

Chapter 1731: Untitled

Ye Jian didn't let go of the dog even though it was struggling even harder. Instead, she held onto the neck of the dog tightly and pressed it against its shoulder. This action was to prevent the dog from biting her in the neck.

Although Ye Jian's arm strength was weaker than her leg strength, she was still stronger than the average female soldier. She grabbed the dog's neck with both hands, making it unable to escape from her hands even if it struggled with all its limbs.

Not only was she gripping the military dog with both hands but she had also wrapped herself around the lower half of the military dog's body. Ye Jian gritted her teeth and took a deep breath. Then, she turned around and pressed the military dog onto the gravel like she was subduing an enemy.

Her eyes shone with an even fiercer light than a wild beast's. She stared at the struggling dog with hostility.

The tag with the number '16' was pulled down by her. She raised her head and stared at the soldier beside her with her fierce and cold eyes. "Have I passed?"

"Yes!" The soldier rushed over with a dark expression. He was worried that his beloved dog would be injured, so he squatted down and said to the female soldier who took less than five minutes to take Soldier down. "I'll bring it away from you later. Relax a little. The gravel is uneven, it'll hurt its back."

The soldiers at the military dog training base had a deep bond with the military dogs they trained. After raising them for a long time, they treated the military dogs as their comrades.

Hence, when the soldier saw the dog being restrained by Ye Jian until it let out a painful whimper, his heart ached. "It's just following orders. If I hadn't given the order, it wouldn't have attacked you."

Hearing this, Ye Jian loosened her grip on the dog. She waited for the soldier to tie the dog up with the leash before caressing the dog until its fur no longer stood on end. Only then did Ye Jian feel relieved.

The dog quickly got up and sat down on his hind legs. It obediently squatted beside the soldier and stuck out its long tongue. Although it was powerful, it had already retracted its attack power.

"This is a military dog that has performed meritorious service. It once killed two armed rioters while patrolling with us at the border. It's quite aggressive. Once it pounces on its victim, the average person would have no chance of winning."

The soldier, who had been tanned by the northern sun, squatted down together with the military dog that had made meritorious contributions. They squatted side by side like brothers. The soldier lightly scratched the dog's head. The eyes of the unyielding man were exceptionally gentle. "Your performance was excellent, Brother!"

After saying that, he raised his head and smiled at Ye Jian. "Since you've removed the serial number, I can bring it back to the team."

When the dog licked the soldier's palm, he stood up and saluted Ye Jian.

The military dog sat obediently by the soldier's feet. The soldier treated it as a brother, but it also treated the soldier as its brother and protected him.

After watching them leave, Ye Jian sat on the cold gravel and shook her arms.

"You're so nervous that your arm muscles are twitching." Xia Jinyuan walked out and knelt down. He massaged Ye Jian's arms and asked calmly, "Were you afraid?"

He was strong, so the muscles on her arms gradually relaxed. Ye Jian smiled bitterly and replied, "Of course, I was afraid. But it's useless to be afraid. I have to face it."

"After facing it, you'll realize that what you're afraid of is nothing." Xia Jinyuan looked at her intently and slowly raised his lips. He smiled with a dotting look in his eyes. "Everything is nothing but pride."

Chapter 1732: Nothing's A Big Deal

As long as one faced it calmly, nothing was a big deal.

Ye Jian stood up and smiled at the young major who was walking toward her. Then, the major walked closer and hugged the brave female soldier who was brave enough to win. He smiled and said, "Good job, Azure Bird!"

His little fox did a good job!

In the gray Gobi that stretched for who knew how many miles, the young female soldier was as beautiful as a painting. She smiled lightly. Her smile was like the only bright scenery in this monotonous world, making her comrades who walked closer to her laugh with joy.

Good job, Azure Bird. Good job, comrade!

As the sounds of their comrades taking down the military dogs kept coming from their earpieces, the two teams moved faster and faster into the depths of the Gobi. Five kilometers was not too far, but to the two teams, this was an extremely short distance.

