

“My goodness, Reilo, you’re amazing! You even managed to chase out these powerful fighters from China.”

“India’s martial arts circle is getting more and more formidable. It won’t be long before India becomes the most powerful in Asia.”

Some people within the crowd in the restaurant knew Reilo and started exclaiming in admiration.

The martial arts world had gone through a lot of changes, and right now, there was one circle that rose above everyone else. That one circle wasn’t a particular country – it was Chu Sect. The entire martial arts world recognized Chu Sect as the most powerful martial arts power, followed by the various martial artists from their respective countries.

China was a country with many millennia of martial arts history. Even though they had suffered a tremendous loss after their huge fight with Chu Sect, putting them several centuries back, the appearance of the six pillars of the nation helped to push China’s martial arts back onto the scene in Asia.

The first thing Lv Hua saw as he walked into the dining hall was the Indian martial artists carrying Reilo and hobbling their way out. "You guys are from India?"

Lv Hua guessed where they were from almost instantly. They were dressed in a particular way for religious reasons, so it wasn't hard to recognize where they were from.

Lv Hua's expression immediately darkened and his frosty glare was fixed on them.

But none of the Indian martial artists paid him any attention. They just wanted desperately to leave this place and run from Ye Fan.

"Stop right there! I'm talking to all of you! Didn't you hear me?!" yelled Lv Hua icily as he tried to hold his temper in.

30 years ago, his own uncle had died at the hands of Indian martial artists.

Lv Hua had joined this mission not only to fight for the spirit energy fruit, but also to take revenge.

Now that he had seen the people who crossed him, there was no way he could remain calm.

“So what if we are? Move aside! We don’t have time for you!” snapped the Indian martial artists impatiently. Even though Ye Fan had thrashed them so badly earlier, they still spoke as arrogantly as before.

“Move aside? Sure! I’ll not only move aside for you guys, but I’ll also send you on your way!” Lv Hua’s gaze turned icy as he started to gather the energy within his body into his hands.

“Punk! How dare you!” exclaimed the Indian martial artists in fright when they saw that Lv Hua was getting ready to attack.

Lv Hua couldn’t care less. He unleashed all the energy in his hands without holding back.

He smashed a punch down on them, then used his leg to kick horizontally across.

In just a few moments, the ever-complacent Indian martial artists were kicked right out of the dining hall by Lv Hua like tofu getting sliced by a knife.

The men howled as they crashed through the doors and windows, landing on the road outside.

They looked as pathetic as a bunch of dogs abandoned by their owner.

At this time, Kong Ming and Lu Yan-Xi had come running back because they were afraid that Lv Hua might be in danger.

They reached the main entrance of the restaurant just in time to watch the men fly right through the doors and windows to land in front of them.

“Wait, these people...the martial artists from India?!” Kong Ming and Lu Yan-Xi were both stunned when they realized who these men were.

Nobody knew how powerful Reilo was better than Kong Ming did.

Even Kong Ming himself had to take two steps back earlier when their fists collided.

Even though Reilo was indeed not as powerful as Kong Ming, the difference wasn't very great, so it would still be difficult for Kong Ming to defeat him.

He was shocked to see that these complacent men had been severely injured and kicked out of the restaurant in the short time that he and Lu Yan-Xi had been away.

Who could have done this?

Was there a grandmaster around?

Kong Ming frowned hard as he continued to guess what happened.

Out of curiosity, Kong Ming and Lu Yan-Xi decided to go in and have a look.

To their surprise, the first person they saw was Lv Hua standing there proudly with his arms folded.

"Lv Hua, are you alright? We came back to look for you. What's happened here? Who injured all these martial artists?" Kong Ming asked a string of questions immediately.

The martial artists who had been kicked out of the restaurant clenched their teeth and climbed to their feet.

They looked a mess, but their eyes were filled with unmistakable hatred.

They glared ferociously towards Lv Hua and roared angrily, "Lv Hua! And you, little punk! Just you wait! We won't let this matter go! We'll get you someday, Lv Hua, for injuring our brother Reilo and destroying our reputation! The Indian martial arts circle will make you pay a hundred times over for what you've done!"

They then quickly crawled off because they were afraid of getting beaten again.

