

Chapter 138

She paused and sighed.

"It's a filial child, but it's a pity it's a girl, will always have to marry someone else, and it's not her turn to inherit this great family estate."

King's spine stiffened, taking careful aim at her.

Only Kelly Wang reached out and took a sip from the cup of tea beside her, then said to Kevin Jing, "Hu Sen is coming back recently, right?"

Jing Hu Sen, Kevin Jing's own nephew and Kelly Wang's second son's only son, her own grandson.

When Kevin Jing, as a poor student, climbed with Mo Caiwei, who was already the richest girl in Visterdem at that time, the Jing family also rose to great heights.

Unfortunately, the Jing family was already withering away, but at a time when it was common for families to have four or five children, there were only two brothers in the family.

The younger brother, Jing Yi, also died prematurely due to illness, leaving behind a pregnant widow, and later Mo Caiwei saw their pity and received them to Visterdem, giving them a house and property.

My brother-in-law Su Nian is a cold character who doesn't want to get close to people, so even if they are in the same city, they haven't had much interaction with the Jing and Mo families.

Mo Caiwei also respects her and knows that she doesn't want to move around with this side and is usually fine and doesn't pay much attention to that side.

Only ten years ago, Mo Hun Sen was going to study abroad, when Su Nian didn't have enough money on hand, so Mo Caiwei helped again.

It's strange that the two families are supposed to be close relatives, but they haven't moved around much over the years.

King nodded at the old woman's words, his eyes flickering slightly.

"Yes, I called earlier and I think I was told to return home this April."

"Good, it's good to be back, no matter what, he's also a bloodline of the Jing family, he's always been competitive in his studies and is a smart kid, I'm sure Jing will be able to develop better when he's handed over to him in the future."

King frowned imperceptibly.

Kelly Wang didn't say anything else and waved her hand, "Alright, go do what you need to do, I'm tired and need to rest."

That's when King nodded, "Yes."

.....

Other side.

Jenny is concentrating on his work.

Lin Tian had a packed schedule of events lately, but they were all relatively small business events, after all, he had just returned home, and the big ones were still picking and choosing to watch.

The only more significant recent event would have been the first fan concert that was run just for him.

This kind of concert is relatively small, only one, for two hours, tickets out is also relatively small, is not considered a commercial activity, simply because he has just returned to the country, although the fan base is huge, but because of the domestic activities over the years is relatively small, so there are not many die-hard fans.

Most are face fans or roadies who have seen the work.

This small meet-and-greet-like concert that Jenny Jing had given him this time was to help him get closer to his audience and cultivate a group of die-hard fans first.

After all, the domestic climate is not compared to foreign countries, anti-black and counterfeit and other stations essential, partial Lin Tian before the development of foreign countries, never paid attention to these, so are not very mature, this time is also considered to work for the back of the basic plate.

The concert was a success, and Lin Tian, as a veteran of the entertainment industry, knew how to woo the fans.

Before a few songs had been sung, the fans on stage were screaming until their voices were deaf, and the whole venue was extraordinarily good.

Jenny was keeping an eye on this side himself this time, and was relieved to see the situation.

As I was about to leave early, I saw a small, familiar figure sitting in a dark corner of the audience.

Ani?

Why is she here?

Jenny looked around carefully and didn't notice any other people around her.

The little child sat alone and alone, looking earnestly towards the stage, its young white face shrouded in darkness, and it was heartbreaking to watch.

Jenny walked over quickly in a row.

"Ani, why are you here alone?Where's your family?"

Bob withdrew his eyes from the stage and widened in surprise when he saw it was her.

"Mummy!"

She jumped off the stool with joy and quickly jumped at her.

Jenny was busy reaching out to catch her, while at the same time, an employee who had come to see her to report on the evening's situation stared in shock at the scene.

Is Mr. Jing...married?

Even the kids are this old?

Oh, my God!What great gossip did they miss?

Jenny still didn't know what was on the other party's mind and directly took the report she was holding, telling her to get busy first.

Before turning back to set the bun down and looking at her seriously, he asked, "Why are you here all alone?Where's your great-grandmother?"

Speaking of which, Ann immediately deflated her small mouth.

"Grandma and I got separated again, Mommy, so why don't you take me home and let me follow you?"

"Uh..."

Jenny was stunned, and all of a sudden he was a bit cryptic.

"Ani, you can't just say that to a stranger oh, it'll be dangerous, tell me where you and your great-grandmother got separated and you'll take me to her, okay?"