The area two kilometers away from the hills was suitable for ambushes. They were waiting for news from the scouts that they had sent out earlier.

It was already three o'clock in the afternoon. The cold wind in the Gobi was like a knife cutting through one's flesh. Ye Jian gently covered her nose that was so cold that it seemed like she could pull it off with a gentle tug. She breathed out hot air.

From where she was, she could already see the undulating hills. The terrain of the road into the hills was open. If they were to march straight ahead and there was really an ambush ahead, and if the enemy had a sniper, they would definitely be able to shoot them one person at a time.

The terrain was open and there was little vegetation. Even if the scouts confirmed that there was nothing wrong, as the team leaders, Li Jinnian and Xia Jinyuan wouldn't march too far.

After being chased by the military dogs for so long, they would not believe that the military had only sent the military dogs to chase them and exhaust their stamina.

The Gobi training was normal for the members of the Xueyu unit. For the members of Storm Commando who were used to fighting on the sea, this was a rare opportunity for them to improve themselves.

The decision to mix the teams was undoubtedly the best. It would allow the members of Storm Commando to see the strengths of the Xueyu unit.

Xia Jinyuan gently slid down from behind a pile of gravel. Holding his gun, he turned around and squatted on the ground with his long legs. He handed the binoculars to Li Jinnian. "It might be a little difficult to pass through the front in the day. Also, I'm afraid it'll snow tonight. We can either pass through before it snows or after it snows."

Snow?

Although the weather was a little dark, there was no sign of snow. Li Jinnian took the binoculars and didn't immediately ask about it. Instead, he started observing the weather.

In this Gobi training, observing weather changes was also part of life training.

Life training was mainly to familiarize themselves with sandstorms and weather changes. For Storm Commando, these were their weaknesses—even for someone as strong as Li Jinnian.

He scanned the sky with his binoculars but didn't see anything unusual. Then, he asked Xia Jinyuan, "How did you deduce that it would snow?"

"The wind direction, the changes in the clouds, and the direction of the Gobi dust accumulation are all signs of the changes in the weather." Xia Jinyuan glanced at Ye Jian, who was repairing a gun for Pigeon, who was about two meters away from him. He told Li Jinnian everything without hiding anything. "The citizens of the northern frontier who live near the Gobi know how to observe the weather. You can ask them for advice when the time comes."

The speed at which Ye Jian dismantled the gun was really fast. This gun was no different from a toy gun in her hands. She dismantled it within a few minutes.

Chapter 1733: Problem

"Fine sand has entered the throttle valve and manual safety. If the two positions are stuck, there's no way to fix it. Just brush the fine sand out." Ye Jian, who had meticulously checked everything, explained the reason why the gun was malfunctioning. However, she didn't notice that Xia Jinyuan was looking at her.

The gun had fallen into a sandpit when Eel was avoiding the dogs' pursuit. He was caught off guard, causing fine sand to go into the gun. Now, the bolt could not be moved.

The Storm Commando member with the code name 'Eel' did not look too good. A gun was important for a soldier. This mistake of his had directly caused a problem with the gun. When he returned, he would take the initiative to receive punishment.

Ye Jian could tell that he didn't look too good. However, she couldn't comfort him. If he couldn't protect the gun in his hand, that meant he couldn't protect his life. It was normal for him to be in a bad mood.

After Ye Jian reassembled the gun, Xia Jinyuan continued to share his experience with Li Jinnian. "The desert is much more dangerous than the Gobi. If you don't prepare in advance or lack experience, you'll be at a disadvantage.

"The wind in the desert is strong, the ground is soft, and sandstorms can trigger desert whirlpools. How can I familiarize myself with the characteristics of sandstorms in advance and know the weather changes? Only by walking into the desert and the Gobi can I truly grasp it with the accumulation of experience.

"The desert training mainly includes life, in mobility, technology, tactics, and logistics training. This time, logistics can be omitted. The rest of the training is essential."

