

"Okay." Soo Yin complied to her husband's words. She immediately got into the silver Maybach car which was parked right in front of the restaurant.

After sitting down, Soo Yin lifted her right foot on top of her left. Then massaged her feet which felt very sore. Walking to and fro almost all day made her leg muscles feel stiff.

It wasn't long before Dae Hyun came out. Shamelessly carried Soo Yin's bag which was now hanging from his shoulder. Some of the women who saw it giggled because they found it very funny.

Even when he was about to get into the car, Dae Hyun ran into two women. Both of them smiled at him.

"Look, which woman is so lucky to have a husband like him."

"I also want that if I get married, one day I want my husband to be like him."

"What a beautiful world this is."

The two young women kept whispering while smiling at Dae Hyun with admiring looks.

Soo Yin who was sitting in the car kept an eye on her husband. Can't bear it because people must've underestimated Dae Hyun. They must have thought that Dae Hyun was a husband who was afraid of his wife.

"Sorry, it took a while because I had some business with Chang Yuan," said Dae Hyun as he sat behind the wheel.

Soo Yin grabbed the bag that was still hanging from Dae Hyun's shoulder.

"You shouldn't have carried my bag earlier. You must be being looked down upon as a husband who is afraid of his wife by the visitors," said Soo Yin.

"Why do you even think like that?" Dae Hyun said with knitted brows.

"Because it's rare for a man to carry his wife's bag in front of a crowd," said Soo Yin.

"That means I'm one of the rare husbands in this world," said Dae Hyun with a chuckle.

"Hmmm, very rare in every way." Soo Yin rolled her eyes because whenever she talked seriously but Dae Hyun responded with a joke.

"Your thoughts about those who underestimate me are wrong," said Dae Hyun.

"Is that true?"

"They are actually very amazed because there are rarely men like me. It is certain that women will be crazy about me," said Dae Hyun confidently.

"Never mind, there's no need to brag because I've been very hungry since earlier," Soo Yin grumbled.

=====

Aeri hit the steering wheel repeatedly because of her anger that was already bubbling up.

"Aeri, why are you so stupid to believe what happened to them without investigating." Aeri grabbed her own hair.

She should have been suspicious because Dae Hyun rarely returned to the UN Village. She was relaxed instead, not looking for anything. Believingly thought that Dae Hyun would soon return to her arms.

"Look, I'll do it roughly to separate you two!" threatened Aeri with messy hair on her face.

Aeri was no longer focused on driving her car. Until suddenly someone was crossing the road.

"Watch out!" shouted Aeri. As much as possible she turned her car to the side of the road to avoid the man. She didn't want to go to jail now because Soo Yin would be very happy to see her condition.

With her pretty decent driving ability, Aeri managed to pull her car over even though she had to hit the road divider. Luckily the road she was passing was quiet so it didn't cause a crowd.

Aeri leaned her head on the steering wheel with her heart beating very fast. Her breath hitched because she feared that she had killed the man. What was even scarier was that he died.

"Why didn't he walk while looking around?" Aeri grumbled as she straightened her head which felt dizzy.

Aeri's body immediately shifted back when she saw a man standing right in front of her car. The man was wearing a black coat and hat while standing with his back to Aeri.

Aeri covered her mouth because she felt that she knew him even though she didn't see his face.

"Who are you?" shouted Aeri. Wanted to get out of the car but the road was too quiet. She didn't want to take the risk because the man in front of her might not be the person she had in mind.

The man remained silent in his position. Instead, he was leaning on the front of the Aeri car.

Aeri immediately honked the horn so that the man immediately got out of the front of her car.

"Go away if you don't want to get hit!" shouted Aeri without stopping the horn. She poked her head out of the open glass.

"Who he really is?" Aeri cursed in annoyance because the man didn't seem to intend to get out of the way.

With a slow movement the man finally turned to look at Aeri.

Aeri's eyes immediately widened completely with her mouth agape. Her body trembled and she broke out in cold sweat.

"Impossible," she muttered under her breath, her heart was racing, sweat was dripping from her palms.

The man was still wearing a hat so his face was not very clear because of the dim lighting of the street lamp. Even so Aeri was very sure of what she saw.

"Han," Aeri said with trembling lips. Unknowingly there was water condensing in the corner of her eye. Without Han by her side she seemed to have lost her strength because Aeri only believed in Han.

Aeri could no longer hold back her longing for Han. She immediately came out and approached the man. Aeri hugged him tightly from behind.

"Han, where have you been all this time? Why did you disappear and not send me any news?" said Aeri in a sad tone.

The man was silent for a long time without responding.

"I thought you didn't recognize me anymore," Han said hoarsely without turning his body.

"How can you think like that? I've been looking for you but it seems that you who have no intention of seeing me after the night where you said you would kill that bitch," said Aeri while pressing her cheek against Han's back.