

Chapter 106: System Admin

“What should I be fee...” Before Jiang Yao could finish, she felt a sharp and piercing pain in her head as if someone was forcefully injecting something into her brain. Luckily, the pain lasted only a few short seconds. Then, she heard a voice coming from her brain.

“Activating the Future Galaxy Medical System, initialization in process. Please wait.”

Then, Jiang Yao saw something like a progress bar advancing bit by bit. Before she could even respond to it, a notification resonated in her ears indicating that the activation was complete.

“Do you want to activate the system now?”

Jiang Yao exclaimed curiously, “What the h*ll?”

“System is activated!”

Jiang Yao could only blink in bewilderment. Had she confirmed the activation?

This was clearly a very bossy Medical System. She guessed that after the activation was complete, the system would automatically turn on by default regardless of her commands.

After the system was turned on automatically, Jiang Yao saw a screen that resembled a user interface site. On the screen, there were four small frames: ‘Searching the Favorability Value’ was written on the first frame, ‘Searching the Present Value’ was written on the second frame, ‘Medical System Operation’ was written on the third frame, and lastly, ‘System Admin’ was written on the fourth frame.

It was as if a whole new world was displayed right in front of Jiang Yao’s eyes. She studied the interface curiously, feeling very excited and odd all at the same time.

“Looks like you do feel something now!” Moe jumped enthusiastically and hopped onto Jiang Yao’s lap. He asked repeatedly and eagerly, “How is it? How? The Medical System is really cool, isn’t it?”

Well, what else did she now know? She was absolutely positive that Moe had given her this system.

“What the hell is this ‘Medical System’?” Jiang Yao asked as she poked at Moe’s head.

“It was my master’s last invention before the crash. My master was the greatest inventor in the Future Galaxy. He produced a lot of powerful and outstanding inventions throughout his life!” Moe shrieked ecstatically.

“The system has a built-in admin, or you can call it butler too. You can just summon the System Admin if you have any questions. Use your consciousness to wake the System Admin up.”

Jiang Yao gave it a try according to Moe’s instruction. She manipulated her consciousness to click on the System Admin frame, and it worked.

A selection box popped up on the screen, prompting her to select the gender of her System Admin.

There were two options: male and female.

Without hesitation, Jiang Yao chose female, then, the system shifted its interface again. However, an unexpected object popped up on the screen...

It was a very masculine beefcake!

“D*mn!” Jiang Yao cursed at the top of her lungs reflexively. Her face was turning a shade of charcoal black as she looked at the sexy muscular man wearing only a pair of swimming trunks.

As if the System Admin could sense Jiang Yao’s displeasure, he suddenly curled his lips into a timid smile towards Jiang Yao and twisted his knees shyly. Jiang Yao got goosebumps all over her body upon the unbelievable scene.

“Dear Master, hello. At your service with pleasure! If you have any inquiries, please consult me at any time~” He said the ‘time’ with a deliberate high-pitched squeak that made Jiang Yao shiver in extreme awkwardness again and her face darkened in disgust.

On the screen, a brawny muscular man in swimming trunks acted like a shy little girl, putting his legs close together as he curtsied and making the squealing voice that was extremely irritating.

“Can you change your clothes immediately, please?” Jiang Yao asked.

“Master, do you not like my outfit? Don’t I look good wearing this?” The brawny man winked at Jiang Yao as he coaxed. Since Jiang Yao was unmoved, he sighed dejectedly. “Okay, Master. Please give me a moment, I’ll get changed right away!”

Chapter 107: Irreversible

When he said he was going to take a while, it was literally a matter of a second. The screen turned dark—like turning off the light to get changed—and lighted up again after a second.

Jiang Yao almost vomited blood when she looked at the screen!

“Change into another one! Go! Go! Wrap yourself up like a burrito!”

Instead of wearing swimming trunks, he changed into a bunny costume. What the hell was the short and fluffy tail on his buttocks? And the bunny ears on his head! Argh!

1“Sob. Master, you dislike me because I’m not good-looking, don’t you?”

After a devastating wail, the screen went dark and turned back on again, and this time, Jiang Yao heaved a sigh of relief. As he was told, he wrapped himself in layer after layer of scarves, he even wore a headscarf. His eyes were the only visible thing.

‘Good! Very good!’ Jiang Yao thought to herself. Wearing more was better than horrendous attire!

