

Bodyguard 291

Chapter 291 – Psycho Murderer

I wont. Lin Yi said as he held his fists- it was his last mission, and hed be free as long as he completed it Hed be able to stay, able to live in this city with the girl he loved.

Tang Yin didnt say anything else- she was just speaking her mind. She didnt want to end up like Fen, that was why she kept on confirming Lin Yis intentions. She wanted to make sure as she couldnt pull herself out anymore

Lingshan was quite troubled- why were there so many cases right after shed taken charge of the criminal police?

First was Heibao that Lin Yi brought back- she thought shed get a few days worth of rest when a psycho murderer went into a crazed fit during a hospital treatment, beating the guard there up and escaping into the streets!

This murderer had been sent into the hospital before with grave injuries- injuries caused by Lingshan. She knew exactly how merciless she was being when she beat the guy up, and also knew that people like this were the people she despised the most.

Killing an entire family with even their three-year-old boy His murder methods were extremely gruesome as well- he committed the murder by placing the kid in the washing machine! Lingshan had no reason to hold back on people like that!

The guy resisted when theyd captured him, and she gladly sent a flurry of kicks and punches at him there and then, instantly hospitalizing him! The guy was due for a death sentence when he got to the courtroom anyway, but the guy didnt deserve a clean, painless death!

Because of that, Lingshan risked punishment to beat the murderer up. Fortunately for her, the man was simply too savage a murderer for anyone to speak up for him- he was publicly hated, and the authorities didnt do anything much to Lingshan. Huaijun spoke up for her as well, and the whole thing blew over

Yet that psycho murderer was now on the loose after one weeks hospitalization- the man shouldve been bedridden for a month!

Lingshans face darkened upon hearing her subordinates report- another escapee would only further damage her reputation! After all, nothing like this had happened when Huaijun was in charge, while things kept getting messed up under Lingshans supervision!

It was only natural that Lingshan would be pissed! And Lin Yi just had to call her with some car licence plate business when she was preoccupied! Shed almost yelled and hung up on him.

The traffic police had set things up- theyd be able to spot the psycho murderer as soon as he showed up. What puzzled her, however, was the fact that no one had ever seen the man after his escape

That shouldn't be possible when one thought about it logically- the psycho murderer's appearance was that of a bandaged man in hospital clothing there had to be someone who spotted him.

She didn't want to bother Huaijun anymore, and decided to shoulder the pressure and continue searching for the murderer in full force.

The phone rang, and Lingshan quickly picked it up. It's Song Lingshan.

Captain Song, Liu Wangli here! We have trouble! Wangli's voice sounded from the other end.

What? Lingshan's heart tightened- she was busy enough as it was!

Huang Guanya never left the hospital, he's still in it!! Wangli said quickly. He attacked Liu Bojia again. He was going to kill him when a nurse entered Liu Bojia's hospital room! Huang Guanya's using that nurse as a hostage now and he's asking the police for a helicopter..

Wangli let all that out with one breath- time was of the essence.

Huang Guanya was the psycho murderer, and Liu Bojia was one of his victims. Guanya had stabbed him in the chest, but Bojia's heart was located a little off-position. He managed to survive after getting sent to the hospital for emergency treatment.

Yet Guanya went back for him even then! What kind of hatred did he possibly have against the guy?

Lingshan had approached Bojia a couple times before, asking him what his history with Guanya was, to no avail. The man only denied that he even knew the murderer, and dodged any further questioning by either saying he was tired or that his heart was hurting. Lingshan couldn't do much about that, and decided that she'd ask for details after Bojia had recovered- one thing was for sure however: the man was hiding something.

Guanya wasn't giving any answers, either- all he did was repeat how he'd murdered the kid with the washing machine, also describing the process with which he'd raped and killed Bojia's wife. Even experienced criminal police felt their hair standing at Guanya's descriptions.

From Bojia and Guanya's testimonies, the two seemed like completely unrelated individuals- Guanya seemed to kill solely for his psychotic tendencies, while Bojia didn't know Guanya at all in the first place, let alone have bad blood with him.

Guanya going back to Bojia's room to finish the job off, however, indicated that things weren't as simple as it seemed!

Wangli was the captain of CP1, tasked with locating Huang Guanya- he was the first one who arrived at the scene when things broke out at the hospital. He quickly reported the situation to Lingshan right as he arranged for experts to negotiate with Guanya.

I'll be there right away! Lingshan hung the phone up and headed to the hospital immediately- so that was why they couldn't locate the murderer, he'd been in the hospital all along!

There were a handful of people who fit his description in the hospital, too- that explained why there weren't any witnesses.

Lin Yi was sitting next to Tang Yin on the hospital bed when Xinwen barged into the room. Something bad has happened!!

All four people turned to look at Xinwen, wondering what she was talking about.

I heard that a psycho murderer taken a nurse hostage in this hospital! The police have the hospital room surrounded, its just at the end of the hallway on our floor! I came to notify you guys right away.. Xinwen said, panting.

Psycho murderer? Lin Yi paused. Why is he in a hospital?

Who knows? Xinwen shook his head. Thank god he didnt come to our room.

Chapter 292 – Guan Xin Taken Hostage

Haha Lin Yi chuckled internally- it was true: good thing he didnt choose the room they were in, since Lin Yi wouldve killed him without hesitation with Tang Yin in immediate danger.

Should we go check it out, boss? Xiaobo was a little curious- this wasnt a chance youd get every day.

Sure. Lin Yi didnt mind. He turned to Tang Yin. You going?

Um Tang Yin was both afraid and curious at the same time.

You guys are still going out there? Xinwen wasnt expecting this- shed ran back to warn them not to go out, too!

The police are right there, we should be fine right? Xiaobo said as he walked towards the door.

He opened it to see the hallway packed with people, some of them patients and some of them staff of the hospital. The police had isolated their part of the hallway to stop the onlookers from getting too close as well.

Lingshan was being filled in by Wangli as they made their way to the scene.

The nurse taken hostage was Guan Xin, twenty years old, just graduated. She was having Liu Bojias medicine changed when Huang Guanya made his move on Liu Bojia, taking Guan Xin hostage as she was there Wangli reported.

What? Guan Xin? Lin Yi had just exited the room- the duo were right in front of him when Wangli mentioned Guan Xins name, Lin Yi? Whyre you here?? Lingshan paused from seeing Lin Yi as well.

Lin Yis worry for Guan Xin did affect Tang Yin a bit, but she didnt say anything about it- after all, she herself felt her heart tighten upon hearing that it was Guan Xin who had been taken hostage. She was still a bit hostile towards her, but the undeniable truth here was that the two had become friends already after their time with each other- at the end of the day, Guan Xin getting into trouble like this still worried her.

Lin Yi didnt answer the question- he looked to Wangli instead. Liu Bro, you said Guan Xin was the hostage?

Why, you know her? Wangli was pretty familiar with Lin Yi at this point- hed driven him back home with that shark the other day, after all.