Familiarizing themselves with the characteristics of sandstorms and the laws of meteorological change was part of life training, and it was also the weakness of Storm Commando's members. They urgently needed to understand and improve their knowledge not only in life training, but also mobility, technology, and tactics.

Li Jinnian listened attentively while Xia Jinyuan explained in detail.

The operation training this time was mainly focused on how to march through the gravel and sand region as quickly as possible as well as how to deal with the changes in the environment. Getting tracked by military dogs was one of the unexpected situations!

Tactical training is to master the characteristics and principles of offensive and defensive combat in the Gobi Desert and other deserts, as well as to improve coordinated operations. Like the mixed formation of two teams, it's a coordinated operation.

The two of them talked for about five minutes. Then, Ye Jian's voice came through the earpiece.

"Everyone, check if there's anything wrong with the guns in your hands. I suspect that the guns that the military gave us were intentionally faulty. There are already three guns that were filled with sand."

Each gun was developed following rigorous experiments to prevent wind, sand, and rain. The guns in their hands were the latest advanced guns in the country. When the design was completed, they had used wind caves to simulate wind movements above level 12. Countless tests were done.

Now, they were only running around the Gobi with guns in their arms but the sand had already entered three guns... Guns that had undergone rigorous testing would not be so easily broken by fine sand.

As such, Ye Jian couldn't help but suspect.

As soon as she finished her sentence, several voices responded after a minute... All their guns were problematic! There was no exception!

“How ruthless! They even gave us faulty guns. There’s no need to guess. There must be an ambush lying ahead!” J5 said with a smile. Even his voice was filled with laughter. However, his face that was painted on was slightly cold.

Chapter 1734: Be Careful, Comrades

Faulty guns and military dogs. This time, the military had prepared really severe training for the two teams. They were doing whatever they wanted!

J5 counted the number of faulty guns. When the count was done, everyone could not help but sneer. There was a problem with all 12 guns! When they were collecting their equipment, the commander-in-chief of the navy had even smiled and said, “Although we’re not giving you GPS and a compass, all the other equipment given are among the best.”

Yes, what they received indeed appeared top-notch. When they saw the list of combat training equipment, everyone was shocked.

Their helmets were Kevlar. It was a helmet that could not only withstand bullets and shrapnel but also become a ‘second brain’ for soldiers. It contained a miniature radio, a microphone, and a pair of earphones. There was also a piece of radar equipment on the upper part of the helmet. This equipment allowed the commander to know the exact location of the soldiers at all times.

He had a ‘main battle weapon’ in his hand. Unfortunately, there were 12 faulty guns. There was also a ‘self-defense weapon’, a pistol, and a combat dagger.

They were equipped with goggles, combat uniforms, bulletproof vests, and the latest equipment. The equipment was even more advanced than the ones they had when they returned from Harbor City to carry out missions.

There was also quite a lot of combat equipment, from survival signal lights to anti-lightning equipment, to thermal imaging equipment, special glasses... All of them!

Looking at the expensive equipment, the members of the two teams looked at each other. They all had the same expression on their faces. The equipment was too good, so good that it made their hearts race!

The situation here was a little tricky.

There was no free lunch in the world!

Although it wasn’t very nice to say that about the military, the military was indeed doing something unkind!

Xia Jinyuan weighed the 'faulty' rifle in his hand. His thin lips curled up slightly as he said leisurely, "Looks like the ambush ahead will be challenging. Demon King Li, we have to go all out."

Beside him, the demon king maintained his cold expression which he showed all year round. He replied calmly, "Let's wait and see."

The channel was in an uproar, especially the 'wild wolves' from the Xueyu unit. They rubbed their fists, and their eyes were filled with anger. "Just nice, we've been waiting for a big fight. I like it!"

"You two, make the arrangements! They want to capture us but we'll destroy them!"

According to the training arrangements, there would be anti-war and anti-annihilation.

As the commander, Xia Jinyuan wasn't anxious at all. When he heard the discussion in the channel, he flicked the microphone with his finger and the channel returned to normal within a second.

