

BLACK PLAIN 97

Chapter 97: Red Triangular Symbol (*)

"Ahh ~ I'm coming ~"

"Ha... Me too, ha..." Minos said when he finally released his load for the 9th time in Ruth's hole.

"Mmmm ~"

At the same time, the girl shivered softly, letting out an extremely erotic moan, when she managed to release her juices once again!

Right now, the two were lying on the bed, with Ruth on top of Minos, while their bodies were still connected by each other. Both were utterly sweaty and tired from the last 8 hours of sex in a row when they both reached their last orgasm.

"Ha... Haa..."

Ruth fell on Minos's chest as she breathed quickly and tried to catch a breath after such prolonged amusement. Both were at their limit, with red hickey marks on various parts of their bodies and hair completely wet with sweat.

There was a thick smell in the room and several sweat stains everywhere. They really couldn't help themselves when they could have fun together!

"Ha... I think... I won't be able to walk... for the next half hour..." Ruth whispered in Minos's right ear as she breathed quickly.

After so much 'fun,' Ruth's little sister was so sensitive, to the point that if she moved, her whole body would tremble with excitement! So, she had to lie in bed for a few minutes until her body returned to normal.

Minos then smiled and kissed her on the cheek and then said. "Well, then get some rest. I'm going to take my shower first."

After that, their bodies were disconnected when Minos finally went to the bathroom of the room they had rented. At the same time, Ruth lay with her legs spread on the bed while white liquid dripped between her beautiful legs.

When she felt Minos' seeds coming out of her slit, Ruth used one of her fingers and slid into the white liquid. She then took it to her mouth, licking it seductively.

If Minos saw this, he might not be able to bear the temptation and go back to his previous amusement with Ruth...

'Ahh, I feel so good...' The young woman thought, just before she closed her eyes and started sleeping peacefully. There was nothing better than sleeping after satisfying her most ardent desires!

Time passed, and soon Minos and Ruth were clean and dressed, ready to go out to dinner. The two had been doing this whenever they could during this trip. After all, neither of them knew how to cook, so when they were in the middle of a forest, they basically ate only fruits, cereals, and spiritual leaves.

But that was not enough to satisfy their 'hunger.' No, although these items can nourish their bodies, it couldn't compare to the feeling of eating delicacies in a good restaurant!

And even if Ruth knew more upscale places, it was still better to eat at these restaurants in the Cromwell Kingdom, than to eat those foods all the time!

For this reason, the two always took the opportunity to sample the best restaurants in the cities that they visited.

And it didn't take long, and Minos and Ruth were already walking through the streets of Picus City.

This was one of the great cities in the Cromwell Kingdom, which had thousands of hectares of crops planted.

Because of this, this city was huge, with more than 3 million inhabitants and with many services at its disposal.

The city was magnificent, with many buildings with classical style architecture, restaurants, shops, and even a large church in the city's central region!

In the Spiritual World, people naturally did not believe in the existence of an all-powerful creator, but there were still some faiths.

For example, on the Central Continent, the Spiritual Church was the most remarkable religious power on this continent, and it defended the idea that Natural Law had created the world as it was, governing the rules of cultivation and life in the universe.

And as to why people believed that, well, there certainly was an order for how this world worked. Nature protected the world from the imbalance of power, preventing many powerful people from ascending simultaneously.

And that could be seen in the Divine Tribulation, which Spiritual Demigods had to go through to reach level 100!

There were also other faiths in this world, as well as different churches on other continents. One of them even believed that talent was nothing more than a mooring placed by the creators of this world so that the natives of this place could not achieve the greatness of theirs!

They also had very interesting characteristics, but that is not appropriate for the case at this time...

Anyway, after passing through the beautiful building of the Spiritual Church, Minos and Ruth finally arrived at the restaurant where they were going.

Upon entering the place, Minos and Ruth were soon taken care of, being taken to a table by a young attendant at this establishment. After that, they soon placed their orders and waited for their plates while drinking a glass of a good spiritual wine.

And while they talked about their lives, suddenly two men passed by Minos's table, wearing a similar outfit that had a red triangular symbol!

Seeing this, Minos quickly paid attention to both of them and asked to his companion. "Ruth, do you know that symbol on the clothes of the two men who just passed us?"

She then looked back in disguise and then looked back at Minos. "Hmm, I'm not sure of the details, but this is the symbol of identification of a pirate group from the Evergreen Empire, but I don't know who is behind them, in that place."

'Evergreen Empire, huh...' Minos sighed.

"Why did you ask about that?" Ruth asked curiously.

Minos then said without changing her face. "I met someone who had told me about this symbol, but I didn't know anything about it..."

After that, Minos soon buried the subject of those two in his mind. His current strength was not sufficient for him to act against subordinate powers of empires. As for the two men from before, Minos couldn't worry about that right now.

He was just a little curious about why people of such a distant force were in the extremely weak North of the Central Continent.

After this quick change in their conversation, they soon returned to their usual conversations while they got to know each other more and more.

Time passed, and Ruth and Minos had already dined at the restaurant where they had gone and were already returning to the hotel.

The meal had been delicious, with meat from 3rd stage spiritual beasts, lots of vegetables and vegetables of high spiritual concentration, and good drinks to cool the heat that it was at this time of the year.

This was truly the best place that the two youths had stopped to eat since they started this trip.

There were even items of high spiritual concentration. It showed how good this place was by the standards of the North of the Central Continent.

Upon arriving at the hotel, Ruth and Minos immediately started their spiritual cultivation session, since they had already fulfilled all their worldly desires before...

They also wanted to rest well after that, since the two of them would go on a journey of more than a week in a forest, which was between the northern and central parts of the Cromwell Kingdom.

They had already covered about a quarter of the total distance to the kingdom's capital, and at this point, they would go through the longest route without cities in their entire trip!

At the same time, in the city of Portland, on Stone Island, three people were talking in a hotel room while eating and drinking.

There was a mature-looking woman who looked to be in her 30s and had short black hair. She was sitting in an armchair in the middle of the room while two men stood in front of her.

One of them had half gray and half black hair, while the other looked a little younger, with blond hair. These two wore different clothes but carried the same symbol at chest height.

It was a silver eagle, the symbol of the Silva family!

One of the two men then broke the silence and said. "Miss Sarah, I discovered a name that could be related to the death of young master Darell, but I still don't know if that person has a surname and, if he does, what family he comes from."

The woman then looked at him with interest and said. "Oh? This is the best clue we found in a week. Say what that person's name is."

The blond man then said a single word. "Minos."

The other man then continued. "I also heard that this person went to the capital of Stone Island after leaving the city of Portland. After that, we don't have a trace of him."

The woman smiled and said. "Well, at least we have a name. Even though there are many with this name on the continent, it will certainly help us! We are going to the Old Stone city. I want to follow the tracks of this Minos in that place."