Yeah, a friend of mine. Lin Yi nodded. Ill go over for a look?

Lingshan frowned, but didnt say anything- Lin Yi was good, at least good enough to be a bodyguard. There might be some chance of turning this around if he knew the hostage.

Guanya knew who she was, after all, and hed be on full alert if it were Lingshan who entered the scene. Yet there wasnt anyone stronger than her in the team other than Huaijun!

Having Lin Yi deal with Guanya might actually be the optimal choice here.

Although, Lingshan didnt want Lin Yi to help out- there was the concern that he wasnt capable enough, and the fact that having the bastard help her once more would only make her susceptible to more weird requests in the future

Dont give me that crap. Guanya said as he looked at the expert in front of him. Get me five hundred thousand in cash and a helicopter with a full tank- Ill kill this girl if you dont!!

Guanya licked his lips as a violent look flashed across his eyes- the blade he held against Guan Xins neck was gripped tight and already digging into her flesh a little

The expert, on the other hand, was sweating- this man had absolutely no intention of hearing him out, and kept on describing how hed twirled a three-year-old kid to death in a washing machine instead

Fine, I promise you! Lingshans voice sounded. But you need to make sure the hostage is safe!

Lingshan didnt have any other choice- she had to make sure the hostage was safe! Her responsibility for any damage to the girl would be huge as the captain of the criminal police She was currently a substitute captain, but she might as well not think about getting promoted if things went south here today. She might even get demoted!

Stay away!! Guanyas eye flared upon seeing Lingshan- he was a little afraid of this woman; he wouldnt be able to take her on at all, and letting her get any closer would put him in a very dangerous spot!

Alright, Ill stay away. Lingshan frowned- shed planned on closing the distance unnoticed so as to lunge at him when she got close enough, but Guanya seemed smart enough to understand Lingshans capabilities. He wasnt taking any chances with her.

Have your men put their guns down and back off. Guanya ordered.

Alright, all of you put your guns down Lingshan waved to the men behind her.

Their priority here was the hostages safety- they couldnt shoot unless they had a clear shot to instantly eliminate Guanya.

Get me some food, Im hungry! Guanya said. Dont even think about poisoning the food, Ill have this girl test it first! You make a call and have the hospital canteen send food to me right now!

Alright!! Lingshan nodded as her head plotted- shed been delighted to hear Guanya ask for food, since shed be able to poison it, but the guy was smart, even telling her to have the canteen deliver the food ltd be incredibly difficult to have anything done to the food in that window of time.

Dont mind me, shoot him! Hes stabbed the patient, hell be in danger if we dont treat him!! Guan Xin called out suddenly.

Lingshan only remembered then that there was still a Liu Bojia in the room! Her face paled- shed been so preoccupied with Guanya that shed forgotten!

Fuck! You damn bitch, you wanna die?? Im gonna rape you and cut your flesh to pieces!! Guanya wasnt expecting this nurse to actually go against him! He pressed the knife against Guan Xins neck, and blood seeped out Calm down!! Did you forget about your terms?? Lingshan called out.

It really was a good chance for her men to headshot Guanya earlier, but Lingshan didnt dare risk that! She couldnt take any chances!

Hmph, dont bother threatening me!! Guanyas lips curled in disdain.

It was at that moment that the food from the canteen arrived- the young employee with the tray froze upon seeing the scene, and turned to run after the shock...

Chapter 293 – Quick Kiss

Tell him to walk in with the food!! Guanya ordered.

He couldnt risk receiving the food on his own- he didnt have an arm to spare.

I wont go, I wont go! Get someone else The employee was clearly a young bud that had just entered society- he was not equipped to deal with a scene like this. He landed on his ass after Guanyas bark, almost letting the food fall onto the floor had it not been for the officer whod caught him.

Guanya was a bit speechless- why the hell was this guy so much of a coward? He didnt even do anything..?

Hurry up, tell him to hurry up! Im hungry! Guanya barked.

No Im not going I wont go, I rather die. The employees eyes were filled with fear as he shook his head A small puddle of wetness started forming underneath him

The officer beside him couldnt quite stand the sight anymore- pissing himself just like that? He frowned as he turned to Guanya. Maybe I can get you the food? Dont worry, I wont be armed- Ill take out my gun right in front of you!

No. You? Do I know you? Who knows if youd attack me!! Guanyu was no idiot- letting the police get close with him would just force him into a corner.

Lingshan was feeling helpless. You saw it yourself, he cant do that! We cant just force him, can we? Maybe I can do it?

You? Of course not!! Guanya followed that up with a suggestion. Alright, have someone from the crowd deliver it to me.

Those words prompted the onlookers to start backing off right away- no one wanted a job like that.

They were plenty satisfied with just watching, but getting involved? No one would want to do something as dangerous as that, the risk were just too high.

Lingshan wasnt very happy with the crowds reaction. These people were hellbent on not backing off when they were told to, but here they were, running like rabbits when the danger involved them.

She couldnt really do anything about that, though- it was just an internal complaint. Lingshan turned to see Lin Yi not far away, and a plan came to mind.

She kinda hated Lin Yi, but she had to admit that the guy had good reflexes. Even if he were a bit weaker than her, the guy should be good enough to deal with a character like Guanya. He was a good candidate for the job.

Guanya, on the other hand, had the same thought- Lin Yi was the only one still standing there with a dumb look on his face when everyone else had dispersed. Guanya had assumed that youths were more daring, and didnt think much about it. That student over there, get me the food! Yes, you! You! Stop looking around!

Me? Lin Yi grinned mentally, but made sure to put on a surprised face as he pointed to himself.

Yes! Hurry up, stop dilly dallying! Guanya barked.

You wouldnt hurt me, would you? Lin Yi asked weakly after some hesitation.

I wont! Hurry up! Guanya said impatiently.

O-Okay then You promised Lin Yi nodded softly.

Lingshan was quite overjoyed- she quickly made eye contact with Lin Yi to make sure he knew what was going on, but the guy looked as if he didnt see her.

Tang Yin, on the other hand, wasnt expecting Lin Yi to get chosen by the murderer- she was starting to panic! She didnt want Lin Yi to put himself in danger like that, there were so many cops around, he shouldnt have to get involved at all!

She grabbed Lin Yis hand without thinking, her voice filled with worry as she spoke. Lin Yi, you

Ah, its fine. Im good, remember? Lin Yi whispered.

Tang Yin paused after hearing that- it was true, she was panicking for no reason. The guy was able to beat down even a ruthless thug like Heibao without injuring himself when he saved her from that abandoned building- there really was nothing for her to worry about. Heibao wasnt even a threat to Lin Yi with a gun back on the school field, either, so there was no reason for a knife to pose any danger

But this This is you saving a damsel in distress, right. What if she decides to repay you with her body
Another concern arose- this turn of events was the legendary damsel in distress scenario! Tang Yin herself had grown to like Lin Yi more because he'd saved her, what if Guan Xin got added into the drama?! Would she have to fight her? Tang Yin started getting shy at the possibility.

