Chapter 161 Mess Up

Then, in public, Aurora took off the hair ornaments on her head and said, "Don't forget to transfer the rewarding money to me."

She must get paid for what she had done.

More importantly, she disdained to compete with Wenny.

"Stop!" Zac stood aside and his voice was full of coldness.

Aurora was not an obedient person, and she had no intention of stopping at all.

It was Bess who heard this and realized that something was wrong. She immediately gave up stopping Wenny. Bess went over there and grabbed Aurora. She whispered, "Ms. Bennet, if you leave now, our company will hold you accountable for breaking the contract."

"What?"

"That is to say, you have to pay for it, and the price is not cheap." Bess smiled politely.

Aurora gritted her teeth in anger. She felt that she had bad luck.

Aurora turned back reluctantly to look at the man in the distance. Her eyes turned, and she thought of something. "If Mr. Buchanna suspends and even stops the filming for private reasons, does he have to compensate you for the breach of contract?"

"Yes." Bess was puzzled.

Moreover, the endorsement contract was signed with Zac, and thus he had to be responsible for the effects of the ad.

But after all, Zac is of wealth and high status. A big shot like him would not stand up to Lymais. So they wouldn't put it on the table.

But Aurora's words were aggressive.

Bess didn't know how to respond.

Moreover, after that, everyone had a bad premonition.

In the next second, Aurora took the initiative to put on the hair ornaments. Then, she walked to Zac and approached him. She put her hand on his shoulder.

Zac frowned and subconsciously held her arm.

Aurora blinked, with her eyes full of innocence. "Don't you want the shooting to continue? Let's do it."

Her body leaned forward to him softly, which set off a sense of intimacy.

In addition, her hand was very beautiful, which set off the beauty of the ring.

"Good, very good! Keep doing this," the photographer said excitedly.

The other staff started working at once. They seemed to be in high spirits.

"Very good. You look like a couple." The photographer nodded.

Wenny stood aside, completely ignored by everyone.

Ella pulled her. "Wenny, let it go. It's just an ad."

"You don't get it! If this ad is released, everyone will laugh at me!"

She would never be able to take advantage of her identity as the woman of Zac in showbiz.

Just then, Wenny soon had an idea. She directly stuffed the phone into Ella's hand.

"Turn on the camera later and make a video."

Before Ella could react, Wenny had already rushed over.

"Zac, you can't do this to me, and you can't be bewitched by this woman. She's a two-timer. She is seducing you while hooking up with Terry!"

Aurora raised her eyebrows, and a faint smile flashed across her eyes. As expected, Wenny would throw a tantrum.

Then...

"We're just working. If you don't understand, then go away." Aurora raised her eyebrows and chuckled, hugging Zac even tighter.

"Shut up. This is between Zac and me. You're not in a position to speak."

Wenny was furious and grabbed Zac.

"Zac, what should I do if you're in the ad with her?"

Not to be outdone, Aurora reached out to push Wenny, smiling provocatively. "You are already pregnant, so you should give the opportunity to someone who needs it."

She made a pun.

She was referring to the ad and Zac.

As expected, it ignited Wenny's anger.

"Zac, how can you do this to me?" She immediately threw a tantrum and cried in front of everyone.

The smile in Aurora's eyes deepened.

She thought, very good. Keep doing this.

Just then, she let go of Zac and put on a helpless look. "Ms. Yates, see? Even if the shooting is terminated, it has nothing to do with me. It's not my fault."

Everyone saw what happened, and that was indeed the case.

With a few words, she easily got out of trouble, leaving behind Zac who was entangled by Wenny. He stood with a cold face, but there was nothing he could do.

In the end, Zac could only say angrily, "Stop the shooting."

Wenny thought that she had managed to win Zac's heart back, so she was happy. She followed him into the villa. "Zac, let's talk."

Outside the villa, Aurora felt relieved that she managed to escape from Zac with great difficulty though.

As soon as he looked up, she noticed someone that hurriedly left.

Aurora narrowed her eyes. Heh, you want to laugh at me?

The person who got the news and wanted to laugh at Aurora was naturally Faye.

Faye followed Wenny all the way into the Buchanna's villa, but she realized that Aurora was playing tricks. Faye thought, stupid Wenny! Then she left quickly.

If she was caught by Aurora, she would be in trouble.

Faye still owed Aurora a lot of debt. Faye thought cruelly, if only she could disappear from this world like her short lived father! Unfortunately, Zac is pretending to be cruel to her, but in fact, he is protecting her.

Faye could not hurt or kill Aurora by herself. If Aurora fought back, the Swon Group, which she had worked hard to get, would be taken away.

At the thought of Aurora, Faye felt a chill down her spine.

She thought if there was anyone who could control Aurora.

Faye hoped that Aurora could die.

Just as Faye was thinking about this, a super luxurious sports car stopped beside her, and the driver was Saul.

"Mrs. Swon? Get into the car. I'll give you a ride."

Faye was so happy with the way Saul.

She had met Saul at Wenny's wedding. She had heard that Saul was the Vice President of the Buchanna Group. Although he wasn't as rich as Zac, he was at least a young talent.

Thinking of this, Faye had an idea.

"Mr. Gates, thank you!"

Not long after, Faye told him her plan.

Saul gripped the steering wheel. After a long time, he asked slowly, "Mrs. Swon, don't tell me you want me to pursue Mr. Buchanna's ex-wife?"

Faye sized him up.

Since Saul didn't seem to be angry, she said with a smile, "In fact, I'm a bit close to Aurora. Although her previous marriage was not successful, she and Mr. Buchanna got divorced peacefully. Otherwise, she would not have attended Mr. Buchanna and Wenny's wedding."

"Mr. Gates, you're a wonderful man. It's not good for you to be alone. If you want, I can help you!"

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 162

Chapter 162 Penalty

Just as Faye finished speaking, Saul turned the steering wheel, and the car came to a sudden stop by the roadside.

Faye widened her eyes and was so scared that she dared not make a sound.

Saul curled his lips coldly and glanced at Faye. "I'm polite to you because you are Mr. Swon's wife, but you tried to play me against Mr. Buchanna."

"I ... I didn't," Faye anxiously explained.

However, Saul had already turned his head away. "Please get out of the car."

Faye got a taste of her own medicine, so she could only silently get out of the car.

As soon as the car door closed, Saul stepped on the accelerator and drove off.

"Damn!" Faye cursed.

She believed that it was Aurora's fault.

Saul took out his phone in the car and called someone. "Investigate Terry's race team and..."

Saul thought, ask Aurora out?

Saul raised his eyebrows slightly.

Not long after Aurora left, she was found and brought back by Zac's bodyguards.

The Lymais staff had already left, and Wenny had also disappeared.

"You want to run away after causing me trouble?" Zac leaned back on the sofa, his eyes dark and cold. They were faintly flickering with anger.

Aurora immediately shook her head and denied, "I didn't. I have been cooperative. I even hugged you."

In the next second, Zac waved his hand, signaling her to come closer.

“Let’s talk this way. I can hear you,” Aurora said with a frown.

or

“Come here.”

Aurora had no choice but to move her feet. “What I said is the truth. I’ll change my answer no matter how many times you ask.”

She had always been stubborn.

Moreover, she wouldn’t give up until the last moment.

Zac stared at her and said slowly word for word, “From now on, you are not leaving until after the ad is done. You must come anytime I call you over. Otherwise, you’ll be charged 8 million dollars for breaking the contract.”

“What?”

Aurora was stunned for a moment. “Why should I pay for it? And I…”

But Zac didn’t listen to her at all and left.

