

BO LOVE LIFE 7

Chapter 7: It hurts...

Bo Hancheng was staring at her from above in the bathtub while shivering.

Due to the toxins in his body, he would suffer a relapse every month at irregular intervals, which would cause him to lose his rationality. He had to be alone in order to suppress the effects of the toxins.

He was facing a critical juncture just now.

All of a sudden, a girl fell from the sky and plunged into his bathtub.

Was it a coincidence, or... was it deliberate?

Bo Hancheng turned around, grabbed a silver mask from the countertop and placed it on his face before Luo Zheng raised her head.

He then turned around again to grab the bathrobe unhurriedly.

He looked down and discovered that she was still frozen in shock. He asked calmly, "Does it look good?"

Upon hearing his words, Luo Zheng snapped out of her trance and turned as red as a tomato.

She swore that it was her first time seeing a man's member!

All of a sudden, she began to stammer. "It... it... it's alright..."

"Ah!"

Bo Hancheng chuckled mysteriously.

Next, he gracefully put on his bathrobe and asked in a clear voice, "Just alright?"

Luo Zheng looked up at him and held his gaze in the bathroom.

The mask was covering most of his features, leaving only his eyes exposed. They were brighter than starry skies... solemn, mysterious and dangerous. It was as if they could suck someone in without them realizing.

She could not help but imagine how dashing and suave he must be below his mask!

The thought of it made Luo Zheng frown and wonder to herself, is he displeased with my answer?

Well, men all love being complimented.

Despite being unsure if his member was considered big or small, she decided to speak without thinking. "I think, it's pretty big!"

As soon as she finished speaking, Luo Zheng realized what she had just said and instantly felt awkward.

A sudden silence filled the air.

Oh my god can I say no to such benefits!?!

“I... ah! It hurts...”

As soon as Luo Zheng said those words, Bo Hancheng grabbed her chin forcefully and interjected, “Tell me, who sent you?”

The toxins were still spreading within his body and making him feel warm. They were constantly reminding him that he needed an outlet... he knew exactly what he needed. Hence, he would shy away from humans during his relapses, especially women!

Although she was not considered to be a woman and was only a young girl... her puerile charm aroused him!

“No one sent me here! I just fell in by accident.”

Luo Zheng looked him in the eye and explained carefully.

Her instincts were telling her that she could not afford to incur his wrath!

She could sense him scrutinizing her, making her feel extremely uneasy... she did not wish to put herself in danger again. “Uncle, listen to my explanation...”

Due to the fact that she was reborn as a 17 year old, she felt that he was much older than her and hence, her instincts told her to address him as uncle!

To her surprise, Bo Hancheng questioned sternly, “Uncle?”

Oh dear, he... is really scary!

Luo Zheng wanted to cry but could not bring herself to. She immediately explained, “No, I mean, Brother! Brother, ah, will that do? I’m sorry to have disturbed your bath. I was wrong, I’ll leave now...”

Luo Zheng immediately sprung up as she did not wish to stay a minute longer!

She did not expect there to be an accident as soon as she got up.

Due to the fact that her bathrobe had become untied when she fell into the tub, the bathrobe slid down her body after she got up.

Her flawless body was revealed!
