

BLACK PLAIN 419

Chapter 419: You're Still As Beautiful As Ever (*)

Minos had traveled hundreds of kilometers through that forested region in the past two days until he finally made it to a small town in the mountainous part of the center of the Kingdom of the Waves.

This place was only a week away from the city of Dahlia, considering the speed of Abby's spiritual beast, Ebba.

As for this town in question, this was where the largest alchemy guild of the Kingdom of the Waves was located, the place Minos was heading to as he returned to the Black Plain.

In Dahlia, he intended to do his last business on this trip, finalizing the acquisition of spiritual techniques from the most critical specializations in the Spiritual World. With that, the Black Plain could finally develop a little more without depending so much on external professionals.

At least that would be the reality for now, while many problems had to be resolved internally before any more significant evolution.

And because of all that, by finishing this trip, Minos would finally be able to spend some time in his territory without worrying about making new trips. With the techniques he had purchased, it was only a matter of time before many grade-2 specialists emerged in the Dry City!

And all he needed to do was keep importing some items, through the Nash and Cohen families, without the need to expose himself.

Anyway, upon arriving in this small town in the mountains, Minos immediately found a place to spend the night, where he could get to and from the Spatial Kingdom without problems.

As for Ebba, she could not enter the place where Minos had stayed, so she would have to wait a little longer to see her master again.

Zum!

The space around Minos vibrated, and suddenly he was teleported from where he had stayed to the Spatial Kingdom.

As he felt the scene in front of him change and saw the vibrant forest landscape of the Spatial Kingdom, Minos sighed for a moment as he finally headed for the lake house.

And when he did, it didn't take long, and soon he could see Emlyn taking a nap in the grassy part of that place while Kyla was drinking the water from that lake, calmly.

Her little eyes were closed, and her tails were slowly? moving as she brought the water to her mouth with her pink tongue.

Glub!

Glug!

But soon, she felt Minos' presence as she turned her neck to the side and stared at him for a moment.

"Au! Au!"

After that, she barked a few times as she ran towards him.

"Au! Au!"

"Don't make too much noise, Kyla. Your mother seems to be sleeping..." Minos commented to her as he rubbed the fox's head, which was already almost as tall as he was.

Kyla was considered small as she was always beside her mother, a giant fox almost three times her size... But this 'little fox' already had a tall and robust body, worthy of her level 32, being just a few centimeters shorter than Minos.

Anyway, Kyla couldn't understand Minos' speech, but she soon calmed down after this young man started rubbing her belly as she rolled on the floor, with paws raised to the sky.

And after doing this for some time, Minos walked towards the interior of that house, leaving to talk to Emlyn later when she finished her nap.

'Looks like Abby is lying in one of the rooms...' So, he thought to himself as he probed that house.

...

Upon entering the main room of that place, Minos soon could see his young partner lying on a large bed, hugging some pillows.

She was dressed casually, with fine clothes, typically worn in hot places, which covered without leaving any gaps the most attractive parts of her body...

But even if she dressed discreetly, Minos could still admire his girlfriend's beauty, from the full breasts she possessed to her perfect thighs, which made this young man feel warmer just by seeing it.

And watching Abby sleeping in that spot with a worried expression on her face, Minos quickly began taking off his clothes.

After that, he slowly lay down behind Abby and slowly brought her body into his embrace.

He brought his mouth close to her ear and sucked on it until he continued to kiss her seductive neck.

At the same time as he was doing this, Abby's body was slowly 'fitting' with his as she unconsciously accepted Minos' movements.

Her worried appearance was slowly going away as this young woman was beginning to wake up from her sleep.

Minos then whispered to Abby, shortly after noticing her body's reactions. "I'm sorry about what happened before, Abby."

Hearing this, she suddenly opened her eyes and turned to him. "Minos?" And when she said that, Abby immediately hugged him with all the strength she had while tears started to flow from her eyes.

She hid her face in Minos' bare chest as she began to release her emotions that had been repressed for the past two days.

Now that he was here, she finally felt able to do this, to expose her feelings to one of the people who mattered the most to her.

"I... Ungh... I was so scared... Ungh..." She muttered as her breath began to rise.

"What happened was my fault. I shouldn't have been so far away. I promise that something like this will never happen again, Abby. I won't let anyone hurt you!" He said calmly simultaneously as he ran his hands through her hair and hugged her tightly.

Minos had also felt truly bad at that moment, almost as if someone was pressing his heart. But at that time, he couldn't hesitate because of his emotions. He had to save Abby's life and deal with that situation.

And such a thing was not easy to do!

But with so many experiences that Henricus Longus had transmitted to Minos, moments like this were easier to overcome than they would have been if he hadn't received such an inheritance.

Finally, after some time talking to each other, Abby was crying with her face still hidden in Minos' chest. Then, this young man tried to pull her to look into her eyes and said. "Abby, look at me."

"No... Ungh... I don't want you to see me like this." She commented to him.

"Abby, you shouldn't be ashamed of crying. I was also terrified of the possibility of losing you..." He gradually began to soothe his girlfriend until she was on top of him.

Minos then wiped her tears and said. "You're still as beautiful as ever." And then he pulled her up and started kissing Abby's lips as their temperature started to rise.

"Mmmm~"

Little by little, Minos was taking off Abby's clothes, piece by piece, until finally, the two were naked, hugging each other.

"Mmmm~"

After a while kissing, the two parted their lips when Minos took one of her nipples to his mouth, sucking it gently while using one of his hands to play with Abby's little sister.

"Ahhh~" The young woman moaned at the same time as she took one of her hands to the young Stuart's rod and began to press it.

"Ahhh~ Ahhh~"

"Ohh~"

And it wasn't long before the two of them began to have sex passionately, with the two of them looking at each other as they moved their bodies in sync.

As they did this for a while, Abby's little sister's inner walls were contracting like never before, giving a heavenly pleasure to both her and her lover.

Their bodies were on fire due to the burning desire they had for each other, and because of that, it didn't take long, and soon, the couple had had a series of orgasms.

But they didn't slow down with the development of the thing. On the contrary, the sex had gotten more intense over time, almost as if they were trying to merge with each other.

"Ahhh~ I love you, Minos! I will always be yours, no matter what!" Abby commented in a low voice as she felt another load filling her...