Soon, Alma entered and began to work, looked at Aurora in the living room, shook her head helplessly, turned around, and locked the door. Then she put the key into the pocket of her clothes.

“Sorry, Ms. Bennet. Mr. Buchanna ordered me to do this.”

“Alma, I want to have lobsters tonight. Ten lobsters,” Aurora said through gritted teeth.

Alma looked at her blankly for a moment, then quickly nodded. “Okay, no problem.”

Zac asked Alma to listen to Aurora as long as Aurora had a good appetite.

In fact, Alma was puzzled too. She didn’t know why Zac kept Aurora by his side this way.

There were many dishes on the table at dinner.

Just as Aurora was about to eat, she had an upset stomach. She ran to the bathroom and vomited.

She rubbed her stomach in confusion. She thought, there are so many delicious foods. Why did I want to vomit?

“What’s wrong, Ms. Bennet?” Alma immediately brought a glass of water over and saw that Aurora’s face was pale. She helped Aurora sit down.

Aurora smelled the fragrance of the food and shook her head weakly. “I don’t know either. I just suddenly lost my appetite and wanted to vomit.”

“Vomit?” Alma was stunned for a while.

“I’m going to sleep. I don’t want to eat anymore.” Aurora walked up the stairs with a poor appetite.

Alma looked at her back and immediately sent a message to Zac.

Zac was sitting in a bar, listening to Dalwin, who was talking about business.

He looked at the phone and frowned.

Dalwin leaned over and looked at the screen. “Could it be that she is pregnant?”

Zac was instantly stunned.

“No appetite. Feeling like vomiting. She was fine during the day but felt sick at night. It seems that she is pregnant,” Dalwin explained.

Zac tightened his grip on his phone.

“Could it be that she’s playing some tricks again?” he asked hesitantly.

He believed Aurora could do anything in order to escape from him.

Zac wondered if Aurora was playing a trick just because he threatened her with 8 million dollars.

Dalwin propped one hand on the table and was a little drunk. He muttered, “What if it’s true?”

He shook his head. “Forget it. Let’s drink first.”

However, Zac was gone.

When Zac rushed back to the villa, Aurora was already asleep. He looked at the dishes on the table and frowned even more deeply.

It was abnormal for Aurora not to eat them out.

He now believed that she was sick.

He took off his coat and went upstairs quietly. He tried to open the bedroom door and found that it was locked from the inside.

Zac rubbed his eyebrows. He thought, she is really watching out for me.

Thinking about what Dalwin said, he immediately turned and entered the home office.

The next morning, when Aurora woke up, she was surrounded by two family doctors. She looked at them warily. "What happened?"

The two doctors were experts in traditional medicine and modern medicine respectively. They directly pressed her down and began to examine her.

"Ms. Bennet, you weren't feeling well last night. Mr. Buchanna called the doctors over to give you a checkup," Alma explained softly from behind.

"I ... I just didn't have an appetite. This is too much. I don't have any infectious diseases. He doesn't need to make such a fuss!"

Aurora struggled and ran out.

"Don't touch me!"

She ran bare feet. As she raised her head, her eyes met Zac's deep eyes.

"Have the checkout," he said as he held her hand tightly.

"I won't. You are not in a position to order me!" Aurora shook him off and said through gritted teeth, "If you are afraid that I have an infectious disease, let me go immediately. I don't even have an appetite here."

"Really?" His thin lips curled into a smile.

He remembered clearly that a few days ago, Aurora had a good appetite.

Under his stare, Aurora started to panic. Just as she was about to retort, her phone rang.

As soon as she picked it up, she fixed her eyes on the man's face.

“Zac, you broke your words!”

“What?”

“You’re still pretending, aren’t you? You promised to let the Racing Association change the judgment. But they still banned the Black Rider Team from attending races for half a year!” Aurora gritted her teeth in hatred. She regretted trusting him.

Aurora thought, liar!

She stomped on Zac, put on her coat, and ran out.

“Sir, do you want us to get her back?” The bodyguard asked.

The man made a gesture and they immediately retreated.

After making a call, Zac also drove to the Racing Association. He had deliberately let Aurora hear his words. But he had not deliberately interfered with the decision of the Racing Association.

Ten minutes later. Aurora arrived at the Racing Association.

The members of the Black Rider Team also arrived, including Terry, who was arguing with Patrick.

“According to the results of the previous investigation, although it has nothing to do with the Black Rider Teams, you have caused bad impacts. I must do this to ensure the fairness of racing.” Patrick said with a smile, his hand still holding a high-end cigar.

“What did we do? Terry and Aurora almost died on the track. If someone had died, could you still sit here so casually?”

Chapter 163 Patrick’s Unreasonable Requirement

“Then what can I do? Besides, aren’t you fine now?” Patrick spread his hands.

“You!” Jayson was so angry that he wanted to beat Patrick up.

But he was stopped by Terry.

“Be cool.”

Patrick smiled. "That's right. Don't be impulsive. If you beat me up, it won't just be a six-month ban. I'm powerful enough to ban you from attending the races for the rest of your life."

Jayson was furious and clenched his fists.

Terry patted him on the shoulder and winked at Abel. He signaled Abel to keep an eye on Jayson.

Abel nodded, pulling Jayson away.

Just then, Aurora walked to Terry. Seeing her, Terry frowned. "I told Abel not to tell you."

"It has something to do with me as well. I can stand by and watch."

least

Although she might not be able to help, she would definitely not back down if she were to be in court

Terry looked over with concern, his eyes filled with guilt.

"If you want to flirt with each other, go outside. I don't have time to entertain you," Patrick said with his legs crossed.

Aurora walked forward, glanced at the cigar on his desk, and asked with a smile, "Do you feel good?"

"Of course, this is..."

Patrick was just about to say a few words proudly when he was interrupted by Aurora, who said, "It's an annual tribute by Rody. It cost more than 200 thousand dollars."

"What?" Patrick obviously didn't expect it to be so expensive.

He immediately pressed the button and carefully wrapped it up.

Looking at him, Aurora was even more certain that Patrick must have been bribed. In Clouston, there were not many people who could get such a good cigar. Patrick got a set of cigars that only the partners of Rody could get.

The Buchanna Group once cooperated with Rody.

Aurora's eyes darkened. She did not expect that Zac would be scheming and shameless.

"Did the Buchanna Group ask you to do this?"

Aurora's voice was calm in the office.

"What are you talking about? I don't understand! We have our own rules." Patrick's face changed at once.

"What do we have to do in order to regain the qualifications for the competition?" Terry stared at him, with his eyes full of anger.

Patrick knew that the Walton family was Terry's backup.

However, Patrick was cornered because he couldn't afford to offend either of them.

"Well..." Patrick looked at Terry's legs. He heard that Terry had several operations in the hospital. He believed that Terry was definitely still recovering. "We have a lot of investors, and the recent races involve a large sum of money. Your mistakes have caused a very bad impact on the competitions.

"Your only choice is to have another match.

"If you can break the record by over ten seconds, I'll change my mind.

"That's all I can do." Patrick looked hesitant.

"Are you crazy? More than ten seconds?"

The members of the Black Rider Team were all angry. Patrick was bullying.

"Terry, forget it. Let's go. There's no need to be insulted here." Abel couldn't bear it anymore.

This was exactly what Patrick wanted.

"I am in," Terry said firmly. He stood still.

"No, you just had surgery. You can't go on the track. You know what happened on the race track back then. You can't bite more than you can chew. If you take part in it now, you may die!" Abel was unyielding

"Even if I die, I will die in the race car." Terry clenched his fists.

"Terry."

