

Chapter 195

Leon hadn't figured out Chang'e yet!

And who was Hou Yi?

Alyssa felt that she was making things difficult for Leon, so she simply said, "According to the legend, after Hou Yi shot down the extra nine suns in the sky, he got a pill for immortality. Chang'e, his wife, stole the pill. As a result, she lived in the moon. In addition to Chang'e, there was only one rabbit in the moon. It was quite lonely that way."

"Oh ..." Leon responded meaningfully.

Alyssa guessed that Leon still didn't get it.

It was useless for her to tell him more.

Forget it!

She wouldn't explain.

But she was just about to stop talking about the legend when Leon said, "I'm not going to let you go anywhere else. You're not going anywhere but with me."

"Why?"

"What's the use of living forever? There's no point in living alone."

Alyssa froze.

He didn't expect Leon, who had never heard of the legend, to be able to interpret this story so accurately.

Leon was smart.

Alyssa smiled and said, "Yes, Chang'e must be very regretful. But it's okay, that's just a legend. No matter what happens, we will never be separated."

Leon nodded and hugged Alyssa more tightly.

"Leon, I remember that we saw the lavender the last time we were in the hospital. It's getting warmer these days, and it's good for planting lavender. Can we plant some lavender in the yard? You hire a gardener for me and teach me how to plant it. I have nothing else to do these days but study. So I can plant flowers."

"Okay, I'll hire a gardener for you."

Alyssa was very happy. She didn't expect Leon to agree so quickly. She had thought that Leon would not agree.

The next day, Alyssa saw the gardener Leon had hired.

The gardener's name was Leslie Marley, an aunt in her forties.

After introducing herself to Alyssa, she began to tell Alyssa about how lavender was grown.

Alyssa listened very carefully. She even took notes as she listened. Sometimes, she would ask some questions when she didn't understand.

Leslie saw that Alyssa took detailed notes and couldn't help but share some more.

Alyssa immediately began to learn from Leslie about growing lavender.

When Leon came back, he saw a lot of small puddles in the yard, which must be the result of lavender planting.

Alyssa happily told Leon about the lavender she had planted today and Leon listened very carefully.

He had a lot of work to do, but hearing Alyssa's voice, he just couldn't leave and wanted to hear more of Alyssa's voice.

That night, Alyssa slept soundly.

She was awakened by a sudden phone call.

Leon took out the phone before she did. He frowned slightly when he saw that it was Kelly calling.

Alyssa watched Leon frown and asked in a daze, "Who's calling?"

"Kelly!"

Alyssa instantly woke up.

She sat up and held out her hand towards Leon, who knew what Alyssa meant, and immediately answered the phone.

Soon, Kelly's frail voice rang out.

"Alyssa, I want to beg you one thing. Please help me take care of my two children. They are still too young. I'm begging you."

Beep ...

She finished the sentence and hung up the phone.

Alyssa's heart immediately sank. She turned her head to look at Leon and didn't say anything for a long time.

Leon looked at Alyssa and asked softly, "What's wrong?"

"Let's go see her."

"Kelly?"

Alyssa nodded, "I don't know where she is now. She could be in the hospital or at home."

"You wait a minute. I'll arrange for someone to find her first."

"Okay."

Alyssa nodded and leaned into Leon's arms.

Leon called while holding Alyssa. Somehow he suddenly felt that Alyssa was particularly vulnerable at this moment.

She might be too fragile.

Soon, Leon found Kelly's location.

Kelly was at home. But when she was found, she was already dead.

At her side were two children, just over two months old. The children were probably hungry and couldn't stop crying. Their small faces were red from crying. Their mother had died right beside them and they didn't even know it.

When she found that Kelly had passed away, Alyssa's eyes were immediately red.

Leon watched Alyssa cry and said softly, "This happened so fast. I've already had her examined by a doctor. The doctor said it was a sudden cardiac arrest. It was not known when her heartbeat would stop. Do you understand what I mean?"

Alyssa nodded.

She understood that Kelly was going to leave sooner or later.

However, this day came so suddenly.

"I've contacted her ex-husband."

"What did her ex-husband say?"

Leon frowned, "He said he wouldn't come, but I called someone to find him. If he doesn't come, I'll kidnap him. What do you think?"

