Chapter 101 It Is Just a Coincidence

The Buchanna Group was a major shareholder of their hospital, one that they could not afford to offend.

Lawrence listened carefully to what Carter had to say. Despite being surprised, Lawrence kept nodding, "I understand! Don't worry, I will do it immediately."

The moment Carter hung up the phone, Lawrence rushed to the inpatient department. There, Jay was forced to be discharged from the hospital.

"How can you treat Jay like this! He is a VIP customer of your hospital. And he is still not feeling well yet!" Layla was anxious.

But no matter how hard Layla tried, the hospital remained tough on them.

"Sorry, you can't stay in our hospital anymore."

Then they shoved Jay, who had just changed out of his hospital gown, out of the hospital.

Layla wanted to keep reasoning with them, but Jay, looking cold, stopped her. "Mom, stop! Someone must have instructed them to do this."

"Who? Who dares to take the Keen family lightly!" Layla was bent out of shape. "I'll call your father now and ask him to have Aurora properly dealt with. What a bitch!"

That day at the Walton family's birthday party, Layla had seen that Aurora was close to Terry.

But the Walton family didn't seem to be that influential, judging from the size of their family business.

Could it be Terry?

Layla was outraged and kept complaining to Reginald Keen, her husband, and exaggerating the fact if needed.

And since Jay was the only child in the family, Reginald was furious as well.

"All right then. Take Jay home first. And I'll deal with the rest. Whoever did this must pay the price!"

Just when Reginald was about to reach out to the hospital, something happened.

The manager of the marketing department ran in hurriedly. "Mr. Keen, this is really bad.

The Buchanna Group has raised the price all of a sudden, which managed to poach several partners of ours. I've received their liquidated damages already."

"What?"

"They pay the penalty fee to draw the line with us!"

Reginald slammed the table in anger. "Zac, are you crazy? Can the Buchanna Group sell out all these goods?"

"I heard that the Buchanna Group had cleared out two warehouses of cargo yesterday. Right now they are in need of supplies. Moreover, they seem to be deliberately targeting us because a manager of our partners revealed to me that the Buchanna Group wanted our goods only."

Reginald was so angry upon hearing this. And that anger made him feel suffocated.

He was now beginning to feel his age, and a situation like this could easily trigger off a reaction in his body.

“Why?”

Despite the Keen Group having been competing with the Buchanna Group, there was no need to take the competition to extremes like this.

“A staff member of the Buchanna Group told me that it was an order from their president.” The manager wiped off the sweat on his forehead. “Mr. Keen, I’m afraid we’ll have to do something.”

Reginald dropped into a chair, deep in contemplation.

And then what Layla said just now crossed his mind. “No way...”

Would Zac go through all this trouble just for that woman?

“Contact the people from the Buchanna Group now. I want to see Zac.”

The news that Jay had been beaten up by Aurora spread like wildfire.

People were actually waiting to see Aurora get punished for what she did. But instead of that, it was the Keen family that suffered in the end. The Keen family didn’t fight back at all. It was also said that Jay, ill at home, had taken a long vacation.

For a time, no one dared to talk about Aurora openly.

Faye and Wenny knew about this from Davis. Both, despite having different looks on their faces, were very surprised.

“The Keen family doesn’t dare to deal with Aurora?” Wenny snorted angrily, “What a good-for-nothing.”

Davis, having his meal, then reminded Wenny, “You can ask Zac subtly. The Buchanna Group has been doing quite a lot recently. Is it that they are taking advantage of the situation while taking it out on the Keen family? Or it’s just a coincidence?”

“It must be a coincidence! How could it be possible that Zac will help Aurora?” There was anger in Wenny’s eyes.

After dinner, Wenny hurried out to the Walton’s place. She was wondering why Kate still did nothing

Meanwhile, Faye accompanied Davis into the bathroom. Then she received a call from Aurora.

The moment she saw the caller ID, she hurriedly closed the door.

On the other side of the line, Aurora’s voice sounded cold, “The amount of money is not right.”

It should be 1 million dollars. And Faye only gave her 100 thousand dollars.

That was only one-tenth of what was asked for.

Faye hurried to explain, “Aurora, I need time. I mean, this is a huge amount. I really don’t have that much money. You know the Swon family. We simply don’t have this amount of money. We are actually tightening our belts.”

“Really? Didn’t you just go shopping with Wenny yesterday?” Aurora fiddled with the photo in her hand.

She bought the photos from the paparazzi at a low price.

After all, Wenny was not that famous. Those paparazzi couldn’t be bothered to chase after her. It was just that Wenny was connected to Zac sometimes. That made her slightly worthy of note.

Therefore, it was easy for Aurora to get these pictures.

"I was forced into a corner. Aurora, give me some more time." The more Faye spoke, the smaller her voice became. Faye was afraid that this might alarm Davis, who was showering inside.

But she dared not ignore Aurora's call.

She was afraid that Aurora would expose her past scandal to the Swon family.

After thinking about it, Faye came up with an idea, "One month, just one month! Then I will give you all the money. Is that okay? Aurora, please give me that."

What a joke.

Aurora narrowed her eyes a bit. "No, Mrs. Swon! If I give you one more month, then what should I do with those dinners? Three days, I will give you three more days."

Then Aurora hung up the phone.

How anxious did Faye sound on the other side of the line! It would be most likely that she sold some jewelry or gifts that Davis had given her.

Aurora thought a bit and decided to wait for a while longer.

The next day, she went to the shooting site early in the morning. It was a private villa in the suburbs, which had been rented to Evelyn magazine for a two-month shoot.

As Anya told her, Aurora was going to move the props over there.

However, when Aurora arrived at the scene, she found that it was a row of large containers. Not to mention a woman like Aurora, even four or five men would have to expend a lot of effort moving them.

"Are you the only one who came?" A worker who was in charge of unloading the stuff asked with a frown, "Didn't I tell you that there are a lot of things? We don't have time to move all the stuff in. We can only put them here.

"As for the rest, think of your own way."

They had their own work too.

Aurora sighed silently as she thought of what they had said. Despite having dealt with Jay, she still got a lot on her plate to deal with herself.

Before Aurora could think of a way, Anya called. And as soon as Aurora picked up the phone, Anya urged Aurora, "The shooting will begin soon. Move the props over here as soon as possible."

00

"But..."

A tout sounded over the phone.

Aurora took a deep breath, thinking,

What was she to do?

Aurora looked around and saw the construction site that was not far away. She quickly ran over there.

At this time, on the shooting site, the male models were already prepared.

Ella, together with Wenny, was standing at the door and pleading with Randy, the deputy director.

"Brenton, just let Wenny in and take a few pictures of her. Even if you decide not to use those pictures in the end, it will still be okay!" Ella took out the card that she had prepared before and slipped it into the director's hand.

"It's not that I don't want to help. Brenton is the lead director. Haven't you heard of him? I really can't help it." Randy shook his head.

"If you really can't do it, you can let Wenny be a model at the side. Is this okay? Later, I will arrange a few new artists for you. They will all be very pretty." Ella lowered her voice, "Moreover, Mr. Buchanna will probably be here in a while. You don't want him to get angry over such a small matter, do you?"

Chapter 102 What a Coincidence!

The Buchanna Group did not have much to do with the entertainment industry. However, everyone in showbiz still knew about the Buchanna Group. Of course, they naturally heard about Wenny and Zac as well. And they knew there was no need to provoke Wenny over such a small matter.

Therefore, Randy did not hesitate to take the card and let Wenny in.

Ella gritted her teeth and said, "Wenny, you have to seize this opportunity to see if you can still grab Zac's attention. As long as he is jealous, he will definitely pay more attention to you."

Wenny agreed.

As soon as Wenny entered the room, she saw so many half-naked male models and swallowed.

Wenny couldn't help but imagine how nice it would be if Zac were there and stood in front of her like this.