“Tell me what the Medical System is about.” Jiang Yao leaned back on the chair. She reached out to caress Moe who was lying on her lap looking back at her with a look of excitement and mercilessly slapped him off her lap.

“Okay, Master!” the System Admin said with a gentle and ladylike tone.

Thankfully, when the System spoke again, it was no longer the irritating voice from the admin. Jiang Yao decided that she didn't want to see the admin again in her life. He might give her nightmares!

A sentence popped up on the screen—'Dear user, when you activate this Medical System, you have determined to become a medical doctor. Our system contains the most comprehensive and advanced medical knowledge to assist you in becoming the world's top doctor.'

Later, the introduction of the system was directly downloaded into Jiang Yao's brain.

Jiang Yao finally realized what Moe had put in her!

As the name implied, the Medical System was generally and solely about medicine. There were two medical systems in it, one for Chinese medicine and another for Western medicine.

The Chinese medicine system contained a complete herbology collection, a theoretical library, and a laboratory. The herbology volume recorded all the herbs that had appeared and with it, the precise introductions, growing environment, functions, and adverse effects of each and every herb.

The theoretical library was like a university of traditional Chinese medicine. Each book in it was like a stern and serious professor who lectured the vast knowledge of traditional Chinese medicine. The vibrant content and wisdom were a little too overwhelming for Jiang Yao. However, she found that she could only view the content labeled level one in the table of contents, but she couldn't access the content for level two and above.

The laboratory was Jiang Yao's favorite feature. Generally speaking, the laboratory was a virtual hospital. The system could randomly create a patient for the system owner to treat them. The owner could also set their own settings and modes on the patient for experimental purposes. For this feature, system assessment was required to access the level two content.

For example, if Jiang Yao had wanted to read the level two content of the herbology volume and the theoretical library, she needed to pass the level one assessment test by the system first.

As for the Western medicine department, the only difference was that there was no herbology volume in it, but it contained a pharmaceutical collection. It recorded the chemical synthesis, properties, and pharmacology of pharmaceuticals. The rest was similar to the Chinese medicine system.

Jiang Yao exited the system and shouted to Moe, "I don't quite understand the correlation between the Favorability Value and the Present Value."

Moe lay lazily on the floor, wagging his tail slowly, and murmuring for a while before he answered, "My master said that as a doctor, one might face a lot of challenges and helplessness in the society, but one must not be an unscrupulous villain. This is why my master created the Favorability Value setting in the system. The rating of the Favorability Value comes from the people outside of your immediate family. The higher your Favorability Value is, the more beneficial it is to you. You can utilize it like currency—you can convert it into a numerical value and add it to any of the five parameters that you want to enhance the ability for."

Chapter 108: Destruction Program

The five abilities that could be enhanced as Moe had mentioned were the five options that appeared after clicking in the column for the Present Value, namely vision, hearing, physical strength, memory, and appearance.

Jiang Yao scanned through the Present Value with curiosity, only to discover negative numbers in all the columns except for appearance. Even appearance was scored pathetically at 35 points.

Probably sensing Jiang Yao's dissatisfaction, Moe giggled chicly and teased, "If you were in our Future Galaxy, a two-year-old can crush that appearance of yours."

"I have good eyesight and hearing!" Jiang Yao huffed annoyingly. How did the system decide that her appearance was only worthy of 35 points? She was very confident with her profile!

At five feet five, she was considered tall among the girls in the southern region. Even if she disregarded her figure, her looks could be classified as the classic female appearance, which was gentle and pleasant. How was it when it came to the system, she was only worth 35 points?

She had received a lot of compliments about her adorable and attractive good looks since she was young, okay?

Moe laughed out loud. "You won't know what is considered good until you use the Favorability Value to increase your vision and hearing abilities."

Moe was donning the 'I don't want to talk to mentally retarded people' expression.

"What? Do you mean that there's a possibility that I can have X-ray vision and supersonic hearing?" Jiang Yao was skeptical.

"It would only be greater than what you can imagine when the value reaches its peak." Moe nodded seriously. "I know you won't believe me no matter what I say now. Nonetheless, just try it out and see for yourself. One day, you'll know what kind of amazing gift I've given you!"

Jiang Yao was reluctant to continue the argument as she looked at the arrogant Moe turning his head away. Moreover, there was no unbind function in the system anyway, so she couldn't get rid of it now that it was hers.