I can't just not save her, right? Lin Yi wasn't expecting Tang Yin to go there. He pinched her soft and slightly moist palm. I'll leave her, then?

... You'd better save her Guan Xin's actually really nice, and she's still worried about the patient with her when she's a hostage Tang Yin still admired the girl- she respected her kindness.

Will you two stop that? Continue after I get my food! Guanya wasn't too happy at Lin Yi romancing with a female student right in front of him. Jesus!

Let's talk after I get it over with, haha- he's getting pissed. Lin Yi smiled.

Kay Tang Yin nodded shyly. Be careful..

I'll be careful if you give me a quick kiss Lin Yi grinned evilly.

I Tang Yin couldn't believe it- what was the bastard even thinking of in a situation like this? She spoke after some hesitation. Then. After you get back safe

Ah.... Okay, wait for me. Lin Yi smiled as he let go of Tang Yin's hand- he then strolled to the officer with the food and took it before turning to walk to Guanya.

Impatient, Guanya pulled Guan Xin back to give Lin Yi some space. Come in and close the door!

Okay Lin Yi walked in looking scared and closed the door- ten seconds later he walked out and quickly ran up to Tang Yin. I'm back, can I get a kiss now?

Lin Yi's voice wasn't loud, but Lingshan heard what he said loud and clear! She couldn't believe this!! She'd hoped that Lin Yi would be able to disarm Guanya or even put him down if possible, but this Lin Yi..! Did he really come back right after delivering the food/?

Did he come out so fast just for Tang Yin's kiss?! Lingshan was speechless as she pointed at Lin Yi. What's wrong with you??

Chapter 294 – Legendary Love Triangle

What're you talking about? Lin Yi eyed Lingshan, a bit pissed off- what was her problem, did she love to ruin romantic scenes? Can it wait? I'm in the middle of something important, okay?

Something important? So this was the important thing, not the murderer in the other room? Lingshan couldn't believe this!! Yet Lin Yi wasn't part of the police force, and she really didn't have any control over what he wanted to do.

But she couldn't help herself. Lin Yi, can you at least be able to take things seriously? Did you seriously just get him his food? Couldn't you have looked for a chance to take Huang Guanya down?

I did! Jeez, whats wrong with you? Will you leave me alone?? Lin Yi was getting pissed- what the hell was her problem? Guan Xin was still in there, so was she really so brainless that shed think that Lin Yi would ignore the girl like that?

You did? Lingshan didnt quite understand what Lin Yi meant.

Right at that moment, the door opened and out rushed Guan Xin- she leapt at Lin Yi upon seeing him. Haah Haah

She was no longer the strong and determined nurse she was when taken hostage- she was now just a frail girl as she hugged Lin Yi tightly. There were even tears coming out of her eyes.

She had prioritized the patients safety over her own out of her sense of duty as a nurse, coupled with her natural tendency for selflessness. The current her was just a normal female who needed shelter and protection after the shock, a shoulder to rest on, a person who could console her.

Ah Lin Yi looked at Tang Yin helplessly, who just curled her lips and turned the other way, silent.

What else could she say at this point, after all? She was a little jealous, but Guan Xin had just gotten saved from a life-threatening situation- it was true she needed comfort and consolation. Tang Yin wasnt a selfish person, and decided that shed just pretend she couldnt see what was happening.

Yet she didnt quite understand how Lin Yi had saved Guan Xin that fast- hed only been in there for a little more than ten seconds, and assumed that hed rushed out after delivering the food for her kiss. It didnt seem to be the case now that Guan Xin was here!

As unbelievable as it was, Guan Xins safety meant only one thing- Lin Yi had taken care of the criminal.

She didnt believe it, and neither did Lingshan or any of the officers present. It was simply too much of a stretch.

Lin Yis I did! prompted some mockery from Lingshan when Guan Xin came out all of a sudden- she was really confused now. What was going on?

She didnt bother asking Lin Yi anymore- she rushed into the hospital room and found herself shocked at what she was seeing.

Guanya was lying on the ground, his dagger in a corner. His eyes were bulging and his face was equipped with an expression of shock and rage- he found it ridiculous to have gone down like this! He didnt deserve to die like this!

His cause of death made Lingshan speechless.

The murderer had been killed instantly, and the weapon that had ended his life was a pair of chopsticks. Chopsticks that Lin Yi had brought in with the food.

The pair of chopsticks had been stabbed into Guanyas heart- from the length of chopsticks still remaining outside Guanyas body, Lingshan ascertained that the chopsticks had went straight through the heart, slightly protruding out of the back.

Lin Yi did this? How..? Lingshan was confused.

A little more than ten seconds, excluding the time he used to open the door and walk out Hed have to have put down the food, get into a fight, disarm Guanya, push away Guan Xin, and then stab Guanya with the chopsticks

In a few seconds. Lin Yi did all this in a few seconds?! Lingshan didnt like Lin Yi too much, but she had to be impressed with what hed accomplished here today! Guanya didnt even have the chance to cry out before his instant death!

Lingshan asked herself this: would she have been able to achieve the same result should she have been the food delivery person, also taking into consideration that shed have to manage to keep the hostage safe from harm? Lingshan wanted to answer yes to that, but hesitated

She shook her head, and decided that shed leave the corpse for later- she ran to Bojias bed, seeing that the sheets had already been soaked red Guanya had stabbed the man in the belly a couple times, and the blood was still flowing

Get the doctor!! Lingshan cried out to Wangli, who just entered the room after her.

Understood! Wangli was surprised as well, but something else with a higher shock value was stuck in his mind- wasnt Lin Yi the captains boyfriend..? How come he was asking for a kiss from a pretty student?

Could this perhaps be the legendary love triangle? Yes, that should be the case It also explained why the captain was so pissed, eyeing Lin Yi and everything.

His legs never stopped moving as the thoughts went through his mind- he called for a doctor upon exiting the room.

The doctor and nurse had already been notified and prepared already- they burst in the room right after things had been settled.

Lingshan didnt even bother spending any resources on saving Guanyas life- the guy was dead as could be. His life didnt matter to Lingshan anyway, as well.

The guy was a full blown pervert, a psycho murderer who never knew an end to his crimes. The only thing he was capable of was describing his heinous crimes, there'd be no useful information coming from him regardless! The case wouldnt be at a dead end as long as Bojia was fine.

The doctor and nurse moved Bojia to the emergency room, and the police started cleaning up the scene.

Tang Yin cleared her throat as Guan Xin and Lin Yis hug continued- it still had to end, right? They were doing it in front of her, too! What was this? Was Lin Yi starting to have second thoughts about committing to her??

Guan Xin opened her eyes after hearing Guan Xin clear her throat, realizing that shed been hugging Lin Yi tightly the whole time. She let go, a little embarrassed.