"Humph, I'll let you guys off this time. If I run into any of you in the rainforest later on, I'll make sure all of you die."

Lv Hua really wished he could kill all of them right now to avenge his uncle, but he knew that he would be reprimanded by the international martial arts circle if he killed anyone within the city.

On the other hand, the various countries had agreed that the fight for spirit energy fruits would be based entirely on one's ability, and anyone who died as a result was no fault of the party who dealt the fatal blow.

So once the martial artists had gone into the rainforest, any injuries and deaths were attributed to one's lack of prowess and the killer would not need to take any responsibility for it.

Lv Hua had to hold his temper in for now. He had to wait until they were all within the rainforest first.

Once they were within the rainforest, it was just a matter of prowess.

"Elder Kong, Yan-Xi, why did the two of you go out? Weren't the two of you eating inside the hall earlier?" asked Lv Hua when he finally noticed the two people who had come rushing back in.

"Elder Kong, what's wrong? Why aren't both of you talking?"

Lv Hua called them several times before Kong Ming and Lu Yan-Xi looked at him with a strange look in their eyes as they asked, "Lv Hua, were you...were you the one who beat them up?"

“Huh? You mean those assholes from India? They’re like a stack of ceramic plates to me. If I weren’t worried about the international backlash, I’d have slaughtered all of them just now! But they’re not going to live for long. Once I see them again in the rainforest tomorrow, I’m going to slice all these Indian ants to pieces and make sure they pay for what happened 30 years ago!” Lv Hua clenched his fists tightly as his eyes glinted coldly.

But Kong Ming was even more shocked to hear these words. “Lv Hua, you seriously defeated that Reilo? How could that be?”

Lv Hua was equally confused. “What’s so impossible about that? I come from a martial arts family and I’ve been practicing martial arts since I was a young child. What’s so hard about defeating a bunch of lowly idiots like them?”

Lv Hua was clearly displeased and felt that Kong Ming was looking down on him.

Kong Ming quickly explained himself, “Lv Hua, don’t be mistaken. I’m shocked but happy at the same time. You’re only 30, but you managed to injure so many highly skilled martial artists all by yourself. With a gifting like this, you're definitely going to become a famous grandmaster in the near future! You are truly the hope of the next generation!"

Even Lu Yan-Xi started to look at Lv Hua differently now. All women liked strong men after all.

Reilo and his companions had proved to be too frightening earlier and made Kong Ming choose to run instead of fight, but the same people had been defeated soundly by Lv Hua. This really made Lu Yan-Xi look at Lv Hua in a different light now.

"Nonsense! He wasn't the one who did all that! The one who defeated all the bad guys just now was this young man!"

A timid little voice suddenly rang out from within the restaurant.

Kong Ming and the other two turned to see a beautiful young lady look at them angrily.

She was clearly unhappy that Lv Hua had taken credit for everything that Ye Fan had done earlier.

“Where did this little girl come from? Go back to where you belong!” barked Lv Hua impatiently. He didn’t care about what a young girl said.

But Kong Ming asked her, “Young lady, who is this young man you just mentioned?”

“Him! It’s this young man who defeated all those baddies earlier! It wasn’t this bespectacled man in a suit!”

The bespectacled man in a suit she was talking about was Lv Hua. Lv Hua hailed from a rich family with a long history, so he was very particular about the way he dressed and looked. He had worn a suit and leather shoes here, and even donned a pair of sunglasses after they got off the plane. He was as pretentious as one could get.

But Kong Ming's attention wasn't on any of this. He looked at where the young lady was pointing to.

The only person in that direction was Ye Fan quietly sitting in his corner, wearing a short-sleeved shirt and sipping his tea.

He looked exactly the same way he did when they left the restaurant, as if he hadn't moved at all.

"What?! Him?!" The faces of Kong Ming and the other two instantly fell. They thought that this young lady was just joking with them.

Kong Ming would rather believe that Lv Hua was the one who defeated the men earlier.

Lv Hua himself shook his head and smiled in disdain. "Elder Kong, surely you're not going to believe the words of a child, are you? Besides, didn't you hear those Indian martial artists earlier? They said that they were going to take revenge on me, Lv Hua!"