When she was watching the introduction of the system, she had an epiphany that Moe was actually looking for a successor of his master's invention—whose current whereabouts he didn't know of. It was like he was leaving a memento of his master in this world even when his master had gone.

"Oh, right!" Mo lifted his head abruptly and shouted at Jiang Yao, "I almost forgot. The owner of the system will bear a certain restraint from the system. It has a pre-installed destruction program. Once you trigger it, the system will be automatically destroyed. And since the system is bound to your consciousness, you will lose your consciousness when the system undergoes self-destruction. At best, you'll be insane for the rest of your life. If worse comes to worst, you'll be in a vegetative state until you die."

Jiang Yao widened her eyes and arched her eyebrows in shock. No one would be happy to hear such news.

"What are the conditions that will trigger the self-destruction mode?" Jiang Yao asked.

“Good question.” Moe glanced at Jiang Yao, stood up, and shook his body leisurely. “Human, relax. The condition is that you kill someone.”

Jiang Yao sighed in relief. “Thank goodness.” She was grateful that it was a high bar to cross.

However, as she looked at Moe’s eyes the second time, she had the feeling that it wasn’t that simple, after all.

Sure enough, after a short pause, Moe uttered slowly, “True, the condition is to murder someone regardless of the reason, even if your patient dies on the operating table due to medical malpractice. But if it’s not due to an error on your part, you have nothing to do with the patient’s death, and so, the destruction program will not be triggered.”

“I’ll give you an example. For instance, my enemy comes after me for revenge. He wants to kill me, so I stab him back in self-defense and he dies afterward. What happens then?” Jiang Yao asked.

Chapter 109: You Can’t Be Too Careful

“As soon as he or she dies, get ready to be mentally disabled or slump into a coma because one, you were the one to kill the person and two, it will automatically trigger the destruction program.”

Jiang Yao was so agitated she wanted to jump on Moe and choke him. Moe hopped swiftly to the upper bunk and said, “Hey, hey, hey! Human! Wait a minute, I haven’t finished yet, relax!”

“Okay, go ahead, I can listen as I strangle you, it! Doesn’t! Bother! Me! At all!” Jiang Yao gritted her teeth as she lunged at him. “Look at how fast you run! I assume killing you will not trigger the destruction program.”

“My goodness, your earth is always promoting sustaining a harmonious society, isn’t it? It’s no nice to be so cranky!” Moe ejected his claws and waved them around. “Why are humans so cruel nowadays? They get angry when they learn that they can’t kill. Human, this is bad behavior.”

“I beg your pardon, who wants to be a murderer? Who knows what will happen next? What can I do when a robber comes at me? I can’t even fight back, can I?” Jiang Yao stomped her feet indignantly. “You can’t be too careful!”

“That’s why you need a self-defense ability so that you can avoid being trapped when you are in danger.” Moe hopped back to Jiang Yao’s side. “Furthermore, you’re a girl. Even if you have enemies in the future, why do you have to resort to killing them? There are plenty of methods to push your enemies into a living hell if you want to get your revenge. Let me reveal some secrets to you—there are a lot of ‘recipes’ in the pharmaceutical collection for your reference! Another way is to hire a bodyguard to protect you. When you become a top dog, you don’t have to do everything on your own, am I right?”

Jiang Yao jolted in placidity at Moe’s remarks. He was right, she didn’t have to resort to physically violent and brutal ways to get back at someone. There were many combinations of drugs that she could use in the pharmaceutical collection.

Besides, she seemed to comprehend some extra information from Moe’s remarks.

“Moe, since the Medical System is so powerful, if I really become a top dog in the field of medicine, I will stumble upon a different fate in the future, won't I? What if an unscrupulous villain threatens me at gunpoint to treat him? What do you say? Do I treat him or not? If it pursues to the point where it's either he or I die, I'm done for, am I not?”

Jiang Yao scooped Moe up and put him in front of her. She plastered a smile on a face, a rather intimidating one.

“If I'm not mistaken, your description earlier means that it's irrelevant to me as long as I don't do it with my own hands. So, if I order someone else to execute the villain, will it trigger the destruction program?”

Moe stared silently at Jiang Yao with his large bell-like eyes. Jiang Yao smirked and let him go.

After rebirth, Jiang Yao had no other aggressive ambitions other than to live happily ever after with Lu Xingzhi. Frankly speaking, her only ambition was to change the destiny of the people she cared about and hope that they could live well too.

