

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 171

Chapter 171 Want to Take Revenge?

These words caused pain in Zac's heart.

Something that Aurora could not understand was rolling in his deep eyes.

But she didn't care at all and directly leaned on the other side of the car door. She didn't want to talk about forgiveness unless she could kill Zac.

So, everything he did now was useless.

She didn't care.

"Good, you are right." There was a faint trace of exhaustion in his voice. He turned his head and just happened to see Wenny chasing out from inside.

He frowned and ordered the driver to drive.

Then he got out of the car alone.

Aurora did not move. When the car finally drove away, she buried her head between her arms.

Her originally good mood was stirred into a mess.

"Ms. Bennet, may I send you to Mr. Buchanna's villa?"

Aurora did not answer.

Where could she go when she was in such a mess?

Dalwin received a call from Zac. When he came to the Swon's place to pick Zac up, he could tell that Zac was in a bad mood.

"You stayed in the Swon's place this late?"

As far as he knew, this was something that had never happened.

"Davis suspects that I was the one who plotted against the Vance family in the car accident," said Zac as he rubbed his eyebrows,

“What?” Dalwin almost couldn’t help but laugh out loud. “Your future father-in-law is really interesting. You wouldn’t do that unless you were stupid.”

Zac helplessly held his forehead. Humans were always too greedy, and that was why they would be fooled by a few words from others.

Aurora took advantage of Davis’ greed and only used a few words to make Davis a bullet in her hand.

“Losing the Swon Group is nothing to the Buchanna Group. It’s just that if the public knows about it, it would inevitably hurt the Buchanna Group’s image.” Dalwin whispered, “Then how did you make up for it? Will you reschedule the wedding?”

“No.”

Zac refused without even thinking.

Just now in the Swon family, Faye had also vaguely mentioned this, but Zac changed the topic.

“Because of Aurora?” Dalwin boldly guessed.

Zac slowly closed his eyes and said nothing.

Dalwin clicked his tongue, stepped on the accelerator, and went to the place where the dinner party was.

Halfway through the dinner, Zac received a call from Alma. “Sir, Ms. Bennet is not back yet. I’m worried about her.”

“Don’t worry about her.” Zac was a little upset.

When did his thoughts start to be controlled by that woman?

He had probably gone crazy.

Just like what Aurora said, her life and death had nothing to do with him!

“Mr. Buchanna, let me toast you again.” Someone stood up.

Zac had drunk more than a dozen glasses of wine tonight.

The wine was not strong, but Zac would generally refuse such a meaningless toast. Today, he did not refuse anyone, obviously using the wine to drown his sorrows.

“Alright, Zac.” Dalwin took the glass and said, “I’ll drink it for you.”

He was well aware of Zac’s alcohol tolerance.

Zac was pressed back into the chair. He picked up the phone on the table and looked at it again and again. His gaze was fixed on the time and date on the phone screen.

He suddenly thought of something, immediately got up, and walked out.

“Hey, Mr. Buchanna? Are you OK?”

“I’ll look around. You guys continue.” Dalwin chased after him. “Where are you going?”

“Look for her.”

Outside the floor-to-ceiling window, lightning flashed and thunder rumbled. Heavy rain poured down.

Zac drank wine and could not drive, urging the driver to hurry up all the way.

“Sir, we really can’t drive fast. Driving fast under this weather is dangerous.”

Zac pressed his temples.

He thought that he had long forgotten about this day.

Shawn’s death anniversary was also the day the Bennet Group officially announced bankruptcy. It was also after that day that he proposed a divorce to Aurora.

The car stopped outside the cemetery.

With a black umbrella in his hand, he walked up the steps.

Normally, no one would come to worship the dead in such weather.

He looked around the hill in the distance and soon saw the cold back. Aurora stood in front of the tombstone, crying until her tears dried up.

“Dad, I am really useless.

“Dad, I am sorry.

“Dad, I miss you so much.

Aurora always held back unpleasant information. Looking at Shawn’s tombstone, she was stunned for a long time, unable to say anything else.

After a long time, an umbrella appeared above her head.

Aurora turned around. “You don’t deserve to come to this place. Get lost.”

Zac did not speak. He just stuffed the umbrella into her hand and turned to leave.

Aurora also disdained to use his umbrella and directly threw it on the ground.

A bolt of thunder came.

It lightened the entire night sky.

The rain kept falling, and two figures were standing there with some distance between them.

It was only when Aurora’s legs were numb that she slowly walked back and saw that Zac was still standing there. She looked away.

“There’s no car at this time. Are you going to walk back?”

“You don’t need to care.” She swung her arm, and her injured wrist began to hurt again.

“The day after tomorrow is the day you compete for Terry’s race team. Are you planning to participate with a high fever? The data don’t look good. Can you break the record in this state?”

Zac continued to speak behind her.

Aurora gritted her teeth, stepped on the wet bluestone steps, and roared in dissatisfaction, “Can you stop teaching me a lesson? You are not qualified to do that! If it hadn’t been for you, would I be like this?”

“I know.” He walked down the stairs, his eyes deep and dark. “But no matter how much you hate me, you have to bite the bullet and hold on. Otherwise, how are you going to take revenge?”

In that instant, Aurora felt as if someone gripped her throat.

The rain on her face and hair was wiped away by him with a tissue.

“If you really want to take revenge, you should do your best to be as powerful as I am. It’s useless to cry and complain.”

His voice was even colder than usual, and along with the sound of rain falling, it hit Aurora’s heart.

She was suddenly speechless.

Zac dragged her down the stairs to the temporary lounge behind the cemetery. Then, he gave her a . glass of hot water.

“You don’t want it? Waiting to catch a cold?”

He stuffed the water into her hand and then turned to look at the rain outside.

In that instant, time seemed to have stopped.

Aurora lowered her head and bit her lips as she looked at the steam rising from the cup.

The clock struck twelve.

Zac took a clean blanket from the self-service shelf at the back and placed it beside Aurora. “No one will come here tonight. These are all provided for free. Go to sleep now and leave tomorrow morning.”

Seeing Aurora’s expression, Zac added coldly, “Do you want to go back in the rain or leave tomorrow?”

Aurora held the blanket unwillingly.

But the cold blanket could not give her any warmth.

Zac walked to the other side and took a hot water bag. He rummaged through the cabinet and found a kettle.

Aurora sat there, looking at him. It seemed he was familiar with this place.

Her gaze was fixed on him, but she never asked.

“I lived here for a while when I was a child.” Zac boiled some hot water, and his voice seemed to come from many years ago.

He used to live in the cemetery?

Aurora held the cup. She did not know about it.

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 172

Chapter 172 I Won't Kill Anyone

She got to know Zac after Zac founded the Buchanna Group. He was swift, decisive, and powerful.

But Aurora knew nothing about what Zac was like before that even after she investigated it.

Even when her father allowed Zac to marry her, he did not tell Aurora anything.

Zac was more mysterious than she had imagined.

The lights flickered, and Aurora's lowered eyelashes blocked the emotions in her eyes. She did not want to be seen through especially by the man in front of her.

The two just sat quietly, thinking about their own matters.

The air was extremely quiet.

The heavy rain outside the window had stopped at some point, but after the rain stopped, the entire cemetery looked even more solemn and frightening.

Aurora closed her eyes tightly, otherwise, she would be attracted to the empty outside.

She was a little scared, and her heartbeat became heavier and heavier.

"Take it."

A cold and noble voice suddenly sounded.

But at that moment, it drove away Aurora's fear.

She looked up and took the hot water bag from him. "It's hot."

Zac frowned and pulled over the blanket next to him. He wrapped the hot water bag loosely with the blanket.

He gave it to Aurora again, the temperature just right.

Then, he went to the other side of the room, always keeping a distance from Aurora to keep her at ease.

Aurora closed her eyes slowly again. Many things from the past appeared in her mind. She thought of her father, the Bennet family, and...