Ella called out to Wenny a few times but failed to get herself noticed.

Therefore, Ella had to push Wenny. "Hey! Wenny! Quickly go and change your clothes. Don't just stand here. I will try my best to get you a bracelet or something. As long as you make a good impression, people will notice you."

Ella urged Wenny to get changed. Ella's intention was to get Wenny noticed by the crowds and maybe bring Wenny some fame because people couldn't quite notice that Wenny was pregnant at that point. Maybe with the Buchanna Group as her support, Wenny could become famous.

Wenny nodded and dashed to the locker room.

A few seconds later.

Wenny shouted, "Ah! Perv!"

Several workers came into the locker room with some background boards. They were not staff here. Instead, they were hired by Aurora to move some stuff and had no idea that there was a locker room behind them.

Wenny screamed and ran out in a panic, looking extremely scared and awkward.

Brenton noticed, "What's going on?"

He looked up and saw Wenny, who was apparently new to the set. Brenton frowned and cried, "Can we still shoot?"

"Someone deal with this immediately! Who is responsible for it?" Anya saw Aurora behind the workers and put on a long face. "Why did you let them in?"

With a box in her hands, Aurora seemed to be rather busy. "Or what? I carry these myself? Do you think I can move them?"

Anya had already seen this coming. She snorted and looked at Aurora coldly. "That's the job assigned to you by the company. If you can't do it, you can say it in advance. Now you made a mess, delaying the filming. This responsibility, you bear it yourself."

"I only found out five minutes ago that you wanted me to carry this heavy shit by myself. So, while you're standing here, blaming everything, why don't you take your time and reflect on your own shitty schedule?" Aurora fought back.

Aurora noticed Wenny was crying next to her. What a day!

"Aurora! Are you messing with me? You deliberately found so many people to see me naked. You are ruthless." Wenny gritted her teeth and trembled with anger.

Ella rolled her eyes and thought of something. She immediately hugged Wenny and comforted her. "Wenny, don't cry. This kind of person is cruel and ungrateful. You and Zac don't care about her past and let her work in Malon. Who knows she would repay kindness with bitterness and even have someone to set you up!"

Aurora didn't even say a word before she was blamed for something she had never done.

Wenny was not as quick a thinker as Ella.

Looking up blankly, Wenny saw Ella giving her a look.

As Wenny looked over, she saw Zac walking in with Carter. She immediately ran over and threw herself onto Zac.

"What's wrong?" asked Zac.

He frowned. There was a coldness in his expression, intimidating yet charming.

Zac's arrival shocked everyone on the set and made them gasp in astonishment.

Everyone knew that things were out of control at that point.

They all looked at Aurora and felt sorry for her. After all, they did not know the truth.

They only felt that Aurora was taking revenge on Wenny. However, because the timing was wrong, Zac happened to catch Aurora's bad act.

Anya didn't say anything at that point and just watched quietly from the distance.

At that moment, no one really cared about the truth.

Randy knew that he would not be able to escape the blame because he let Wenny in.

Thus, he immediately stepped forward and put on a smile. "Mr. Buchanna, I am truly sorry. It was our neglect that caused such a mess. We will clear the scene now. Don't worry. This will be a secret forever."

Wenny, on the other hand, held onto Zac's shirt tightly and cried non-stop.

She looked like she had suffered a great deal.

A few workers were then cast out of the set.

Aurora watched as Zac covered Wenny with his coat. She felt a bitter taste in her throat, and her gaze met Zac's.

Everyone had already taken Aurora as the mastermind behind the scenes.

But Aurora didn't care.

Aurora didn't know if her reaction had changed Zac's opinion.

Zac raised his hand, and soon, only Aurora and he were left in the entire set. Wenny held Zac's hands tightly before she left. "Zac, you must do me justice. Otherwise, my reputation will be ruined in the future."

"I didn't expect you to do something like this," Zac said with a cold voice and looked disgusted.

The entire set was empty, and what Zac said kept lingering in Aurora's mind. Aurora thought she would never be hurt again, but she was wrong. She felt like someone had just ripped her heart apart.

Zac stared at Aurora. "If you want to take revenge on me, or go against the Buchanna family, just come for me, not Wenny. She's pregnant. How could you do that to her?"

"I guess it's the grand tradition of the Bennet family, isn't it? A greedy father, an ungrateful daughter."

Aurora couldn't stand the insult to her father and felt extremely angry. She rushed over and raised her hand. No matter whether she could hit him or not, Aurora just wanted to use all her strength to slap Zac

But Aurora was too short,

Meanwhile, Zac, as shrewd as he was, quickly saw through Aurora and knew what she was trying to do.

In the next second, Zac held Aurora's wrist in his palm.

The disgust in his eyes intensified as he shook Aurora's wrist off. "Stop feeling good about yourself."

Aurora took a few steps back, and her elbow hit a nail on the background board. The nail pierced her skin and made her feel the pain.

But that pain was far more insignificant than the one caused by Zac.

Her eyes were filled with hatred.

"When I had a miscarriage, did you even care?" asked Aurora.

Knowing that there wouldn't be any response from Zac, Aurora sneered, "Zac, you better look out for Wenny every day. Otherwise, I will definitely let her have a miscarriage and make her taste the pain that I have experienced."

Zac cried, "How dare you?"

He was angry.

"We'll see about that," replied Aurora.

There was not a single tear on Aurora's cold face. She just looked at Zac. Hatred surpassed all emotions, and her mind was clearer than ever.

Aurora stared at Zac and raised her other hand. "I had been recording all this time.

"The news of Wenny being seen naked will soon spread throughout Clouston. Aren't you very powerful? Then go and spend a lot of money to cover the news. Otherwise, everyone will know about this.

"That your wife is a slut and hangs around in her naked body."

Aurora gritted her teeth. She didn't want to use such evil means.

She thought that even if she wanted to destroy the Buchanna family, she would do it gracefully, instead of being shady,

But at that point, Aurora had no other choice. It was all because of Wenny and Zac.

"You think I will give you a chance to send the recording?" Zac took a step forward and reached out to grab Aurora's phone, Just as Zac was about to touch the phone, Aurora smiled. Then, Aurora held him by his neck.

"Zac, you are such a fool," said Aurora.

Chapter 103 Tricks

It was a few seconds later.
The door outside of the studio was pulled open.
Everyone saw Zac holding Aurora, and Aurora leaning against his arms as if something had happened to them.
This was the reason why Zac had just cleared the area?
Aurora hid the smile in her eyes and took back her phone. She did not want to record at all, but sent a message to Anya, saying that it had been solved.
In this way, everyone would come back to work. And they would coincidentally see that she had a close relationship with Zac.
She smiled and watched Zac let go of her with a long face.
"Zac?" Wenny almost fell down. Fortunately, Ella was there holding her.
Wenny had no idea what was going on. Why was Zac hugging Aurora?
And the people behind Wenny were also stunned.
Who should they help?
In the end, which one did Zac like?
Zac was holding Aurora in his arms. Obviously, he did not care so much about Wenny.
"You are crazy." Zac glared at her.
Aurora smiled indifferently. She then said, "Even if I was looked down on by everyone, I'll have you to be with me. What? She couldn't take it anymore and ran away.
Wenny felt so embarrassed. She ran away in tears.
Zac pursed his thin lips into a line and left angrily.

Aurora looked at his back as he left. She was very calm. She made light of others' judgment. She walked over to Anya. "Move all the things here. Let's start."
Anya was stunned. She did not expect that Aurora was so strong that she could adjust to working in an instant

The director and others gathered together to enjoy what had happened. And then Brenton, the director, roared, "Are you guys going to work or not!"
"OK! I'm on it!"

Everyone returned to their posts, but after such a small episode, the filming progress was obviously delayed. Everyone was forced to work overtime.
However, everyone was only quietly discussing Aurora and did not say a word in person.

