

Catch Me If You Love Me

Chapter 107

Shaking her hands, she put on her clothes indiscriminately and stumbled all the way into the cloakroom.

From the first day she moved into the garden, her suitcase had not been opened. It seemed that from the beginning, Zoey Gu clearly understood that one day she would have such an ending.

Within a few minutes, she closed the door and walked out with the suitcase.

The light in the bedroom has been turned on, and Liam Lu has got out of bed, wearing a bathrobe casually.

Seeing her standing by the door dragging her luggage, she wrung her eyebrows severely.

“Where are you going?”

Zoey Gu looked up at him blankly, the light above his head made his face white as wax paper, “I’m going...”

“Could it be that when you are like this, you will still tell me that someone as dirty as me has no bottom line, you want to continue to marry me?”

After she finished speaking, even herself felt ridiculous, and she couldn’t help laughing bitterly and mockingly.

“Liam Lu, I still want to leave myself a little last dignity, don’t want to...”

“To shut up!”

Liam Lu interrupted her coldly, his face grew colder, and he still looked like he wanted to strangle her.

“Zoey Gu, you have already lost the right to say no since you calculated me!”

After he finished speaking, he grabbed her arm and slammed her to the big bed next to him, took the suitcase away from her, and gritted his teeth.

“Before daybreak, stay here honestly! You know the consequences if you violate my words!”

Bang!

Then, with a “click”, the bedroom door was directly locked.

Zoey Gu shook suddenly, reacted, jumped up from the bed, and instantly rushed to the door.

“Liam Lu, what are you going to do?”

Thinking of the man’s decisively cold look before he left, Zoey Gu panicked, raising her hand and slapped the door heavily.

“Liam Lu, why do you want to lock me? Open the door! Open the door quickly! Don’t do this to me...”

But no matter how she beat or screamed, no one responded to her.

Until the sound of the car’s engine came from the courtyard, Zoey Gu finally let go of her hand, and slid weakly along the door to the floor.

There were bursts of heart-piercing pain in his chest.

She raised her head, looked at the curtain lifted by the wind not far away with red eyes, and choked out desperately.

“Why must this be? Let’s end here, okay?”

All night, Zoey Gu sat slumped on the cold floor like this, crying silently, sad, and talking to herself.

She leaned on the door panel until she fell asleep unconsciously.

In a daze, she seemed to hear the sound of footsteps outside, walking slowly towards the room from the stairs.

Zoey Gu woke up with a Ji Ling, and suddenly got up from the ground in a hurry.

The moment the door opened, Zoey Gu rushed over.

“land...”

Standing outside the door, Shiyue, and the group of people following him.

Zoey Gu was stunned for a while.

“Where is Liam Lu?”

Shiyue looked at Zoey Gu's crying red eyes, pursed his lips, and replied in a low voice.

"Miss Gu, Liam won't be back for the time being, but there are some things, he changed his mind."