Something was dripping.

It was the raindrops.

When Aurora heard the sound beside her, she was suddenly awakened.

Why was she asleep?

It was bright outside, and she fell asleep in the blanket, her legs still covered with the windbreaker that Zac wore last night.

Aurora furrowed her brows and subconsciously searched for that figure.

Suddenly, the door was pushed open.

"Ms. Bennet, I'm here to pick you up." Alma came over and put the thick coat in her hand on Aurora. "This month, Clouston will be very cold in the morning. Let's go. I've made ginger soup at home."

Home?

Aurora's eyes flickered. She was homeless.

"No need. I can walk by myself." Aurora subconsciously retreated her hand.

"Aren't you going to the training field today? Go back and have a good rest." Alma sighed and walked over as she saw Aurora stubbornly trying to open the door.

Alma was more enthusiastic than ever.

No matter how many times Aurora said no, Alma still insisted on bringing Aurora back to Zac's villa.

“Take a bath first. I’ll go downstairs to make your favorite breakfast,” Alma said and closed the bedroom door.

Aurora stood still for a long time.

She took a deep breath. It seemed the room no longer had Zac’s smell.

Aurora looked at the time and walked into the bathroom.

The wound on her wrist was almost healed. Zac had also arranged for the family doctor to come over, so she did not have to go to the hospital again.

“The car is ready. You can leave whenever you want.” Alma cleaned up the dishes and handed over the fruits.

“Thank you, Alma.” Aurora lowered her head, thinking about something.

Alma turned around to look at Aurora and finally sighed. “You kids.”

After a whole night of rain yesterday, the training field was no longer sandy but muddy.

Starting from point A of the track, it was all watered by rain, and the ground was wet and slippery. It would be very time-consuming to run on it.

“What should we do? This...” Abel said helplessly as he slapped his thigh, “Even the weather is joking with us.”

“Let her decide,” Terry said slowly as he looked at the field.

He knew how stubborn Aurora was.

At this time, in the resting room of the training field.

Aman in a black uniform lowered his head and made a phone call. “Everything has been settled. As long as she gets in the car, there is no way she will survive.”

His voice was very low. After hearing the reply from the other side, he immediately hung up.

Unexpectedly, when he got up...

He was blocked by several bodyguards in black.

“Jerome Wiley?”

“You are...” Before he could finish his sentence, several bodyguards covered his mouth and brought him out.

Before Aurora came to the training field, she already knew that the rain yesterday was really heavy and the impact on this open-air field would be big.

“Let’s do it. It’ll be fine.” She smiled.

In the distance, a car drove over.

It was Dalwin and Wenny.

Wenny wore a branded scarf and yawned impatiently. “Mr. Villson, why did you bring me here in the early morning?”

Her tone and coquettish eyes showed that she was trying to show intimacy.

Dalwin moved his gaze away and said coldly, “Zac asked me to do so.”

Otherwise, he wouldn’t have let Wenny take his car.”;

When Wenny heard that it was Zac, the smile on her face deepened, but soon, she realized that something was wrong. Could it be that Zac knew something?

“I’m going to the bathroom,” she said, pursing her lips.

Then, she hurried over.

Seeing this, Aurora handed the helmet to Terry and followed Wenny.

Se Bar

“What are you doing?” Terry stopped her.

“I won’t kill anyone.” She patted Terry on the hand and quickened her pace.

The door to the bathroom was locked.

Aurora didn't rush to knock on the door but just waited outside. Soon, there were footsteps.

She smiled and suddenly shouted, "Aurora's car has flipped over!"

All of a sudden, the bathroom door was pulled open.

Wenny rushed out from inside.

"Ah!"

She saw Aurora and almost fell down in fright.

Aurora's eyes darkened. "It's you, right? You got someone to tamper with my car."

"I didn't!" Wenny stared at her.

"Then why were you in a hurry? Weren't you so happy to check if I was dead?" As Aurora spoke, she took half a step forward and reached out to grab Wenny's hair. "The same move, two times. Isn't that boring?"

Wenny was so scared that she almost lost her mind.

as so scal

"You have no proof. Why do you say that? I... Can't I come out after I finished using the bathroom?" . she asked with her phone in her hand, trembling.

"Oh, really?"

Aurora suddenly released her hand, taking advantage of Wenny's inattention to take her phone away.

"Give it back to me!"

But Aurora's gaze swept over, cold as ice.

“You called your lover just now to confirm whether his people made a move, right? As long as I check the call record, it’ll be very simple.”

Hearing these words, Wenny trembled, her face deathly pale.

“Give me my phone.” Her eyes were red, and she wanted to snatch her phone.

Aurora looked at Wenny’s flustered and exasperated appearance and threw her phone away. Her phone fell into the sink.

Wenny immediately cursed and went to pick up her phone.

Aurora stared at Wenny’s back and warned Wenny word by word, “Wenny, you pushed my button.”

Wenny did not know what she meant.

“Aurora, you have no proof. If you continue to frame me like this, I will find a lawyer to sue you.”

“Heh...”

The smile on Aurora’s face grew even wider. “Then I’ll let you know how sophisticated this world is.”

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 173

Chapter 173 The limit

It was not because Aurora did not dare to deal with Wenny, but because in her revenge plan, Wenny was just an insignificant role and it was not Wenny’s turn yet.

But since Wenny was so impatient, Aurora had to do something.

When the time came, no one could blame Aurora.

Find a lawyer?

That will be boring. She walked toward the training ground step by step.

She took the helmet and got into the car directly.

Everything was ready. The car rushed out at the fastest speed. At that moment, the soil flew.

Everyone was staring at the track. Some were nervous and worried, and some were stunned and speechless.

“Aurora has passed the curve so smoothly!”

“She didn’t slow down at all!”

Aurora reached the slope where Terry had an accident.

orare

Terry furrowed his brows, his palms covered in sweat. He prayed in his heart, “Aurora, you must, . you must...”

“Terry, do you see Jerome?” Abel anxiously came out from behind.

“No. What’s the matter?”

Abel looked at the car in the distance. “Aurora told me that the car was tampered with by someone the day before yesterday. She suspected that it was Jerome who did it. I have checked Jerome’s account these two days and found that there is indeed something fishy.

“It was also Jerome who checked the car today!” Jayson heard Abel’s words from the side and rushed over hurriedly. “It can’t be...”

Everyone was nervous.

In the distant stands, Zac was dressed in a solemn black suit, standing there with a cold gaze.

He only looked at that car.

“Mr. Buchanna, he has given in.” Carter stepped forward to report.

Zac raised his hand and indicated that he knew it. Now, he only wanted to focus on Aurora’s match.

In the past, Aurora was a flower that grew in a greenhouse. Now, she was a wild rose that grew in the desert, beautiful and attractive. People could not bear to ignore her.

Carter immediately stood at the back and did not dare to disturb Zac.

The car sped on the track. In that instant, Aurora was the focus of the audience.

The Racing Association also sent people over to watch the competition. After seeing Aurora's performance, the agent directly said to Abel, "You have to protect this beautiful racer well. In my opinion, in a few days, several renowned race teams will come to hire her."

Fewer and fewer people were engaged in car racing these years, and a beautiful and skilled female driver like Aurora was one in a million.

Aurora's outstanding performance today surpassed 90 percent of the male drivers, and her future was bright.

Hearing that, Abel raised his eyebrows. "Mr. Elton, don't have any ideas about Aurora. She is a member of our Black Rider Team."

"Really? Then let's wait and see. I don't think your team can keep a talent like her." Eric smiled meaningfully and walked away.

Abel was so angry that he gritted his teeth, but he could only hold back his anger.

After all, Eric was right. There were too many teams that were stronger than the Black Rider Team. Moreover, Terry also had the intention to retire, and he would announce the news at the press conference next week.

At that time, Black Rider would be just a name in racing history.