They were afraid that they would offend the Buchanna Group..

On the other side, Aurora finished organizing the props and quietly stood aside, watching the models shoot.

Brenton frowned and stared at the monitor. He felt dissatisfied. Suddenly, he saw a beautiful side profile. He took off his headphones and shouted at Aurora, "You, go and have a try." Aurora was stunned.

"Me?"

Randy immediately went over and said, "Director Holloway feels that there is a need for an extra model. No related experience is required. Just stand there and watch them."

Aurora shook her head. "I am the designer of Malon. I am not a model."

Randy scratched his head and wanted to say more.

Mary, who came to deliver food, whispered to Aurora, "You'll get paid."

Got paid?

"OK," Aurora immediately agreed.

Randy was stunned. Zac's taste was really special. The difference between the girls he liked was really big Aurora was unlike Wenny, who was charming. Aurora changed her clothes. Those Internet celebrities and models were no match for her. A beautiful and delicate face appeared on the monitor. She was elegant and cold.

Looking at them, she asked, "Is this okay?"

"Alright, let's start!"

Brenton was quite satisfied. After all, as a model, it didn't matter whether she looked good or not. What was important was that she was unique.

Mary and Owen held the lunch box and looked at Aurora standing in front of the camera. They wanted to applaud her right now.

As soon as they arrived, they heard the staff talk about what had just happened. Mary almost quarreled with them.

Aurora hooked up with Zac?

Aurora ruined Wenny's reputation?

How was this possible!

Mary whispered, "It must be a misunderstanding."

Mary believed Aurora. Moreover, she felt that Zac really had no taste. He actually gave up on Aurora and chose Wenny.

"If Aurora wants to change her job, she will definitely become a supermodel!"

Owen nodded slowly. "I agree."

However, Aurora did not tell anyone about her injury to her elbow. She endured the pain throughout the shoot. No one could see the pain in her face.

Anya went outside and called Hale. She told him what was going on here.

"Mr. Smith, Aurora indeed has a backer. Her relationship with Zac is not as bad as the rumors say."

Anya thought that Zac helped Aurora enter Malon.

Hale said calmly, "Never mind. Remember what I told you."

"OK."

Anya put down her phone. She looked back in the direction of the studio and sighed.

Aurora, it was not my fault. You never know you've provoked a lunatic.

The filming continued for almost five hours.

In the end, when Brenton called it a day, Aurora was so tired that her legs were numb.

She rubbed

her sore neck and asked, "It's over?"

"Yes, let's call it a day. Everyone should arrive early at six tomorrow morning."

Aurora reluctantly went to the changing room to change her clothes.

Mary and Owen had already left. She carried her bag on her back and walked towards the bus stop with the lunch that Mary had brought.

Behind her were cars speeding past.

They were all staff who came to shoot today, but none of the cars stopped beside Aurora and asked her if she wanted to take a ride.

Aurora didn't want to take a ride, either.

As the night grew darker, the moonlight and street lamps dragged her figure out. It had been a long time since she had been this tired. Her mind flashed with Zac's disgusting face.

Aurora frowned.

Tears suddenly welled up in her eyes.

Dad, I won't let the Bennet family and you down.

That night, as soon as Wenny returned to the Swon's home, she shut herself in her room and cried for a while.

"What's going on?" Davis was annoyed.

Faye quickly went to check it out.

But as soon as she entered, she was chased out by Wenny.

"I don't want to see anyone related to Aurora. Get the hell out!"

When Davis heard this in the living room, he roared, "How can you talk to your mother like that?"

"She is not my mother. I deserve better!"

Wenny was so angry that she shouted at Davis, "Look at it yourself!"

She threw the phone at Davis. There was an anonymous message on it. It was a photo of Faye and Shawn.

Davis angrily threw her phone and glared at Faye. "You should explain."

"It's all in the past. You never asked so I didn't tell you." Faye panicked and rushed to Davis to apologize.

She took out the tricks that women usually used and pretended to be pathetic in front of Davis.

"I was forced by him.

"After what had happened to the Bennet family, Shawn wanted me to be responsible for the debts. Fortunately, I left, otherwise I would have gotten into trouble. Aurora, his daughter, also came to trouble me. Wenny knows it."

Faye shed tears.

She thought that she could bluff it out. But then there came another message.

It was a receipt that Faye sold her jewelry for money.

Davis was so angry that his face turned pale. He slammed the door and left.

"Wenny, help me. I've never cheated on your father."

Wenny was so angry at Aurora and Zac's intimacy today that she felt disgusted when she saw Faye. Wenny said, "You should move out of my house first. You make me feel disgusted."

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 104

Chapter 104 Keep an Eye on Her

Wenny locked the door of her room again.

There was only Faye left in the living room of the Swon's house.

Faye was furious. She took out her phone and called Aurora, "I did as you told me. I've raised a lot of money. Why did you go back on your word? Why did you set me up? Where is the fun in that?"

After a long time, Aurora spoke lightly.

"Well, I'm in a good mood."

Faye's chest heaved violently as she gritted her teeth and said, "You madwoman! No wonder Zac dumped you."

"It's okay. Anyway, I don't like him. Oh, by the way, I have a gift for you. It should be there soon. You don't need to thank me," Aurora said, resting her chin in her hand and reaching out for potato chips.

"What? What did you do?"

Faye shouted at her phone, but Aurora hung up. The only answer she got was a beeping sound.

That night, Faye barely closed her eyes.

She thought about the gift that Aurora had said and tossed and turned in bed.

What exactly was it? That bitch was even harder to deal with than her father. Could it be that she knew something? The more Faye thought about it, the more frightened she became. Feeling thirsty in the middle of the night, she got up and went to the kitchen to grab a glass of water.

Unexpectedly, as soon as she went out, she saw Davis come back with a woman. She was beautiful. and had a good figure. Most importantly, she was very young and looked about the same age as Wenny.

She snuggled against Davis' chest and pretended to be afraid when she saw Faye,

"Davis. I should leave now. Your wife is staring at me. She looks so scary."

"Don't mind her. She can make me a cuckold. Why can't I have an affair?"

Davis waved his hand and held the woman into the room.

Davis slammed the door. At this time, Faye became the one who was chased out.

The glass in her hand fell to the ground and shattered into pieces. Was this the gift Aurora had mentioned?

Faye almost fainted in anger.

won't come back today."

After that, he left the house.

Faye was completely stunned. She never expected that her luck would simply run out.

After all, she just married into a rich family for only a few months. On the other side of the table, Wenny glanced at her. "You don't have to be sad. My dad knew that woman earlier than you. Speaking of which, you are his affair." Faye did not know what to say to Davis and his daughter. When Wenny left the house, Faye immediately called Aurora to warn her, "How could you go back on your word before the agreed date? You can't get a cent of the money. Anyway, what's done is done. I won't give a damn what you will do." "Seriously?" Faye was about to speak when Aurora's voice tore apart all of her trump cards. "So, what if I send the photos of you and those men in bed to Davis?" "No!" Faye was so anxious that her face was pale as if she was being strangled by invisible hands. She had no idea what Aurora had on her, so she could only grit her teeth and say, "You want the money, don't you? I'll give it to you." "1.5 million dollars. You still have two days." After Aurora finished speaking, she could imagine how furious Faye looked at this moment. Aurora hung up the phone in a good mood. Even if Faye did not have that much money, she would ask everyone she knew to borrow money. Aurora opened her address book and found a name, Lyssie Doyle. Lessie was Davis' lover. Lessie was also Aurora's friend. They met in prison. Aurora coincidentally found out about the relationship between Lyssie and Davis. At that time, she did not expect that she would ask Lyssie for a favor. Lyssie wanted to get rid of Davis. It was Aurora who asked her to be with Davis for a while. Aurora transferred 17 thousand dollars to Lyssie from that card. Aurora received a reply at once, "That's a good deal." At the same time, Aurora received a few photos, which were taken by Lyssie. She sneaked into Davis's home office last night and took a picture of a bidding document. Several companies were bidding for a piece of land in the west of Clouston. Coincidentally, the Buchanna Group was also going to invest in the property market. Aurora looked at the photos and smiled faintly. She sent another message to Lyssie, then put down her phone and looked out the window. "Winter is coming soon." Winter was coming for the Buchanna Group. Zac walked along the corridor with Carter. The employees who passed by all looked at him in a way different than usual. Although they were still respectful, Zac could sense that there were other looks in their eyes. "Mr. Buchanna, I've cleared up those malicious reports," Carter said honestly. In the early hours of the morning, some anonymous accounts began to post some comments about Zac's private life, mostly saying that he had rekindled the relationship with Aurora and dumped his pregnant girlfriend.