"Everyone, calm down. The scouts have been gone for an hour and seven minutes. There's still no news of them. Even if we want to go all out, I won't fight a battle without information."

"A special forces unit has been active in the Northern Frontier for a long time. At this time, winter training is held to help them resist the cold and fatigue. I'm guessing that if there's an ambush ahead, it might be by this special forces unit."

Li Jinnian narrowed his eyes slightly and said in a deep voice, "The Blue Wolf Special Forces. In order to take care of the Northern Frontier, they were the first special forces unit that was sent out. From the 1970s to the early 1980s, there was a world-class sniper in this unit known as 'Kui'."

A world-class sniper... Ye Jian's eyelids twitched when she heard this. For some reason, she started to panic.

Very quickly, this inexplicable panic was suppressed by an even bigger question.

Chapter 1735: The "Wolves" Of The Northern Frontier

Kui was a one legged-monster in the ancient myths of the country. It was shaped like an ox and had a blue body without horns. It only had one foot. When it stepped into the water, it would cause wind and rain. Its voice was like thunder and it was known as Kui.

For some reason, when she heard Li Jinnian mention 'world-class ace sniper', she suddenly thought of Uncle Chen.

"Yes, I suspect that the brothers from this special forces unit are waiting for us." Xia Jinyuan nodded. There was a hint of sharpness in his calm voice. "The 'wolves' of the Northern Frontier are not easy to deal with. Everyone, be prepared. You didn't come all the way here to embarrass yourself."

This was the Xueyu unit's territory. Storm Commando listened quietly. They had to listen quietly because this was the time to gain valuable experience.

Even Demon King Li Jinnian didn't say anything!

If it was really the Blue Wolf Special Forces, the Gobi Desert and the beach were their home ground. They had probably trained to the point where they could walk around with their eyes closed.

Li Jinnian once again admired Xia Jinyuan's ability to command and deploy troops. He always took a step ahead of others in every battle. This step determined the outcome of the battle.

Two kilometers away from them, a soldier wearing a camouflage suit that was similar to the color of the Gobi Desert lowered his binoculars and quietly said to his comrade beside him, "Don't tell me they're not coming. It's been a few hours. If they're coming, they should have come long ago."

From his tone, one could tell that he was a soldier who lacked experience and needed training.

There seemed to be no one around him, but there someone was heard speaking softly. "Pulling you guys here to train is like providing a live target for others. New recruit, do you think that head of yours is too heavy and wish to get shot in the head?"

"Get on the ground!"

A cold voice came from under a pile of gravel. It was a veteran of the Blue Wolf Special Forces who was perfectly disguised. He was leading a group of new recruits for winter training.

The day before they returned to the camp, they received orders from their superiors that a group of brothers from the south had entered the Gobi Desert to complete the winter training. They were asked to guide the soldiers from the south.

The soldiers of the south were afraid of the cold! The soldiers of the north knew this!

After running to the Gobi Desert to complete the winter training, he was really worried that they would turn into human-shaped 'popsicles' in the middle of the night.

There weren't many of them, only about 40. The personnel and their strength were unknown. The only information they knew was that their superiors had told them that the brothers who had come this time were all tough characters.

The words 'tough character' ignited the entire unit's desire for battle.

To be honest, they had seen a lot of tough characters from the south coming to the northern border to train. However, when they reached the northern border, they were all scared by the temperature at night. Ha, they didn't see much toughness in these soldiers from the south.

Hopefully, these 'tough characters' were really tough and not soft after coming to the northern border.

After lecturing the new recruit, the veteran continued to lie motionless on high ground. From where he was, he could see everything within a thousand meters of him.

About 900 meters away from him, Long Eagle, who was also in perfect disguise, was quietly lying on the ground. "After guarding for two hours, I finally spotted them. They're 920 meters away from me. There are two scouts. It's 100% certain that a veteran is leading the new recruits."