Some of the drivers who were training heard the noise of the engine and came to watch the match.

They were all stunned by Aurora's first-rate operating skills.

"That's so cool! Is he a member of an international team?"

"I heard it was a beauty!"

“Wow...”

“Did she break the record?”

Patrick, who was in the office, couldn't sit still as he heard the exclamations.

“What's the situation now?” His hands kept trembling, and so did his eyelids. He always felt that something was wrong.

“Mr. Moore, Aurora has completed all the matches. She has broken the record and exceeded twenty seconds.”

“It's over.”

Patrick slapped his forehead, stood up, and rushed outside. Then he thought of something and said,

“Send the pack of cigars to Mr. Gates right away. Prepare another gift and come with me to the Walton family to apologize!”

If Aurora couldn't finish the match, or if something happened during the match, the result would be under the manipulation of the Racing Association, and no one would suspect it.

But now, Aurora had ruined Patrick's plan.

Patrick hurriedly walked out but was stopped by the people from the Black Rider Team.

“Mr. Moore, you have to keep your word. Aurora has fulfilled your request and broken the record for twenty seconds. Now, you can tell the truth!”

“Who bribed the staff member of the checkpoint? Who did something wrong in Terry's car?”

“You ... what are you talking about? I don't understand,” Patrick said with a stiff expression.

He forced a smile and pulled his secretary in front of him. “Explain it to everyone. I'm in a hurry to go to the bathroom.”

Patrick said and wanted to run away.

But as soon as he turned around, Terry and Abel pressed down on his shoulders.

“Mr. Moore, we haven’t finished speaking. Where are you going?”

Patrick wanted to cry. He was pushed back to the office. Not only did he dare not to ban the competition of the Black Rider Team, but he also had to release a statement to clarify the fact.

“What about the two people? Where are they now?” Terry frowned.

“I don’t know! They signed a contract with the association and left after the contract expired.”

At the same time, in the racing stadium.

Aurora’s car was still parked on the track. She took off her helmet. Because the track was too bumpy and the car was too noisy, her mind was muddled.

She didn’t even notice that someone had come from outside.

“Drink some water.”

Aurora was shocked when she saw the water bottle in front of her.

Get Bonus

She looked out the window and saw Zac turning his head away.

She didn’t want to accept his kindness at all.

Zac seemed to have expected her reaction, so he didn’t say much and threw the water bottle in.

“I’ve called the police.” Aurora directly stuck her head out and shouted at Zac’s back, “Even if you want to shield Wenny, it is useless!”

“I know.” Zac stopped in his tracks.

Aurora was stunned for a second, and she suddenly suffered from tinnitus.

ra wa

Later, Zac seemed to say something more, but she did not hear it clearly.

See

He walked all the way to the side door and got into Dalwin's car.

"Did you really give Wenny to the police?" Dalwin knew that Zac had always been ruthless.

However, he did not expect that Wenny would not be an exception either.

"Let's go," Zac said indifferently. He looked at Aurora in the front with a cold gaze until she walked away.

Dalwin turned the steering wheel and couldn't help but say, "If you knew such a thing would happen, why did you treat Aurora so badly back then?"

If Zac had let go of the hatred and lived a good life with Aurora, these things wouldn't have happened.

After Dalwin finished speaking, he glanced at Zac.

Knowing that Zac was not willing to listen to his words, Dalwin immediately changed the topic, "I won't say anymore. I'll send you back to the company, okay?"

Zac, however, gave an irrelevant answer.

"I regret it too."

But he could not do anything but seek justice for Aurora.

This time, he would not protect Wenny.

He would also exit from Aurora's life and no longer bother her.

"Dalwin, help me with something."

"What?" Dalwin always felt that there was a hidden meaning in Zac's words and something seemed to be wrong.

"I want to return the Cosmos Group to Aurora. The debt has been dealt with. As for the specific procedures, help me with that."

If someone else finished the procedures, Aurora might accept it.

Dalwin widened his eyes.

“Have you thought it through?”

This time, Zac didn't say a word and slowly closed his eyes.

Even if he thought about it for a few more days and nights, he would make the same decision.

Just now, he saw Aurora and confirmed that her wrist had recovered. He heaved a sigh of relief in his heart.

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 174

Chapter 174 Don't Be Soft-Hearted

When Aurora went to Patrick's office, people of the Black Rider Team were there.

“Ms. Bennet, I've said everything I know. You should believe me,” Patrick said as he covered his bruised eyes. “I don't know where those two people are now!”

“Maybe he really doesn't know it,” Abel whispered. “You should persuade Terry. I don't know what's going on with him. He is particularly bad-tempered today.”

If they continued asking Patrick, Terry may do something to him.

At that time, they would be unreasonable.

Aurora read what Patrick had written. “That's all. He probably doesn't know what else happened.”

rorare

With Wenny's strength, she could not carry out her plan so flawlessly, and there must be someone who was helping her.

It didn't matter who it was.

As long as Wenny paid the price she deserved.

“Ms. Bennet, the police have arrived.” Carter knocked on the door and reported, “In addition, Jerome, who tampered with the car, has been sent to the police station. Miss Swon is in the next room and can cooperate with the investigation at any time.”

Things were going so smoothly!

Terry's face turned gloomy. He took a step forward and pulled Aurora. "Be careful."

Since Zac had a close relationship with Wenny, how could he hand Wenny to the police?

Aurora thought about it and felt that Terry's words made sense.

Carter finished his work perfectly. He stood there quietly, not trying to defend himself.

"You called the police?" The police arrived and immediately began to ask.

During this time, Wenny's ear-piercing shouts could be heard from time to time.

However, after seeing the police and knowing that Jerome had been arrested, she immediately began to apologize and beg for mercy.

She even shouted in the next room, "Terry, Aurora, I didn't do it on purpose. I was also deceived. Believe me!

"I'm still pregnant. How can you treat me like this?"

People from the Black Rider Team snorted, "You did such a vicious thing when you were pregnant.

Cet Bohus

You are not qualified to be a mother!"

When Wenny was escorted to the police car, she was still crying miserably.

However, none of the people present felt sorry for her.

"I want to talk to her for a while." Aurora walked forward, and her voice was somewhat low.

Wenny's eyes lit up and she immediately grabbed Aurora's hand.

She happened to grab Aurora's wrist which had been injured.

"I won't target you anymore. Ask the police to let go of me, okay?"

Aurora looked at Wenny for a long time before saying, "People will be in fear only when they arrive at the gates of hell."

Aurora bent down and approached Wenny's ear, whispering, "When you used my pendant to deceive Zac, you should have expected that there would be such a day. He is always heartless."

All of a sudden, Wenny's face turned ashen.

Aurora's words pierced her heart like a stab.

If it wasn't for the fact that Zac got someone to send her over, she would not have been caught, and she may even have had time to change Jerome's confession.

But Zac had joined forces with Aurora and the others to harm her.

Wenny gripped the door handle and muttered to herself, "I'm pregnant with his child. How could he do this to me?"

"Why not? He even destroyed my whole family. He can do anything. Wenny, remember, it is Zac who got you into jail today."

After that, Aurora turned around and left.

She said to Carter who was standing at the side, "Please convey what I just said to Zac without missing a word."

She could not afford Zac's 'goodwill'.

Aurora was clear that if it wasn't for Zac, Jerome and Wenny would have already escaped.

But why did he do that?

He did that to apologize to Aurora?

Or was he going to atone for his sins?

Aurora sat in the car, still thinking about that.

"Where are you going? I'll send you there," Terry said as he fastened his seatbelt.

Aurora was about to speak when her phone rang.

It was a call from Alma.

She originally wanted to ignore it, but after hesitating for a moment, she answered the phone,

Soon, Alma's weak cry for help could be heard.

"I'm feeling unwell..."

