing at Dae Hyun.

"Sorry sir, if Sehun is naughty," the woman said with a very sweet smile looking at Dae Hyun.

Soo Yin felt like gouging out the eyes of the woman who kept staring at her husband. The woman didn't even glance at her as if she wasn't there.

"Yeon Woo?" Dae Hyun said in shock. He remembered that familiar face.

"You know my name?" Yeon Woo said, who didn't seem to remember Dae Hyun yet.

"I'm Dae Hyun. I used to live in this village," he said.

"Are you Hae Sok's grandchild?" Yeon Woo slowly remembered Dae Hyun.

"Yes," Dae Hyun said.

Too happy to meet his childhood friend, Yeon Woo suddenly hugged Dae Hyun.

Soo Yin felt so jealous of Yeon Woo that she unconsciously clenches her fists. She also wore a sullen expression with a passionate breath holding back anger.

Dae Hyun broke free when he saw Soo Yin who looked angry.

"Who is this girl? Is she your sister?" Yeon Woo asked when she realized there was Soo Yin among them.

"She ...." Dae Hyun said, who was cut off.

"Introduce me, Yeon Woo. You are siblings but you don't look alike," Yeon Woo chuckled as she reached out her hand to shake Soo Yin's hand.

"I'm Soo Yin," Soo Yin said curtly without returning Yeon Woo's handshake.

'Of course not. We are husband and wife, not siblings,' Soo Yin muttered to herself.

"I'm going home!" Soo Yin said goodbye while glancing sharply at her husband then hurried away from the place.

"I'd better go home too," Dae Hyun said goodbye to Yeon Woo. He had a bad feeling that his little wife looked very angry this time.

Soo Yin kept on walking while holding the bottom hanbok so she wouldn't trip.

"You bastard!" Soo Yin cursed while hastily stepping her foot. There were so many crossroads that she has passed. So that Soo Yin lost in her way. She forgot the way back to Hae Sok's house.

"Where is the way to Grandma's house?" Soo Yin said. She was too happy to see houses with unique architecture that she didn't pay much attention to the roads. The colors and shapes of the houses were almost all similar so that Soo Yin was really struggling.

After making some considerations, Soo Yin finally chose to turn right. She stepped further away, but she seemed to be taking the wrong path because slowly she was no longer in the area of a resident's house. Instead she was standing at the end of the road approaching the farmland.

She wanted to turn around but her gaze was fixed on the rows of plants that were flourishing. She really wanted to see the green plants. It didn't wrong to ask, so Soo walked up to one of the farmers who might know about the direction of the road to Hae Sok's house.

"Uncle, I seem lost. Can you tell me the way to Grandma Hae Sook's house?" Soo Yin said.

"Sorry, uncle has only lived here a few days so I don't know the names of the people around here," the middle-aged man said, who was cleaning the grass.

"Okay, thank you," Soo Yin said with a little disappointment. But it seemed better to turn to the road that Dae Hyun was probably looking for earlier.

Soo Yin pursed her lips remembering the woman was hugging her husband's body. She kicked the can with her legs hard when she found it on the side of the road.

"Ouch!" Dae Hyun shouted when his head hit the can. Since earlier he had been around to find his little wife. Not unexpectedly he found her.

Soo Yin looked at Dae Hyun. It turned out that the can she kicked hit her husband's head. Soo Yin chuckled with amusement. She was very happy because her irritation was relieved.

"Where have you been? I've been looking for you since earlier. You just make me worry," Dae Hyun said. He was relieved to find his little wife. It's true that they were like brothers and sisters.