Only new recruits could not help but move their bodies from time to time. As veterans, they could endure it. It was not a problem for them to lie down for a day and night.

According to Q King, Azure Bird could lie on the ground for three days and three nights to complete a sniping mission. She would not drink even a mouthful of water or eat even a mouthful of food.. In the end, she would successfully and accurately complete the sniping mission.

Chapter 1736: Enough

Azure Bird was a very interesting female soldier. If she were to be on her guard, no one would notice her.

Two kilometers away, Xia Jinyuan finally received the intelligence from the reconnaissance commander, Long Eagle. He knew that there was an ambush. However, he couldn't estimate how many people there were. It was hard to estimate.

They waited for the sky to turn dark. The only way to fight in the Gobi Desert was to wait for the sky to turn dark. If they did not wait till the sky turned dark and they directly went over, they would all be taken down with a swoosh. The whole team would then have to go back with their tails between their legs.

He would not lose his dignity like that.

Since he had come here, he would have a good fight with his brothers from the Northern Frontier. After that, they would have a chat about the food in the army. They would talk about how they felt every time they were talked to by the chief. Then, they would talk about their lives, their ideals, and their aspirations. Only then would they not be embarrassed.

Xia Jinyuan's patience was exceptionally good. He was so patient that the other party was frustrated by him. All of them stretched their necks and waited for the 'tough characters' from the south.

"If I didn't know that they were definitely going to pass us, I would have sent a few soldiers to the front to see if there were any detours." The Blue Wolf Special Forces had already discussed this in private several times. It had been several hours since the other team took down the military dogs. If not for the company commander personally confirming that the tough characters from the south would pass by them, they would have thought that they were not coming.

"From the looks of it, they're planning to wait for the sky to turn dark. The scouts in front are ready, especially the new recruits. Keep your heads down. Whoever can't take it will wash all of our combat uniforms!"

The company commander leading the team gritted his teeth and widened his eyes in excitement.

This was their first time encountering southern soldiers who dared to fight at night in the Northern Frontier. Their courage was extraordinary. They wanted to let them have a taste of the power of the Northern Frontier veterans.

Someone replied, "The other party is probably used to fighting at night. Company Commander, we have to take it seriously. We can't be careless."

"Did you hear that? Remember what Mr. Zhuge said!" The company commander, who was in disguise, took a bite of the steamed bun that was so hard that it hurt his teeth. Then, he grabbed a handful of snow and threw it into his mouth. The snow was mixed with the steamed bun that was as hard as a rock. When he chewed it, it made a crunching sound. It was like a hungry wolf gnawing on a human bone. Hearing it made others panic.

Mr. Zhuge was the most intelligent person in the company, and he was also the only college student. He had a high IQ and many ideas. When he first came, he had a proud look on his face, but in less than two months, his arrogance was gone. After two years, his arrogance had become wolf-like and he was even more ruthless than the company commander.

Hence, the new recruits were not afraid of the company commander but Mr. Zhuge.

With his reminder, all the veterans and recruits in the team were fully alert, not daring to relax at all.

It was already dark.

Mr. Zhuge said to the company commander alone, "The temperature has dropped and it's snowing heavily at night. They either don't know the weather or they know it very well. They're doing this on purpose. Company Commander, I'm afraid that these tough characters are really tough. We have to be careful."

"Of course, I don't think of them as cowards either." The company commander who had fought with many outlaws blinked his eyes and stared at the front with an extremely sharp gaze. "If they really know the weather in the Gobi Desert, they're really a group of true men!"

The Blue Wolf Special Forces, which had produced countless heroes and done countless heroic deeds, only respected real men and real soldiers!

The sharp wind did not feel hot when brushed against their bodies. The heavy snow drifted wantonly and followed the wind. Not only was there snow and wind but also sand. After walking for a few steps, their goggles would be covered in a layer of dust.

They would wipe them off and start moving after signaling with hand gestures. One after another, they moved toward the hills. Anti-annihilation training had begun.