Although, it was a natural reaction for her to have- Lin Yi did just save her, after all, and she subconsciously saw him as the shelter and protection she needed She didnt really think about it.

Yet she did hug Tang Yins boyfriend right in front of her

Sorry, Tang Yin, I was in panic Sorry I borrowed your boyfriend for a little Guan Xin smiled apologetically at Tang Yin- she didnt mean to go against her and steal Lin Yi or anything Lin Yi was also still a student, too- another reason for her to hold down her feelings.

Chapter 295 – Giving Away

The two were simply not a good match for each other- they were around the same age, but they had different statuses. It wouldnt work.

Tang Yin, on the other hand, was the obvious fit for Lin Yi. Their futures would look bright together if they even got into the same college.

Guan Xin sighed, feeling down. It was the first time shed felt something towards a guy, too

Hes not my boyfriend at all Tang Yin was getting embarrassed by Guan Xins apology.

Haha. Guan Xin laughed. This girlfriend of Lin Yis was pretty interesting.

The laughter only put Tang Yin into even more embarrassment. Guan Xin sis! Whatre you laughing at! Its true! You take him if you want!

Take him? Why would you get to give him to me if hes not your boyfriend, then? Guan Xin teased.

Guan Xin wasnt too experienced herself- she was still a child in front of her family and friends, and in the hospital as well, but Tang Yin was two years younger than her. It was only natural that shed feel like an older sister in front of her, since she was a little more mature than Tang Yin was, too.

I Tang Yin paused- it was true! Where did she get off giving Lin Yi away if he didnt belong to her in the first place?

Lin Yi smiled bitterly from the side. Was he some sort of product? Why were these girls talking about giving and taking him??

Miss Guan Xin, right? Please come with us for a testimony. Lingshan frowned as she walked over, her eyes on the nurse who had just pulled away from Lin Yi. So even this pretty nurse had something to do with Lin Yi?

Is there something wrong with your brain? Lin Yi turned to her. Cant you see what that dumbass did to her neck?

Dumbass? Lingshan couldnt help but smile bitterly in her head- only Lin Yi would call the Huang Guanya a dumbass Shed been treating him as a formidable threat all this while, and here was Lin Yi, writing him off as a dumbass.

Yet there wasnt much Lingshan could say to that- Lin Yi did take care of Guanya within a few seconds, at the end of the day For him, at least, Guanya really had been a dumbass.

But what was that comment about her brain?! Did Lin Yi have to speak with such toxicity? It wasnt the first time hed commented about her brain like that, too.

What did you say, Lin Yi? Lingshan glared. You need to come with us for a testimony, too! You killed someone, did you maybe realize that?

I saved the day! Lin Yi shrugged. And you were the one who told me to kill him.

If you didnt want that, then whyd you ask if Id found a chance to take him down? Lin Yi curled his lips, not too interested in arguing over something this meaningless with Lingshan. But the tigress really was being annoying, and he needed to respond to her.

You Lingshan was getting irritated as well. I asked that after you came out!

Okay, but that still means that you wanted me to kill him. Lin Yi said. Whyd you give me that look when I was going in, then? Something wrong with your eyes? Was there something wrong with your face??

You Lingshans glare reminded Lin Yi of a tigress- it looked like she wanted to eat him alive.

Lingshan, on the other hand, thought that Lin Yi was a cruel joke God had sent her way! He was always messing with her!

Wangli was watching from afar- he turned from the raging Lingshan to the nurse who seemed to have an ambiguous relationship with Lin Yi. He wondered if a love triangle wasnt enough. Maybe it had evolved into a love square..?

Alright, enough with the yous. You owe me another one! Ill go to you for the licence plate this afternoon, wait for me. With that, Lin Yi turned back to Guan Xin, not bothering with Lingshan anymore. Go get your neck treated- theres still blood coming out.

Okay Guan Xin was a nurse, and naturally understood her injury herself. Her skin got cut a little, it wasnt a big deal.

The police then took her away for a testimony after shed treated the wound. Lingshan, on the other hand, wondered if she should ask Lin Yi to come along as well. She decided that shed ask him to do the testimony when he came to her for the licence plate later that afternoon.

Lin Yi reached for Tang Yins hand on their way back to Fens room, but Tang Yin moved it away fidgetly.

Whenre you gonna keep your promise? Lin Yi grinned.

What promise? Tang Yin paused.

The quick kiss. Lin Yi replied.

Maybe next time! Tang Yin rolled her eyes at Lin Yi- that courage she had had had long been ruined by Guan Xin. There was no way she could kiss Lin Yi now.

Can I kiss you then? Lin Yi, naturally, understood why Tang Yin was upset.

Go die! Tang Yin wouldnt agree to that.

Ah Lin Yi wasnt thinking of rushing anything. He looked at the time after entering Fens room- it was almost time for class.

Xiaobo was saying goodbye to Fen, who still hadn't made her decision about the birthday feast yet. She was apparently still considering it.

Xiaobo didn't rush her.

The four walked out of the hospital and got a cab. Lin Yi was dropped off near the villa area- he had told the group that he had the licence plate thing to sort out that afternoon.

Lin Yi skipping class had become a common occurrence at this point- no one minded anymore. Tang Yin couldn't do much about that, as well- such were the likes of Young Master Lin: it was impossible to get him to study at school like a good student.

Lin Yi drove the van to the police station- there was no licence plate on it, and Lin Yi found himself quite lucky that he didn't bump into any traffic police. He'd have to call Lingshan again otherwise.

Lingshan was quite troubled in her office- Bojia had been saved, but his condition had yet to be stabilized. There was no telling when he'd wake up.

The psycho murderer case lacked clues, and it'd be really bad if the last trace died here. Lingshan was quite pressured- she wondered if she was fit for her current position in the first place.

She never said anything mocking to Lin Yi when he arrived- she couldn't really piss Lin Yi off anymore. She used to rely on Huaijun for cases, and Lin Yi had basically assumed that role now.

Why was she so useless?! Couldn't she crack her case with her own abilities? It was something that had been on Lingshan's mind that she couldn't do anything about.

She copied down the van's model number and engine number, and managed to get the details after a call. It was a vehicle registered at a second-hand car company.

It was confirmed that it hadn't been stolen- Heibao had bought it for ten thousand kuai, telling the owner of the company that he'd do the registration a few days later.

Chapter 296 – Date Tonight

Yet Heibao never got back to him- the owner was unable to reach Heibao's phone as well.

Lingshan didn't bother explaining after hearing what the owner had said- she had him come to the police station directly to go over the registration process with Lin Yi. She didn't want to trouble herself over anything as long as the car wasn't stolen property.

Alright, now that that's done, why don't you come with me for your testimony? Lingshan said, pulling out her notebook.

Forget about that, make one up yourself. It's gonna be your credit anyway, I don't wanna be involved. Lin Yi said.

