

Chapter 207

Thirteen hours later.

Alyssa sat in the car and looked out the window.

The houses here were all distinctive and the small villas were unique. It could be seen that each house was built according to their own ideas. These houses did not seem to be arranged in a very orderly manner but very distinctive.

"That looks good ..." Alyssa pointed at the small red building outside and couldn't help but admire it, "This house looks European with a little Chinese style. These two styles should be incongruous when blended, but it looks pretty nice."

Alyssa thought that its design was ingenious.

The designer blended something that couldn't be blended together, and it was so artistic.

"I think it looks good, too. That one is nice too, you see?"

"Well, that one looks good too."

The villa Leon pointed to was simple and grand.

Alyssa spent the whole way admiring the local architecture of Country F and noticed that there were not many people on the street, "I heard that there is not much population here."

"Yes, this country has very few resources, so it is quite stable. Also because of this, there are not many employment opportunities for young people. So many people leave here and go out to find jobs."

"Well, it looks that way. But this city looks beautiful, and it's nice to stay here."

"We can stay here longer if you like. You didn't feel well on the plane before. Are you much better now?"

Alyssa shook her head, "No, I'm just hungry. I have a sudden urge to eat."

She felt very hungry now.

Leon was happy to hear Alyssa say she wanted to eat. He immediately asked the cook to make the food.

The whole dining room smelled delicious.

Alyssa wanted to go straight over, but Leon hurriedly stopped her and took her to wash her hands as usual. After washing her hands, he took her to eat.

The table.

Alyssa saw the meat.

She immediately began to gorge herself.

"Slow down."

Watching Alyssa eat with sauce all over her mouth, Leon hurriedly handed her a tissue. But he did not expect Alyssa not to accept the tissue but also threw it aside.

Leon was not angry and continued to watch her eat.

The phrase "wolf down" was probably not an overstatement to describe the way she was eating at this moment.

Leon couldn't help but smile at this thought.

She finally had a full meal.

Alyssa was in a much better mood.

Leon went to take care of his work, and she walked around the courtyard. The climate here was quite nice. The cook was not a local but had lived here for a while. The cook told Alyssa that the climate here was really good. There was not much change in the weather throughout the year. But Country F was not an important transportation hub and was located in the south of the world, so the population here was naturally small.

Only in the past two years, Country F's Four Seasons Castle had gained some fame.

Because of more people coming here, Country F became a little more prosperous.

Alyssa really didn't see many cars when she went to the entrance.

The population here was really small. It seemed that the economic situation here was also not very good.

But even she knew that there was a Four Seasons Castle here, so she believed that this place would soon become famous.

Alyssa thought that she could make an investment. When she returned to the room, she began to plan her market research and investment.

With the plan in mind, Alyssa took Leon out for a few days.

A week later, Alyssa had written a complete report.

Leon finished reading Alyssa's plan and then looked at Alyssa.

Alyssa smiled and said, "I just think that the lake near Four Seasons Castle can be developed. I've been doing market research for a while, and I think the lake is the one with the least investment and the greatest return. You can help me see if there are any problems."

Leon began to read carefully.

Seeing the end of the report, he nodded, "Your plan is good."

"I'm going to get this done in three days."

"Three days?"

Leon was surprised.

He didn't think Alyssa would be able to finish it in three days.

Alyssa, however, was confident, "I have confidence in this matter. Before, I have checked the owner of this lake. His name is John. Because of gambling debts, he can only hide. I've already found him, and I'm going to negotiate with him tomorrow."

"So soon?"

Leon was surprised.

They were together every day these days. He had never seen Alyssa alone. How did she find John?

"Our cook told me. I was a little suspicious at first because John is a rich man and he shouldn't turn into a beggar. But our cook said he hadn't been around for a long time. She also told me a lot of legends about that rich man. I searched the news about him on the Internet out of curiosity. I saw his picture on the Internet. Do you remember that we always pass a low house with no windows these days?"

"I remember that."

"That's John sitting in front of that low house with no windows. He has a $30 million gambling debt and no money to pay it."

Leon smiled. He looked at Alyssa with admiration flashing in his eyes.

No wonder she always dragged him past that low house recently. It turned out that she did it to make sure John was there.

