

BLACK PLAIN 936

Chapter 936 Withdrawal

Two weeks later...

By now, Minos had left the capital of the Kingdom of the End and was making his way alongside Maida towards the Snow Kingdom, his last destination on this trip.

After his warm reunion with Kara, Minos had a fantastic night with that woman, having fun with her for an additional five hours before she finally fell asleep from exhaustion.

That day in question, after finishing his business with Kara, Minos had secretly gone to his scheduled meeting with Jade, where to the young man's surprise, he had found that queen waiting for him.

Surprise because he had thought that after relieving the previous heat, Jade would think better of what she had said to him and try to avoid him until he left that city.

However, that had not happened!

No, not only had she done just what she had promised him, but she had also prepared herself, especially for that occasion!

On that day in question, just before daybreak in Mirabella, Minos had met that woman in a secret training room of the royal palace, where she was waiting for him.

In that place, he had found a large bed in the middle of the training area, something that Minos knew was not part of that environment since it did not match the decoration of such a place. PANDA-NOVEL.COM

No, he had readily realized that it had been brought there by Jade herself!

Even if he were a fool unable to perceive the visual differences in the type of items there and the bed in question, he would still have understood such a thing. Upon arriving at that place and seeing that bed, Minos had found Jade waiting for him lying there, wearing nothing but erotic lingerie.

And with that, he had enjoyed himself with Kara's mother for several hours straight, having satisfied every repressed desire that woman had!

After all this, Minos stayed two more days in Mirabella, having alternated his evenings and early days between having fun with Kara or her mother.

But unfortunately for him, Jade had at no point agreed to do those things with Minos at the same time as her daughter.

According to her, it felt good to see other people having sex. Still, she did not want to cross the line and have sex with the same man as her daughter simultaneously, or worse, start a forbidden relationship with Kara.

Jade knew that two women could not serve the same man simultaneously without anything happening between them.

Things might work out at first, but with time, such a thing would undoubtedly evolve! PANDA NOVEL

Jade knew this well as she had experienced this with King Carline's other women, with whom, sooner or later, she had always ended up having intimate relations as well.

Not only that, sometimes she and the other women of King Carline, including Ford's mother, Linette, would even do their things in her husband's absence!

But since Jade did not want to do such a thing to her daughter, she had refused to comply with Minos' wishes...

Too bad they were not like Viola and Mirya.

Anyway, besides enjoying himself day and night with mother and daughter, Minos had only cultivated and trained, having done nothing else in this short time of his in Mirabella.

After this, he said goodbye to those two, wishing to see them again in the future.

Kara had already told him that she would do so once she returned to the empire, while Jade had secretly told him that she would like to see him again but did not know when or where.

With that, Minos had left that city and traveled southeast, something that had happened over the past 12 days. XXXXXXXXXX

And as expected, nothing problematic had happened during this period, with this young man just taking advantage of the time he had to train and get to know this region a little more.

The northern part of the Central Continent was huge and had all kinds of different cultures, which Minos did not ignore. After all, he would welcome people into his territory from all parts of this region in the future.

So, it was his duty as a leader to learn more about the lifestyle of the different communities around this part of the continent.

Consequently, he had been getting to know the cities of the Kingdom of the End that were on his way to the Snow Kingdom, which also served him to get recent news and also to rest.

For example, Minos discovered that while small powers were trying to erode the influence of the great organizations fighting on the Black Plain, it impacted the Kingdom of the End slightly.

But such a thing had not been difficult for him to understand the reason. After all, this state was one of the richest but with one of the small areas and populations in the region. So, the average strength was higher than in other kingdoms, and the institutions were stronger.

Thus, it was not strange that the regional chaos had not significantly affected Kara's state!

Nothing else caught his attention other than seeing a few elves in the kingdom, for although the Kingdom of the End had many peculiarities, these were more basic, everyday things.

It was crucial information, but it was something he did not have to worry about. He would merely give this information to his organization and let his subordinates use such things to benefit the Black Plain in the future!

And with that, he was peacefully continuing his journey to the Snow Kingdom, where he hoped to get some information!

While Minos was traveling, the Hayes and Stokes families of the Cromwell Kingdom and House Cohen of the Kingdom of the Waves had finally rebelled against their states!

When this became public, the entire region was shocked by the changing attitudes of these organizations that, until then, had not been participating significantly in the war.

In any case, with the settlement of tens of thousands of people both north and south of the Black Plain border, the battlefield had become even more chaotic.

That, of course, was related to these three powers, which declared their intention to join the Black Plain in forming a new state and began actively fighting on the main battlefields.

At the same time, with the arrival of the fleet commanded by the Nash family, dozens of enemy ships around the Black Plain had been sunk. In contrast, thousands more warriors had landed in that warring territory.

Because of these recent changes, all of Minos' enemies were on high alert right now, sensing that things were getting worse, even in the absence of that young man.

Not only that, the news that Minos had raided the headquarters of House Carline had also already shocked the entire region, and now even the counter-revolutionary allies felt terrible about it.

After all, unlike what had happened to the Walker and Hargraves families, nothing terrible had happened to House Carline...

And with this information in hand, many powers were already wondering what was happening between House Carline and the Black Plain!

Why had Minos not killed Jade and the other high-level cultivators from that family?

That was the question that kept popping up in the minds of those people in the Counter-Revolutionary Army.

Not only them, but even Linette was also extremely curious to understand what had happened in Mirabella.

Unfortunately, she had not received the order to return home and was still on the battlefield waiting for news from her family.

As for King Carline, after hearing the recent news, he had rushed back to his state, feeling extremely nervous that Minos had invaded his home.

Not only that, he felt a terrible feeling in his being, as if he had lost something important or something. Hence, he could not help but run to his capital for his wives and the rest of his family.

He had already read that no one had died. Still, the bad feeling in his being had not allowed him to trust the regional periodicals blindly.

With that, he was already halfway to his headquarters!