Aurora immediately told Terry that she had something to do and got out of his car. She hailed a taxi by the roadside and headed for Zac's villa.

Although there was a grudge between her and Zac, she could not ignore Alma's plea for help.

When she arrived at the villa, it was dark inside.

"Alma?"

Aurora shouted when she entered, but there was no response.

She was in a hurry to go inside, and she finally found Alma who was unconscious at the corner of the stairs.

She immediately called an ambulance and accompanied Alma to the hospital.

"Fortunately, the patient was delivered to the hospital in time. She is suffering from gastroenteritis and needs to have a small operation. Are you a family member of hers? Go and pay the fee."

Aurora nodded and immediately went to the first floor.

Just as she arrived at the elevator, she met Zac who was rushing over.

She frowned and repeated the doctor's words.

"Then I'll leave first."

But just as she moved, she was stopped.

"The first person Alma wants to see when she wakes up should be you," Zac said with a deep voice.

"I still have something to do," Aurora said as she glanced at Zac.

Then, she entered the elevator without looking back.

The elevator slowly went down. Aurora tried hard not to think about it. Anyway, Zac was already here, and he would not let anything happen to Alma.

She had already arrived at the entrance of the hospital, but she finally turned around and went upstairs.

But Aurora was just waiting in the corridor for the results of Alma's operation to make sure she was fine.

The operation lasted for three hours.

When the lights outside the operating room were turned off, Aurora breathed a sigh of relief.

She stood behind the safe passage, and Zac and the others could not see her.

"The patient needs to rest. It's better if someone takes care of her at home at all times," said the doctor.

"Or you can hire a nursing worker."

Zac's eyes darkened. He glanced in the direction of the safe passage and did not say anything. He came into the ward with his assistant.

"Send her back."

"Yes, Mr. Buchanna."

After all, Aurora came for Alma.

It was normal for him to send her back.

On the bed, Alma slowly opened her eyes. "Mr. Buchanna, thank you for taking care of me. I'm fine."

"Have a rest. I will hire a nursing worker to take care of you." Zac moved a chair over and sat down.

Alma's eyes turned red, but she said with a smile, "You know, I can't live for long. I have served you for a period of time. In the future, I can be relieved when I see your parents in heaven."

Zac furrowed his brows.

After a long time, he choked and said, "Alma, the medical techniques now are quite good. I will find the best doctor to treat you. You will get better."

Alma smiled and said, "The life journey, whether early or late, will come to an end one day. People have to live in the present. Don't always make up for memories. The most important thing is to value the person in front of you.

"God won't always give you a chance."

Alma said, coughing again.

Zac helped massage her back. When he called the nurse over, Alma fell asleep again.

He stood by the bed and smiled bitterly. "God has never given me a chance."

Chapter 175 Cruel

The next morning, the news of Aurora breaking the record was released. Many reporters were inquiring about her address and wanted to interview her.

But when they blocked the entrance of the apartment, they were told that Aurora did not live there at all.

"How could a person disappear like this?"

"I heard that she used to work in Malon Company. Could she be living near Malon Company?"

Someone guessed, but his words were quickly denied.

"Impossible. Can Aurora afford the rent in that district?"

In their eyes, Aurora had long been in debt and it was not easy for her to support her life.

"Since Aurora is not here, then we should go to the police station. Wenny is still detained."

Aurora hid on the other side of the building with a cap. When she saw that the reporters had all left, she went back to her house, which was narrow and dim.

But for her, she felt much more at ease when she stayed in this small house than staying in Zac's villa.

She lay on her bed and slept for a day.

When Aurora woke up, countless missed calls appeared on her phone.

She ignored all of them and went downstairs to have a meal.

As soon as she opened the door, he saw Terry waiting outside.

on a

"I helped you deal with those reporters. It's too unsafe here. Just change a house." He had always been a person of action. He had rented a house in a community with better security and handed the key to Aurora.

"No..."

"Wenny has been released from detention. She will come to you." Terry did not give Aurora any chance to refuse and stuffed the key in her hand. "If you feel sorry, then pay the monthly rent."

"The Swon family must have spent a lot of money," Aurora pouted and followed Terry.

"Jerome has taken all of the responsibilities." Terry opened the car door with a cold expression. He didn't expect that Jerome would be so "heroic".

"Can't they find anything wrong in his account?" Aurora felt that something was wrong.

"The bank refuses to cooperate."

Someone was behind this.

However, the mastermind always took action ahead of them. Terry stepped on the accelerator and drove along the ring road.

The tall buildings on both sides passed by. Aurora said in a low voice, "Wenny is not a person who is good at scheming. She will seek revenge on me. I just need to wait."

"No."

“Who knows what that crazy woman will do?” Terry said, trying to dispel her thoughts.

Aurora chuckled, “Then I’ll look forward to it.”

The Swon family made use of their connections and could indeed get Wenny out. Moreover, they might even delay the lawsuit with various methods.

But so what?

Aurora would also make them restless.

In the Swon family, there was not only Wenny but also Faye, a great troublemaker.

Terry brought Aurora to the newly rented apartment. He was afraid that she would refuse, so he told her that it was just a small house with two bedrooms and a living room in a mid-to-high-end community.

Aurora looked at the bright and cozy decorations in the house and felt that the uneasiness in her heart had mostly disappeared.

“How much is the monthly rent?”

“Let’s talk about it later,” Terry replied. He then said, “When I was hospitalized, many things were put aside. There is one thing I want to find a chance to tell you alone.”

“Go ahead.” Aurora touched the coffee table and said casually.

“I want to retire,” Terry said, his eyes fixed on Aurora.

He wanted to know her reaction and tell her the reason for his retirement

Tea!

However, unexpectedly, Aurora only paused for a moment before nodding. “I support you.”

“Are you angry?” Terry asked with a frown.

Aurora raised her head. “No. I think this should be your decision after careful consideration. As a friend, I certainly support you.”

There was nothing wrong with her words.

But Terry was like a soulless puppet, standing there and unable to speak for a long time.

“I will give you the monthly rent on time. When I am tired of living here, I will move out,” Aurora said and went inside to take a look.

Terry sighed slowly. Aurora would lose her temper in front of Zac, but she always remained calm in front of him.

At that moment, Terry felt a little jealous.

Thanks to Terry, Aurora did not have to deal with the reporters.

But soon, she received a call from Kate.

Kate repeatedly invited Aurora to Walton’s house for dinner and said that she would introduce a few friends to Aurora.

Aurora directly said that she was unwell and could not go.

Kate even asked Terry for Aurora’s address and then sent two chefs over to take care of Aurora’s meals. They wouldn’t disturb Aurora and would leave after cooking.

But as Aurora had the healthy food the two chefs made, she felt that it was too bland.

Alma’s voice seemed to echo in her ears again. “Ms. Bennet, eat more pumpkin soup and this snack.”

Aurora was worried about Alma, so she changed her clothes and went to the hospital.

Just as she reached the first floor, she heard people discussing.

“Have you heard? That celebrity, Wenny, was sued a few days ago because she was suspected of committing the crime of homicide. She seemed to have had a miscarriage.”

“Really? Who is her husband?”

“The president of the Buchanna Group. He is so handsome. He stays in the ward in Area C to take care of her every day.”

Aurora pressed her hat down and walked into the elevator.

After asking around, she found out that the ward that Alma lived in was across from Area C.

She walked around the corridor and made sure that she would not meet Zac. Then, she entered Alma's ward as quickly as possible.

There was a faint smell of disinfectant in it, and Alma was sitting by the bed reading.

When she heard the voice, she looked up and said, "Ms. Bennet!"

Alma was surprised and happy. "I heard the footsteps and guessed that it was you. I was right."

Aurora looked at the equipment around her and frowned. "You still need these?"

Alma put the book aside and said, "No need. Mr. Buchanna is afraid that I will not listen to the nurse, so he insisted on using them. Every day, they make sounds and I am unable to sleep well."