Aurora looked at Terry and said softly, "If something bad happens to you, what about your parents?"

Terry's face changed.

When he was in the hospital, his parents had become much more haggard because of him.

Det

Aurora and Abel looked at each other. She said, "Let me do it."

Everyone was shocked. Terry objected to her request at once. "No, it's too dangerous."

"I was in the car at that time. I know the difficulty of the competition. Is there any better choice than me?" As Aurora spoke, she looked at Abel and said, "I remember that people must raise objections within one week after the decision was made. Otherwise, the decision wouldn't be changed, right?"

Abel nodded. "Yes, today is the first day."

"Terry, I know what I am doing."

Aurora was not impulsive. She was confident, which was why she offered to do it.

She was almost dead, and she wouldn't risk her life easily.

"No. You know how dangerous it is. What if something bad happens..." Terry refused with dark eyes.

"It's fine," Aurora smiled bitterly. "I'm the only one left in my family, anyway."

Even if something bad really happened to her, no one would feel sad for her.

"You still have..."

Before Terry could finish his words, there was a series of footsteps outside. Then, Zac appeared at the door, followed by several staff members of the Racing Association.

“Mr. Moore, Mr. Buchanna is here!”

All of a sudden, Patrick immediately stood up. “Mr. Buchanna!”

Zac rushed over and his eyes fixed on Aurora. “You are not a racer. You can’t do it.”

“You are not a member of the Racing Association. How can you stop me?” Aurora was furious.

If he had kept his word, things would not have turned out to be so terrible.

Moreover, she felt that Zac had been lying to her from the beginning.

However, she still fell for him.

“That’s different. Mr. Buchanna is the investor in this competition. He has the right to decide everything,” Patrick explained at once when Zac glared at him.

This was the power of capital.

Aurora gritted her teeth in anger, but there was nothing she could do.

The other team members realized that the Racing Association deliberately made things difficult for them. But now, they could only eat humble pie.

“Forget it. Just half a year. Let’s go back,” Abel said, pulling Terry and Aurora.

Terry lowered his head. He had to admit that he had truly lost face as well as dignity as a race car driver.

But he could do nothing.

He didn’t want Aurora to take risks for him.

“Aurora, let’s go,” he said dejectedly.

If Zac had not come, Aurora might have agreed to the compromise.

But now, she glared at Zac angrily. She said word by word firmly, "I won't leave. I want to do this. Just now, Patrick said as long as I break the record by ten seconds, he will change the result."

The Black Rider Team had just gained a firm foothold in recent years. Aurora wouldn't let Patrick ban the Black Rider Team from taking part in races for six months.

The prime of a race car driver could be short.

"Aurora, I am not worthy of your sacrifice." Terry furrowed his brows and grabbed Aurora's wrist.

He felt ashamed to let Aurora risk her life for him.

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 164

Chapter 164 Is It Worth It?

Terry might persuade others, but he could do nothing about Aurora's stubbornness.

"There are six days left. I will practice my car well and lower the risks as much as possible." Aurora was very thoughtful.

Terry looked at her determined eyes and was speechless for a long time.

"Don't worry, I'll be fine." Aurora suddenly smiled.

That smile seemed dazzling to Zac.

seer

He was angry. Even an experienced driver like Terry was injured. Zac wondered why she would race for Terry

She even wanted to break the record.

It almost risked her life.

Zac thought he should have driven her away.

The cold aura that Zac exuded lingered for a long time.

Everyone in the office felt his unhappiness, including Terry. It seemed that Zac was angry because Aurora wanted to play in place of Terry.

"Aurora, come out."

Zac retracted his gaze and strode out.

Terry subconsciously wanted to follow, but Aurora shook her head. "You guys go to the training ground to prepare. I'll be there right away."

"But..."

"Terry, we have no time."

She caught up with Zac and headed to another office.

Abel pondered on the side and asked Terry in a low voice, "Can she persuade Mr. Buchanna?"

"I don't know." Terry looked away coldly.

Only after the operation did he know that the two internationally renowned doctors treated him because of Zac.

In other words, Zac had saved him.

Zac only did this because of Aurora.

Every time Terry thought of this, he would feel annoyed and angry.

"Let's go to the training ground first? We can't just waste time here," Jayson whispered.

Someone agreed, "That's right. If Aurora insists on taking the field, we have to make sure things that happened last time will never happen again."

To them, Aurora was their last hope.

"Terry, what do you say?" Abel respected his wishes. After all, Terry had brought Aurora to the race team.

"Aurora doesn't belong to our team. Abel, go and settle the formalities. Otherwise, someone could make things difficult for us," Terry said and looked back at Patrick.

That gaze was bone-chilling.

"I'm not that kind of person. I also hope that your team can make a comeback," Patrick said with a hollow laugh.

"You better keep your word. Otherwise, I will destroy your association."

Terry said fiercely and led others to the training ground.

He had to admit that there was no second way now. He was still recovering. His elbows and waist were powerless. If he raced, he might be in danger.

However, he hesitated to let Aurora take the risk for him.

Terry stared at the track in the distance with a heavy heart.

At another office.

As soon as the door closed, Zac turned around and stared at Aurora, "For Terry, you can even risk your life."

He gripped her shoulders tightly.

His strength was so great that it was frightening. Aurora gasped in pain.

"You're just an investor. You can control people like Patrick, that good-for-nothing." She forced a smile.

She knew those powerful and influential people could do anything.

But even if she risked her life, Aurora wanted to fight to the death.

"Besides, my life has nothing to do with you."

"You..." Zac's eyes were full of fierceness. Her words weighed heavy on his heart. He hated Aurora's stubbornness.

Aurora never pleased him like Wenny.

They always confront each other like this.

Aurora knew that she might be destroyed if she went against Zac.

"Alright, you don't even cherish your life. Just do whatever you want." Zac gritted his teeth, shook off his hand, and left without looking back.

He walked as the anger grew in his heart.

"Mr. Buchanna."

Carter was waiting at the door.

Originally, Zac had an important meeting today. He had only rushed over after knowing that the Racing Association had changed the results.

“Back to the company.” Zac frowned and his gaze was still sharp.

On the way, he instructed, “Investigate Patrick’s recent records on fund transfer.”

He hated it when people played tricks behind their backs in the name of the Buchanna family.

His mind was filled with the desperate look on Aurora’s face for Terry just now. Zac frowned and was getting increasingly unhappy.

The car stopped at the entrance of the company. Zac had just stepped up the stairs when a thought flashed into his mind. Perhaps, Aurora decided to take the field not only to help Terry but also to go against him.

She was sore about the bankruptcy of the Bennet Group.

Thinking of this, Zac softened a little.

Behind him, Carter was stunned. He wondered what happened to Zac today.

That afternoon, Aurora began to train in the car. She drove, again and again, trying to reach the best speed in every corner.

However, she had not been the main driver for a long time.

Although her speed was increasing gradually, it was still impossible to break the record.

Abel looked at the statistics and shook his head at Terry. “Tell her not to force herself. It is almost impossible unless she could break through the limits of the human body.”

The anticipation in team members’ eyes slowly faded. They left the training ground dejectedly.

Get Bonus

Aurora got out of the car again, only Terry left on the sidelines.

She took off her helmet and whispered, “Is it still too slow?”

She turned her head and looked at the field. Aurora pursed her lips and wondered where she could speed up.

“Aurora.”

Terry walked up to her step by step and pulled her shoulder through the railing.

He stood slightly higher, so Aurora had to look up to him. “What?”

“Forget it.

“I don’t want you to be so tired,” Terry said as he smiled.

“What about your race team? Can you hold on for half a year? It’s not just about funding, but also...”