Chapter 1737: Their Faith

The wind in the Gobi Desert was different from the wind in the mountains, plains, and grasslands. When it blew, it felt like there was a barrier that couldn't be touched or seen. If one walked with vigor, it seemed like they would hit the barrier and bounce back.

Even though the wind was strong, it did not blow away the snow. The wind carried large amounts of snowflakes and blew over, affecting the entire army.

The major general in the command center heard the howling of the wind outside. He stood up and walked out of the tent.

There were two sentinels standing guard outside the tent. When they saw the major general coming out, they immediately saluted. Their military boots hit the ground, and pieces of crystal clear ice fell from their heels.

After a few hours of standing guard, even their eyelashes were covered with a layer of white fluffy snow, not to mention their bodies. There was a pile of snow that was as deep as a pinky finger on their shoulders.

The major general of the army glanced at the two sentinels and patted the snow off their shoulders. He then walked away without saying a word.

"Old Dong." He walked over to the commander-in-chief of the navy who had come out three to five minutes earlier than him. They stood side by side and looked into the distance. "They've already made their move. Let's see if they can take down the hills within two hours."

The commander-in-chief of the navy was still holding an infrared telescope in his hand. Before the heavy snowfall, he could still see into the distance clearly. Now even with the infrared telescope, it was useless.

He looked at the major general who was standing with him and then looked at the weather. He said worriedly, "The weather is terrible. I'm worried about them."

Since the formation of Storm Commando, they had never gone to the Gobi Desert for training. Now that it was snowing heavily, the members of the southern troops were probably not used to it.

The major general could understand what he was feeling, but this was a necessary measure. "Our special forces are aiming for 'amphibious', and after nearly five years of hard work, we've basically achieved it. Old Dong, Storm Commando has only been established for a little over a year. There's more than just one or two obstacles to overcome. There are even more difficult peaks ahead waiting for you to conquer.

"It's normal to be worried. No one wants any accidents to happen. However, Old Dong, we all need to be mentally prepared. There will be casualties if we arrange such training."

This was a warning to the commander-in-chief of the navy. Since the establishment of the Xueyu unit, there had been accidents in training. Even though this was a special forces unit, there were still casualties.

Storm Commando still lacked experience. If any accident happened, it would be within the normal casualty rate.

The commander-in-chief's voice was low and hoarse. These are things that must be done and paths that must be taken. As a soldier, they have no choice.

They were his soldiers. All of them were unyielding men with a common belief and goal. They could live and die for this belief.

He didn't want any accidents to happen to any of them. It wouldn't be a small accident for them. It would be a life and death accident.

The commander-in-chief raised his hand and patted the snow on his shoulder.. In the snow and wind, he sighed softly.

Chapter 1738: Do Not Lower Your Head So Easily

The commander-in-chief raised his hand and patted the snow off his shoulder. In the snow and wind, he sighed softly.

The major general seemed to have heard him. He patted the commander-in-chief whom he had known for more than ten years and said half-jokingly, "Old Dong, you have a problem. You like to complicate things.

"Since you know in your heart that this is a path that a soldier must take, what's there to be anxious about? With such bad weather and my soldiers experiencing the same thing, I'm worried about them too.

"However, although I'm worried about them, I believe in the abilities of the two commanders. I believe that they have the ability to deal with bad weather. The worse the environment is, the more they can train their combat ability. I believe that they'll complete the annihilation mission perfectly."

"Go, go, go. Let's talk inside. I can't even open my mouth when I talk outside."

The battlefield was ever-changing. Even if they deployed in advance, new unexpected situations would occur. The purpose of the training was to give all the soldiers the ability to deal with the ever-changing situation.

The major general of the army was never afraid of leaving Xia Jinyuan and his special forces team to train at dangerous places. He would let them go wherever it was tough. The most dangerous places in the north, south, west, and east were all conquered by the Xueyu unit.

Old Dong was a man who could take things lying down and was decisive in his actions. It was normal for him to be worried when he saw such bad weather.

