

CEO's Unexpected Wife by Charlie

Chapter 1

Chapter 1

"Chris, I knew you were the best! Thank you for coming tonight!"

"I came for you without going to my date with my girlfriend. You know what to do later, right?"

"Don't worry. You know that I know you well."

In the luxurious presidential suite, a young man and woman were talking intimately.

Outside the corridor, Elaine Curd stared at the provocative text message she received half an hour ago and pursed her lips with a complicated expression.

Because of this text message, she came to see whether her boyfriend, who she had dated for three years, was with another woman in the room.

"Elaine, I got the room card!"

Her good friend Kelly Youngblut walked over quickly and gave the room card to her. "Hurry up! Don't hesitate."

"Creak!"

As the door opened, a woman's soft voice came from inside, "Aren't you afraid of being found by your girlfriend that you were cheating with me?"

"She's not as smart as you."

The man's charming voice sounded, followed by a sex voice from inside the room.

Elaine suddenly felt that she was unable to breathe, and she did not dare to take another step forward as she was afraid to see something she did not want to know.

However, Kelly was so angry that she trembled, and she dragged Elaine in.

At this moment, on the big bed in the hotel room, a man and a woman were enjoying their sex and they did not notice the intruders in the room.

Elaine's face turned pale, and a suffocating pain surged up in her heart. She watched in disbelief as her usually gentle boyfriend was making love with another woman.

Kelly was so angry that she picked up a trash can and threw it at them. She cursed, "Chris Lakey! You bastard!"

The two people on the bed were instantly disturbed and turned around in a daze.

The next moment, when Chris saw his girlfriend and another girl in the room, he showed surprise. He quickly turned over and picked up the bathrobe beside him to wrap his body around.

"Elaine, why are you here?"

Elaine pointed at the marks on his neck with trembling hands and choked, "Didn't you say that you come out to see a client?"

Chris looked away guiltily, "Elaine, I..."

Kelly brought Elaine behind her and glared at the man and woman in front of her, "Elaine, don't talk to him. Just break up with him. This scumbag is so disgusting!"

"Who's a scumbag?"

A soft female voice sounded. A long, fair hand hooked around Chris's neck from behind and looked at the two intruders with a proud smile.

Elaine and Kelly looked at the charming young woman on the bed at the same time.

"Oh, I forgot. Not only is there a scumbag, but there is also a shameless mistress!" Kelly said with her teeth gritted.

The woman ignored Kelly's words. Instead, she sneered and looked at Elaine, "Chris, it turned out that you like this kind of girl. She is not sexy at all. No wonder you can only have a platonic love with her."

Chris frowned unhappily and immediately cast a warning look at the woman. Then he pushed her away and looked at Elaine, "Elaine, go back first. Let's talk about it tomorrow."

What else could they talk about?

Elaine sneered.

She said with an unusually calm tone, "There's no need to talk. I want to break up with you."

After saying that, she did not stay any longer and turned around to walk towards the door. Kelly glared at the two people with resentment and quickly followed Elaine.

Chris was about to chase Elaine, but he was stopped by the woman beside him.

She curled up the corner of her lips, and comforted the man in his ear, "Chris, she won't listen to you now. You can talk to her tomorrow. She can't leave you."

Chris turned around irritably, simply continuing what had just been interrupted.

Seeing that she had succeeded in keeping this man, Crystal Talty smiled proudly.

After leaving the hotel, Elaine, who had just experienced an emotional blow, said goodbye to Kelly calmly. She wandered aimlessly along the noisy street and unknowingly walked into the most upscale and lively bar in the city center.

The dazzling colorful lights were all over the bar, and the music was loud. People were gathered on the dance floor, twisting their waists crazily and selflessly. The place was filled with the smell of tobacco and alcohol.

"Come on! I want another glass! Why is this wine as plain as water?"

At an inconspicuous bar, Elaine had already drunk several glasses of strong wine in a row, and her delicate little face was flushed.

The scene she had just witnessed flashed through her mind, mixed with the happy moment she had with Chris in the past. By the time she regained her senses, her face was covered with tears.

"There's really no good man in the world!"

Elaine picked up her glass and gulped another glass of strong wine.

Originally, Chris planned to take her to visit his parents this Sunday, but now it seemed that there was no need to do this.

"Pretty girl, look at you. Are you disappointed in love?"

A lewd-looking young man came to Elaine and sat down with a malicious smile on his face.

Elaine glanced at him indifferently and got up to leave.

However, as soon as she took the first step, she slumped to her knees.

Seeing this, the man quickly stepped forward to help her up and said courteously, "Are you going back? Let me walk you home."

"Don't touch me!"

"Okay, okay, I won't touch you. Do you still want to drink?"

As he spoke, he brought his colorful cocktail to her.

Elaine, who was drunk, didn't think much and grabbed the glass of wine, drinking it in one gulp. Then she stood up, picked up her handbag, and staggered towards the toilet.

Looking at her back, the man smiled. He excitedly rubbed his palm and slowly stood up, "Humph, you will be mine tonight."