

Boss, Your Wife's Asking For A Divorce, Again Chapter 924

Curtis noticed Toby's sudden change in expression so he followed Toby's gaze. Curtis then observed Toby glancing at his own left arm and the former instantly recalled that his wife had mentioned to him previously how the latter had broken his arm while rescuing Sonia.

He had thought that Grace was just joking back then. After all, he couldn't imagine what sort of danger Sonia could be subjected to for Toby to actually break his arm to rescue her.

However, it seemed right now that Grace was telling the truth.

"Toby, your arm's not fully recovered yet so give me some of the items and I'll carry them inside." As soon as Curtis said that, he reached out and removed the items from Toby's left arm.

Curtis instantly felt the weight of the presents as soon as he took them from Toby. Surprised, Curtis asked, "What's inside? It seems quite heavy."

"Little Leaf mentioned that you enjoy occasional drinks and you're a wine collector. I was in possession of a few great wines so I've brought them along with me today." Toby flexed his left arm as he spoke.

At that point, he was not carrying anything on his left arm so the pain gradually dissipated.

Meanwhile, Curtis's expression brightened upon hearing that he had in his hands some wine. "Oh, did you bring me wine? That's great. That's really great."

Curtis repeated great twice and his expression was joyful as he spoke.

Evidently, Curtis was a wine lover.

As for Toby, he couldn't help chuckling upon noticing that. "Mr. Lane, I'm glad that you like it."

"Yes, of course! I love wine," Curtis replied hastily.

Although he had not seen the wine gifted by Toby, he was quite sure that something from Toby would definitely be of good quality.

Perhaps it was much better than the precious wines in his collection.

At that point, he was quite excited at the thought of it and he became increasingly enthusiastic. He quickly made a welcome gesture at Toby to invite him inside. "Alright, Toby. Let's quickly head inside. They've gone inside for quite some time now so they must be waiting."

head slightly living room of the mansion, Sonia and Grace sat side by side.

something happy

Toby noticed the beaming smile and bright eyes on Sonia's face and he couldn't help but reveal take a seat." Curtis put down the paper bags in seat while Curtis lifting his hand over Curtis's hand. "Mr. Lane, there's no need to trouble yourself for it would reflect quite badly for an elder to serve with each other as business associates. He was a father-in-law meeting his son-in-law for the first time. As such, it from the teapot and revealed an awkward smile. "I'm sorry. I'm still not used to this change

Toby smiled. "It's fine."

tea. He handed the first one to Curtis and the former felt quite flattered at that point. Gosh. It's tea served to me personally by the president of Fuller she was quite nonchalant about everything. Unlike Curtis, felt quite pleased by Toby's action of serving them tea. After all, he was able to forsake his status to

of the tea, she stood up and said, "It's quite late now. I'll just pop into the kitchen to check on the dishes and

and she glanced

responded with a

Grace

soon as they got to the kitchen, they saw the chefs busy the menu before nodding her head. "Dinner should be ready soon.

she couldn't help exclaiming upon seeing the multiple dishes of sumptuous food. "There are so many dishes and favorite dishes because you're not always here for Lane, you're too kind." Sonia wrapped her arms around Grace's waist her head.

a kid in your eyes, right?" Sonia smiled be a kid in my