"You need to listen to the doctors and nurses. If there is a need, just use the equipment," Aurora said and sat down on the side of the bed.

Alma stared at her for quite a while.

"I've seen the news. Car racing is quite dangerous, isn't it?" Alma said as she held Aurora's hand.

She did not speak more, but she silently comforted Aurora with her actions.

Meeting Alma's concerned gaze, Aurora's eyes turned wet. "It's not dangerous, I know what to do."

"Nonsense. The car has been tampered with. How can it not be dangerous? You don't even know how anxious Mr. Buchanna was when he found out about it. Even when Mr. Swon knelt in front of him and begged him, he ignored Mr. Swon and insisted that the Swon family should be responsible."

Aurora thought in surprise, would Zac do that?

"I'm not lying. Carter and the others were also there at that time. You can ask him."
Alma had an honest look, which made Aurora laugh.

"Then I'll ask next time."

Aurora said this on the surface, but she did not take it seriously.

How Zac treated the Swon family was his business, but Aurora did not believe that he would disregard Wenny for her.

No matter what, Wenny was pregnant with his child.

He would not ignore it.

Aurora stayed with Alma for a long time. She planned to leave after Alma fell asleep.

But the moment she got up, she heard a familiar voice outside.

"Go and find out which woman Zac comes here for so often?"

Wenny ordered proudly, her hand on her abdomen.

She went straight in this direction after getting off the bed.

Aurora's eyes darkened. She didn't want to disturb Alma's rest. Just as she was thinking about how to avoid suspicion, someone pushed open the door and entered.

Their eyes met. Zac frowned slightly. The next second, he pulled her into the bathroom.

"What are you doing?"

"What if someone sees you here?" His voice was cold and indifferent, devoid of any emotions.

Aurora tried her best to maintain the distance between the two of them. She said with dissatisfaction, "Go out then."

Zac glanced at her without saying anything.

Soon, the door of the ward was pushed open.

Wenny brought a group of people in to catch the adulterous pair', but there was only Alma on the bed. She looked around.

"Her?"

"Miss Swon?" Alma was awakened by the noise.

They had seen each other in Zac's villa. Wenny knew that Alma was only a servant at Zac's house.

Such a waste of effort!

Wenny bit the corner of her lips. "Next time, keep your eyes open. What can happen between Zac and her?"

After she finished speaking, she walked out with her hands on her belly.

In the bathroom, Aurora was blocked by Zac's arm. The space was narrow, and the two of them had to stick close to each other to avoid the light coming in from outside.

Aurora could smell the cologne he was wearing.

She frowned in dissatisfaction, her hand reaching his chest.

Get Bonus

"Don't move." She heard a suppressed warning coming from above her head.

Aurora was about to retort, yet she looked up and met Zac's eyes. There were too many things hidden in them that she could not understand.

However, she could clearly feel Zac breathing heavily.

It was already too late for her to dodge.

was

The next second, he leaned over and pressed his lips against her neck uncontrollably. His voice was sultry and low. "I've already tried my best to control myself. Why are you still in front of me?"

What does this mean?

Aurora was so sensitive that her entire body was trembling. "Get away!"

She came to see Alma. It had nothing to do with him.

The man's Adam's apple moved. He did not continue but instead released his hand and walked out.

Aurora was still standing still in the darkness. She took several deep breaths before opening the door.

Alma was talking to Zac. She was kind of surprised when she saw Aurora coming out of the bathroom. "Ms. Bennet, I thought you'd left."

Aurora turned around and pulled the door handle, "I'm leaving now. Alma, have a good rest."

The door closed again. The corridor was full of the smell of disinfectant. Aurora put on her hat and went downstairs from the elevator.

Not far away, Ella captured everything.

She was going to send it to Wenny.

She wanted to prove that there was nothing wrong with her premonition. Zac was dating Aurora, the woman that Wenny hated the most.

But before she got to send the picture, she was stopped by Carter and several bodyguards.

"Mr. Buchanna hopes that Miss Swon can take care of her baby peacefully. Don't arrange any schedule for her in the near future, and don't let her attend any social events, understand?"

Ella twitched the corners of her mouth in embarrassment and hid her phone behind her back. "The company makes the arrangement. I don't get to decide it."

"Is that so? Maybe Mr. Buchanna will ask your company to give Miss Swon a manager who listens." Carter gave the bodyguards a look and they immediately stepped forward, snatched the phone, and deleted the photo.

Ella was anxious and angry, but she had no way to say anything.

"If people found Miss Swon, can she still stay in the hospital Ask her to be careful," said Carter coldly.

This was what Zac had said, and he was just repeating it.

Ella was terrified by the way Carter looked at her. She didn't dare to quibble and hurried to Wenny's ward.

In order to keep her job, she naturally had to take good care of Wenny.

She no longer dared to arrange any social events for Wenny.

Ella was afraid of Carte, but Wenny wasn't.

"My dad has found the best lawyer to defend me. He had also handled the police. What can happen to me?" Wenny chuckled. "I said that there is a risk of a miscarriage just to make Zac feel sorry for me. Why did you believe that too?"

Wenny changed into her usual socialite outfit and looked at herself in the mirror with satisfaction. "Let's go. I have to talk to Dominic Lynn about the new role in the afternoon."

"Well... Wenny, you better not go. Don't make Mr. Buchanna unhappy."

"You know nothing. Men all like to control. I won't let Zac control me. I thought of so many ways before, but he didn't care about me at all. Yet he got jealous when seeing me go to social events this time.

"Zac is a man too." Wenny curled her red lips.

There was one thing that Wenny did not know.

When she had just left the hospital, Aurora took a taxi and followed her.

When Aurora found out where Wenny came from, she immediately called Dalwin, who had contacted her yesterday.

"Mr. Villson, I'll send you the address. Let's talk in person." Aurora put her phone into her pocket.

On the other side, Dalwin looked at the address sent by Aurora and was stunned for two seconds. "Good fellow, you chose such an expensive hotel?"

However, he didn't hesitate and immediately rushed over with the transfer information.

When Aurora saw that Dalwin was brought over by the waiter, she waved her hand.

The table opposite her was Wenny and the two male directors, but there was a curtain between them, and Wenny's attention was on the two directors. She had no idea who was sitting there.

"Mr. Villson, what's the matter?" Aurora stirred the drink in the glass.

"This is the transfer information of Cosmos Group. Take a look. If there's no problem, you can sign it directly. Next week, this company will be transferred under your name."

Cosmos Group?

Aurora had thought of countless reasons for what Dalwin had asked her out for.

Yet not this one.

"What tricks is Zac playing again? Does he get too angry because I want to sue Wenny?" Aurora glanced at the transfer book and smiled faintly.

"Ms. Bennet, Zac didn't mean it that way."

Dalwin sighed, "If he really wanted to marry Wenny, he wouldn't have waited until now."

Aurora lowered her eyes.

That was indeed the case, but those things had nothing to do with her.

She was not in the mood to care about what Zac was concerned about. Aurora's fingers slowly tightened. Yet she was indeed tempted.

Taking back this company would be the first step to making the Bennet Group great again.

However, would Zac be so kind?

"What's the condition?"

Nothing should be free.

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 177

Chapter 177 The Chance Is Not Waiting

Dalwin hesitated for a moment. Aurora's reaction was within Zac's expectations.

Therefore, according to what Zac had instructed, he replied, "Within a year, Cosmos Group cannot change its name, nor can it have a conflict with the Buchanna Group in terms of business."

Aurora sneered

"What about after a year?"

"It'll be at your disposal, Ms. Bennet."

Aurora glanced at the transfer book and said, "The market of the Bennet Group had already been taken by the Buchanna Group. He doesn't allow me to change the name of the company, nor did he allow me to take back what belonged to me. Then the company is an empty one, why would I need it?"

She thought, Zac is making a fool of me.