But before she could finish her words, Terry’s eyes darkened.

They had known each other for so long, and Aurora had never seen such a calm and composed look on his face. Aurora bit the rest of her words back.

At this moment, Terry was very calm.

“If the team is gone, we can build another one. But I can’t bear it if I lose you again.”

Last time, it was because he was too unruly that Aurora married Zac.

This time, he could not let go of her.

Aurora frowned. Before she could say anything, Terry said with a smile, “You can give up studying abroad for Zac. I can also give up racing for half a year. Even if I cannot drive for a lifetime, I will accept it.”

Aurora shook her head.

“I’ll try it again.”

She turned around and walked back to the training ground.

Terry’s eyes were fixed on her. He watched the car start up and then took out his phone to call Kate.

“Mom, I’ve thought it through. From now on, I won’t race anymore.”

“Really? Terry, it’s great!”

Terry’s parents had tried to persuade him many times, but he was only focused on racing.

“I will follow your expectations and take over our family business.”

Hearing that, Kate was grinning from ear to ear.

“But there is one condition.”

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 165

Chapter 165 Broken Brooch

Aurora drove around the square twice and was unhappy with the total time. There were several places where she could have saved time.

She got out of the car and took off her helmet, planning to ponder over it again.

But Terry snatched her helmet.

“Try it again tomorrow. The training field is about to close.”

“At this hour?” Aurora turned around and saw a few staff members cleaning up the place.

Terry did not say much and pulled her out. Since Terry’s career as a car racer could not make her feel secure, he would give it up.

Not long after the two left the training field, a black car caught up to them from behind.

“I went to your house twice, but you were not there. Where do you live?” Terry hesitated for a moment before asking.

In fact, he knew the answer.

“My friend’s place.” Aurora gave a vague reply as she pointed at the intersection in front of her. “Just drop me off there. I’ve got a bit of shopping to do.”

Terry nodded slowly and stopped the car.

“See you tomorrow. I’ll see what I can do.” Aurora waved her hand and walked into the mall.

In the distance, Terry watched her leave.

He turned his head and looked at the black car that followed them along the way. His eyes suddenly turned cold.

As soon as Aurora entered the mall, she was followed by a few fans of Wenny.

“You are the one who stole Wenny’s role!”

They surrounded Aurora and stared at her fiercely. “Zac has already dumped you. Can you stop pestering him?”

“That’s right. Wenny is pregnant. She is a perfect match for Zac. Wake up! If I were you, I would break off the engagement with Lymais!”

“I don’t want to see you again. If you appear on the bulletin board of Lymais, we fans will unite to boycott this brand!”

Since Aurora had practiced racing the whole afternoon, she was very tired.

So Aurora was in a foul mood being scolded by so many people.

“Are you done?”

“Fuck off if you’re done,” Aurora said coldly as she looked at those people.

“How could you swear like that?”

Aurora laughed and looked at them with disdain. “Didn’t you hear the news that Wenny was beaten in the bathroom some time ago? You all know it, right?”

“I did it. Not only will I scold you, but I’ll beat you. Stay away from me. Otherwise, you probably have to stay in the hospital, yelling for.”

She had tried her best to control herself.

Those fans were all frightened by Aurora’s words.

However, one fan was not afraid of being beaten and shouted, “Anyway, you are cheeky and want to be a home-wrecker. You...”

Before the fan finished speaking, she was pinned down by a few bodyguards.

Then Aurora saw a figure in a black dress walking over. Miley took off her sunglasses and asked Aurora with a smile, "I saw them harassing you. Are you okay?"

Miley was indeed a beautiful woman with an air of easy assurance. The make-up only seemed to enhance her classically beautiful features. Her charm was irresistible.

Aurora shook her head.

Miley made a gesture and those fans were pushed out by the bodyguards.

Aurora looked back and said, "Thank you for helping me out once again. Aren't you afraid they will spread slanders about you?"

Miley smiled and said, "I've seen that have happened so many times. I'm not afraid of those rumors. Moreover, I only lend a helping hand to the worthy ones. My friend runs a shop upstairs. Let's go there. I've got a favor to ask you."

Miley had helped Aurora several times. Since Aurora had nothing to do now, she nodded and agreed.

Coincidentally, the friend Miley mentioned was the jewelry agent that Macy introduced to Aurora.

After introductions, Jimmy smiled and blurted out, "What a coincidence! Someone else just recommend you to me."

Jimmy was a half-caste man of average height. He sounded like a native speaker and always smiled at everyone.

"Did Ms. Carr tell you that?" Aurora was a little surprised. She didn't expect Macy to contact him at once.

"Clouston is small," Miley said with a smile.

Jimmy smiled. He didn't admit it, nor did he deny it. Instead, he gazed at Aurora thoughtfully for a while before changing the topic. "I've been looking for the brooch you mentioned for a long time, and I've finally found it."

Jimmy asked his assistant to go upstairs to get a delicate wooden box.

Not long ago, when Aurora was looking at the display window of this self-made jewelry store, she glanced at it unintentionally and she was stunned at once.

Because she had seen the wooden box countless times!

She moved forward and gazed at it blankly. Once, it was placed on her mother's dressing table. After the Bennet family went bankrupt, this box was taken away by the court and auctioned off.

Jimmy opened the box and there was a broken brooch in it.

The base of the brooch was made of white jade. Several white orchids were carved on it. However, the pattern that was embedded on the left side of the white orchids had disappeared. The brooch was like a shell that had lost its soul. Although it was still a piece of art, it was not that perfect.

Jimmy said regretfully, "I've tried my best to fix it, but I failed. My designers spent a lot of time trying to find the original ornaments at this place, but this brooch should be a masterpiece of a great craftsman, so there's absolutely nothing more they can do."

Miley knew that he had tried his best and turned to look at Aurora. "Do you have any ideas?"

Aurora tried her best to calm herself down. "Here. A yellow diamond and pearls can be placed here."

Jimmy and Miley watched the brooch for a while.

Jimmy immediately became spirited and praised Aurora repeatedly. Then, he immediately began to draw a design.

Aurora walked forward and gave some small suggestions.

In less than ten minutes, the brooch was restored on paper.

"That's right. This is the perfect plan. I'll go find the materials now." Jimmy rushed to the warehouse downstairs.

Miley smiled and said, "You are brilliant. Thank you for your help. A friend of mine likes the brooch so much. I must restore it and give it to her."

"Your friend?"

Aurora gazed at the brooch. After a long time, she said slowly, "I hope she will like it."

Although this brooch had once belonged to her mother.

But as time passed, it no longer belonged to the Bennet family.

Jimmy had all of the necessary materials, so he quickly repaired the brooch. He repeatedly praised Aurora for being very talented in design.

"If you have time, come here and draw a few designs. As long as your designs are unique and outstanding, I will definitely show them in the exhibition."

Aurora was in need of money at this time.

Jimmy's words undoubtedly cast a ray of hope for her.

"Thank you, Jimmy."

Miley still had an appointment, so Aurora excused herself. Not long after she left, Jimmy dialed a number.

"The brooch you gave me last time, I found a seller."

A low voice asked, "Who?"

"Zac's ex-wife, Aurora."

Chapter 166 You Can't Touch Her

Three days later.

The new Lymais products were launched. The promotional video was very beautiful. Lymais also admitted that the actor and the actress were not professional models. They were actually a real couple

Both of them did not show their faces. But in the big picture of the couple in the Lymais shop, the back of the actress and the jawline of the actor were shown.

Many people began to guess who shot the promotional video.