I can't do that. Lingshan rejected. Lin Yi had taken Guanya down in front of so many people- there was no way she could just take credit for what he did. What would people say about her?

Lemme make a phone call first. Lin Yi turned away and called Huaijun, handing the phone to Lingshan after talking with him a bit. Here.

Lingshan took over the phone, not looking too happy with the orders Huaijun was giving her. She complied anyway. Understood, Captain Yang!

Lingshan handed the phone back to Lin Yi with a frown- what exactly was Huaijuns relationship with Lin Yi? Yang Huaijun was an absolutely just man, yet that image started to crumble ever since Lin Yi got involved with him.

Alright, you can go now. Lingshan said crisply. If even Huaijun told her that the credit was due to her, then fine- everyone in the criminal police used to be subordinates to Huaijun, and no one would say anything against Huaijuns decree.

If you wanna be all business like that next time then stop asking me for help. Lin Yi was getting a little angry- he was helping her for free, what was with her attitude??

Lingshan eyed Lin Yi, but didnt say anything. Who did the guy think he was, did he think he was invincible? She decided that shed endure this until the day Lin Yi found himself in a tight spot that he couldnt handle- shed let him have it when that happened.

Lin Yi, on the other hand, wasnt looking for anything from Lingshan. To him, it simply didnt matter that much.

He walked out of the police station to see a fat man with big ears looking around at the entrance.

Mister Wang? Lin Yi walked over.

Yes, thats me. Wang Mingri greeted with a big smile on his face. Youre Captain Songs friend, yes? Lets go over the registration process now?

Ah, lets do it now. Ill thank Mister Wang in advance. Lin Yi nodded.

Mingri knew that Lin Yi wasnt the guy who purchased the car that day, but the captain of the criminal police had phoned in personally- it should be fine. Captain Song wouldnt want to scam ten thousand kuai from him anyway, and Mingri finished the procedure with Lin Yi without asking for details.

He even left Lin Yi a name card before he left, telling him to give him a call should he ever want to buy a car in the future- hed be able to help out be it a new or second-hand car.

Lin Yi thanked him as he took the name card. He then got in the van, heading for school.

It was his private property now anyway, and he didnt have to inform Mengyao of his status all the time if he was driving himself.

He hadnt reached the school yet when his phone rang- it was Guan Xuemins number.

Grandpa Guan? Lin Yi said.

Little Yi? Are you busy right now? Xuemins voice sounded from the other end.

Nope, just driving to school. Whats up, Grandpa Guan? Lin Yi asked.

Are you free tonight? My grand-daughters taken a leave for tomorrow, Im having her prepare some dishes The two of us could have a drink or two? Itd been so long since Xuemin discussed medicine with Lin Yi

Lin Yi wasnt coming to his doorstep either- he had to be a little shameless and take the initiative to call Lin Yi if he wanted to meet him.

Tonight? That works. Lin Yi had wanted to talk about building a company with Xuemin as well, but didnt really manage to find the time for it. He naturally wouldnt reject Xuemins offer now that the guy had called himself.

Tonight it is then! Ill be waiting at home for you then. Xuemin was quite happy that Lin Yi was visiting tonight.

Of course- Ill make sure not to be late. Lin Yi laughed.

Xuemin hung up and dialed his grand-daughter Guan Xin up.

Gua Xin had just finished her testimony, and was given a few days off from work by the director to rest.

Guan Xin telling the police to ignore her and save the patient had spread throughout the hospital at that point- even the media had sent over reporters.

Director Qin was very pleased- his face had a huge smile on it as he greeted the reporters! After all, reporters nowadays liked to write negative news about the hospital, and it irritated the director quite a lot.

No one would say anything bad about the hospital now- their nurses prioritized the patients life over their own when their lives were at risk!

Other than that were the details of Guanyas death, which no one knew about except for the police involved. The spectators had only watched from afar, and while they did hear Guan Xins words, no one knew that it had been Lin Yi who took Guanya out.

Guan Xins father and grandfather were both important figures in the medical world, yet Director Qin couldnt quite find an excuse to look out for her.

Yet he was sure that hed be able to get away promoting Guan Xin with no repercussions from the public now- who else would he look after, if not a nurse this excellent?

He had decided to host a meeting during Guan Xins break- it was time to make adjustments to Guan Xins position. Wasnt that old head of the nurse department retiring soon? He was thinking that he could have Guan Xin take the position of vice-head nurse first.

As for how much higher Guan Xin would be able to climb That would have to depend on her from now on.

Guan Xin had just walked out the hospital when her phone rang- it was her grandpa. Had her grandfather found out about her getting hurt?

Guan Xin frowned and mentally cursed at whoever told her grandfather this- what an ass kisser and tattletale! She even told Director Qin specifically not to let her father and grandfather know about this, so why was her grandfather calling so soon??

Grandpa Guan Xin picked the phone up with uncertainty.

Xin Xin! You don't have work tomorrow, do you? Xuemin said with a smile.

I don't, why..? Guan Xin paused- her grandfather didn't seem to know about what had happened earlier? She exhaled in relief.

Chapter 297 – Guan Xin's Thoughts

Tell Old Qin to let you home early- come back earlier today. Xuemin said pleasantly.

Come back? Did something happen? Guan Xin was stunned- her grandfather really wasn't aware of what had happened, he didn't even know she was already coming home early today.

A friend coming over tonight, he's the remarkable young man I told you about! Xuemin laughed. I'll introduce him to you! He's around your age, the two of you should have common topics to talk about.

Oh Guan Xin lost interest upon hearing what this was about Lin Yi's shadow started forming in her mind again

Xuemin only assumed that Guan Xin was feeling shy from her response. It's settled then! Have Aunt Liu buy some ingredients for you to cook tonight. Make sure to leave a good impression!

Aunt Liu was the nanny of the Guan family, in charge of cooking and looking after Xuemin when needed.

Guan Xin wasn't too willing, but she couldn't just say no when the person was someone her grandfather respected. Getting to know him should be fine, but going beyond that Guan Xin didn't want to be thinking about that kind of stuff yet.

Lin Yi parked the car in the food street behind the school- he was just getting out when a fierce man came at him. Yo, kid! Don't park your car here, it's for a stand!

The fierce man was a stinky tofu vendor, and the spot Lin Yi was parking belonged to his little brother's stand.

Lin Yi frowned, not expecting this. Did the guy think the food street was his family's business or something? Even the traffic police didn't prohibit parking here.

The fierce man understood immediately that he'd fucked up when Lin Yi raised his head.

Master Lin it's fine, just park here! It's fine, it's fine! The fierce man remembered vividly how Lin Yi had dealt with Zhang Biaoqian. This wasn't the kind of person he dared cross.

Lin Yi shook his head, slightly amused. What a face-changer this guy was. Then I'll park here from now on? I'll be parking here every day?

No problem, Master Lin! Ill have my little brother change his spot! No way wed interfere with Master Lins parking! Dont worry, Ill make sure to look after your car, make sure no one scratches it! The fierce man said with a pat on his chest.