Zac had completely turned into a scumbag.

Although Carter only needed to make a few phone calls to shut up those media reporters and nip this in the bud.

But he had no way to cover the ears of the partners of the Buchanna Group.

They had more or less heard some gossip. Although these were not true, they would bother themselves to tell if they were true or not.

Therefore, the reputation of the Buchanna Group was greatly damaged overnight.

The employees were also very curious about who exactly did Zac love. Maybe he loved both of them!

“I’ve already sent someone to explain to our partners.” Carter lowered his voice.

Carter had worked with Zac for years. He knew that Zac was already on the verge of flaring up. Zac looked so gloomy that Carter didn’t even dare to look in his eyes.

The elevator door slowly closed, and Zac clenched his right fist.

“Keep an eye on Aurora. I want to know what she’s doing.”

Was Aurora really going to mess up his life?

Chapter 105 Seduce Him

When Aurora returned home, she used the gauze bought from the pharmacy downstairs to bandage the wound on her elbow.

One of her hands could not move, and she could barely reach it with her other hand.

In the meantime, the wound was torn. It made her gasp.

The wound was not big, but it was deep and painful.

After she painstakingly bandaged the wound, her head was already covered in sweat.

Just as she was about to wash up and rest, she heard a few knocks on the door. It was not hurried.

Aurora frowned and picked up the broom next to her. “Who is it?”

The neighborhood was not safe, and there were often burglars, but she was poor and really had nothing

Aurora heard Terry’s voice and opened the door.

“Why are you...”

Before Aurora could finish speaking, Terry had already pulled her into his arms.

There was a faint smell of alcohol on his body, and he was wearing a gray suit. He looked gloomy.

Aurora had never seen Terry like this before.

“Let go first.” Aurora’s wound was pressed down by him. Aurora gritted her teeth and patted Terry’s back.

They used to hug before, but it was all polite greetings between friends. This time, Aurora only wanted to push him away as soon as possible.

She had no feelings for Terry like a woman had for a man.

“Aurora, I’m drunk. If I do something to you, can you forgive me?” His head was pressed against her neck, and his voice was filled with exhaustion.

“Go home.” Aurora frowned.

In the next second, Aurora pushed Terry away forcefully. Terry lost his balance and hit the wall.

He was breathing heavily, especially when he saw that Aurora was wearing a vest. After hugging her uncontrollably just now, he felt like he was about to get out of control.

“Aurora, ...”

Terry wanted to tell her everything that had happened at the party tonight.

Tomorrow, there might be news from the Jarrett family. He hoped that Aurora would understand that his heart had not changed. He agreed to get engaged to Sara because of the pressure from his family.

He wanted to protect the race team.

Terry took a deep breath, but as soon as he spoke, his eyes fixed on Aurora’s injured arm.

“How did this happen?” Terry was anxious and forgot everything he was about to say. was

W

“It’s fine now. I got it when I moved the things.” Aurora put the gauze back on and looked at Terry. “What did you want to say just now?”

As she spoke, she poured Terry a glass of water.

Terry rubbed his eyebrows and shook his head. “Nothing special.”

Terry could not tell her the truth. The courage that he had wanted to explain just now disappeared at that moment. He knew how tired Aurora was.

Terry should not have put more pressure on Aurora. Perhaps, Aurora did not care about his relationship with the Jarrett family.

Anyway, it would be solved in a few days.

“I can’t go home tonight. I’m drunk, so I can’t drive. Can I spend the night here?” Terry smiled slovenly.

“If you can’t drive, how did you get here?” asked Aurora, gritting her teeth.

“I... called a chauffeur.”

“Very good. That person can take you home.” Aurora turned around and went into the bedroom.

“It’s too late. He’s off duty.” Terry smiled as he lay down on the sofa.

A muffled sound came.

A blanket fell on Terry’s head.

“I’m going out at 5:00 a.m. tomorrow. If you snore, I will kill you.” Aurora shouted from the inside and went to wash up.

By the time she finished and came out, there was no longer any sound in the living room.

Aurora yawned and went to sleep.

The man on the sofa kept his eyes open. He smiled bitterly, not knowing whether to be happy or disappointed. Aurora trusted him so much that she did not treat him as a man at all.

At this time, watching the lights go out upstairs, Zac sat in the car. His eyes were cold. After he finished his meeting in the company, he heard from Carter about what happened in the film studio.

There was blood on the background panel.

Zac passed by the place where Aurora lived and asked the driver to come in for a look.

He saw Terry's car parked there.

Zac frowned, and an inexplicable feeling of irritability welled up in his heart.

"Let's go."

Early in the morning, when Aurora woke up, Terry was no longer in the living room. She was too tired yesterday and slept soundly. She did not hear the sound of him leaving at all.

After washing up, Aurora went to the film studio.

ra

As soon as she entered, she heard whispers around her. All the staff passing by were looking at her and pointing at her.

Aurora knew they weren't saying anything nice.

Aurora shook her head and waited for today's work arrangements.

"Mr. Smith!" someone shouted.

Aurora looked over, and Hale walked in with a smile on his face. He even greeted everyone warmly, "Thanks for your hard work."

He looked very kind.

Something from the past appeared in Aurora's mind, and she frowned.

The face was the index of the heart. But some people were so cunning that others couldn't see through their minds.

"Aurora, come here," he suddenly said.

This time, Aurora became the focus of everyone.

"Why did Mr. Smith ask her to come over?"

"Is this because of Zac? Is Mr. Smith going to give her another job? She's gotten too many benefits from relying on her background."

"Yesterday's scene was intimate and explicit..."

Their words were exaggerated.

However, Aurora had a clear conscience. She was just taking advantage of Zac to take revenge on him. It was not like she really wanted to do something with him.

Furthermore, she was most clear about the situation at that time.

She just didn't want to explain to these people.

"Are you looking for me?" she asked.

"I heard that something happened yesterday. Are you alright?" Hale smiled with a look of concern.

Aurora was surprised. Were they acquainted with each other?

If this was just a concern for a subordinate, his tone and expression were strange.

"It's fine," Aurora said and looked at Hale. She was even more puzzled.

Hale didn't seem to remember her when they were grouped that day. But today, he seemed to be particularly cordial.

"That's good. You can rest today. If you want to leave, you can leave first. Take care of yourself." As Hale spoke, he patted Aurora on the shoulder in a friendly manner.

This time, the surrounding staff members were shocked.

When Anya and the others came in, they heard them discussing Aurora, "She's slutty. Is she going to seduce Mr. Smith in front of us?”

“She’s so shameless. She really likes to seduce men.”
Anya frowned as she walked over. “Mr. Smith, this is the design draft you wanted. There are three of them, and all of them were designed by Aurora.”
Hale nodded in satisfaction. “Then there is no need to choose. We will use Aurora’s works.
Moreover, put her name on it.”