"What's the use? He doesn't care about Kelly. Nowadays, in this era, there are still people who prefer sons over daughters. Anyway, Kelly's affairs have to be done. He must show up. Kelly still has parents. Did you ... inform her parents?"

"You should not worry about that. I'll have someone take care of this."

Alyssa nodded and hugged Leon, "I suddenly feel uneasy about those two children. I want to go see them."

"No, it's still early in the morning. You didn't sleep well last night. You get some sleep first. You have to wait until you are in good spirits."

It was only just dawn. How could she go out now?

Alyssa nodded. Kelly was dead. No matter what she did now, that fact couldn't be changed. The only thing she couldn't let go of was Kelly's last phone call to her. Kelly asked her to take care of her children. She was just worried about Kelly's children.

When she was alive, she also said she was worried about her children.

Alyssa leaned into Leon's arms and got sleepy.

She had a dream.

She dreamed of Kelly, who told her that she wanted her to take care of her two children.

In this world, Kelly only trusted her. Her parents were old and probably couldn't help her much.

She didn't leave anything when she was alive, even her house was rented. After the divorce, she had a hard time. As long as Alyssa could help her take care of her two children, she would repay her in the next life by doing anything she could.

Alyssa was still looking for Kelly when she woke up.

At this time, she realized that she had a dream.

It was dawn.

She looked out the window at the bright sky.

Life had to go on.

10:30 AM.

Alyssa and Leon went to Kelly's apartment. Just as they approached, they heard a sharp scolding sound coming from the apartment.

As they approached, they saw a woman with a local accent scolding a couple with gray hair.

The man's legs were in bad shape and he was on crutches.

The woman had her head down as if confessing her guilt. From the profile, she looked a bit similar to Kelly.

Alyssa guessed that they should be Kelly's parents. Now, they were being scolded by that woman.

Kelly's parents didn't dare to say anything at all, bowing their heads as if they were confessing.

How could there be so much guilt in this world?

Alyssa walked to that mean woman directly.

"What do you want? Can't you speak nicely?"

"Who are you?" The woman looked at Alyssa and said coldly, "This woman died in my house. That is very unlucky! She must have some awful disease. Otherwise, how could she have died so quickly! How can I rent out my house in the future? If people know that something like this has happened in my house, who will dare to rent my house?"

"What kind of awful disease?"

"AIDS ..."

"You're the one with that fucking disease!" Alyssa cursed for the first time, "You're a fucking profit-oriented bitch, you're not even human! They've already lost their daughter. She is their only daughter. Kelly never wanted to be a problem for anyone. She's dead now. How can you say that? I'm telling you, Kelly is sick. She is a clean woman. Don't you ever sully Kelly with your dirty mouth again!"

Kelly was dead!

She was dead!

Why would she still insult such a poor woman?

Alyssa felt bad for Kelly.

"Hey, how do I know exactly how she died? She probably just caught a dirty disease to die! You guys hurry up and take her stuff away! Also, you are not allowed to hold funerals in my house. It's too unlucky. If I can't get a tenant, it's all because of this woman. She's a real bitch."

The landlord was angry about Kelly's death here.

She had to do something to get her money back.

She looked at Alyssa and said coldly, "You and Kelly are friends, aren't you? Since you're speaking for her, why don't you rent this house?"

"You ..."

Leon heard the landlord's words, walked up to the landlord, and immediately said, "How much is your house."

"You can't afford it. Let me tell you ..."

"Shut up!"

Leon immediately took out a check, filled out a million, and handed it to the woman.

The woman looked at the one million yuan check and froze!

Leon said coldly, "Get out!"

The woman looked up at Leon and found that the man's gaze was cold, so she nodded and said, "I'll leave right away."

The woman took the check and turned around to leave.

With money, everything was fine.

Alyssa looked at Leon, "You gave her too much money."

"Her voice is too loud."

Alyssa understood what Leon meant.

She walked to Kelly's parents, "Uncle, Aunt, I'm Kelly's friend. My name is Alyssa. Kelly's funeral will be held here. We're not going anywhere."

Kelly's parents heard Alyssa's words and nodded their heads and knelt on the ground.

Alyssa hurriedly squatted down and pulled them up, "What are you doing? Get up!"

To be continued