Having his brother change his spot was nothing compared to pissing Lin Yi off!!

Lin Yi made it in time for last period- study hall.

Xiaobo leaned forward as Lin Yi seated himself. Boss, your back! I wanted to talk to you about something Whats up? Lin Yi looked at Xiaobo.

Lend me two hundred kuai? Xiaobo asked, a little embarrassed.

Two hundred kuai? What for? Seriously, you dont even have two hundred kuai on you now? Lin Yi asked curiously.

Heh My allowances a bit stretched this month, I always buy quite a bit of snacks when visiting Fen Xiaobo said awkwardly. Were at the end of the month, right? Ill pay you back when I get my allowance next month!

Oh. No need for that, just take it. Lin Yi handed two hundred kuai to Xiaobo- it wasnt too much for Lin Yi.

I was thinking of getting Fen a cheaper phone- two hundred is enough. Xiaobo said. Its hard to communicate otherwise.

Ah Lin Yi smiled. Then keep that two hundred for yourself- Ill pay for the phone. Youre giving her a gift, cant look cheap, right?

Heh heh, then thanks, boss! Ill repay you when I get rich one day! Xiaobo didnt reject the offer.

I need to get a new phone too. Ill buy one for Tang Yin while Im at it. Lin Yi said. Lets go to the store tomorrow noon then.

Sure Ah, right- boss, can you show me your phone? Xiaobo said quietly.

What for? You wanna look at Chen Yushu or Chu Mengyao? Lin Yi eyed Xiaobo. You have Fen already, stop thinking about that stuff!

Haha, you got me Xiaobo said, a little embarrassed. Its healthy for the eyes! The three school beauties have nothing to do with me, and its gonna stay that way. Tang Yins my sis-in-law now, no way I can look at her again, right? I only have these ownerless flowers to look at now

Why dont you go study? Lin Yi said helplessly. Im not gonna show you.

Alright alright, fine! Xiaobo said. But boss, tell me honestly, whose phone is this? Why does it look like a girls? And that Beetle car last time, too, you said it wasnt yours It looks like a girls car to me

Well, Ill tell you if youre so curious. Lin Yi said. The car and phone are actually both Chen Yushus Im living under the same roof as her now

Ah? Xiaobo blinked. Pfft, jeez, whatever if you dont wanna tell me!

Lin Yi shrugged- most times people didnt believe the truth. Although, this was a good way to get Xiaobo off his back about the whole thing. Hed understand that Lin Yi never lied to him if he did manage to find out the truth one day, too.

He really was living under the same roof with Chen Yushu! Yes, and Chu Mengyao, as well. They were just simple roommates, though.

He sent Mengyao a text when school ended, telling her that he had something to take care of tonight. Mengyao, on the other hand, had gotten used to these texts- how come her employee had so many things to take care of??

Guan Xin was getting pretty helpless at how her grandfather kept praising this young man- why couldnt he just adopt him as an unofficial grandson or something? Why did he need her to hang out with him??

Guan Xin had someone on her mind already, how was she supposed to accept anyone else right now? This wasnt something she could just tell her grandpa, however. She made her way to the kitchen a little unwillingly.

So she was supposed to cook a great meal to impress the guy? Come on What if the guy started liking her because of that, wouldnt that just cause her more trouble? Guan Xin wondered if itd be better if she made the food bad

Yes, that was quite sound! Men usually cared how good their girlfriends were at cooking All she had to do was make poison for him to eat! See if hed want to get to the next stage with her then!

Chapter 298 – Guan Xuemin’s Thoughts

Guan Xin had been born in the Guan household, a family superpower now on the same playing field with some other big-time houses.

Yet Guan Xin was nowhere near a spoiled miss.

Her parents were always occupied with work. Her father was a shareholder of the hospital, but had his company headquarters located overseas- he rarely came home with Guan Xins mother.

Guan Xin grew up with her grandfather, and learned from a small age to tidy the house and cook meals. She washed the clothes, and kept the house in beautiful shape. They had a nanny they called Aunt Liu, but Guan Xin never lazed around because of that; shed always help out whenever Aunt Liu worked the house.

She excelled at cooking, and became known as the Godly Miss Universe of the Kitchen by the neighboring families around the medical school. Her grandfathers rather thick-skinned friends would always drop by for a meal whenever Guan Xin would cook.

With all she had going for her, Guan Xin became the ideal partner for the boys her age, despite the strict teachings of the Guan house posing a barrier between her and those affections. She wasnt allowed to get in a relationship before graduating.

Guan Xin went into society to work upon graduating, and as Guan Xuemins name went higher and higher in its journey to worldwide fame, the relatives and old friends of the Guan house held back from bringing the topic up

The family was now considered equal with other families of power- that didnt guarantee that Guan Xin would want to be married into said families, but it didnt change the fact that she was an optimal candidate.

Talk of proposals lessened, much to Guan Xins relief. Shed only just graduated, and wasnt in the mood for love whatsoever.

Despite that, love was something that hit like a hurricane- there was no stopping it when it did decide to come.

Guan Xin herself was impressed that shes start falling for Lin Yi- she found it surreal and unbelievable, for it was the first time shed gotten interested in a boy. Shed even thought that her sexual orientation wasnt normal before that happened.

She consoled herself by saying that shed hit mental puberty late. Although, it didnt seem realistic that shed get with Lin Yi anymore She did fantasize about it occasionally, but reality remained for her to face.

The first time she saw Tang Yin, she decided to stop thinking about it, and decided to run.

She realized that she couldnt stop herself from wanting to meet Lin Yi after that decision- she knew it was an unlikely relationship, but still hoped to meet Lin Yi if she could.

Like a moth drawn towards a flame- a shred of recklessness and illogicality, an uncontrollable urge.

Xin Xin, want Aunt Liu to help? Aunt Lius voice sounded from outside the kitchen. Shed tidied up the house, and came over to help Guan Xin out.

No need, Ill handle it on my own. Guan Xin rejected- she couldnt let Aunt Liu come in and see how she was sabotaging the food.

Aunt Liu didnt think much of the rejection- she knew that Master Guan was having a young man over tonight, and assumed that Guan Xin wanted to make a good impression on him.

How would she demonstrate her skills as the Godly Miss Universe of the Kitchen if someone else meddled with her art??

One had to admit the excellence of Guan Xins cooking- she couldnt stop the product from smelling and looking good even if shed messed the taste up with random seasoning.

The aesthetics and scent of the food would make one gulp, but a taste and one would realize how all the dishes were either too sweet, too sour, or too salty. None of the dishes tasted normal.

After all, Guan Xin had made sure to spam random seasoning onto the dishes right before completion.

Xuemin was feeling quite delighted at how busy Guan Xin was in the kitchen. He wondered if Lin Yi would remember this night as a memorable one with his elegant and gentle granddaughter?