Chapter 106 The Attitude

This honor had never been given to anyone before.
Aurora was stunned. She had entered Malon to become a designer. It had only been a little more than a month, and she already had the right to sign the design.
The next second, she felt many jealous gazes.
At that moment, she looked at Hale’s smile and suddenly understood something. His words were a double-edged sword.
The internal competition mechanism of Malon Company was already very intense. Now the chief designer, Hale, gave Aurora such an important opportunity. And there were many rumors about Aurora here.
Aurora had undoubtedly become a thorn in everyone’s side.
Aurora frowned. She could feel that Hale had done it on purpose.
Why did he do it?
Before she could figure it out, Hale had already taken Anya and the others inside, and Aurora was left in the studio.
“Make way.”
Someone shouted. Then, he carried the box and walked past Aurora with a straight face.
They were all designers who had entered the office before Aurora, but they had not had a chance to stand out for a few years. Now, it was as if they wanted to kill Aurora.
A muffled sound came.
Someone walked past Aurora and bumped into her.
It was obviously intentional.
Moreover, it happened to hit Aurora’s injured arm.
“Oh, sorry. If you want to rest, go to the side. Don’t affect us. If we hurt you, we can’t afford it.”
The person who injured Aurora did not feel apologetic at all. Instead, he spoke in a strange tone.
Aurora pursed her lips. She couldn’t stay here any longer.
She wanted to walk out to get some fresh air, but she heard a series of mocking discussions. “How did she become a designer? Don’t tell me she relied on men.” “Bitch. Why do I have to work with her at Malon? She’s disgusting.”

Aurora turned around and stared at those people.
They shut their mouths and left, muttering to themselves.
Aurora turned around and walked out alone.
Anyway, it was Hale who had personally announced that she would be given a holiday to rest, so why would she wait inside to be mocked?
There was only one problem now. She could not leave Malon.
She needed this opportunity, otherwise, there would be no room to fight back at all. She wanted to retaliate against Zac, but she also had to live.
She also wanted to live a fancy life that everyone envied her.
What was she supposed to do?
When Zac's car stopped in front of her, Aurora was still immersed in her thoughts and only came back to her senses when she heard that Carter had called her.
As soon as Aurora raised her head, she saw Zac's gloomy face.
Aurora frowned. She didn't want to see him, but why did he show up now?
"Am I in your way? Then I'll go." Aurora wasn't in the mood to talk with Zac.
d
W
Zac glanced at her and said coldly, "Get in the car and I'll take you to a place."
"No."
Aurora refused.
"I will take you to the Bennet Group."
Aurora stopped in her tracks,
Aurora turned back and 'obediently' sat in the car. As the car started, her hand tightly gripped her seatbelt.
After getting out of jail, Aurora inquired about the current situation of the Bennet Group, but she didn't find anything. Some said that the Bennet Group had gone bankrupt, and some said that the Bennet Group had changed into another company.
Their building had already been transferred.
Get Bonus
Aurora did not find any traces of the official bankruptcy of the Bennet Group.
In other words, the Bennet Group still existed, but it was hidden by the Zac in some way.
He hated the Bennet Group so much, but he kept her in Clouston. Why did he do this?
Of course, he had to torture her slowly.
Aurora pursed her lips. This day had come.
As she expected, Zac brought her to a very remote old factory area. As far as the eye could see, it was a scene of desolation. This was the slum in Clouston.
There were a lot of flies and the area was smelly.
After the car stopped, Aurora saw the sign hanging in front of her. It read "Cosmos Group".
Such an imposing name really did not match up to this place.
"What do you mean?" Aurora frowned.
"This is the Bennet Group. However, now that it has become a company that collects waste. All the scrap in Clouston will be sent here,” he said, glancing at Aurora. However, she wasn’t as desperate as he thought.

Aurora was calm.

“Is that all?” she asked, turning to look at him.

Then, Aurora sneered. “I really have to thank you, Mr. Buchanna. During the time I was in prison, you still made so much effort to help the Bennet family manage the business. There’s nothing wrong with a company that collects scrap. Isn’t Mr. Buchanna’s car parked in this garbage dump?”

Aurora provoked Zac.

The next second, her chin was pinched tightly by Zac.

The intense pain made the smile on Aurora’s face disappear. After a long time, she smiled. “You’ve been divorced for more than a year, and you can still hit women?”

“Do you think I don’t dare?”

Zac stared at her eyes.

“Of course. You are a cold blooded person. You are treacherous and repay kindness with ingratitude. You dare to do anything.” Her tone was calm, and her eyes were filled with contempt and mockery.

As their eyes met, Zac was frustrated.

In just a few minutes, Aurora’s reaction shocked him, and he was very dissatisfied.

Is that why Aurora approached Terry? Aurora’s so high and mighty now.

How dare she mock him like this?

After staring at her face for a long time, Zac suddenly loosened his hand. Aurora’s chin was swollen and painful. She subconsciously stepped back with her back against the car door.

“Drive back,” Zac said.

How could Zac let Aurora off so easily?

Aurora muttered in her heart. This was not Zac’s style.

He never gave anyone a chance. Aurora turned around and saw the sign fall down. It seemed to hit her heart and shook up the hatred in her heart that was stained with dust.

Half an hour later.

Zac’s car stopped at the entrance of the studio.

Aurora did not make a sound and just looked at him.

“Take off your clothes.”

“What?” Aurora did not react.

Then, Zac rolled down the window and took off his coat. Aurora was shocked, but his eyes were cold. “Or, I can help you,” he said.

He pulled Aurora over.

There was a piercing sound.

His entire body pressed over her.

Aurora’s eyes were wide open. “Zac, stop this!

The driver and Carter immediately got out of the car and walked away.

At this time, Zac grabbed both of her wrists with one hand and smiled coldly. “The scene yesterday was not exciting enough, Didn't you want to ruin the reputation of the Buchanna family? Then you should compensate yourself.”

He was a man, and he was not at a disadvantage.

Aurora felt humiliated.

Her hands trembled as she grabbed Zac's shoulders.

Zac was breathing heavily. The faint smell of her body entered his nose and his mind went blank.

“Is that the same way you treated Terry last night?” he asked, and his eyes were burning with rage.

Chapter 107 A Surprise

Aurora had no idea what he meant.

She wanted to escape from his arms, but it was too late.

The clothes on her body were messy and broken. Although her shoulders were exposed, anyone who saw this scene would come up with what might have happened.

They would not think that it was Zac who was trying to force Aurora.

They would think that it was Aurora who was shameless and seduced Zac.

He did not really do anything to her, just making some marks on her face and neck, raising his hand, and waving it. He threw her aside.

Zac's heart pounded violently.

He had to stop in time, otherwise, he would not be able to resist his desire.

Aurora took a deep breath. At this time, there were already people outside watching Aurora lowered her eyes and caught a glimpse of Zac's face. Aurora put Zac's jacket on and then pushed open the car door without looking back and left.

Zac stared at her back, and he clenched his fist.

A trace of annoyance spread through his heart. What was he doing?

What made Zac not expect was that after Aurora entered, she calmly faced the gazes of those people, went to the prop group to borrow a shirt, and threw Zac's suit into the trash can.

“That suit is worth tens of thousands of dollars, right?”

“What is her relationship with Mr. Buchanna? It seems that because of her, Zac's wedding was suspended twice.”

“Does she want to be his wife?”

His wife?

Aurora felt that these words were the greatest insult to her.

In her heart, she had scolded Zac a million times.

Just as Aurora was thinking about how to return this humiliation to Zac, a figure appeared in front of her. It was Wenny's manager, Ella.

She very arrogantly roared at Aurora, “Wenny wants to see you. Come out with me.”

The sound surrounded the filming studio and even affected the normal shooting there.

Wenny found a relationship and became a shooting model for Evelyn. Although she was not the heroine, she came early in the morning. However, she was surprised to witness the scene just now.

She was so angry in the nanny van that she was about to kill Aurora, so she ordered Ella to bring Aurora over.

Aurora glanced at her and did not move.