Wenny was at home and stared at the picture in the magazine. She raised her hands and tore the picture to pieces.

"I'm going to kill her!"

Faye pushed open the door and came in with the fruit. She just heard what Wenny said.

The door was open. Wenny turned her head to stare at Faye. "Come here," Wenny said.

Faye laughed dryly. "Wenny, what's the matter?"

"Tell me, what is it that Aurora cares about the most?" She wanted to take away all the things that mattered to Aurora.

"How am I supposed to know?" Faye pretended that she didn't know it.

"Don't lie to me. I have already investigated what happened between you and Shawn. If you don't tell me what I want to know, I'll tell my father now!"

"Or are you still thinking about Shawn even though he is already dead? Did you marry my father just for his money?" Wenny glared at Faye.

Faye gritted her teeth. "Wenny, what you said is really hurtful."

In fact, Faye only found out after she married Davis that the Swon family only seemed to be rich. The money was all in the company, and the mobile funds were not much.

In addition, Davis had been living with another woman recently. Not to mention gifts, he rarely gave Faye money

Compared to Shawn, Davis was really bad to Faye.

Jasr

"Fine, I'll call my dad now."

"Don't!" Faye sighed and pretended to be torn. "Well, Aurora definitely cares about the company her father left for her. I heard that it has become a recycling company now."

Piet

"Recycling company? Of course, Aurora likes trash," Wenny thought and gritted her teeth.

Faye put down the fruit and looked at Wenny's evil expression. Faye wondered if Zac would marry Wenny or not.

Why did Zac wait for so long if he really wanted to marry Wenny?

"Wenny, there's something that your dad wants me to ask you. Did you and Zac get marriage registration?"

In fact, Davis didn't ask Faye to do so. Faye was the one who wanted to know it.

Wenny became angry when she thought about it.

"Not yet. I originally planned to get marriage registration after the wedding ceremony, but it has been delayed until now. Zac has never mentioned it again," Wenny said unhappily.

This time, Faye was stunned.

"Wenny, I think you should get it as soon as possible. Putting it off indefinitely is not good for you."

Faye said it indirectly, but Wenny still understood it.

"Are you worried that Zac will dump me because of that bitch? How is that possible? I'm pregnant and he is the father," Wenny said with a sneer.

"Then what if Zac takes the baby away after the baby is born? Wenny, don't be stupid. Think about how the Bennet family fell."

Faye said this for the sake of Wenny.

If Wenny could marry Zac, the Swon family would make a lot of money in the future. But if Wenny failed to marry Zac, they would go bankrupt since Davis was so stupid.

Wenny's eyes turned cold.

"You are right, you are right..."

ar

Wenny bit her lips and looked at herself in the mirror. "Let the makeup artist come over. I want to wear makeup!"

"Do you still want the thick makeup you usually wear?" Faye was worried about whether Wenny could make the right choice.

“Of course not.”

Wenny gritted her teeth and said, “From now on, I will imitate Aurora in every aspect and replace her.”

Now Wenny was pregnant with Zac’s child. She would become a woman Zac couldn’t forget.

This was the only way Wenny could win

lool anymore,

Aurora had been spending the last few days in the training round. She came here early and went back very late. She basically never met Zac,

But she did live in Zac’s villa,

Aurora stayed there simply because she had to keep an eye on Zacat all times in case he would secretly do something shady

The members of the Black Rider Team originally did not have much hope, but Terry insisted on staying with Aurora when she practiced driving every day. Gradually, Abel and Jayson also came

Over

“Aurora, you can speed up a little earlier on that curve. There should be no problem with two cylinders of power.”

“Aurora, drink some water. Abel will give you the data in a while,”

With everyone working together, Aurora was almost as fast as Terry when she drove one lap.

However, her performance was still unstable.

“There is hope. As long as we work together like this, there will be no problem. Everybody, let’s work harder!” Abel said excitedly.

Aurora got out of the car once again. Her legs felt weak and she felt a little dazed.

The sun had been dazzling these past few days, and Aurora had been wearing a helmet in the driver's seat. She always felt dizzy when she got out of the car, but it was only for a few seconds, so she didn't take it to heart.

But today, clearly something was wrong.

She took a few steps and the dizziness didn't disappear,

Her brain went blank and she fell forward.

Fortunately, Terry noticed that something was wrong with her immediately and ran over to support her. "Are you alright?"

Aurora waved her hand and was about to say that she was fine,

She vaguely saw another man on the stand. Was it Zac?

She gritted her teeth and stood up. She didn't want Zac to laugh at her.

"Don't worry, maybe I didn't sleep well yesterday."

"It's enough for today." Terry held her wrist and said, sounding worried.

After all, Aurora was a girl. Terry wouldn't be able to take it if he trained so hard every day.

"I know what I'm doing. If I'm tired, I'll tell you." Aurora forced a smile.

It was nothing. She could continue practicing.

She would try her best and let Zac know that no one could control her fate. As long as there was a chance, she would fight.

When she looked up again, the man on the stand was already gone.

Was it her illusion?

Aurora thought of it and withdrew her gaze.

Terry kept holding her hand and refused to let go. Abel and the others also gave her water and chocolate in the first place.

"Aurora, you've done it pretty well this time, but there are still a few details you need to pay attention to." Abel took the data book over and explained patiently.

Aurora listened as she drank water.

Terry's phone rang and he went to answer a call.

"Aurora!" Terry heard Abel and the others shouting.

Terry's hands trembled and he ran back in a hurry.

However, before he could rush back, another man rushed over and picked up Aurora.

Terry rushed forward as quickly as possible, trying to get Aurora back, but Zac avoided him with a cold face.

"Don't touch her!" Terry said anxiously.

"She works so hard all because of you. You can't touch her!" said Zac.

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 167

Chapter 167 Don't Mess With Me

Terry froze and watched Zac leave with Aurora.

"Terry, what are you waiting for? Chase him!" Abel said with a frown.

Terry stared at Zac's back and hesitated.

"Abel, was there an accident during my surgery? And I was given a blood transfusion at that time, right?"

Abel nodded. "Yes. It was Aurora who..."

Terry didn't need to listen to Abel anymore.

Because of the accident, Terry owed Aurora too much.

After the operation, he crazily looked for Aurora, but he couldn't see her.

Terry didn't give up until he heard Lawrence say that Aurora had fainted because of the blood transfusion.

If Zac hadn't taken her away in time, something terrible might have happened to her.

Terry stood still and closed his eyes sadly.

He thought, Zac was right. I shouldn't have let a woman risk her life for me.

When Aurora opened her eyes again, she felt a pain in her arm.

“What the hell are you doing?”

She gritted her teeth and pushed away the person who was drawing her blood.

When she looked up again, she was not surprised to see a familiar face.

“Zac, why are you so persistent?”

“Is that enough?” the man asked as he got up.

“Yes.” The nurse nodded.

She then left with Zac’s permission.

Aurora glared at him, and her eyes were full of wariness.

“It’s just a blood test. You suddenly fainted on the training ground. We have to find out the reason, right?” Zac said resignedly.

He did that out of kindness.

He wanted to know why Aurora vomited.

Aurora sneered. “How can you be so kind to me? You want me to die more than anyone else does, don’t you?”

They hated each other, but Zac always gave her a remorseful look.

This made Aurora feel disgusted.

She threw back the quilt but was stopped by Zac.

“Before the results come out, you’d better not leave.”

If she...

Aurora shook his hand off and said, “I’ve told you not to mess with me.”

If he had cared so much about her two years ago, she would have been very happy, but now, she just felt disgusted.

“Am I that bad in your eyes?” Zac felt her coldness and resistance.