The Medical System seemed redundant to Jiang Yao for the time being. Based on her academics and working experience for more than a decade before rebirth, she could be an excellent doctor if she was willing to work hard with the previously obtained knowledge.

However, her lack of greed and desire didn't indicate that she would ignore the invisible bomb that was embedded in her body right now. She could at least rest assured now that she learned the system wouldn't mess with her entirely.

Looking at Moe who had appeared out of nowhere, Jiang Yao speculated that he had been following her from the moment he knew she could understand him, and he finally got the opportunity to appear before her today.

Nonetheless, it would be a piece of cake for her to be a good doctor thanks to her years of experience in her previous life and also as an excellent medical student.

Chapter 110: She Has No Personal Ambition

Besides, what the h*ll was Favorability Value? Why would she want to do someone a favor just for the sake of earning credit for the value? She could just work hard on her own and didn't want to live such a tiresome life.

“Hey, why aren't you the least bit excited?”

Moe observed Jiang Yao for a while. After exploring the system, he watched her sit on the chair and flip the books on the desk. From the looks of it, she didn't seem like she was excited to own the system. Did she even know that the medical knowledge in the system was hundreds of thousands of times more comprehensive than the books in her hands?

“Why should I? I have to go around offering favors to the people who have nothing to do with me simply to gain some Favorability Value. Now, tell me, why would I do that?” Jiang Yao rolled her eyes. She was always so willful and stubborn, which was why she had missed so many chances with Lu Xingzhi in her previous life.

“It’s not like you have to do it deliberately. It’s just being kind, you know? The thing about the Favorability Value is that it’s not as hard to gain as you think,” Moe said, getting a little antsy. “Look at all the respectable and esteemed people from ancient times to the present. You know they’re nice people, don’t you? However, regardless of whether they’re really nice or otherwise, they’re still admired by many!”

“You are telling me to be pretentious then...” Jiang Yao shot a sideways glance at Moe, taunting, “Sure enough, you have spent a lot of time on earth. Looks like you know quite a lot about us humans.”

Moe snorted and scratched his little nose annoyingly. “What am I giving you the system for if you don’t use it? Such powerful Medical System is going down the drain.”

“Take it back, then. I will be ever so grateful if you take it back, more thankful than when you saved me!” Jiang Yao said seriously.

Moe sighed and murmured to himself, “If I could take it back, I’d already have done so, rather than to give it to you, the ungrateful and foolish human who takes it for granted!”

When Wen Xuehui pushed the door open, she saw Jiang Yao sitting alone in a daze. Moe had walked away from the balcony angrily and she wasn’t sure where he had gone off to.

“Are you alone?” Wen Xuehui asked to confirm as she walked in. Seeing that other roommates hadn’t returned yet, she pulled Jiang Yao out and went out of the dorm.

Exactly like the scene in her previous life, Wen Xuehui told Jiang Yao about a Chinese restaurant in the South Block that only started operating six months ago. The restaurant gained a lot of good reviews through word of mouth recommendation.

Jiang Yao recalled that in her previous life, Wen Xuehui had told her about meeting the man in the restaurant on the first day of school. So, when Jiang Yao heard her suggestion, she reflexively blurted out an excuse to not go to the South Block. “I’m a little tired from the traveling today, I don’t want to go that far. Why don’t we just have dinner nearby? We can go to the restaurant tomorrow with our roommates, the more the merrier.”

Wen Xuehui was a local, she didn’t know where Jiang Yao came from and how long she took for her journey here. She stopped insisting on going to the South Block after hearing Jiang Yao’s remarks.

Wen Xuehui wouldn’t have known that Jiang Yao was thinking about her now.

As Jiang Yao replayed the incident that happened before rebirth, she remembered that Wen Xuehui had met the person who changed her life entirely in the aforementioned restaurant.

Wen Xuehui had been the apple of the Wen family’s eyes since young. Her father was the president of Nanjiang Medical University, whereas her mother was an esteemed socialite from an aristocratic family who was also the director of Nanjiang First Hospital. Wen Xuehui had had a very protective and loving upbringing as she grew up.

When Wen Xuehui was a freshman, she met Li Ronghui, who was in a junior year.

Speaking of Li Ronghui, he was a famous student at the university. He had an excellent academic track record, and he was handsome and polite. The girls in the university often described him as a warm ray of sunshine that they constantly pursued.