Ann tilted her head and blinked her big eyes at her.

"But we're not strangers!Mommy is the best mommy in the world, so how can she be a stranger?"

Jenny smiled helplessly.

She crouched down and explained to her patiently.

"But we haven't known each other very long, so if I have any bad intentions, won't you be in danger?"

Ann sniffed, as if she was seriously considering what she said.

It took a long time before he reluctantly nodded his head.

"All right! I know you're doing this for my own good, and I accept your offer."

She said, and patted Jenny's head in a fierce manner, as if she was just saying, okay! I know you don't believe that the world has its own true love, but I don't mind, I'll accommodate you.

Jenny burst into tears and laughed, and seeing that there was no one else around, he picked her up.

"Well, Ann tell me where you got separated, and I'll take you to Grandma now."

Ann seemed reluctant, but reluctantly nodded her head.

"All right!"

According to the child's identification, she and the old woman were scattered by the crowd as they entered the venue's entrance.

After hearing the child's account, Jenny was really angry.

What a sloppy parent this family is, too!

How can you trust such a young child to be out with an old man that old?

The old man's bones are inconvenient, so he can't hold the baby for a long time, and the baby is still very small, so it's easy to lose it if you're not careful when you're in a crowded place.

I wonder what the other adults in this house think!

Jenny cursed in his heart as he passed the front desk staff and asked them to help him search.

Anyway, concert only, they should all be in there and not leaving.

Chapter 139

After the confession, it's not a good idea to stay at the door because it won't be finished for a while.

Jenny Jing then took Anh to the backstage lounge.

It just so happened that at this point, during the intermission, Rin Tin Tin came down from the stage and was getting a bottle of water there while there were still two minutes to spare to get dressed.

Seeing her carry a little girl in, and the little girl screaming so sweetly for a mommy, her eyes fell open.

"This, Jenny, don't tell me that this is your child? I only heard you got married, when did the kids get so big?"

Jenny stared at him hard, "If you don't say anything, no one will treat you as dumb."

"Eh, no, where the hell did you get a little pink gnome from?"

Jenny put the "little pink gnome" as he called it on the chair and sat down, then sent someone to buy a child's favorite drink, before explaining: "A child who is quite fortunate, I have met her twice, both times she was lost by her parents, since I met her I couldn't leave her alone outside, right? I've already sent for her parents, so let's just get her over here for a while."

It was only then that it dawned on Lin Tian.

Then curiously, "But why does she call you Mommy?"

It was fine not to mention this, but mentioning it gave Jenny a bit of a headache.

Ghost knows why the first time Gnome saw her, he called her that and has been calling her that ever since!

She crouched down helplessly and looked directly at Ann, watching her carefully.

"Ani, can we change our names from now on?"

Ann blinked her big, watery, wet, kawaii eyes and asked, "Why?"

"Because I'm not your mommy ah, you call me that, your real mommy will be sad to hear! You don't want to upset Mommy either, do you?"

Ann's small mouth deflated.

"But I don't have a real mommy!"

Jenny was stunned.

Next to him, Lin Tian was stunned.

It never occurred to anyone that such a cute little pink gnome didn't have a mother.

Jenny only felt that somewhere in his heart felt as if a hand had gripped it so hard that it hurt.

She was busy hugging the little gnome who was about to cry out, patting her back lightly to comfort her, "Anan is good, Anan won't cry, it's my fault, Anan can call me whatever she wants from now on, it's okay."

Ann sobbed softly twice, then wiped down the non-existent tears with her small, fleshy hand and looked at Jenny in distress.

"So is it okay if I don't call you Mommy anymore and call you Auntie?"

Jenny nodded incessantly.

"Yes, of course."

Lin Tian smiled, "This child is really cute, don't tell me, actually if you didn't know about your relationship, just by looking at her looks, she's quite similar to you, or you could just recognize her as your goddaughter, she likes you so much anyway."

Jenny turned to glare at him.

"Don't be ridiculous!"

Although she also liked Ann, she didn't know people's families very well after all, and it was better for both parties to be willing to agree to such things, especially Ann's parents.

Linden smiled and said nothing, bending over to tease Ann.

"Do you know who I am, little baby?"

Ann tilted her head, looked at the forest and blinked.

"I've seen you before, you're Brother Rin Tin Tin."

Lin Tian burst out laughing.

"Well, yes, I'm Brother Rin Tin Tin, tch.

Gee, the little baby has a sweet mouth."