“You still hate me for making the Bennet Group go bankrupt,” he said with his arms hanging down

What he said reminded Aurora of the painful past. The sadness cleared her mind. She looked up at Zac with a slight smile and said, “If you were me, you wouldn’t share a bed with your enemy either, would you?”

He took her as his deadly foe back then.

Now, he had become Aurora’s deadly foe.

The man’s pupils trembled violently. He opened his mouth, wanting to say something, but he couldn’t make a sound.

“I did those things to take revenge on you. You can play dirty tricks on me as you like, but I will never give in.”

Aurora gnashed her teeth and pushed away the man in front of her.

After going out of the room, she found that it was the lounge of the Racing Association.

She rubbed her sore neck and quickly walked away.

Zac stood alone in the room and sighed resignedly.

She still hated him.

After Aurora left, she soon received a call from Abel, who told her to rest for a day and not to be in a hurry.

“I’m fine. I just need to sleep a little longer tomorrow. I won’t delay the work,” Aurora said.

She didn’t know how long she had been unconscious, so she didn’t go to her teammates..

In the gray car on the opposite side of the road, Terry gave Abel a look.

Abel immediately said on the phone, “Okay, see you tomorrow.”

Abel put down his phone and looked at Terry beside him and then at Aurora who was getting on the bus. Abel thought, I don’t know what these youths are thinking. Why doesn’t Terry just tell Aurora how he feels?

Everyone could see that Terry liked Aurora, but they didn't know whether Aurora liked Terry.

"Abel, I have something to tell you."

"Go ahead," Abel said, looking at him.

"Whether Aurora will succeed or not, I will announce my retirement after the competition," Terry said calmly and firmly.

"What?"

After knowing Terry's background, Abel realized that Terry would retire sooner or later, but Abel didn't expect Terry to make this decision so soon.

Since Terry decided to quit, all Aurora's efforts would be in vain.

Terry lowered his eyes. He had always been in high spirits, but now he said with a bitter smile, "I'll retire right now, Aurora will blame herself for the rest of her life. I don't want her to feel guilty."

More importantly, Terry couldn't give Zac a chance to control Aurora.

Never!

Terry wanted to defeat Zac in another field to prove that he was the best man for Aurora.

Abel looked blankly at Terry for a while, patted Terry's shoulder, and said, "You've become a real man."

Terry used to be impulsive, but now he was more considerate.

"Anyway, let's go all out. Don't let Aurora and our teammates down."

"Okay!"

"Okay!"

After Aurora returned home, she received a message from Terry.

"Are you home?"

She replied, "Yes". After that, she fell asleep.

Before she slept, someone called her, but Aurora was so drowsy that she ignored her phone, pulled the quilt, and rolled over.

“Mr. Buchanna, Ms. Bennet didn’t answer the phone,” Carter said as he put down his phone.

Zac rubbed his brow. He guessed that she was asleep.

“Ask some people to protect her,” he ordered coldly.

On the laptop next to him, there was the latest news. The Bennet Group had been renamed Cosmos Group. No one paid the huge debt. Someone had filed a lawsuit against Aurora and asked her to pay the debt for her father.

If Aurora lost the case and had to pay the debt before the deadline, she might be sent to prison.

Zac looked carefully at the screen. His face tightened.

He thought, who did that?

Meanwhile, Aurora had no idea what had happened. As she woke up, it was light outside.

As soon as she stepped out of her house, she was stopped by the bodyguards sent by Zac.

“Ms. Bennet, Mr. Buchanna asked us to take you to the training ground and to protect you until the competition ends,” the bodyguard said seriously and opened the car door before Aurora could refuse them.

There were three bodyguards. Aurora couldn’t get rid of them.

She hadn’t expected Zac to do that, thinking, does he have to watch me like this just to stop me from attending the game?

“Well, he’s tougher than I thought.”

Anyway, they would take her there for free.

Aurora opened the car door and got in the car.

In the distance, Wenny sat in Saul’s car and witnessed this. “Zac asked his people to pick her up?”

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 168

Chapter 168 Who?

“I already told you that Zac is very kind to his ex-wife,” Saul said with a chuckle as he looked sideways at Wenny and smelt the fragrance from her.

“Can you have someone ruin Aurora’s face?” Wenny asked angrily.

Saul raised his eyebrows and pretended to be casual as he asked, “Isn’t it a pity to ruin such a beautiful face?”

“You don’t like Aurora, do you?” Wenny widened her eyes and pushed Saul’s hand off her waist.

Seeing that she was angry, Saul leaned over and said, “Don’t think too much. I am not as philandering as Zac. I only like you.”

Hearing this, Wenny looked less annoyed.

Yet the next second, Saul gripped her chin. “But you want to marry Zac. Will you listen to me in the future?”

His eyes were instantly filled with hatred. Wenny’s chin ached.

She frowned in pain and patted the man’s hand. “Of course.”

She couldn’t get rid of Saul at all.

Saul had many of her nude photos, and he was even the father of the child in her uterus.

“As long as you go on a business trip with me, I can make Aurora disappear from Zac’s sight.” Saul looked at her face suspiciously and let go of her chin.

“Really?”

Wenny was full of joy as she threw herself into Saul’s arms. “Then hurry up and do it. The news spread will soon be suppressed.”

The Cosmos Group was now owned by Zac, so the Buchanna family would deal with the news.

Once public opinion was out of control, the Buchanna family would be put in an awkward situation.

“Okay. Kiss me.” Saul hugged Wenny.

“You’re so annoying,” Wenny said.

She pushed her red lips toward Saul.

When Aurora arrived at the training ground, Terry hadn’t come yet.

She was not worried, but after driving two laps, she found that something was wrong.

“Abel, is this car the same as usual?” Aurora called Abel over and asked, “Who checked it today?”

“Jerome. Any problems?” Abel said while recording the data.

Aurora glanced at the person leaning against the door in the distance and smiled calmly. “No. I’m just curious. We have to decide who to check the cars for the competition.”

“Don’t worry, I’ll watch them while they check the cars.”

Aurora nodded. To test her hunch, she turned back to the training ground and drove two more laps.

“Not bad. It’s even faster!” Abel looked at the data board happily.

But in the car, Aurora’s hands were trembling, and her forehead was covered with sweat because the car had gone out of control again.

If she hadn’t changed the direction, she would have crashed into the fence in front of her, or the car would have turned over.

She took a deep breath. To hide her expressions from the race team members, she wore a helmet until she entered the female locker room.

“Abel, is Aurora alright? Why is she wearing a helmet?”

“After all, she is a girl. Her hair is messy and looks awkward. Go and do your things. It’s none of your business.” Abel waved the team members away.

He then received a message from Aurora.

After reading it, Abel was shocked. He angrily gripped his phone and walked out.

Aurora slid down the cabinet and took off her gloves. Her left wrist was sprained, and it was so painful that she couldn't move it.

Her forehead was sweating. She gasped and wrapped her wrist with a towel, trying to relieve the pain.

She heard footsteps outside the door.

Aurora frowned. She was almost sure that the person who checked the car today had been bribed.

She almost fell into their trap.

She had sent a message to Abel, telling him to be careful, and then she called Terry, but he was engaged.

Aurora's heart jumped as she watched the figure pass by the door.

She wondered, is he aware that I've seen through their trick?

Thinking of this, Aurora looked around the locker room and took a bag of washing powder from the corner.

At the crucial moment, it was better to sprinkle it than to surrender.

She quietly stared at the door until the person pushed the door open and walked in.

She raised her hand.

The washing powder was all scattered.

The white particles fell on the man's designer suit. He stared at Aurora's face with his sharp eyes.