This was because Storm Commando had only been established for a short period of time. It was so short that the military sometimes feared that something would happen to this team.

It was secretly formed by the navy. Although it was established less than two years ago, Demon King Li was in it. He was quite powerful and had received harsh training. When faced with doubts, he would grit his teeth and endure it. He also trained Storm Commando into a troop of the navy!

Although Demon King Li was young, his military qualities, ideology, willpower, and personal abilities were all top-notch. How could such a soldier be lacking?

Therefore, even though the weather was terrible, he believed that with Demon King Li's ability, there would definitely not be any accidents.

Moreover, Xia Jinyuan was there too. He believed that they had started fighting with Blue Wolf.

The commander-in-chief of the navy walked into the tent while being followed by cold air. When he saw that the major general was calm and didn't look worried, he couldn't help but feel emotional.

Li Jinnian was right. Their special forces were still too weak. Compared to the Xueyu unit that had decades of history, there were still many things that they needed to learn and strengthen.

To be honest, it was Storm Commando that benefited from this team training.

They were a special battle team that was a sharp knife in the sea of China. However, compared to the Xueyu unit, the difference was huge.

Thinking about the report that Li Jinnian submitted, the commander's eyes darkened. Li Jinnian said that a month of training with the Xueyu unit was equivalent to half a year of training.

They could learn so much!

This anti-annihilation training would benefit them greatly.

At the thought of this, the commander-in-chief's worry lessened a little. Storm Commando, known as tigers on land and dragons on seas, was definitely worthy of their reputation!

Chapter 1739: Here Comes The Kicker

The counter-annihilation had already begun. The first sentry post had been destroyed by the four assault teams of Storm Commando. All of them used their bare hands, and none of them had used high-end weapons.

"How satisfying, how satisfying! This fight is so satisfying!"

The veteran from the Blue Wolf Special Forces did not move from their spot in the snowstorm. They were caught up by the counterattack.

The new recruit beside got up and wanted to reach out to pull up the veteran who was defeated. He asked, "The company commander has been waiting for a long time. He'll definitely have a good time later."

He had been taken down from behind. He was like a rattlesnake hidden in the desert. He was taken down with one strike and could never attack again.

The veteran did not let the new recruit help him up. He stood up like a carp and laughed, "They're indeed really tough characters! They definitely have all kinds of skills and are proficient in all kinds of martial arts. They're definitely not inferior to our northern army!"

Naturally, it would not be bad.

The Blue Wolf Special Forces were part of the Northern Frontier Military Region's company. They were famous in the Northern Frontier Military Region. However, compared to the two special forces that were like the sharp blades of the country, they were still lacking in strength.

The members of the Xueyu unit were chosen from the special forces of the various military regions and the top soldiers of the various military regions.

It was the same for Storm Commando. The elites among the elites would not have any problems facing the elites of the military.

The Blue Wolf Special Forces was a famous combat unit in the Northern Frontier Military District. They were the only ones who were allowed to fight others. They had never been beaten by others before.

When the company commander lost contact with Sentinel 1 and 2, he knew that they had really encountered a tough opponent this time. They were a field force and were not afraid of tough opponents at all!

"If you're here, just use your fists. Don't dawdle like a woman. The Southern soldiers are already brandishing their sharp knives. We can polish them brighter and sharpen them. Don't lose the dignity of the Northern Frontier Military District. Do you hear me?"

The company commander was from the Black River and was a native of the north. He spoke with an accent. Usually, when he scolded them, he wouldn't have to repeat himself.

The moment he spoke, the entire company's soldiers tensed up.

Mr. Zhuge spoke up. "The Gobi Desert is a region that we're familiar with. We're not familiar with the brothers from the south. We have the advantage in terms of region. Also, we have almost 100 people lying on the ground, but there are only 40 of them. In terms of numbers, we have the advantage. There is still a possibility of winning. But..."

The words at the beginning had boosted the confidence of the new soldiers from the Blue Wolf Special Forces. However, when they heard that there was still a 'but' at the end, they were stunned.

