

The Hidden Billionaire Heiress (Lyra Melvin) Chapter 75

"What's happened to Abigail?"

Jamie turned off the TV and asked.

"Abigail was taken away by Keith. He said he got a doctor to operate on her. But the surgery went wrong and Abigail ..."

Katelyn cried her eyes out with grief, and continued, "I went to Keith's villa to ask him, but he just wouldn't give me back our daughter. She was already gone, and he kicked me out!"

She covered her chest and sobbed.

Jamie hurriedly poured her a glass of water, helped her sit down, and gently patted her back.

"Keith is not someone we can afford to mess with."

After hearing the sad news about their daughter, Jamie's eyes also turned red, but it was Keith who ...

One was the corpse of their daughter, and the other side was Keith who was an influential man in entertainment industry, not to mention he had the support of the Lloyd family, the richest family in Suham. Even if he was pained by the death of their daughter, and wanted Keith to pay the price, he dared not easily provoke him.

He was caught in the middle.

Charlotte sat on the side with an unconcealed and gloating look.

Katelyn eased over from the grief, saw her smile and became more angry, pointing at her and cursing.

"You bitch, you're the one who screwed my daughter! If it wasn't for you, Abigail would not have been in a car accident! I lose my beloved daughter because of you!"

Charlotte snorted and laughed, "I didn't let her get drunk and crash her car, nor did I send her to Keith to force her to have an operation. What does her death have to do with me? Don't frame me up and throw mud at me."

She rolled her eyes in disgust and placed a crystal cup in her hand heavily on the coffee table.

"You bitch. Why have you known in advance last night that Abigail was dead!? You still dare to quibble. I will beat you to death today!"

Katelyn, who was furious, grabbed the TV remote from the coffee table and threw it at her.

"Stop it all!"

Jamie yelled and the two had to stop their fight.
