

The Hidden Billionaire Heiress (Lyra Melvin) Chapter 91

Had she ... known her identity?!

They looked at each other.

Lyra smiled delicately, "Have a guess?"

Abigail's expression was serious, "If I could have guessed that, I wouldn't have come all the way over here to find you."

Originally she suspected Lyra could be from the Lloyd family, but she checked the Lloyd family, except the patriarch of Lloyd family, Reginald Lloyd had a young daughter, the rest was almost all boys.

But Reginald's youngest daughter was announced dead six years ago.

So this conjecture was almost impossible.

And the Hughes family just announced the news about the illegitimate daughter in Suham some years ago, but did not reveal the appearance of that illegitimate daughter, would it be ...

"Are you the illegitimate daughter of the Hughes family?"

Relieved to hear Abigail ask, Lyra didn't answer, but asked instead, "We haven't known each other for very long, so why do you want to help me this time?"

Abigail said squarely: "I said, I did not exactly help you. The Matthews family should take responsible for your accident. I just want to protect you and the Matthews family."

This answer made Lyra feel much lighter, at least she didn't have to feel guilty about hiding her friend who was genuinely helping her.

"Miss Matthews is the successor of Mr. Matthews. You can calculate the profit and loss at the first time.

Lyra finished speaking and turned her head to leave.

Charlotte called out to her, "What about you? You didn't answer the question I just asked."

Lyra paused slightly in her steps, but did not turn around.