Ella gritted her teeth and asked Wenny's bodyguards to come over and drag Aurora out.

This attracted a lot of discussions.

"Look, she seduced a married man. Bitch."

"In my opinion, Wenny is really kind. If it were me, I would definitely make Aurora get away from Clouston."

"I don't think Aurora will be bullied by Wenny. Have you forgotten what happened before? Go to work."

Anya followed Hale and saw that Aurora was taken away.

W

Anya clearly saw Hale smile, but there was a scheming look in his eyes.

"Do I need to bring Aurora back?" she asked in a low voice.

Nas

After all, she was now Malon's staff member, and if things really blew up, it would be embarrassing.

"There's no hurry. The show has just begun. I didn't think Zac would be attracted to her. If I had known earlier, I would have gotten her two years ago." Hale clicked his tongue.

Anya did not understand the meaning of these words, but she felt the ruthlessness in his eyes.

Anya didn't dare to speak.

In the company, Hale had always given people the impression of a high and mighty leader but was commendable and gentle to everyone. His work would definitely cause a stir in the international design industry, so Malon was cherishing him.

Only a few people who had really been Hale's assistant knew how terrifying this man was!

He was completely a lunatic from the design world.

Anya was one of the few insiders. She was afraid to even tell anyone about some of the things Hale

She still had to make a living in this industry, so she could not provoke Hale.

Moreover, she did not know what the power behind Hale was, but she knew that it was not simple.

Otherwise, why would a jewelry designer dare to do something to Zac?

Anya looked down. She could not help Aurora.

At this time, inside the nanny van.

Aurora was suppressed by the bodyguards and was forcefully slapped several times by Wenny.

She gritted her teeth and stared at Aurora. "Zac doesn't want you anymore, and you still try to seduce him. What did you and he do in the car? You...”

Before Wenny could finish her sentence, she slapped Aurora again.
This time, Wenny used a lot of strength, causing Aurora’s head to hurt and her ears to ring.
A trace of blood flowed from the corner of Aurora’s mouth.
“You need a man, right? I’ll find a man for you.”
Wenny took out her phone and dialed Saul’s number. “Send over a few men who want to fuck women now.”
Saul was waiting at the company for a meeting.
When Saul heard Wenny’s words, he thought that Wenny was hinting at him and said with a smile, “I’ll come to you tonight.”
“I’m not looking for you. Hurry up and send me some men.”
Aurora lowered her head and narrowed her eyes when she heard Wenny’s words.
The man was not Zac.
Aurora had inadvertently discovered Wenny’s secret.
Wenny was furious. She did not know that she had been careless. She threw her phone and ordered Ella, “Give me a phone. I want to record it.”
Ella only thought that she was going to scare Aurora, but she did not expect it to be true. Ella panicked and advised, “Wenny, you still have to shoot later. Just leave her here.”
“No!”
Wenny shouted, “You two, take off her clothes!”
She shouted to the two bodyguards.
Although they were Wenny’s personal bodyguards, they were sent to her by the management company. They could help Wenny to subdue Aurora, but they dared not take off Aurora’s clothes.
The two bodyguards hesitated. This was not their job.
Otherwise, they could not keep their job. Wenny would not care about them.
Seeing that they did not do anything, Wenny became anxious and shouted, “Are you deaf?”
Aurora lowered her head and suddenly said, “Wenny, your lover called you.”
Wenny did not refute but looked in the direction of the phone. When she reacted in the next second, she only saw Aurora’s cold face. Aurora looked at Wenny mockingly.
“If Zac knew that you lied to him, it would be very interesting.”
With one sentence, Aurora confirmed her conjecture.
Wenny was really stupid.

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 108

Chapter 108 The Patient’s Family

All of a sudden, Wenny panicked.
“Don’t talk nonsense. I love Zac with my heart and soul, and there is no such thing. Instead, it is you who repeatedly tempted him.” Wenny pointed at the tip of her nose and scolded angrily.
Aurora’s smile deepened.

Aurora was thinking about how to make Zac angry.

“Stop laughing!”

Wenny rushed to hit Aurora again.

But this time, Aurora dodged.

“You slut!” Wenny shouted.

Regardless of anything, Wenny rushed up to pull at Aurora’s hair.

But just then, Ella hurriedly hugged her. “Wenny, stop. The director is calling for you.

“It wasn’t easy for you to get this opportunity. Don’t ruin your business because of her.”

After persuading for a while, Ella pulled Wenny out.

The two bodyguards looked at each other, locked Aurora in the car alone, and left.

Aurora sat down and took a few deep breaths to calm herself down.

No one came to open the door for Aurora until night, and she was left alone in the car.

Aurora had also thought of calling for help during that period, but her phone had been taken away by Wenny. The car was in the parking lot. Even if someone heard her voice, he would ignore Aurora for fear of offending Wenny.

After thinking about it, Aurora decided to keep her strength.

She had been waiting until evening.

The parking lot was so quiet at night.

Wenny leaned against Zac’s arm. The two walked side by side. Wenny stepped on her high heels and acted like a spoiled child. She said, “I have been filming all day. I’m tired. I want to go to your place to rest.

“I still have shooting tomorrow morning. It’s too far to go home. It’s more convenient to go to your place.”

Aurora looked out through the window.

Zac had his back to Aurora. He was helping Wenny carry the bag.

At that moment, Aurora only felt that the two of them were matched. One was ruthless while the other was dissolute.

“Please!” Wenny deliberately leaned toward Zac.

Wenny thought, even if Zac did something to Aurora, it must be Aurora who took the initiative. Aurora is so skinny. How could Zac like her?

I am pregnant now, so I cannot go too far.

But as long as Zac wants me, I can still help him.

Thinking of this, wenny acted even more coquettishly, almost sticking her entire upper body to Zac.

“Alright.” Zac held Wenny with one hand and did not let her continue to move. His eyes were cold and there was no trace of desire in his eyes.

“Zac, you are so nice.” Although Wenny had achieved her goal, Zac did not touch her.

Wenny forced a smile and glanced in the direction of the nanny van.

Zac also noticed and asked in a low voice, “Did you park your car here?”

“Yes,” Wenny quickly answered and circled his arm, not allowing him to look over. She added, “Tomorrow, the driver will come to get the car. It’s too late. Let’s go.”

Zac didn’t ask any further. He nodded, and the two of them left by car.

As the sound of the car faded away, Aurora bit the corner of her lips.

Heh. How ridiculous!

He would rather be with a woman who cheated on him. Aurora was a little sleepy. The surging memories in her mind made her very uncomfortable. She leaned to the side and decided to take a rest first.

But as soon as she closed her eyes, someone opened the car door.

It was a few very strong men looking at her together. Aurora stared at them warily.

Obviously, they were arranged by Wenny's lover.

The man in the lead had brown hair and was wearing sunglasses.

The light was dim, and Aurora could not see his appearance clearly, but strangely, she felt as if she had seen this person before.

That man said, "Make less noise. Take off her clothes and take photos."

Other men immediately reached out their hands toward Aurora.

"No! Get the hell out of here!" Aurora kept shouting.

She struggled with her hands and feet.

Unable to break free from their imprisonment, Aurora directly bit the man's arm.

"Bitch!" The man slapped Aurora. His strength was much greater than Wenny's.

Aurora was directly pushed to the other side, and her neck was scratched by the iron pole of the car.

Immediately, blood flowed down.

Aurora lost all her strength.

She could not even cry out in pain.

One of the men asked, "Slade, what should we do?"

Slade Ware spat on the ground. Just as he was about to speak, a few cars drove over.

That was the sound of racing cars.

Aurora's consciousness gradually became clear. She struggled to open her eyes and vaguely saw someone walking over. She forced a smile and said, "Terry."

She wanted to lift her hand, but she had no strength.

Aurora's dry lips moved as she said in a low voice, "It hurts a little."

After saying those words, she fainted.