Or perhaps, he is trying to distract me so that I wouldn't cause trouble for Wenny in the next year and so that Wenny could give birth to their child safely.

What a good plan!

But I am no longer as foolish as before, nor would I trust him as my father did.

"Ms. Bennet, don't think this way. This is a good thing for you. Otherwise, this company might..."

"Mr. Villson, Zac can't resolve the grudge between us by giving this company to me." Aurora interrupted him, with her beautiful eyes as cold as ice. "I want him to be infamous. I want him to disappear from Clouston and never come back."

Dalwin sighed helplessly, "Must it get to that point?"

Aurora's eyes were covered with faint sadness. She stood up and said indifferently, "Yes. Unless he could rewind the time and bring my father back to life.

Aurora wouldn't compromise. She held the view that those who did something wrong must be punished.

"Why do you have to do this?" Dalwin got up, wanting to stop Aurora.

Aurora had circled to the aisle of the next table, Dalwin rushed over and yet bumped into Wenny and Dominic sitting together: Dominic's hand was around Wenny's shoulder very 'naturally'.

They looked extremely intimate.

"Aurora? Mr. Villson..." Wenny turned pale. She immediately stood up. "Mr. Villson, don't misunderstand. We are just discussing business."

"You..." Dalwin signed, speechless. Aurora had walked far away.

He turned around and walked out. Wenny immediately put on her coat and followed up.

"Mr. Villson, don't tell Zac, please. It's about work, seriously."

Wenny was so anxious that she was about to cry, and she kept promising Dalwin that she would never attend this kind of social activity again.

Dalwin glanced at Wenny and looked away helplessly. "What's the point of explaining to me. You are not even comparable to Aurora."

Before Wenny recovered herself, Dalwin got in the car and drove away.

"Why did Dalwin meet Aurora? Could it be..." As Wenny was thinking, her phone rang. It was Saul calling

Wenny glanced at it and hung up the phone in frustration.

In the distance, Aurora smirked after seeing that.

"Mr. Buchanna, it seems you've gotten a lot to worry about."

Aurora swaggered back to the restaurant.

She sat across from Wenny and ordered some delicious food to reward herself. It was an expensive restaurant.

Wenny had just explained to Dominic that she met a friend just now when Aurora returned.

“Is this lady your friend?” Dominic stared at Aurora’s beautiful face with interest.

Looking at Dominic’s eyes, Aurora had a plan.

“Yeah, right. She is a good friend. Shall I introduce you, Mr. Lynn? I’ll go say hello.”

Wenny went to Aurora. Looking at her eating manner, she sneered, “Are you overeating because Dalwin didn’t give a shit about you?”

Aurora glanced at her and then looked at Dominic, “What about you? You are cheating on Zac.

Aren’t you afraid of being caught?”

“What the hell are you talking about! I am here talking about work. Don’t you know the guy I am eating with? He is the most popular director of the year. By the way, he thinks you are quite good-looking and would like to meet you.”

Wenny looked proud as if she was an international icon.

And she spoke like she was giving Aurora charity.

“Go on, say hello to him. I won’t introduce you weren’t for Zac. Not everybody can get the chance.”

“What kind of chance? Do I need to eat or sleep with him?” Aurora articulated.

People at the surrounding tables all heard it.

Dominic got embarrassed.

“You...”

Wenny bit her teeth angrily and stared at Aurora’s face. “Who do you think you are? It’s your honor to be liked by a famous director. You could have seized the chance to pay back the debt of your father’s company. Yet you didn’t. No wonder your family is ruined.”

Aurora glanced over, and the coldness in her eyes made Wenny’s face change.

“I am just telling the truth!”

“Alright, let’s go.” Aurora put down her fork, got up, and walked over. The moment she passed Wenny, she kindly reminded her, “Don’t regret it.”

Wenny panicked. She did not know what Aurora was going to do, but she subconsciously wanted to stop Aurora back.

Yet it was too late.

Aurora came in front of Dominic and greeted him with a smile.

Her cold temperament and elegant speech overshadowed Wenny. Besides, she was beautiful. Dominic was soon captured.

“Ms. Bennet, we are still looking for the person for the third female lead in this movie. Ms. Bennet, you can consider it if you want.”

Wenny’s eyes widened.

“Dominic, didn’t you say that there was only a fourth female lead?”

Wenny had spent several days with these directors just to get the role of the fourth female lead. Aurora, an outsider, got better resources than her!

Aurora chuckled. Wenny had really been blinded by fame. How could she believe the words of these people?

“That role is more suitable for you. We have conditions for choosing actors.” Dominic coughed unhappily.

The implication was that Wenny wasn’t beautiful enough.

“Dominic, since there’s a third female lead, let me try.” Wenny was persistent.

“Thank you, Mr. Lynn. But I don’t know how to act. I’m not like Miss Swon, who is born to act well.”

That sounded harsh.

Wenny glared at Aurora angrily.

“Alright, I won’t disturb you guys. I get to go now.” Aurora got up and swiped her hand across the table, taking away the recording pen that she had placed there earlier.

It recorded the intimate conversation between Wenny and Dominic while Aurora was with Dalwin.

Aurora was already far away, and Dominic's gaze was still fixed in that direction.

Wenny understood what he was thinking about.

She pretended to suddenly remember something, "Aurora asked me to go to the hotel to play chess tonight. I almost forgot."

"To the hotel?" Dominic was suddenly interested.

"Yup. Some friends came from outside the city. Would you like to join us, Mr. Lynn?"

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 178

Chapter 178 Scheme

He absolutely would.

He was not interested in chess, but in Aurora.

Wenny gave Dominic an address. As soon as she went out, she called Saul.

"Do me a favor tonight."

After Aurora left, she went straight to the Internet café, edited the recording, and sent it to the paparazzi.

Yet the paparazzi wasn't very interested seeing it was related to Wenny.

"She is not famous. Nobody cares about her news."

News of actresses eating with directors couldn't be more common.

"What if they have other businesses?" Aurora raised her eyebrows as she replied, "At the latest, tomorrow night, I will give you big news with pictures."

Aurora strolled around the area for the entire afternoon.

She was waiting for Wenny to make a move.

Until a black business car stopped in front of her, Aurora perked up. The person she waited for arrived.

A tall and thin man walked out of the car. He wore sunglasses, and his face was somewhat familiar.

Aurora looked at him carefully but did not speak.

“Ms. Bennet, I am Saul from the Buchanna Group. We met at the wedding.”

At Aurora and Zac’s wedding.

Aurora raised her eyebrows, thinking, “Saul?”

Wenny’s secret lover was Zac’s business partner! What a surprise!”

She suppressed her thoughts and shook hands with Saul.

“Are you working nearby?” Aurora asked although she knew the answer.

Saul narrowed his eyes and said bluntly, “I’m here for you, Ms. Bennet. I have a deal for you.”

“I am afraid I am not capable of making a deal right now, Mr. Gates. You must have chosen the wrong person.”

Aurora said, pretending to leave.

“What if it’s a deal that could bankrupt the Buchanna Group?” Saul stopped her.

Aurora stopped and turned around.

She thought, Saul is a partner of the Buchanna Group. He has a lot of shares in the company. I guess he would not damage his interests for Wenny.

Was he saying this just to arouse my interest?

Aurora didn’t have much reaction on the surface. Yet her mind was whirling. Saul didn’t look like a man who would ruin his business for a woman who was pregnant with Zac’s child.

Unless Saul was a fool in love.

“If you are interested, Ms. Bennet, let’s find a quiet place to talk.” Saul walked to the car and opened the door like a gentleman.

No matter what he wanted. He had a reason that Aurora couldn’t reject.

It would be easier to destroy the Buchanna Group if she had a helper inside of the group.

Aurora grabbed her bag and walked over.

She knew it was a risk yet she chose to go with Saul.

