

Catch Me If You Love Me Chapter 129

Zoey Gu remained unheard, holding the injured arm with one hand, slowing down and walking towards Liam Lu.

When Liam Lu heard the footsteps, he turned his head, his brows wrinkled in an instant, and strode over to support her.

“Don’t let you wait in the car?”

Zoey Gu pursed her lips and looked at the man’s dark face, and said in a low voice.

“Liam Lu, didn’t I tell you? Can the injury on the arm be healed? I simply...”

not give a damn about.

Before he finished speaking, the man’s face was instantly cold.

“Zoey Gu.”

He shouted her name unhappily, but he held her injured arm without moving his hand, “I don’t want to hear this again.”

This has always been the case.

The person Liam Lu decides to do, the things he decides to do, never change easily.

He looked at her, his brow folds deeper.

“Enter and go up.”

Zoey Gu stood in place with her lips pressed, without moving.

After a while, he turned his head to look aside Shiyue, and asked in a low voice, “Have you investigated this strange doctor before coming here?”

Shiyue didn’t understand what she meant, but answered honestly.

“Yes. Speaking of it, this person’s ancestral home is still Berven City. He later traveled here before deciding to settle in...”

When Shiyue was halfway through, he seemed to react suddenly and suddenly raised his head to look at Zoey Gu.

“What does Miss Gu mean...”

Liam Lu by his side already gave the answer in a deep voice.

“She meant to ask you if this freak has any special preferences?”

After speaking, Liam Lu raised his hand to take off his jacket and put it on Zoey Gu’s shoulder, looking down at her and asking in a low voice.

“Everyone has stories and obsessions, and even things that are particularly in love. From it, there will be more or less clues. You think so, right?”

Zoey Gu looked at him in surprise, then nodded gently. His heart was full of surprise, and he was able to say exactly what she was thinking.

But she didn’t know that she did not want to bear his kindness more.

Shiyue reacted at once and hurried back into the car.

But for a moment, another rush of wind ran back, showing the two people with the information just passed by his men.

“I found it! This person’s only hobby is to go to restaurants in Qingcheng to eat sour noodle soup. But every time he leaves after a few bites, he looks disappointed.”

In the middle of the night, the lights in the doctor’s courtyard gradually went out, and only one of the bedrooms on the third floor was still lit.

The security guard outside the door had just changed, and Shiyue hurriedly greeted him.

He and the security guard at the door didn’t know what they said in a low voice, then gave a thick renminbi, and pointed his finger at the place where Liam Lu stopped.

But after a while, he ran back in a hurry.

“After that, Liam, they promised to lend us the kitchen for half an hour. But it’s only downstairs, and they can’t go anywhere else.”

When Shiyue finished speaking, he glanced at Zoey Gu uncertainly.

“Miss Gu, can you?”

Zoey Gu raised her head and glanced at the courtyard, then inadvertently glanced at Liam Lu beside him, and nodded gently.

“I will try my best.”

After speaking, she moved towards the courtyard.

Within a few steps, he was held by Liam Lu, “Wait
