

BLACK PLAIN 550

Chapter 550: Before Departure 1 (*)

While Minos and Abby were in their room talking about their business, Regina and Angela were currently in a restaurant in the Dry City, eating and talking.

It was evening, and at this moment, it was cold in this city, something that went very well with the fondue that these two women were sharing in this restaurant.

On the other hand, after a stressful day due to the intensive treatment she had to apply on Mirya, Regina wanted to relax a bit in this place before her cultivation session.

As for Angela, this woman didn't have to worry too much about Regina's safety in this place and recently spent most of her time training. Therefore, for her, this was a good time to rest her mind and talk to her boss.

These two had a long-standing relationship. But even though Regina was already an expert by the time she had brought Angela to her side, both had a very close connection. In fact, it would not be wrong to say that they were friends.

As such, they both loved talking to each other about almost any topic. Although some subjects were usually not discussed, as humans prefer to talk about what they know and not about other things...

And as they both had some different experiences, not everything would be interesting to talk about.

Anyway, while they were enjoying the evening and talking about some past experiences, Regina finally brought up a subject that was more relevant to the lives of the two. "Speaking of wars, do you understand what happened in this town two days ago?"

Hearing this, Angela couldn't help but stop eating for a moment to remember what she had seen. "I've heard some rumors, but I can't be sure they're actually true. After all, the army solved most of this in secret."

That day both of these women had seen the group of Minos' soldiers depart from the center of the Dry City towards one of the city's exits as if there was a significant emergency.

And with the curiosity they both had about this place, they had promptly followed those soldiers to the edge of the wall, where they had been stopped from continuing such chase.

After that, Regina had returned to the local hospital, where she had her appointments. In contrast, Angela had stayed at that post on the wall, waiting for the local soldiers to return.

And in doing so, in the first 3 hours since the incident began, she had seen dozens of soldiers return, many of whom had injuries of varying degrees.

But unfortunately for her, this woman had not seen any enemies being brought into Dry City, much less had the soldiers given her any answers...

Angela then continued. "But from the wounds of those soldiers, I think they either faced a huge group, or they faced Spiritual Kings!"

"Who do you think is responsible for this? Is it some enemy of that boy?"

Angela then shook her head in denial. "I do not know. It's complicated to think of a potential enemy of this place. But given the wealth that exists here, I believe there are many potential enemies..."

She then looked thoughtfully at her boss and said. "However, I think this city will soon face many battles. Maybe even against those organizations with level 59 monsters!"

"Oh? So you think it's too dangerous for us to stay here for too long?" Regina asked in an interested tone.

"I'm not saying we should try to leave. But I suggest you rush your plans, or even if you succeed, it might be too late for us to try to get out of here..."

"Or you can agree to submit. That's not a bad option either..." Angela tried to convince her boss once more, saying it in a teasing tone.

"Tsk!" Regina made a disgusted sound as she looked meaningfully at her bodyguard. 'If I gave up so easily, I would never have reached my level! Hell, maybe I had become another one of those losers!'

"Since you suggest I hurry, I'll try plan B..."

...

One day later.

At this time, the sun was almost at the top of the Dry City, while the streets of the city were quite busy, something typical for the current reality of this place.

While the Dry City continued to grow, a couple was having a hot moment now in one of the young Stuart's rooms, as they were actively exchanging fluids.

In that place, a young woman with black hair was turned on her side on a bed, feeling her companion moving vigorously behind her.

She was completely naked, with her perfect breasts constantly vibrating, her nipples fully erect. At the same time, a male hand massaged one of them.

On the other hand, her little sister was being pierced at this moment by the rod of a brown-haired young man, while his other hand was rubbing the top of this young woman's flower.

While they were enjoying themselves in this position, Ruth was with her face slightly turned back, trying to look into Minos' eyes as she gave all her to him.

"Ahhhh~"

"Ahhhhh~"

She had a passionate look on her face as her heavenly moans reverberated amid the two young men's hurried breaths, something that was creating a divine symphony.

And while the two felt the sublime pleasure of this session, feeling each other's heat, both were little by little reaching their climaxes once more.

Ruth felt a slight trembling in her body as if her muscles were exhausted from the repetitive activity they were doing. But at the same time, her little sister released more and more fluids as it squeezed young Stuart's firm rod.

That was giving even more pleasure to this young man, who hadn't slowed his pace one bit as he penetrated his mate and used his hands to stimulate the other sensitive parts of her.

"Ahhhh~ I'm coming~" Ruth said aloud as she smiled happily, with her face completely red.

At the same time, Minos also came there, shortly after his companion's little sister squeezed his rod even harder than before. In this instant, he had filled her womb once more, to the point that slowly, his seeds began to leak down the sides of Ruth's flower.

"Ohh~ I never get bored of doing this..." He said this as he breathed in hurriedly and hugged Ruth's sensual body.

"Mmmmm~"

Pa!

He then gently bit the tip of one of Ruth's ears just as he slapped one of her lower cheeks.

"Ahhh~"

She moaned once more, making young Stuart smirk as he looked at her from behind.

After that, he continued to hug while he still had his rod inside that young woman. He then saw her turn her neck and look at him. The two stayed in this position for a while until finally, he said. "Ruth, I want you to be my girlfriend."

Upon hearing this, this young woman opened her mouth in surprise, while a smile was forming little by little. She then got out of that position and faced him head-on, still lying on that bed.

"Do you accept?"

She then stared at him closely for a moment as she felt his breath on her face and thought of what to say. Of course, she wanted to accept, but she wanted to get some questions answered first... "If I'm your girlfriend, will you sleep with me?"

"That..."

That was a big problem for her. After all, Minos slept with Abby every night, and she didn't like that at all. For that very reason, Ruth wanted to ensure that she would not be wronged by becoming this young man's second girlfriend.

"Yeah, we'd have to talk to Abby first... But, you know, I would love to sleep with you two, but if you don't want to, what can I do?" He responded with a nervous smile as he looked at Ruth's beautiful face.

He then continued. "Why don't we three talk about it? Then maybe we'll come to an agreement where we can all be happy!"

"Oh? And you can't make up your own mind?" She teased him while trying to keep a serious expression on her face.

"No, but this is for the best... Imagine if you were in Abby's place? Would you not support me in thinking that way?"

After hearing this, Ruth's eyes lightened as she suddenly understood something. But for now, she just kept it to herself.

"Alright, I will accept being your girlfriend, despite such injustice..." She said as she tried not to smile at him.

She was pleased about it, but she had tried her best to put it aside for a moment while the two of them talked about this 'most important' subject.

After that, she climbed into young Stuart's lap, feeling excited about another round. She then whispered in his ear as one of her hands placed little Minos on her flower. "I hope you can love me the way I love you, Minos Stuart..."