In reality, Lv Hua really had no idea why these people knew his name. He had never said his name out loud at all.

But then he figured that since he was an incredibly gifted man, his name must have spread beyond China's borders, and so these people must have recognized him.

"Of course, of course. I was just asking. I wouldn't believe a young girl like her," said Kong Ming immediately.

"By the way, you still haven't told me why you two left the restaurant earlier," said Lv Hua as all three of them just ignored the young lady and carried on their own conversation.

Kong Ming didn't hide anything from Lv Hua and told him everything that happened before they left the restaurant.

"That Reilo was really powerful, so even if I used all the strength I had, I might not have been able to injure him so severely. But you actually managed to! You are truly a descendant of a grandmaster and a child of a martial arts family! Compared to you youngsters, I have really grown too old to catch up," said Kong Ming as he shook his head at himself, while his heart overflowed with admiration for Lv Hua.

"Were those fellows really that incredible?"

Why wasn't I able to sense it? Elder Kong, I'm not trying to show off or anything, I'm serious. I literally kicked them out with just a few moves earlier. Perhaps the Lv family boxing technique worked well against them," laughed Lv Hua merrily.

Lv Hua felt like he was on cloud nine after Kong Ming complimented him like this, and his voice sounded rather lofty now.

"Hua, you don't have to be so humble about this. My father often mentioned you even when you were still a child, and said that you're definitely going to be the next generation of China's leaders! At first I was really indignant about it, but it looks like my father was right. You're really amazing! Otherwise, Elder Kong wouldn't compliment you like this either!" Lu Yan-Xi spoke in a more innocent and cutesy way to him now, as if she was very close to him.

"Alright now, since we've had our fill, let's go back and rest to prepare for our trip to the rainforest tomorrow. We must make sure we restore all the glory and honor that the Chinese martial arts circle lost 30 years ago!" Kong Ming decided to return to the hotel to rest.

“Let’s go, Hua!” Lu Yan-Xi called out to Lv Hua, and the three of them happily walked out of the restaurant.

None of them even remembered that Ye Fan was still inside the restaurant.

They regarded him as merely a young and immature little punk. They didn’t care about whether he was part of the team or not.

The little bit they remembered about him was their bad impression of him.

After the three of them walked out, the dining hall was quiet again.

The only sound left was the sobs of the sweet looking young lady.

Suddenly, she seemed to have thought of something. She ran over to Ye Fan and begged him, “Sir, please! Please save Grandpa Nuo! Grandpa Nuo watched me grow up and I don’t want him to die! If you can save him, I’ll agree to anything you want! Please help! Please!!”

Kong Ming and the rest had no idea what Ye Fan was capable of, but this young lady here did.

She had seen everything that happened earlier, and she knew that this ordinary looking youth was far from ordinary.

“Oh? You’ll agree to anything?” Ye Fan held his teacup and smiled faintly at her.

Then he shook his head again. “Forget it. You’re so young. What could you possibly offer me? Why don’t you just go? I’m not a busybody and I won’t help a stranger for nothing.” Ye Fan just shook his head and chuckled before continuing to sip his tea and ignored her pleas.

“That’s not true! I can really repay you for this! My older brother dotes on me very dearly and I come from a very big clan. Tell me what you want and my family will definitely be able to give it to you. I’m not lying to you! My father is the head of the Jones family and my brother is the next heir. As long as you can save Grandpa Nuo, we will definitely be able to satisfy your demands.”

“Oh? You’re from the Jones family? You’re from Chu Sect?” Ye Fan’s eyebrow went up slightly as a glint flashed in his previously unbothered gaze.

“That’s right. You know about Chu Sect too? We’re one of the three families that make up Chu Sect. I was too rebellious and insisted on running away from home, but I got Grandpa Nuo injured instead. If Grandpa Nuo dies because of me, I will be guilty for the rest of my life. Please, please save Grandpa Nuo! Please!” the young lady continued to plead tearfully with Ye Fan.

Ye Fan nodded. “Alright, since you’re from the Jones family, I can help you. But I’m afraid you won’t be able to decide on whether you can give me what I want or not. For example, if I want half of your family’s assets, do you dare to agree to it?”