"Why are you here?"

Aurora was stunned for a moment.

Seeing that she was safe, Zac flicked the powder off his clothes and said stonily, "The car is outside."

Let's go."

"I won't leave." Aurora frowned.

Aurora thought, I haven't found out who is behind this incident. Why should I leave?

Does Zac want to silence me to protect that person?

Her vigilant gaze made the man frown.

"Don't wait any longer. Terry won't come."

"How do you know he won't come?" Aurora was still wary.

The man walked forward with a cold face and pulled her from behind the locker.

"Anyway, it's true."

The opening ceremony of the CBN Business Conference was held today. Bob had spread the news in advance that he would bring his son to the conference, which meant Bob would introduce Terry to his partners and that Terry would start doing business.

Now the father and son must be busy socializing. How could Terry have time to care about her?

Zac was a loner. As soon as he received the news this morning, he left the venue. No one dared to stop him.

"What's wrong with your hand?" he asked as he held her arm.

"Leave me alone."

Aurora felt awkward and wanted to withdraw her hand,

But before she could do that, the man pulled her hand over and got closer to her.

Aurora looked away with a cold face.

Otherwise, she would touch his jaw if she raised her head.

Zac removed the towel very slowly, afraid of hurting her. He wanted to know if she had broken her bones.

Aurora frowned in pain and suddenly realized something.

Zac seemed to have never had the smells of women's perfumes, such as the strong perfume that Wenny often wore.

Aurora thought, Wenny is pregnant, so they can't have sex, but didn't they do anything intimate?

The next second, she stopped thinking about it. It had nothing to do with her.

"Let's go to the hospital," Zac said.

He took off his coat and placed it on Aurora's head, covering her face.

Aurora pushed him.

"There is no washing powder on my coat." As he said this, he held her shoulder and walked out.

Aurora grumbled, but Zac didn't hear what she said.

After a detailed examination in the hospital, Aurora's wrist was wrapped up tightly, and there was even a board inside the bandage.

"It may hurt a little tonight. Remember not to carry any heavy things for the time being. Come and have the bandage removed in two days."

Aurora nodded and got up to leave.

Zac received a call from Carter.

"Mr. Buchanna, Ms. Bennet's blood test results have come out. She is not pregnant."

The man stopped and stared at the slender figure in front of him. He sounded a bit disappointed as he answered, "I see."

He realized his disappointment and clenched his fists.

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 169

Chapter 169 Missed It

They walked out of the hospital together.

"Don't follow me," Aurora couldn't help but turn around and say to him, "Don't follow me," “It’s because of me that you got hurt. I have to take responsibility,” said Zac directly.

Aurora snorted, “Then send Wenny to prison. She tried to murder me!”

It was clear that Wenny intended to hurt Aurora.

Aurora stared at Zac, who remained silent for a long time. Seeing that, Aurora put on a disdainful look.

That’s understandable. After all, Wenny is pregnant with his baby.

Somehow, Aurora felt bitter. She wondered, Zac cares for Wenny because she’s pregnant with his baby. But back then, dad and I were so nice to him, yet he didn’t...

Aurora held back her tears as she quickened her step towards the street.

Aurora stopped a taxi and opened the door, preparing to leave. Yet the next second, Zac closed the car door from behind and said to the driver. “She’s not leaving.”

The driver looked at them and said sternly. “You couple can quarrel, but you shouldn’t mess with my business!”

Aurora tried to get in the car again, but Zac stopped her once more.

“Let go of me,” said Aurora. Meanwhile, the driver drove away.

“The doctor said you can’t carry heavy things,” Zac said slowly.

Aurora frowned as she saw Zac’s driver stopping the car beside them.

“Live in the villa. I won’t be there for the next few days.”

As he spoke, he opened the car door for Aurora. As if he was afraid that Aurora would run away, he held her hand with the other hand and refused to let it go.

“You...”

“Alma misses you as well. She’ll make your favorite dishes.” Zac tried to lure her into an agreement.

They were on a one-way street and Zac’s car prevented many drivers from moving forward, which aroused much honking.

Aurora had no choice but to get in the car.

But until the door closed, she gave Zac nothing, not even a glance.

Zac stood at the side and watched the car leave. A memory surged into his mind.

Three years ago, when they were discussing their marriage, Aurora would always let Zac leave first, and then she would watch him go away.

At that time, Zac could not figure out what she was thinking about.

However, at the moment, he seemed to understand.

The one who stayed and watched the other leave was the one who cared more about the relationship

Zac couldn't help but wonder, Aurora, is hatred your only feeling for me right now?

"Ms. Bennet, this is your favorite steak."

"I also made tomato soup for you. And there is a freshly-made apple pie. Let me cut a piece for you."

Alma was very considerate and made many delicious dishes for Aurora.

Besides, Alma kept putting food on Aurora's plate.

"Alma, thank you. But I really can't eat that much."

"Have some more. Mr. Buchanna said that you have been very busy recently. I guess you don't have much time for meals," said Alma while cracking a lobster for Aurora, "You look too thin."

Zac said that to Alma?

But his fiancée is why I had to work so hard! That woman has created a lot of trouble for me! Aurora then hid the emotions in her eyes.

When she thought that Wenny was plotting against her and probably bribed the whole race team, Aurora was filled with anger.

She immediately imagined the food in front of her as Wenny and Zac and ate them all.

“Slow down, have some soup.” Alma narrowed her eyes, feeling great.

Aurora ate and drank to her heart’s content. In the end, she even burped.

When Alma cleaned the table, Aura received a phone call. It was Terry.

“Aurora, I’m at the training ground. Where are you?”

“I...” Aurora looked at the wound on her wrist, afraid that Terry would worry if he saw it. Plus, although she was a witness, she had no evidence to prove that Wenny was behind today’s incident.

“I’ll come for you.”

Aurora answered in a hurry, “Don’t. I have something urgent to deal with. I won’t be there tomorrow, either. Let’s meet the day after tomorrow.” Aurora pretended to be relaxed.

However, Terry sensed that something was wrong.

“Aurora, I was late. Don’t be mad at me.”

“I am not. But I have to go now.” Aurora then hung up the phone.

Aurora was afraid that Terry would act impulsively after her telling him that she was at Zac’s house. That was why she kept that a secret from Terry.

Solving the race team problem was the most important thing now.

Feeling bored, Aurora turned on the TV. Then she saw a piece of today’s news.

“According to an anonymous tip, Cosmos Corporation is still in debt. Its head, Aurora...”

Aurora stared at the TV screen blankly like a puppet.

When Zac walked in, he saw tears rolling down Aurora’s eyes. She was crying silently.

“What’s going on?”

Just as Zac walked over, Aurora raised her head.

Her beautiful eyes were filled with hatred towards him.

“Stay away from me,” said Aurora in her hoarse voice. Then she turned and went upstairs.

Zac felt hurt seeing Aurora like that. He realized that she knew it from the TV.

“Just now, Ms. Bennet cried when she saw the news. She is very sad,” Alma said.

Zac did not say anything.

“Sir, if you really care about Ms. Bennet, don’t let her be alone. She can’t bear everything by herself.”

Alma had witnessed how much Zac had paid for his revenge.

The revenge practically cost him all his life.

Although Zac was successful now, Alma could feel that he wasn’t happy. Even if he was engaged to Wenny, he still felt lonely.

Only when he was with Aurora could Zac become a man of blood and flesh.

The same was true for Aurora.

“Let bygones be bygones. Don’t let the past affect your future.”

After that, Alma went back to the kitchen.