He then foolishly hit Jenny with his arm, "Do you hear me? People call you auntie, but they call me brother, tsk, I say Jenny, you've been back to China for two years, it's time to take good care of yourself, you can't let people misunderstand you like this all the time!"

Jenny backhanded him and twisted him hard on the waist.

"Lin Tian, I think you're itching for skin, aren't you?"

Lin Tian screamed and fled, then he said, "Don't be angry, don't be angry, I'm just kidding, you're still beautiful, no one can compare to you in my heart!"

Jenny gritted her teeth, "Don't you dare fool around either!After all, I don't have a nephew as big as you!"

The words stunned Lin Tian.

It wasn't until the makeup artist beside him couldn't help but puff out a laugh, that he realized what Jenny meant.

An An called Auntie Jenny and called him brother, in other words wasn't he a step below Jenny in rank?Then there's nothing wrong with Jenny calling him nephew!

Realizing this, Lin Tian's face immediately darkened.

"Little Ani, when you see me from now on, call me Uncle, Uncle Lin Tian, got it?"

I'm not sure if I'm going to be able to do that, but I'm not sure if I'm going to be able to do that.So I can't call you that oh."

Lin Tian: "....."

Gas!

This kid knows a lot, doesn't he?

In the end, he couldn't say anything else in the end, so he could only shake his fist without any bottom and grit his teeth, "Who says I'm an idol, I'm obviously a powerhouse!You see that?Strength!"

At that moment, Field Assistant came to rush him.

"Brother Tian, it's break time, the fans outside are rushing you, so get on the stage!"

Only then did Lin Tian snorted heavily and swaggered out with arrogant steps.

About half an hour later, she got a call from the front desk saying that an old man had asked them to help find the child, and they inquired about the grandmother, who should be the one Ann was talking about.

So, Jenny carried Ann to the front desk, and sure enough, he saw the old woman with white hair that he had seen last time standing there, looking anxious.

The old man was very old, probably in his sixties or seventies, but had taken good care of himself, so his body looked pretty tough.

But forgive me, in the face of such an old man, Jenny couldn't bear to be harsh, after all, only her father could be blamed, so irresponsible to let an old man and child go out alone, it wasn't all the old woman's fault.

As soon as she put Ann down on the ground, the child ran enthusiastically towards the old man.

"Grandma!"

"Eh."

The old man hugged her with joy, then straightened up and looked at Jenny with a smile on his face.

"Girl, it was you again who helped me find Ann, it seems like we're really meant for each other."

Jenny barely smiled, "It's nothing, just raising my hand."

"Eh, it's just a hand up for you, but it's a big help for me! See there's nothing I can thank you for, how about this, if you're free later, I'll buy you dinner, okay?"

Jenny subconsciously refused, "No, I have something to do this afternoon..."

"Auntie Jenny, just eat with us, I want to eat with you..."

The words were cut off by Bob before he could finish them.

She took Jenny's hand and gently shook and bobbed it, tilting her little head up to look at her with a pair of big black eyes, a pitiful look that no one could refuse.

Chapter 140

Jenny's heart immediately melted.

Looking at the old lady again, she also looked like she was pleading with her eyes, so who could stand one old man and one young woman?

Eventually, Jenny abandoned the evening's original dinner plans and drove the elderly and small children to a downtown family restaurant.

This family-friendly restaurant focuses on a cozy style, and it's Jenny's first time here.

Inside, in addition to them, there were many parents who brought their children over for dinner.

The dining table was set up on one side, while the other side was decorated as a small playground.

After ordering, Jenny encouraged AnAn to play with the children there since it would take a while to serve the meal.

But Ann shook her head and looked over at the children playing together there, looking disgusted and guarded.

Jenny Jing had also discovered that although this child seemed enthusiastic on the surface, he was actually rather cold in nature.

And I wonder what the parents of such a child would be like.

And the fact that she was actually willing to be so close to herself from the very beginning also caused a strange feeling to rise in Jenny's heart.

"Oh girl, you see our Ann really likes you, she doesn't usually like to be near strangers, even her family, except for the closest few, are rarely willing to let outsiders near her, but she liked you from the first time she met you, which means you really are meant for each other."

The old lady said slowly, her eyes and face all full of smiles.

Jenny also smiled and turned to look at An'an, gently stroking her hair.

"Yes, I feel a connection too, and not only does she like me, but I like her too."

Ann heard her say that and happily narrowed her eyes at her like a petulant kitten.

Jenny is almost bleeding from her adorableness!