Hed pay the Guan house more visits, and his problems and inquiries in medicine would all find their answers! The Guan family would enjoy centuries of fortune and fame should Lin Yi even become his grandson-in-law!

The Guan house was well known in higher society, and well respected by even more titanic houses above the family.

But Guan Xuemin understood that it was all due to his membership in the Guan family!

People respected the house because he was the miracle doctor; nobody was exempt from illnesses and death, and that meant that having a miracle doctor around provided insurance. It was the reason for the Guan family's rise in power.

The Guan family would see a fall when Guan Xuemin passed- without the name of Miracle Doctor Guan, House Guan would be no different from a common household.

Guan Xuemin wasn't one who cared about fame, but he had to take into consideration his children and grandchildren- her granddaughter, especially. He wanted her to find a good home.

It had become a wish of his.

Seeing Lin Yi reminded him of his granddaughter, and he knew that the name of the Guan family would see an increase in fame and strength should Lin Yi get with Guan Xin!

Xuemin now understood that he was no miracle doctor at all compared to Lin Yi! Lin Yi was the miracle doctor! That miracle doctor he'd met twenty years ago. That was a genuine miracle doctor!

His eldest son now lived in the capital, his life full of luxury.

His youngest son busied himself in business with his wife overseas.

He only had Guan Xin with him, and he knew that his two sons would have no problems in life.

His eldest son was nothing special, but he did manage to make quite a living with his father's name all these years, enough for the family to spend their lives in comfort. Xuemin didn't like this eldest son of his too much- he'd decided that a small city like Songshan wasn't worth living in after he entered the upper class. He only came back once every year, and Xuemin was disappointed in him.

His youngest son, on the other hand, came home often- he was a just man, but a bit old-fashioned. He'd relied on his own abilities doing business, and never used Xuemin's name to benefit himself. Yet the common case with a personality like that was that this youngest son wouldn't have found himself in a very good life if it weren't for background and support in society. But the kid was lucky- he'd managed to meet an individual, a character of legendary proportions.

Unfortunately, this legendary character disappeared from everyone's sights during the same time the miracle doctor Xuemin had met.

Xin Xin, no need to cook that much! As long as we have enough to eat! Xuemin wondered if Guan Xin really had grown up as he watched her fill the table up with dishes- could she perhaps be looking to impress this young man? Had she become concerned with her love life?

Oh Almost done, there's just one sweet and sour eel left! Guan Xin smiled. Hah sweet and sour eel. She couldn't wait to serve this mustard eel to that young visitor.

Chapter 299 – Maybe We Should Eat Instant Noodles?

Xuemin's youngest son was doing pretty well after the individual guided him a little, but Xuemin couldn't help but sigh at how there were no doctors coming from the Guan family! His granddaughter had a soft personality as well. She wasn't fit for the job of a doctor, but a nurse instead.

Xuemin had constantly looked out for any potential inheritors to his take on his mantle because of that- it was why he'd seemed so happy that time he spotted Lin Yi at the bookstore. He had wanted to take the kid in as a pupil.

He didn't want that anymore. After all, his own medical capabilities weren't more than a third of Lin Yi's! How was he supposed to teach Lin Yi when he wasn't even as good as him?

Yet Xuemin had hope, in spite of it all.

The doorbell rang- Lin Yi had parked in front of Xuemin's villa and was ringing the doorbell.

Xuemin excitedly moved to the door, waving Aunt Liu away as she reached for it as well- he wanted to greet Lin Yi personally! He didn't want to put on any airs in the slightest. Lin Yi was a kid when compared to his age, but he was better than him, and that was a concrete fact he wouldn't deny.

Yi, you're here! Xuemin greeted happily.

Ah, Grandpa Guan, hello! I came over right after school ended, so I didn't bring any gifts or anything, I hope you don't mind. Lin Yi smiled- everyone else brought heavy gifts when visiting Guan Xuemin, after all, yet here he was, empty-handed.

No need for gifts! Xuemin replied happily. I'm happy enough that you could come! It was hard enough for me to get thick-skinned and call you over for a drink- stop with the formalities or I won't be able to bring myself to call you next time!

Ahaha, okay, I'll come over to hang out when I'm free! Lin Yi laughed.

That's more like it. Xuemin nodded in response.

Guan Xin was walking out with the mustard eel when she heard Lin Yi announce that he'd come and hang out when he was free- she didn't like the sound of that at all. Who did this guy think he was? Come and hang out? Did he think they were close friends or family??

Guan Xin decided that she'd give this young man a nice experience tonight, see if he'd still come over for some mustard eel next time!

But this voice sounded a little familiar. Had this person visited before? Guan Xin frowned as she moved to put the eel on the table. She raised her head and froze, the plate almost slipping out of her hands!

L-Lin Yi.? Guan Xin's eyes were wide open as she looked at the person entering through her doorstep.

Guan Xin? Lin Yi paused as well- why was Guan Xin here? He remembered Xuemin talking about her granddaughter- could Guan Xin be that granddaughter? The two did have the same surname. You're Grandpa Guan's granddaughter?

You're that remarkable young man grandpa was talking about? Guan Xin's face reddened- why was her grandpa introducing Lin Yi to her when the guy had a girlfriend already??

Guan Xin's eyes were blank at that point, unsure what she should do as she lowered her head shyly- she accidentally revealed her affection

Remarkable young man..? Lin Yi blinked at the title, a bitter smile on his face. Maybe not remarkable I'm a young talent, I guess? Haha.

What a bragger Guan Xin laughed softly- this guy sure wasn't a humble one. There wasn't much of a difference between the two words, was there?

Yi, you and Xin Xin know each other? Xuemin had worried that Guan Xin would feel some resistance towards Lin Yi, but apparently the two knew each other already! He'd been worried for nothing.

Yeah, we just met today. Lin Yi nodded.

Oh? It seems you two are quite close already, then! Xuemin said. Then I don't need to introduce the two of you anymore! Well, let's skip all that and get to dinner! I usually have dinner way earlier than this, I've been hungry waiting for you!

Ah- alright, I'll make sure to help myself, then! Lin Yi smiled, turning to Guan Xin. Haha, looks like it's your cooking I'm gonna try today

Ah! Guan Xin just realized as she held her plate of mustard eel in her hands- how was she supposed to know that the remarkable young man would turn out to be Lin Yi?! She wouldn't have cooked weird stuff like this if she'd known! She'd have poured her essence into preparing this dinner if she'd known

An immense regret filled Guan Xin up- Lin Yi might really not visit anymore if he tried this food she'd prepared for him What should she do at this point? Guan Xin wanted to redo all the dishes she'd displayed on the table

What's wrong, Xin Xin? Why're you taking the eel away? It's grandpa's favorite, come on, bring that sweet and sour and eel over here! Xuemin called out to the retreating Guan Xin.