This girl was smarter than he thought.

He looked at Alyssa and smiled. Then he said softly, "Alyssa, $30 million is a lot of money. Do you have that much money?"

Alyssa shook her head.

How could she have that much money!

Before, she did make a fortune at Citic.

But it was only enough to cover her expenses.

She had never asked the Grahams for money, nor had she ever asked Leon for money. Both Hunter Group and Graham Group gave her bonuses at the end of the year, but she wasn't going to use that money.

Leon got curious when he watched Alyssa shake her head.

"You don't have the money to get John to say yes to your demands. That lake isn't even yours yet."

"Although I don't have money, I found the reason why John lost the gambling. John loves gambling and I can play a game with him."

Leon laughed at her words, "I'll transfer you a hundred million immediately. Your project is wonderful. I'll invest it. You handle the registration. You don't have to worry about the rest, okay?"

Alyssa came closer to Leon and nestled in Leon's arms. She smiled at Leon and said, "I know you have money, but this thing can't be solved by money. I can really work it out on my own."

"Do you know how to gamble?"

Alyssa shook her head, but she looked at Leon and smiled, "I understand human nature!"

There were times when humanity was more important than gambling.

Alyssa saw Leon's puzzled face and said softly, "Leon, trust me."

"I'd like to trust you. But you have a big belly now and your legs are swollen. Why did you suddenly want to do investment? Actually, you don't have to be so tired at all. You just need to wait for your delivery in peace."

Leon hugged Alyssa.

He wanted her to wait for delivery peacefully.

But she just didn't listen to him.

Seeing that she was all prepared, he couldn't bear to refuse her to go to John.

She was very smart. Investing in that lake would be profitable in the future.

Although Four Seasons Castle was not yet very popular, it had gradually been known.

In less than six months, it would be profitable to invest in that lake.

"Leon, I will be very busy in the next few days. I need to finish this thing. If you don't trust me, you can arrange some bodyguards for me, okay?"

"Okay, I'll send a couple of bodyguards to protect you."

Since Alyssa said so.

It would be somewhat inappropriate for him to refuse Alyssa.

Anyway, she had bodyguards around her. If anything happened, they would inform him first.

The next day.

Alyssa went to see John.

John thought that Alyssa came to collect the debt.

He tried to hide from Alyssa as soon as he saw her.

Alyssa threw a contract directly at John.

She opened the contract in front of John and said, "As soon as you sign, I will tell you exactly how you lost. The gambling games you participated in had tricks."

John couldn't help but laugh at Alyssa's words. He sat in the corner as if he had lost his mind, "I've already lost my family. I don't believe you. You're lying. Besides, I've already mortgaged the lake. The deed to that lake doesn't belong to me now."

Alyssa looked at John and smiled. She bent down, came up to John, and pulled John up who was skinny quickly.

The moment John was pulled up, he looked at Alyssa in panic. At that moment, he suddenly panicked.

"You ..."

"I've investigated you thoroughly before coming here. You still want to lie to me? That lake is your ancestral property, so you can't mortgage it. John, I can find you, and your debtors can surely find you too. When the time comes, they will also come to you for that lake to pay off their debts. You read my contract carefully. If you sign a contract with me, I can help you solve your debt problem and give you five percent of the shares. If the tourist area becomes big, making money is a sure thing!"

John was also a businessman before he broke down.

There was no need for Alyssa to say more. John must understand the situation. Alyssa was not worried that John would not agree to the contract.

Sure enough.

John pondered.

John looked at the contract carefully. After a moment of hesitation, he looked up at Alyssa, "Can you really help me get out of my gambling debt?"

"Of course!"

Alyssa nodded.

"If that lake can really make money after development, do you really agree to give me five percent of the shares?"

"You have to read the premise clearly. Ninety-five percent is all mine." Looking at John's scruffy and greedy appearance, Alyssa subconsciously stepped back, "You must read the contract. I'll only give you five percent and the rest is mine. As soon as you sign, I'll get a local lawyer to handle the process. It will be too late for you to regret."

The percentage of shares and other additional conditions were all in the contract.

John didn't need to ask any more questions, just read the contract carefully.

Finally, John signed.

Alyssa picked up the two contracts, turned around, and left.