"However, it's obvious that the other party is familiar with the Gobi Desert as well and isn't afraid of the wind and snow. Therefore, brothers, this will be a tough battle!"

The company commander: "...” Was it necessary for this fellow to explain everything in detail? Wasn't this affecting the morale of the troops?

After listening to him, Ye Jian quietly returned the earpiece to Scout No. 4 and said softly, "The person speaking is your strategist, right?"

The voice in the beginning was so rough. Needless to say, it must be the company commander.

The veteran shut his mouth and wiped his hands across his neck, indicating that he was dead and had nothing to say. However, he was anxious deep down.

Did a group of female soldiers come? Did a group of female soldiers come to fight?

Chapter 1740: Skinned Alive

The fallen veteran watched as the figure, who was obviously much thinner than a male soldier, gradually disappeared into the snow. He was so anxious that he grabbed a handful of snow and stuffed it into his mouth, chewing it.

A female soldier came to the Gobi for training?

Which military region was she from? Why did they send female soldiers over? They had never encountered a female soldier who was sent to the Gobi for training!

What made him even more unable to accept it was that he was actually dealt with by a female soldier! And it was done so easily! What made him unable to accept it... was that he actually only found out that she was a female soldier only after she spoke!

He didn't know that it was a female soldier when they were fighting, nor did he expect that it would be a female soldier! A female soldier was here in the Gobi for training. This was the first time he heard of it!

"We are the fourth outpost. Has the outpost in front been taken care of?" The recruit who was the first to be taken down crawled over. He didn't realize that the one who dealt with him was a female soldier. The wind was too strong and the snow was too heavy. He couldn't even hear her clearly when she was speaking.

Moreover, Ye Jian didn't even make a sound when she dealt with the new recruits.

The tradition of the Blue Wolf Special Forces was that the veterans would lead the new recruits in every training. The veterans would lead the new recruits on duty and bring the new recruits around in the rain and wind. For normal missions like patrolling, the veterans would also lead the new recruits.

The same went for the sentries. All of the veterans would bring around the new recruits.

The new recruits who hadn't realized that the veterans were acting weird were all a little nervous.

"When we return to the team, will we be skinned alive by the company commander?"

“New recruits, be mentally prepared. It’s not a big deal to be skinned alive. I’m just afraid that even our bones will be torn apart by the company commander.” The veteran got up and looked in the direction where the female soldier disappeared. He turned his head and smiled at the new recruit. Then, he patted the new recruit’s shoulder heavily. “The one who took us down just now was a female soldier. Yes, a female soldier. A female soldier took down two of our male soldiers.

“Don’t look so surprised. I’m surprised too. I didn’t make a mistake. The female soldier who talked to me just now was really a female soldier. She took down both of us.”

The veteran rubbed his face and looked at the new recruit whose face was pale under the light. He could not bear to see him like this. The new recruit’s reaction... It was the same for him! He might even be in a worse state!

If even the veterans were dealt with by the female soldier, how would the company commander deal with them?

After the fourth sentry post was taken care of, the company commander of the Blue Wolf Special Forces naturally could not contact them anymore. The company commander who did not receive a reply knew that the four sentry posts he had arranged had all lost. The ‘tough characters’ from the south had already infiltrated their defensive positions.

The wind, snow, and the sky were dark. This was the best way to conceal themselves. The two teams braved the wind and snow to enter the middle section of the hill. This section was also the most dangerous section. The slopes on both sides made excellent cover. If someone was hiding, they wouldn’t be discovered for a while.

But carpet searches had been carried out on both sides of the uphill slope. The area had been cleared.

“The area has been cleared.” Ye Jian’s cold voice was heard in everyone’s earpieces. It was very low and soft, calm and determined.

Xia Jinyuan smiled and said to her, “Enter the next area and complete the clearing mission. I’ll wait for you in front. We’ll arrive in ten minutes.”

He had completed his search.. He didn’t find anything, so Ye Jian could proceed according to the original route.