I'm taking them back to the kitchen, they're yeah, they're cold already, so I'm gonna heat them up Guan Xin tried to get the dishes together as she spoke, to have them replaced with proper cooking There were still ingredients left, she'd be able to still make something

Heat them up..? Why? They're still steaming! Stop messing around, Xin Xin, put it down! What was Guan Xin blabbering about???

Ah Okay At her wits end, Guan Xin unwillingly put the dishes back

Alright, come sit down, Xin Xin! Let's eat. Xuemin opened a bottle of Maotai beer, pouring a cup for Lin Yi before pouring a cup for himself.

I. Okay. There wasn't much Guan Xin could do anymore- she didn't look very happy as she seated herself at the table.

Ah I heard from Grandpa Guan that your cookings really good- lets give it a taste? Lin Yi picked up a pair of chopsticks, a smile on his face.

Ah. Uh I have an idea, grandpa! Why dont we eat instant noodles? Itll be really nice to combo that with beer! What do you think? Guan Xin stood up all of a sudden. Its been a long time since Ive had instant noodles, too- lets throw all this food away, okay? Instant noodles are really good.

Xin Xin!! Xuemin was starting to get a little angry- what was with his granddaughter today? Shed been acting weird after seeing Lin Yi Could he have misunderstood their relationship? Perhaps he was wrong to think that Guan Xin had a good impression of Lin Yi? It might actually be the other way around Why would she ruin everything with this talk of throwing the food away for instant noodles all of a sudden otherwise??

Chapter 300 – Horrible

Xin Xin, whatre you up to?? Why are we having cup noodles with so much good food on the table?? Xuemin was getting a little angry- Lin Yi was their guest! Even if they didnt get along with each other that was no reason for her to act like this!

N-No, I Guan Xin gulped, a little embarrassed. Lin Yi, do you wanna eat instant noodles?

Me? I could Lin Yi was a bit troubled- why was this girl so intent on making him eat instant noodles? He didnt want to reject her to her face, however.

Thats great! I like instant noodles too- Ill go make some right now? Gua Xin said a little happily. Ill go right now

Guan Xin, sit down! Xuemin didnt even call her Xin Xin anymore- he was furious.

Okay Guan Xin replied, upset. Unable to tell them the truth, she sat there silently, regretting how shed sabotaged the food She couldve prepared them normally and not put too much effort, that wouldve been so much better

Ah Its been a while since Ive had instant noodles, I kinda miss it too. Lin Yi smiled. Grandpa Guan, shes just a bit too passionate, dont get angry

Guan Xin looked at Lin Yi gratefully- the guy was speaking up for her even when she was about to poison him What a nice guy! Yes, he wouldnt have tanked a bullet for her if he werent a nice guy.

Girls at Guan Yins age liked to fantasize about romantic situations- they wanted a prince charming to protect them, watch over them Lin Yi wasnt that good a person as Guan Yin imagined him to be, but she decided on her own that Lin Yi was a prince charming anyway

Lin Yi took the bullet without thinking about the person behind him was- he just didnt want someone innocent to get hurt. Saving Guan Yin today at the hospital was the same as well: he wouldve saved any other person he knew in the same situation

Would Guan Xin still think the same of Lin Yi if she found out that hed saved her as fast as he could so that hed get a kiss from Tang Yin..?

Xuemin was confused as she looked at that gratitude in Guan Xins eyes as she looked at Lin Yi- the two didnt seem to have a problem with each other at all..? Exactly what kind of relationship were they in, how come Lin Yi was cooperating with her like this?

Alright, lets leave it at that- Ill start us off! Xuemin put a piece of eel in his mouth, much to Guan Xins dismay She had a bitter expression on her face as she waited for her grandpa to scold her

Hmm, such tender meat Not ba- pffft-!! Xuemins eyes widened as he spat the eel out, fanning at his open mouth as he looked at the eel. What did you put in this? Oh my Xuemin was enjoying the eels texture when a sudden burst of hotness rushed up his nose, tearing up his eyes.

Sorry grandpa Guan Xin quickly handed a bottle of water to Xuemin. I accidentally spilled the mustard on it earlier

Mustard? Xuemin took a mouthful of water. Whyd you serve the dish then?

I was trying to bring it back to the kitchen But grandpa, you wouldnt let me Guan Xin said carefully.

Its alright, forget it- well skip the eel Here, well let Aunt Liu take care of that. Lets continue! Xuemin waved his hand helplessly. Sorry you had to see that, Yi! Xin Xin isnt usually like this- she mightve gotten a bit clumsy when she heard that you were coming over. Shes a really good cook- have a try.

Lin Yi looked at the eel Aunt Liu was taking away, curious. Spilled mustard..?

He reached for the plate of bamboo shoot fried meat with his chopsticks, and moved it to his mouth when Guan Xin spoke up. Wait!

? Lin Yi turned to Guan Xin.

Maybe we really should just have some instant noodles Guan Xin said weakly.

Ah Lin Yi had a pretty good idea what was going on at that point He put the meat into his mouth. Yes, it was very salty He tried some of the other dishes, all of which were either too sweet, too spicy, or too sour. None of them were any good.

Well? Not bad, right? Xuemin, on the other hand, was waiting for Lin Yis praise. Lin Yi would be visiting for medical discussions with him often if they had food to appeal to his appetite.

Its okay Lin Yi smiled bitterly.

Hm? Xuemin wasnt expecting that- wasnt this Lin Yis standard way too high? Its okay? No one said that to food his granddaughter made, it just never happened! All of his friends would shower her with praise upon tasting her cooking, and even their sons and children would shamelessly visit for more

His granddaughter was the renowned Godly Miss Universe of the Kitchen!!

Yet he couldnt really argue against that- Lin Yi had spoken. He was still Xuemins mentor figure, after all.

Haha, youve quite high standards, Yi. This old man thinks theyre pretty good already! Xuemin then put a piece of bamboo shoot fried meat into his mouth.

High standards..? Lin Yi smiled bitterly- hed betrayed himself enough just by saying it was okay already Pfft-!!! Xuemin spat the meat out instantly and reached for his water. Did you kill the salt guy, Xin Xin?!

Guan Xin only lowered her head, too ashamed and humiliated to look at Xuemin and Lin Yi.

Xuemin quickly tested the other dishes, and after spitting them out he finally understood what Lin Yi meant by okay.

Labeling this food as okay was a grade it absolutely didnt deserve

The food today could only be described as horrible. Absolutely horrible!

Xin Xin what..? Xuemins eyes were wide open. This isnt like what you usually make?

Ah Grandpa Guan, maybe its because of today- Lin Yi was about to speak up for Guan Xin when she interrupted him.

She couldnt let her grandpa know what had happened today- hed worry. She decided to come clean. Sorry, grandpa.. I actually did it on purpose

On purpose? Youre saying you made bad food on purpose? Whats the meaning of this? Xuemin wasnt expecting that answer.

You told me that some young man was coming over, that you wanted me and him to get to know each other I didnt want to, so I made the food taste bad on purpose Guan Xin said carefully.