

BLACK PLAIN 443

Chapter 443: That Was Amazing! (*)

Meanwhile, on the Black Plain...

Minos and Elena were currently in one of the rooms of the local government mansion, in one of the empty residences.

These two continued to have intercourse occasionally, and as Abby did not like Minos to take other women to her bed, this young man spent his time with Elena in one of those empty residences in his mansion.

This was convenient for them, who didn't have to go out and go to Elena's apartment in the middle of the afternoon when they occasionally had fun.

But every once in a while, they did this in different locations, as in the examples of this young woman's apartment in the Dry City and the house in the Spatial Kingdom, a place with lots of rooms available.

Anyway, Minos and Elena continued their relationship without commitment to each other. They both enjoyed having fun together, but there wasn't any more profound feeling between them.

Even after more than a year of doing this, the most there was between the two was a particular friendship, which made the two talk a little more than usual. However, such a thing was not so significant, and when these two were alone in some private place, they almost always spent most of their time doing just one thing...

And that is what they were doing right now!

Pah!

"Ahhhh~"

Elena let out a heavenly moan right after feeling Minos' smack on her left buttock. At the same time, he rubbed his groin against hers and made this woman's little sister feel stimulated internally and externally.

Minos had become much more experienced in this activity, and over time, he had learned new techniques, which made his partners roll their eyes while in pleasure, as he enjoyed every part of their bodies.

And with the increase in this young man's level, he could use his senses more efficiently so that he could sense precisely the natural reactions of his partners during sex!

He looked from the most significant details to the smallest. For example, every time he had fun with Elena or his girlfriend, Minos would observe reactions from their bodies. Such as goosebumps, pupil diameter, respiratory rate, involuntary gestures of hands and legs, etc.

Many points could tell how good a woman would be feeling during sex. And the young sovereign of the Black Plain did not underestimate these tips!

But not only did he use these reactions to hone his skills in bed, no, Minos also felt great every time he saw those reactions.

It was a gratifying feeling!

Every time he saw Elena or Abby biting their lips, 'scratching' the sheets on the bed, while this young man felt his rod being 'squeezed,' he felt terrific, more disposed to these occasions...

Hearing her partner's moans was marvelous, but these more subtle reactions were something that made a big difference.

In any case, Elena's legs tightened, and her body trembled atop young Stuart's rod. This young woman reached her climax almost simultaneously with Minos, who filled her cave with his seeds.

"Ahhh~ That was amazing!" She commented, still feeling the sensations of pleasure travel through her body.

Right now, Elena was sitting on top of Minos, still connected to him, breathing hurriedly. Her beautiful, good-sized breasts were bouncing up and down while beads of sweat trickled down the middle of her chest, running down to her little sister.

And meanwhile, the brown-haired young man was lying comfortably below her, his hands gripping Elena's waist and breathing as fast as his partner.

Finally, after hearing her comment, young Stuart used one of his hands to gently squeeze Elena's left breast until he brought it to his mouth.

"Mmmm~" Minos then sucked it in the way Elena liked the most, making this woman feel on cloud nine once again.

"Ahhh~"

After that, the two kissed for a few moments until they had completely satisfied themselves with this sex session.

The two then disconnected from each other and lay there on that bed, resting from their action, lying side by side, completely sweaty and 'contaminated' with each other's fluids.

While they stood there like that, they finally started talking about some things. Some things were casual, commonalities that would be discussed between people who sleep with each other, even without a commitment.

But when they did, because of the relationship the two had in the army, it wasn't long before they started talking about official matters relating to the affairs of this organization and Stone Island.

"How are the problems on Stone Island? Did Elen send a message?" Elena asked as she stared into the left side of Minos' face.

"Hmm, but nothing too different from last time. It's just that your family has already started to receive the resources I promised you, and they seem to be very pleased with your efforts."

"They also expect you to come back to visit them in the next few months, uh, it seems like during one elder's birthday..." Minos communicated to Elena what he had received from Elen.

These two young women could not risk communicating with each other through letters. Because of this, any message that Elen addressed to Elena was delivered through Minos, along with the information that should come to this young man's knowledge.

So, usually, Minos was the one who got these messages first, and only then did he tell Elena about them.

And hearing that, Elena understood everything her friend had informed her, without being surprised by her family's request.

They didn't know this young woman was on the Black Plain with Minos. On the contrary, they thought she was traveling north of the Central Continent while experiencing life.

The same was true for her bodyguard, who was traveling alongside her in this region...

She then said. "Well, then I guess I'll make this trip after I advanced to level 50. That's the criteria you put in, right?" She asked with a smile on her face.

Minos looked at her and then said. "Hmm, but you can't stay more than six months out of here, do you understand?"

"Don't worry, I won't expose this place, and anyone who gets in my way will be exterminated for the sake of the Black Plain." She said in conviction.

This young woman genuinely enjoyed this place. After all, because of Minos, she had had a chance to learn Silver-grade techniques and was cultivating faster than ever.

But not only that, with the knowledge of the Spatial Kingdom, this woman knew that the potential of Minos, and consequently of the Black Plain, was far above the states of the northern region of the Central Continent.

With that, an intelligent woman like her would never risk missing this chance, especially because she knew that if Minos wanted to leave this place, no one could stop him!

And, aside from knowing that the best decision of all was not to risk this place, she also didn't want to be away from here for an extended period of time, as that would mean a slower cultivation speed!

Minos then smiled and said. "Well, since you understand that, I'm more relaxed..."

"But about your trip to Stone Island, you need to understand a little better how the situation is there right now." He said this with a resolute expression as he began to remember everything that had happened in the past months...