Terry immediately carried her into the car, speeding to the hospital.

When Aurora opened her eyes, she saw a white curtain and a wall.

She heard the sound of the medical monitoring device.

"Nurse, why isn't she awake yet? Didn't the doctor say that she would wake up after the anesthetic?" Terry asked the nurse again and again. The nurse said, "Every patient has a different physique and the degree of absorption of anesthetics is different. There is no problem with the patient's current physical condition. Don't worry, she will wake up soon."

"But..." Terry still wanted to say something, but he was interrupted.

"Terry, I'm hungry," Aurora said with a hoarse voice.

Upon hearing her voice, Terry rushed over anxiously. He asked, "You're awake! How do you feel now?"

He frowned, and his eyes were full of worry.

Aurora slowly moved the corners of her lips, probably showing the ugliest smile she had ever had in her life as she said, "I am hungry."

"Alright, I'll go and get you something to eat now. Wait for me!" Terry said immediately.

He picked up his coat and ran out.

Seeing him run away anxiously, the nurse chased after him, shouting, "The patient needs to have a light diet!"

Then the nurse came back and said enviously to Aurora, "Your boyfriend is good to you. He has been keeping you company all the time. He even asked the director of our hospital to treat you."

"He is not my boyfriend." Aurora was a little embarrassed.

The nurse was stunned. Then she added, "You and your husband have a good relationship."

Aurora was speechless and didn't explain further.

In the corridor, Zac asked the nurse with a cold face, "Is there a patient named Aurora Bennet?"

Carter reported to Zac when Zac was at home.

The people sent to keep an eye on Aurora found that she had been sent to the hospital by Terry overnight. What was more, Aurora was in a bad condition and had been unconscious.

Zac thought, I haven't revenged on her to my heart's content. How could she die?

Zac's slender figure blocked the lights in the corridor, and his eyes were cold.

"Aurora is in room 306. She just woke up and needed to rest. The patient's family has gone to buy food. You can wait for a while."

The patient's family?

Zac's face darkened. He pushed open the door and rushed in.

Aurora had just sat up and wanted to change her underwear.

She pulled the curtain beside the bed. If someone came in, they would ask first.

But Zac lifted the curtain directly.

Clatter!

Aurora was startled and immediately covered herself with a blanket. When she saw who it was, she became even more furious. She shouted, "Get out!"

Chapter 109 Struggle

A complicated emotion flashed across Zac's eyes as he looked at Aurora. A few seconds later, he said in disdain, "Is there anything on you that I haven't seen before?"

Aurora scolded, "Shameless!"

Aurora put on her clothes as quickly as possible and stared at the man in front of her warily.

The nurse then chased in. "Don't disturb the patient's rest," the nurse said. Zac ignored the nurse and fixed his eyes on Aurora.

There was only one thing hovering in his mind. Aurora was fine. She was still alive and had the strength to scold him.

When he realized this, his eyes became even colder.

His cold pupils reflected Aurora's annoyed face. Even if she was angry, her face was still beautiful.

"Ms. Bennet, do you know this person? If necessary, I can call the guards of the hospital over!" The responsible nurse asked directly.

Aurora took a deep breath and said, "I know him."

The nurse took a few more glances at Zac before closing the door and leaving.

Aurora frowned and stared at Zac. She said, "It's not enough for you to humiliate me on the street. You even chased me to the hospital! Is the Buchanna Group going to break down? You are so idle."

There was a faint voice in her heart telling her that perhaps Zac was not really going to hurt her, or else, he would not just make an illusion that she was bullied.

Zac did not hurt Aurora.

But as soon as this thought emerged, it was fiercely suppressed by Aurora's hatred.

At that moment, she almost lost half her life. It was all because of Zac. If Terry had not come in time, what kind of situation would she be in now!

Thinking of this, Aurora's face was filled with hatred.

"The Buchanna Group won't break down." Zac slowly walked to the window, his cold eyes staring at the night scene outside.

He had enough confidence to say those words. When he looked down from there, the tallest buildings in Clouston were all the property of the Buchanna Group.

Aurora gripped the sheets, always on guard against him.

Zac then asked, "Who did this to you?"

From his tone, Aurora could not tell his intentions.

She frowned and did not speak.

"Wenny?"

Zac spoke without any emotion.

Aurora's heart jumped. She understood.

Aurora believed that Zac was here to test whether she knew that the mastermind behind this was Wenny. She thought if she revealed that she knew the truth, she would be killed by Zac on the spot.

Aurora said to herself in her heart, "Zac, to protect your current lover and child, you put in a lot of effort."

"I don't know." Aurora chuckled.

There was no longer any hope in her eyes. When she looked at Zac, there was no emotion in her eyes. Even the hatred had disappeared.

"You do not know?" Obviously, Zac did not believe her words.

"Mr. Buchanna, rest assured. I won't die for a while. You are a scumbag, and you still live in the world. How can I die?" Aurora gnashed her teeth in hatred.

"You!" Zac clenched his fists.

His eyes flashed with a cold light.

Aurora wasn't afraid at all. She raised her head and met his gaze as she added,

"Moreover, what if it was Wenny who did it? The people she found didn't kill me, so you came over and wanted to kill me, right?"

"Aurora, don't be so aggressive!" Zac was a little annoyed.

He had come all the way here not to quarrel with her.

Seeing the wariness and alienation on Aurora's face, Zac felt a sense of defeat that he had never felt

before striking his heart,
When he met Aurora's gaze, his throat was choked again, and he could not say anything.
But at that moment, even if his somewhat different expression fell into Aurora's eyes,
there was no longer any meaning to Aurora. Zac's eyes were full of anger. For the last time, he patiently said, "If it is her, then I..."
we
It was just before he finished speaking that the door was pushed open from outside.
I
W
"Aurora, there is your favorite steamed fish. Eat it quickly." Terry held the food in his hands.
Then, he saw Zac standing next to the hospital bed. Immediately, Terry put down the food and rushed over. He grabbed Zac by the collar and shouted, "How dare you come here? You must make Wenny apologize to Aurora! Otherwise, this matter is not over."
Zac also did not show any weakness.
He raised his hand to block Terry's arm. Zac knew who the patient's family the nurse talked about
was.
An unnamed annoyance rushed to the top of Zac's head. Zac gritted his teeth and said, "Mr. Walton, you are about to get engaged. Do you still have time to take care of another woman?"
"It has nothing to do with you!" Terry said with a cold gaze.
"Does she plan to have an affair with you after you get married?" Zac asked with a deeper smile.
"You bastard!" Terry shouted.
He couldn't control himself and punched Zac.
The two of them were about to clash again.
Aurora felt that she was about to be knocked out by their argument. She directly pressed the call bell and let the nurse and security guards pull them away and drag them out.
A few minutes later, Zac and Terry were all locked outside the ward.
"The patient doesn't want to see anyone. Please leave," the nurse said, stopping Terry from rushing in.
"Aurora, let me in. Let me explain it to you." Terry slammed the door anxiously.
There was a woman behind him.
Sara held a fruit basket in her hand and said softly, "Terry, is Aurora in this ward? I heard that she was injured and hospitalized, so I came to see her."
Upon hearing her voice, Terry frowned.
"I am also concerned about her." Sara smiled gently and put the fruit basket at the door.
She
pretended to be considerate as she said, "It seems that Aurora is tired. Why don't we go back now and let her have a rest? We can visit her again together next time."

"I am also concerned about her." Sara smiled gently and put the fruit basket at the door. She pretended to be considerate as she said, "It seems that Aurora is tired. Why don't we go back now and let her have a rest? We can visit her again together next time."
Sara seemed to not mind that Terry looked after Aurora in the hospital.
Sara seemed to be so understanding, which made Terry feel guilty.