The old lady was all smiles, "Speaking of which, you've helped us twice and I still don't know your name!"

"Jenny, scenery of scenery, peace of mind."

"Oh, what a lovely name. Miss Jing looks quite young, does she have a boyfriend!"

Jennywaner.

"I'm married."

"Huh?"

The old lady looked surprised, then laughed, "But no wonder, a girl as good as you must have a lot of men like her! I just don't know who's that lucky to marry you."

Jenny Jing had no intention of revealing too much information about Biden Lu to the outside world, so she only smiled, "He's fine, I'm the one who climbed up to him."

"No, no, I see that you have an extraordinary manner of speech and behavior, and a noble bone face, so maybe he's reaching high for you."

Jenny lost his smile, but didn't say anything.

The meal came up quickly, Jenny originally ate to not like to talk, but helplessly the old lady kept looking for her to talk, she could only eat and respond.

"Miss King, for a girl as beautiful as you, your husband must be very nice to you! Are you guys planning on having kids?"

Jenny almost choked on the rice in his mouth, and even drank a mouthful of water, replying, "Not at the moment."

"So!"

I don't know if it was Jenny's illusion, but it always felt like a touch of sadness rose up between the old man's brows after he answered the question.

She felt the atmosphere was a bit awkward and was busy changing the subject.

"By the way, are you traveling to Visterdem alone with Ann? Are there any other family members or friends around?"

She'd heard Ann before.

It was mentioned that she and her great grandmother had come to Visterdem for a visit.

The old man shook his head, "No, it's just us two."

Jenny subconsciously frowned.

"Forgive me for saying something I shouldn't, I don't know Ann's father, but it is indeed a bit too big of a heart for him to let you travel alone with a little child at your age, what if something happens in the middle of this?"

The old man was busy smiling and explaining.

"No, we will be very careful, and there are always many good people in this world, if you really encounter difficulties, you can still ask for help, and this time, didn't you just meet the kind-hearted Miss Jing?"

Jenny looked at the old man's optimistic appearance and tugged at the corners of his lips, not saying anything.

She had already seen too much of the darkness of this world, but she just didn't want to talk about it in front of Ann's face.

The old man seemed to have guessed what she was thinking and sighed helplessly.

"I actually wanted her dad to take her out, but her dad was busy at work and the kid wanted to come out for a spin, so I had to be the wife to take her."

Jenny Jing smiled and said understandingly, "It's been hard for you. But next time, try to be careful, Ann is still young, and if she gets separated again and meets a mugger, it'll be a problem."

The old man nodded repeatedly, "I know that, thank you Miss Jing for reminding me."

Jenny didn't say anything else, and the three of them quickly ate.

After the meal, the old lady took the initiative to pay the bill out of her own pocket.

But after pulling out the money for half a day, it didn't come out, and not only that, the face changed.

"Oh no, I think I dropped my wallet!"

Jenny also changed his face slightly.

"When did it fall, did you feel it?"

The old lady shook her head.

The three of them walked back to the seat they had just been looking for and didn't find it, the old lady was a little short, "Look, this is really embarrassing, I was going to buy you a meal to thank you, but I ended up messing up my wallet..."

Jenny said, "It's okay, it's just a meal, I'll treat you guys to it."

She said, quickly letting the waiter swipe her card to pay the bill.

Then before asking with concern, "Do you need me to accompany you to the police station? There should be important papers in your wallet! If that's the case, I'm just afraid that I'll have to go and lose it first, so that it doesn't fall into someone's hands and cause unnecessary damage."

The old lady even waved her hand.

"No, no, it's just some change, I left my papers at the hotel! And there's nothing important about it, so no need to report it."

Jenny Jing was unable to force the situation, so he could only nod his head.

"It's getting late, so I'll take you back to the hotel."

"Well, that's a problem for Miss King."

Jenny drove the car, escorting an old man and a young woman back to the hotel where they were staying.

Jenny Jing was surprised to discover that they were staying in one of the most luxurious five-star hotels in Visterdem.

She had heard from the old man that Ann's father was very busy at work, even so busy that he didn't have time to take the kids out on trips, and then she thought about the fact that Ann didn't have a mother.

He subconsciously thought that the other person was a person who was tired of running around to make a living, but now that he has seen the hotel where they are staying, he can't help but think that this idea might be a little bit wrong.

But she didn't think much of it, after all, an old man and a child, out safety always comes first, so staying in a fancy hotel is nothing.

Jenny sent them in, but as soon as they reached the door, they were stopped by a hotel staff member.