“Do you have some conflicts on business with Zac, Mr. Gates?”

Aurora looked out the window, pretending to ask unintentionally.

Saul smiled and said, “Ms. Bennet, you are a smart person. Let me be honest, Mr. Buchanna and I will part ways sooner or later.”

Aurora narrowed her eyes.

This person was even more difficult to deal with than she had imagined.

“Here we are, please.” Saul brought Aurora to a fancy hotel.

Saul had a gold card and seemed to be familiar with the hotel.

Aurora put her hand in her pocket.

Saul looked back at her, “Ms. Bennet, you can trust me. I’m standing in front of you, so you don’t have to record, right?” .

“Mr. Gates, what do you mean?” Aurora pretended to not understand.

“Your hand.” Saul’s voice turned cold as he took half a step forward. “Aren’t you turning on the recorder?”

Aurora overturned her pocket, it was empty.

It was Saul’s turn to be stunned.

“Mr. Gates, if you suspect me, there is no need to talk about it.” Aurora acted as if she was going to walk out.

“Forgive me. Please, Ms. Bennet,” Saul apologized.

He took the initiative and paid attention to Aurora's actions. He was an enemy, not a friend.

Aurora dodged his hand and said seriously, "If you are not sincere in cooperating with me, then I am not going up. Otherwise, there will be rumors that will affect your reputation in the Buchanna family."

"Ms. Bennet, don't be so angry. Our goal is the same, and I want to introduce you to a few friends who can help."

Aurora looked at him suspiciously but still decided to go up and take a look.

At 6 p.m.

Dominic had already arrived at the hotel, but Wenny had not come over.

He got impatient from waiting

"Mr. Lynn, this is the room card you wanted." Ella took the room card from the front desk of the hotel and handed it to Dominic, saying in a low voice, "The person is waiting for you inside."

Only then did Dominic's expression ease up a little.

"Good job. Tell Wenny that she can enter the crew next week as the third female lead."

"Alright, alright. Have a good time, Mr. Lynn." Ella said with a smile.

Dominic entered the elevator with a big belly.

Room 1807.

Dominic had a smile on his face and was humming a song as he swiped the card to open the door.

"Ms. Bennet? ..."

Before he could finish his sentence, he saw that it was dark inside without a single light.

A while later, he saw a person on the bed.

Dominic took off his jacket impatiently and pounced on the person. However, he realized that the person on the bed was not Aurora, but a man!

“Ah! Molest!”

The man shouted. He was muscular.

“What the... Who are you?” Dominic was also stunned.

Thump.

All the lights in the room turned on in an instant. Aurora walked in from the outside with a camera.

“Nice to see you again, Mr. Lynn.” She waved at Dominic.

Dominic immediately understood.

“You guys set a trap for me!”

“No, no, no, don’t be misunderstood. It’s Wenny’s plan.” Aurora smiled, “Remember who to avenge.”

Dominic’s face paled and he stared at her in anger.

“Tsk, tsk. I didn’t expect such a big artist like you to have such a hobby. If the media reporters knew about it, you would probably become even more famous soon.”

Dominic immediately stood up, trying to snatch the camera from Aurora.

But just as he moved, he was subdued by the male bodyguard who had put on his clothes.

Dominic’s arm was twisted behind his back. He shouted in pain.

“You want the videotape? Sure, I can give it to you, and it’s a standalone version, but the condition is that Wenny must be the female lead of your film.”

Sure enough, it was that slut Wenny who set him up!

“Don’t you agree? I will send it out now.”

“No! I do!”

Dominic had no choice but to agree.

“Nice cooperation, Mr. Lynn,” Aurora smiled as she tossed the camera over to him.

Then, she walked out of the room, but instead of leaving directly, she went to the next room.

TOOL

Saul was lying there, unconscious.

Aurora looked at the time, thinking, “He should be here soon.”

Dong

“Here he is.”

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 179

Chapter 179 They All Have to Die

Aurora opened the door and saw Dalwin, who was anxious.

“What’s going on!”

Aurora asked and let him in.

When Saul warned her in the elevator not to record, Aurora called Dalwin.

Today, the last person she called was Dalwin.

Dalwin heard Saul’s voice and came over.

Dalwin frowned when he saw Saul, who was unconscious in the room and asked, “What did you do to him?”

“He drank the drink he poured for me. Maybe he wanted to put me down and send me to the next room,” Aurora said lightly.

It was as if she was talking about other people’s business.

Dalwin looked at her and frowned.

What did Aurora experience in prison during the year? She was not noble anymore.

At that moment, Dalwin seemed to understand why Zac wanted to return the Cosmos Group to Aurora.

“What do you want me to do?”

Dalwin looked at Saul. Saul now had high social status in the business world of Clouston. But now he looked a real mess.

Moreover, he failed because of Aurora.

Saul was so proud. He should be very unwilling after waking up.

“I hope you won’t do anything,” Aurora said with a smile on her face.

“What do you mean?”

“I want to exchange Saul for the transfer rights of Cosmos Group,” Aurora said as she stretched out her hand

Zac, who came with Dalwin, was standing at the door. Hearing what Aurora said, Zac smiled.

Aurora was a natural businessman.

She knew her advantages and her disadvantages.

If Aurora couldn’t get tough with the Buchanna family, she could only play some tricks to win. Although it was mean, it was effective.

Zac did not hesitate and walked in.

“Alright, I’ll sign the contract now.”

“Then the conditions you said before will not be valid.” When Aurora saw Zac, she was not surprised at all.

“Sure.”

Aurora and Zac looked at each other.

Dalwin was stunned as he watched Aurora sign the contract and then left.

Aurora would go to the Cosmos Group tomorrow, and then immediately stepped up and made the Cosmos Group become a competitor of the Buchanna Group.

Dalwin took a deep breath and said, "I can't understand why you got divorced!"

They understood each other so well...

Zac looked at Aurora's signature on the contract and was lost in thoughts.

Half an hour later.

Wenny, who was originally waiting at home for good news, unexpectedly saw Zac at her home.

"What are you doing here?" Davis frowned and asked, "Didn't I already send someone to inform you that the Swon family has to reconsider the marriage between Wenny and you?"

Ever since Aurora came, Davis had asked around about the details of the Bennet Group's bankruptcy. Most said that the Bennet Group went bankrupt because of Zac, and no one knew why he did that to the Bennet Group.

Shawn was not a profiteer. Even if Shawn had competitors in business, he would not go bankrupt.

Unless someone hated Shawn so much.

After thinking about it, Davis felt that he had to be careful about Wenny's marriage with Zac. Or he would be done.

"Dad! Zac must be thinking about me and our child, so he came over." Wenny came down from upstairs and ran to Zac happily.

"Why are you so stupid?" Davis cursed and entered the home office.

Zac let Wenny hold him and looked cold.

Faye watched them go upstairs, feeling that something was wrong.

was wrol

After a while, the sound of crying came from Wenny's room.

"Zac, don't listen to them. I did it for the role..."

"I promise you that I will leave the entertainment, okay?"

"Why do you compare me to Aurora? I have paid a lot for you." Wenny cried incessantly and had done everything but kneel.

However, Zac said coldly.

"I made it very clear. You can give birth to the baby at home. I will be responsible for everything else, but I won't marry you." He pushed Wenny's hand away and left the room without looking back.

Wenny looked at Zac's back and sat on the ground in a daze.

"You are already divorced. Why do you care so much about Aurora? Do you think the baby and I can't even compare to Aurora?"

She shouted at Zac crazily.

Wenny had always known that Zac didn't care about her, but she firmly believed that as long as she worked hard, Zac would love her.

Now, it seemed that everything had been ruined by Aurora.

"Zac, you will regret it if you leave!"

Zac slowed down, but then he opened the door and left.

Wenny cried harder than ever.

Faye saw and frowned. "Wenny, what happened? Zac wouldn't be cruel before," Faye asked.