"Don't harass her again, or I won't let you off," Terry turned to glare at Zac.
As soon as he finished his words, Terry stepped out. He thought that things were already chaotic enough, and he had to take Sara away as soon as possible.
"Terry, wait for me." Sara naturally smiled and followed Terry.
Zac stood at the door and wiped the blood from the corner of his mouth. This was not the first time that he had conflicted with Terry because of Aurora, but he could not suppress the anger in his heart.
When Zac received a call from his good friend Dalwin, his attitude was also very cold.
"What's wrong? Did you quarrel with Wenny?" Dalwin joked casually.
"It wasn't her," Zac replied as he slammed the car door.
On the other side of the phone, Dalwin thought of something. He hesitated for a moment before he said, "Zac, come over here. There are some things I want to show you face to face."
It was rare for Dalwin to speak in such a tone. Zac didn't take it seriously at first, but when he arrived at Dalwin's apartment and saw the things Dalwin said, Zac immediately frowned.
"Why are you showing me this?" Zac asked.
On the table were photos of the Bennet family, the villa that had been auctioned, the factories, and some accounts reports.
"Don't be angry." Dalwin made a lot of effort to pull Zac back. Then Dalwin added, "I know how you feel about the Bennet family. Of course, I stand on your side, but don't you think that the Bennet family went bankrupt too quickly?"

Chapter 110 A Trap

Zac frowned with a cold face.

"Other than you, there are also people targeting the Bennet family." Dalwin sighed and added, "I found this by chance. After that, I looked at your company's accounts and found that some of the changes were very similar to the Bennet family's accounts."

Zac instantly realized something,

Zac asked, "Do you mean someone is dealing with me as he did to Shawn?"

"Yes, and this person probably witnessed the entire process you did to the Bennet family. Then, he copied it." Dalwin pushed those things to the side. He was truly considering those things for Zac.

Seeing Zac's cold face, he added, "If it's just business competition, it's nothing to worry about. But now, there is uncertainty."

"You mean Aurora?" Zac smiled.

What can that woman do?

"After she was released from prison, she had always been right under my nose. She couldn't cause any trouble," Zac said confidently.

"Really?" Dalwin sighed and added, "But you have been showing mercy to her all the time, and she made you lose face several times, but you are still not willing to take action against her."

Dalwin's words ignited the emotions in Zac's heart.

Zac said, "Dalwin, that's enough."

Dalwin shook his head. He already knew that Zac would deny this matter. As one of Zac's few good friends, this was all that he could do.

Dalwin said, "Then think about it. Who is the one who did something to the Buchanna Group? Find him as soon as possible so as to avoid trouble."

Over the years, the Buchanna Group had developed too quickly, and there were also many enemies against the Buchanna Group.

In fact, before Dalwin said those words, Zac had also sensed it, but there was no solid evidence.

On the way back, Zac had always been thinking about the matter.

Wenny called him twice, but he did not receive anyone.

When Zac arrived downstairs, he found that Wenny was waiting for him. The moment she saw him, she cried and rushed over. Wenny said, "Zac, why didn't you receive my call? My apartment was

"Let me stay here for the night," she said softly, raising her eyes to pray for Zac.

It was already late at night.

"You can sleep in the guest room." Zac nodded.

Wenny wanted to refute subconsciously, but Saul had taught her that she could not be too anxious in front of Zac.

Thinking of this, Wenny quickly put on a smile and replied, "Thank you, Zac."

Then, she went to the door to change her shoes. She took off her coat and naturally put it aside. She did not stick to Zac anymore. Instead, she went to the kitchen to get a cup of warm water and held it in her hand.

When Wenny came out, she was wearing a velvet sweater and loose velvet pants. Her hair was not scalded into big waves as usual. Her long straight hair was simply tied in a low ponytail.

Her appearance suddenly hit Zac's heart.

Once, in my disgusting marriage, Aurora was like this. With a calm and peaceful appearance, she never took the initiative to please me, but everything she did was to maintain our relationship.

At that time, Zac had been cold to her for two years, but she was still so determined to maintain their relationship.

At that moment, Zac suddenly understood that it was not that Aurora did not care, but she had lost this marriage because she cared too much..

Therefore, Aurora had been waiting in pain and suppressing herself.

Zac's eyes flickered as he stood there silently for a long time.

He did not respond. Wenny could not continue pretending. She coughed lightly and said, "Zac?"

Zac withdrew his gaze, walked over, removed the cup of water from her hand, and sat down on the sofa holding Wenny's hand.

Zac said, "If you feel tired in the entertainment industry, just rest for the time being and take good care of the fetus."

This was not the first time Zac had asked Wenny to quit the entertainment industry. But Wenny clearly felt that his attitude had changed! Wenny thought that Zac wasn't demanding her, but discussing with her.

Wenny was overjoyed. She suppressed her excitement and said with a smile, "Zac, I still want to Zac froze and then said, "I'll send someone to deal with those anti-fans tomorrow. You can stay with me for the time being. We'll discuss it after things are settled."

Then he got up and patted Wenny on the shoulder.

He had never been so gentle to Wenny.

"The guest room is on the second floor. Go to bed early." With that, Zac went to the home office to work.

The smile that Wenny had been holding back for a long time suddenly bloomed.

She thought this method was too effective!

In the home office, Zac hesitated for a long time before he dialed Carter's number. He said, "Help me check something."

However, after he gave the order and put down his phone, he was still unable to calm down.

At that time, Aurora also gave up her career in designing to marry him. He slowly closed his eyes, his mind filled with Aurora's angry look in the hospital.

Zac suppressed the strange feeling in his heart.

He muttered, "Compared to what I lost, what you lost is far from enough."

The next day, Wenny swaggered into the film studio.

She looked like a female lead.

Wenny was in a particularly good mood today, because not only did Zac help her deal with the anti-fans, but he also specially sent the driver to send her over.

This was a treatment she had not enjoyed for a long time.

But not long after she was happy, her eyes fixed on a certain figure. She gnashed her teeth and said, "How do they do things? Why is Aurora stil..."

"Be quiet," Ella reminded her.

Wenny gritted her teeth and glared at Aurora.

At the same time, Aurora, who was being stared at by her, also noticed her gaze.

Aurora faintly glanced at Wenny.

In that instant, Wenny panicked.

Wenny quickly turned her face away in a panic. She pulled Ella and asked, "Can those people keep anti-fans, but he also specially sent the driver to send her over.

This was a treatment she had not enjoyed for a long time.

But not long after she was happy, her eyes fixed on a certain figure. She gnashed her teeth and said, "How do they do things? Why is Aurora still..."

"Be quiet," Ella reminded her.

At the same time, Aurora, who was being stared at by her, also noticed her gaze.

Aurora faintly glanced at Wenny.

In that instant, Wenny panicked.

Wenny quickly turned her face away in a panic. She pulled Ella and asked, "Can those people keep that secret? They won't expose me, will they?"

Wenny's relationship with Zac had just eased up. If this matter was exposed, it would be troublesome for Wenny.

Ella was quite calm. She quickly pulled Wenny and said, "It's all settled. Don't worry. No one will know it."

Ella thought, in this industry, money could do a lot of things.

If Aurora had not been saved by someone at that time, she would definitely be crying somewhere now.

If someone had taken that kind of photo of Aurora, as long as Aurora is threatened, she would get out of Clouston.

Ella tugged at Wenny and said, "The director changed today. The one in charge of filming is not Mr. Holloway but Mr. Lynn. Do you remember him? Last year, you met him at a banquet. He had a good impression of you."

Wenny certainly remembered, but she was a little hesitant.

She asked, "Doesn't Mr. Lynn have a bad reputation?"

Ella said, "So what? You are Zac's woman, and Mr. Lynn won't dare to have designs on you. The jewelry today is very beautiful. If you have a good relationship with him, you can stand in the most noticeable position."

Wenny said, "Then I'll give it a try."

The two of them were planning, but little did they know that all of this had fallen into Aurora's eyes.