Zac gripped the railing of the stairs and thought for a long time, but he still did not have the courage to meet Aurora.

He admitted that Alma was right, but currently, he was not qualified enough.

Aurora was alone in the room, crying for a long time until her tears were dry. Looking up again, she saw the moon hanging in the sky.

For a moment, she felt it had been so long.

“Dad, I miss you so much.”

Aurora held the quilt tightly and sobbed. She fell asleep at some point.

When she woke up again, she found that she was still in Zac's villa, clutching the corner of the quilt.

She could never go back to the old days.

She wondered, Zac cut my life into pieces, and now he tried to piece them together. So hilarious!

Aurora looked at herself in the dressing mirror and slowly put on a strange and cold smile, "Zac, it's too late."

She was not heartless. She knew Zac cared about her during this period.

However, that meant nothing to her.

Zac destroyed the entire Bennet family but didn't feel apologetic at all.

Aurora took a deep breath, got up, and walked out.

"Alma, where is he?"

"Mr. Buchanna didn't stay last night. It seems that he had something urgent to deal with. He seemed to be in a hurry."

He was in a hurry?

That's right. He should be.

Aurora put on a coat and left the villa.

Few people knew how the Bennet family broke up, and even fewer would blow the whistle anonymously.

Half an hour later, Aurora stood outside the villa of the Swon family.

Without hesitation, Aurora rang the doorbell.

"Who's there?" Faye came out from inside. When she saw Aurora, she trembled. She hurried to the door and blocked Aurora from entering. "Why are you here?" asked Faye.

"I'm not here for you. Get out of my way."

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 170

Faye pulled Aurora's arm and begged, "Aurora, let's go out and talk. Don't go in. You will ruin my life."

Aurora stared at her coldly and said word by word, "When you schemed with Wenny to set up the Bennet family, you should have thought of such a day."

"The Bennet family?"

Faye felt as if she had been struck by lightning. She was stunned.

"Get lost. Otherwise, you'll wish you were dead." Aurora directly walked in.

When Davis heard the argument downstairs, he frowned and shouted, "What happened?"

The next second, he saw Aurora walk in alone.

His face sank. "What kind of place do you think this is? Someone, drive her out!"

Aurora looked up at him and whispered, "Mr. Swon, Lyssie asked me to come."

When Davis heard his lover's name, his body stiffened and his strong reaction withered.

Aurora just stood there waiting.

"Come in then."

Faye followed in and saw Aurora following Davis into the home office.

At that moment, Faye's heartbeat almost stopped. She immediately called Wenny. Wenny was still annoyed about her audition. When she received the call, she said in a dissatisfied tone, "You're so annoyed. What's up?"

"Aurora is here. Come back quickly."

"What?"

Wenny stood up immediately, her eyes widened.

What did Saul do? Didn't he just tell her to wait for the good news? She had sex with him for an entire night. Wenny felt like she had been deceived.

She immediately left the set and returned to the Swon family.

She kept calling her father, but no one answered.

Wenny was anxious, feeling a burst of pain in her belly. Her forehead was covered in a cold sweat. When she reached the Swon family, she had to be supported by someone to walk.

“Call Zac and tell him that my belly hurts. Tell him to come over quickly.”

“Alright, I’ll call him now.” Faye quickly answered.

No matter what, they had a higher chance of winning.

What bargaining chips could that Aurora have based on her relationship with the Walton family?

Faye had figured out the Walton family’s strength. As long as the Swon family and the Buchanna family united, the Walton family was no match for them.

They waited in the living room on the first floor for a while, but no one came out of the home office.

It was also quiet inside. No sound could be heard.

“What are she and my dad doing inside? If she dares to do anything shameless, I will never let her go,” Wenny grumbled.

The door opened.

Aurora chuckled near the stairs on the second floor. “Don’t worry, Miss Swon. I’m not as ignorant as you are to think my body is the only bargaining chip.”

“You...”

Wenny couldn’t move. Her belly hurt when she moved.

Aurora went downstairs with a calm expression. Behind her, Davis looked angry.

“Davis, what did she say to you?”

Faye quickly walked over but was pushed away by Davis.

“Ms. Bennet, please wait.” Davis suddenly thought of something and pointed at Wenny. “Apologize to Ms. Bennet!”

“Dad, what are you talking about?” Wenny widened her eyes.

"You scolded and slandered Ms. Bennet many times before. Don't think I didn't know. Hurry up and apologize!" Davis growled and he looked sullen.

Wenny felt extremely wronged.

"Why should I apologize? It was her who used her beauty to pester Zac. I wasn't wrong." Wenny bit her lips and played the victim here.

"All you have in your heart is that brat. You are pregnant and still hanging out. Where is he? I won't agree with your marriage! Go to the hospital tomorrow and abort the child."

Davis roared in anger, not saving Wenny's face.

Faye was also stunned. She looked at Aurora in shock. She couldn't figure out what method Aurora had used to alienate the relationship between Davis and Wenny.

Davis was in fury. When he saw Wenny crying, he threw a slap at her, "Do you want to see me repeat the Bennet family's mistakes?"

Wenny covered her face and squatted on the ground, crying.

was a

Faye was completely frightened. She stared blankly for a long time before going over to help Wenny up. "Davis, Wenny is pregnant. It's normal for her to be in a bad mood. Don't be angry."

"She got pregnant before marriage. How dares she!" Davis shouted as he glared.

Davis had been smug because he would become Zac's father-in-law. He showed off whenever he met someone.

Aurora's words brought him back to reality. He realized how ridiculously wrong he had been.

Aurora was right. Without taking up the Bennet family's property, the Buchanna Group wouldn't have developed so quickly.

Ever since Wenny and Zac held their wedding, the Swon family's business had plummeted.

Davis was also involved in the accident of the Vance family. The culprit could not yet be found now.

The Buchanna Group became detached from him.

Was Zac behind all these?

The more Davis thought about it, the more he felt that something was wrong. Today, Aurora brought some evidence, the auction book for the land in New York.

Zac's bid was only 1,500 higher than that of the Swon Group.

How could Davis not think about it?

Aurora stood in the living room of the Swon family and watched the show in front of her. She curled up her lips. "I think Mr. Swon still has some family matters to deal with. I'll excuse myself now."

Wenny kept crying. Davis's mood was getting worse and worse.

Hearing what Aurora said, he just nodded.

Aurora had just walked out of the Swon family when she ran into Zac.

Their eyes met, and there was a faint smile of success in her eyes. She couldn't overturn the entire Buchanna Group now. But she would make Zac's life become chaotic step by step.

"Why are you here?" Zac frowned and thought of something.

He glanced in the direction of the Swon family's living room and had no intention of walking in.

"Follow me."

He grabbed Aurora's wrist and frowned. "You are still injured. Why aren't you staying at home?"

, Aurora was dragged forward by him like a marionette. She said lightly, "Don't you need to go in and check your fiancée?"

Zac ignored her.

Aurora continued to irritate him. "Zac, you are indeed born to be cold and cruel. You don't even care about the woman who'll give birth to your child.

"Aurora, it's enough."

He didn't stay in the villa so that she could rest and Alma could take good care of her more conveniently. He didn't leave Aurora alone to see her cause trouble.

Going to the Swon family?

Zac pinched her arm and pushed her into the car.

"From now on, until your hand completely recovers, you can't leave my sight."

He also got into the car and slammed the door.

"Are you doing this to make up for the damage you caused me?" Aurora said frankly, "Zac, don't be silly. Even if you give me your heart, I will dislike it."

Not to mention that was simply impossible.

Zac was selfish. Everything he did had a purpose.

Aurora looked at him indifferently.