"I want him to know who Aurora is!"

Wenny took out her phone and immediately called Dominic. At that time, he should have finished.

However, as soon as she got through, Dominic cursed.

“Wenny, you slut, do you want to act in my play? You wish! Did you play with me? I will make you disappear from entertainment!”

Wenny was stunned.

Although Dominic did not like her before, he was still polite to her because of the Swon family and the Buchanna family. How could he curse her?

Did something go wrong there?

Wenny gritted her teeth and apologized, “Mr. Lynn, is there a misunderstanding? Didn’t Aurora go?”

“How can you even mention it? Go away!”

Not only did Dominic not see Aurora, but he also got into trouble, so he hung up the phone quickly.

Wenny was so angry that she trembled and immediately drove to the hotel.

Wenny and Saul always came to that hotel. As soon as she opened the door, she shouted, “What’s going on?”

Saul, who had just woken up, was lying on the bed.

He pressed his fingers to his temples and had a headache.

“Just say something. Where is Aurora? Why didn’t she go to Dominic’s room? Why...”

“Shut up.” As soon as Saul woke up, he heard Wenny’s voice and felt it was very noisy.

However, Wenny had been scolded by Dominic. She was in a very bad mood. “Why did you scold me? Why can’t you do such a small thing? Do you know that Dominic will kick me out of the entertainment? I don’t care. Go find someone to get Aurora here.”

Saul shouted.

“I was also fooled by that slut.”

Wenny was about to continue when she heard what Saul said and was stunned.

“She might have already known your relationship with me. You are so stupid! How can you come to me now? If Zac finds out, you and I will die.”

All of a sudden, Wenny panicked, and her face turned pale.

“I will leave now!”

“It’s too late,” Saul said and gritted his teeth as he looked at her.

Chapter 180 She Knows More About Him

Ten minutes later.

Aurora sat on a bench across from the hotel, recording with her phone. She saw Wenny’s manager had called several actresses over.

She clicked her tongue and said, “You want to find someone to take the blame?”

What a pity.

She had put up security cameras in the hotel corridor.

Wenny entered Saul’s room. Everyone knew what was going on.

However, it was too fun, and Aurora did not want to let them know so quickly.

Not only did she take back the Cosmos Group today, but she also played with these people. She was in a very good mood and took out her mobile phone, wanting to invite someone to dinner.

However, who should she call?

She walked down the street and had only taken a few steps when she saw the billboards of Lymais hanging in the middle of the pedestrian street.

Aurora deliberately hooked around Zac’s neck, and Zac also leaned over to approach her.

They were close to each other, but they didn’t kiss. But it looked charming.

Aurora looked at it for quite a while and even thought of something strange.

She bit her lips and reminded herself to be sober.

A week later, the Cosmos Group was renamed the Bennet Group.

Although there was no office and she was the only one in the company, at least, she could work hard to get what she wanted, and some former partners of the Bennet Group took the initiative to contact

Aurora.

They were willing to cooperate with the Bennet Group.

That was the best news for Aurora.

She looked at the Bennet Group and sat on the street, laughing foolishly.

In the distance, the bodyguard who had been protecting Aurora in the dark immediately told someone.

“Just that?” The man raised his eyebrows.

Aurora’s reaction was completely within his expectations, but she was too calm.

“Yes.” Carter handed over a few plans of cooperation and said, “These are the plans that you asked me to choose before. They are suitable for the Bennet Group.”.

“This one is too complicated. It is not suitable,” Zac said as he glanced at it.

“I’ll look for more,” Zac said and patted the table.

“Yes, Mr. Buchanna.”

Just as Carter was about to leave the office, he remembered something and turned around.

“Speak.”

“Mr. Gates wants to take a long vacation and have a good rest. What do you think?”

Zac frowned. Before he could say anything, Vernon came with a bag of snacks in his hand and said with a smile, “Did I disturb you?”

“Vernon.”

Zac immediately gave Vernon the sign, then got up and welcomed Vernon in.

"I saw that you were busy. I didn't want to disturb you, but your mother liked this very much when she was alive. It was not easy for me to find it, so I wanted to give it to you to taste."

Vernon pushed the pastry in his hand forward to Zac. He said with deep emotion.

"It would be great if they were still alive."

Zac remembered that years after hearing what Vernon said.

Zac frowned and said, "Vernon..."

"No matter how busy you are, you should take care of yourself. Alright, I won't disturb you. I'll leave now." Vernon said as he slowly got up.

Walking a few steps forward, he turned around again and said, "I seem to have seen someone who looks very much like Alma that day. Is it she?"

"Yes, it's Alma," Zac told Vernon that he went to the countryside to find Alma and invited her back.

Vernon was stunned at first, then nodded in satisfaction. "You are considerate. You should remember the good of others. You can't forget to return the favor."

As he spoke, he walked out.

Adan was already waiting for Vernon.

Vernon slowly closed the elevator door and sighed deeply. "Tell Mr. Gates that he doesn't need to take a leave for the time being."

Adan was a bit surprised and asked, "Are you sure that Mr. Buchanna will forgive Mr. Gates?"

"He just did something to a woman. No matter what, they are partners who have worked together for a long time. Zac won't be angry with Saul because of it," Vernon said and narrowed his eyes.

"A man who wants to achieve great things must have a high tolerance."

Adan immediately nodded and said, "You are right."

"Help me send a gift and flowers to the hospital. My old friend is sick," Vernon said, walking out of the elevator

It was raining outside.

“Why is it always raining this year?” he muttered.

It was still rainy.

Aurora sat alone on the carpet, watching the news.

“The Ocean Real Estate Project in New York of the Buchanna Group has officially started. Many companies in the property industry feel stressed. After all, in recent years, the Buchanna Group has been developing rapidly...”

She picked up some spaghetti, which was warm, with a fork and said, “If Zac doesn’t show them no mercy, sooner or later, people will hate him.”

Zac had offended too many people.

She chewed the spaghetti and took another bite of vegetables.

Then, someone knocked on her door.

Aurora was interrupted. She stood up and walked over, “Who...”

Before she could finish speaking, she saw a cold face in front of her.

The TV news in the room was about him.

“What’s the point of reading the news?” Zac glanced over and asked.

Aurora immediately used her body to block the door and stared at Zac with hostility.

“How do you know I’m here!”

“Is it difficult to know?”

He was not surprised to smell the spaghetti in the room. Then, he frowned and said, “Change your clothes and I’ll take you to dinner.”

“You don’t have to.”

Aurora didn’t even think about it and just refused.

It was raining outside and it was cold. She didn’t want to go out.

However, before she closed the door, Zac said, “Today, Alma will check out and I invited a chef to cook dinner for her.”

Aurora instantly felt that spaghetti was not delicious anymore.

Zac glanced at her and said, "The car is at the door."

Then, he left.

Looking at his back, Aurora muttered in a low voice, "It must be Alma who asked him to come. Or he won't want to eat with me."

Then she would go.

She wanted to piss him off.

Aurora thought, I should let him know that the Bennet Group was completely useless in his hands, but I will soon find a way to make it step up.

Yes, I'll do it this way.

Aurora quickly got dressed and went downstairs. However, she did not see the driver and Carter. It was Zac who drove over.

"It's raining. Can you do it?"

Zac glanced at her indifferently but did not say anything.

Aurora had no choice but to get in the car. As soon as she closed the car door, she fastened her seat belt.

Zac would not only feel ill on the plane but also feel ill in a confined space on a rainy day.

Since Zac did not care, Aurora did not say much.

The car gently drove onto the overpass, but soon, the rain became heavier.

Aurora looked at Zac from time to time. At first, he was calm and indifferent.

But gradually, he started to sweat.

"Turn on the air conditioner?" Aurora whispered.

Zac did not say anything and Aurora reached out to open it.

Zac frowned as he pulled off his tie. He had a bad headache...
