

BLACK PLAIN 572

Chapter 572: Bringing News

As she felt the skin of one of Minos' cheeks, Regina once again had an expression of disappointment on her face, as she turned slightly red with anger.

'This boy is trying to play with me!' She thought about it, still hugging Minos' waist, feeling his arms around her. "What are you doing? Why have you turned your face away once again? Didn't you want that before while you were running your young hands all over my body?" Regina asked in a slightly agitated tone as if she had just suffered a great injustice.

"Hehe, you will have to ask me for it, Regina."

"You must join my army. Then, I will take the pressure off your shoulders and free you from this life of scheming that you have lived for so long." He commented in a low voice as one of his hands groped her ass. "You will realize how much better sex is when you do it just for the pleasure..."

Hearing this, Regina couldn't help but laugh and look at him provocatively. "Hahaha, you talk about it like you are some great expert... But you are just a child who has just discovered a new toy."

"Yet, I have more experiences in this subject in just one month of my life than you have had in your entire existence!"

"I believe that..." He said, as he had a smile on his face and thought to himself on the matter. 'Although you probably wasted all that experience plotting against your partners...'

Regina then used one of her hands to press against Minos' groin while her wet lips moved closer to this young man's left ear. "Then stop this irritating behavior. Let me teach you how to sleep with a woman."

"Mmmm~" She then bit the earlobe of one of that young man's ears as she stood on her tiptoes and felt Minos' hand come close to her crotch.

As it passed through Regina's panties, Minos immediately felt certain wetness in that region while his fingers had passed through some tiny hairs...

'Oh? This woman is fascinating!' He thought about it with a smile on his face as he realized that besides having personality, the excitement of Regina's body was, in fact, real, although she was probably plotting against him...

"You seem to desire this almost as much as my techniques, huh?" Minos whispered in her ear, finally making her stop sucking on his ear.

"Uh?"

And when they finally let go of each other, Minos looked for a moment at his hand, which was a little wet. At the same time as that, Regina was watching him seriously, not caring that part of her dress was messy.

'Are you telling me that I desire you?' She thought almost instantly upon hearing Minos' previous sentence and then bit her lips. 'This boy thinks too much of himself!'

'I'm only doing this to accomplish my goals. I don't care if it's with a handsome, strong young man like him or with a disgusting, ugly person.'

She then began to unbutton the top part of her clothing as she moved back closer to Minos.

Minos then laughed for a moment and said to her. "Let's continue this another time, haha..."

"By the way, I brought with me on that trip I took recently, some interesting people. So why don't you come to my place for dinner with us another time? Take advantage and bring Angela. That will be very positive for us..."

"But don't say where you're from, or it will be bad for both of us..." He said vaguely.

"Interesting people?" She asked, already frowning her eyebrows. 'Did he bring some acquaintance of mine? Is he by any chance threatening me?'

However, just then, she heard something that made her stop with such thoughts. "After that, I can accept that dinner you offered me earlier..."

"Oh? That's good, hehe. But be prepared to 'eat' a lot because I don't like it when my guest stops before he is completely satisfied."

"I don't doubt it..."

After this unusual conversation, Minos left that place with a satisfied smile on his face.

Regina was indeed attractive to him to the point that he had tried very hard not to have done anything with her. But still, he had had a small victory here.

Not only had he once again messed with that woman's mindset, but he had set up his plan to get her to submit. That was because he intended to introduce the 5 Spiritual Kings of the Miller family who had come to this city with him.

In particular, he was going to introduce to Regina Abby's parents, his in-laws...

They might not be from the Black Plain Army, but they were already allies of this organization. On the other hand, Eliot and Nicole naturally had the best intentions for Minos, their daughter's current boyfriend, and potential husband.

So, even if there were no agreement between House Miller and this young man's army, they would still act against threats to the life of the young local sovereign!

As such, all those people, existences that could threaten that woman's life, were going to be used by Minos to destroy any hope Regina had. That is, even if she thought she could somehow obtain those techniques, she would still depend heavily on an escape from this place to succeed.

And even if previously her chances were nil, Regina didn't know that. After all, apart from Minos and Ruth, Angela didn't know precisely the extent of the local forces. Consequently, this poison master was also ignorant of reality and thought that she could escape from this city...

But by meeting so many Spiritual Kings, who had allied status with this place, Regina would finally realize that any plan she had would only result in her own death!

That way, Minos could welcome her into his forces, as well as have the peace of mind that she would not try dangerous things!

On the other hand, he felt that even if Regina wanted to sleep with him for dubious reasons, that would not change after she knew the reality. After all, the reaction of that woman's body had been quite genuine, besides the fact that there was nothing to stop them from continuing such a game.

Minos was a promising young man, with an individual and collective power to envy, as well as being quite attractive. As for Regina, a woman who hadn't had any action in years, she couldn't help but be attracted to him, even though her main goals were the Silver-grade techniques.

She had learned to unite the useful and the pleasant long ago. That is, she was a woman who had her physical desires in addition to her ambitions, so she would not miss the opportunity to have fun with this young man. That was why she had been so excited earlier.

But of course, she would not admit this to Minos, or other people, or herself. That was because she would not allow herself to be controlled by her desires.

'Haha, I wonder what expression she will make?'

...

Quickly, a week had passed in Dry City since Minos' return from Odella.

And while that city was still living peacefully, a carriage with three people in it had been approaching from the north side of the wall, leaving a great deal of dust behind.

In this carriage, besides the coachman, an ordinary person, a level 50 Spiritual King was wearing red armor and sitting next to a young man with blond hair.

This young man had a small goatee on his face while he was wearing a noble costume from one of the noble houses of the Kingdom of the Waves. But despite being accompanied by a Spiritual King, this young man did not have impressive cultivation for this region of the northern Central Continent.

He was only at level 44.

'It's been over three years since I last passed through Dry City... With all those purchases Minos made, this place must be very different now.' So the young man thought while holding a newspaper in one of his hands.

'I wonder if Minos has found out about this news...' He wondered as he looked into the glass of his carriage door and slowly saw the local dome.