

Love At First Night

Chapter 210

Frank asked coldly, "How is it?"

Gary flashed a look at Frank. He thought, "What do you mean? Should I tell the truth?" He sighed in his mind. Gary thought, "I'm so stupid! Ann is here, so naturally, I shouldn't tell the truth." "She's not Mrs. Chaney's daughter." Gary pretended to look at Frank with a disappointed expression. "Are you sure?" Frank frowned and looked at Gary. He gave Gary a big thumbs up in his mind. Gary said, "Frank, I'm sorry. You have to continue to go back and have nightmares. If you are lucky, Jodie will definitely go to your dreams and tell you where she is, then you can find her quickly. Ann was relieved when she heard what Gary said. She looked at Frank gratefully and said with a sad face, "Frank, are you looking for Jodie? So many years have passed, but we still don't know where she is." "You don't have to worry about where she is. You can go back now!" Frank's tone was cold and he looked at Ann coldly. He hated Ann very much. "Okay! I'll leave now." After getting a satisfactory answer, Ann felt very happy.

She thought, "Frank, you've been disappointed again and again. You should have given up finding her, right?"

She has been dead for many years. It's impossible for you to find her."

"Gary, why are you here too?" Marilyn came back at this time. Gary smiled at Marilyn and said, "Mrs. Chaney, I'm here to work overtime. If I don't work overtime, Frank will fire me."

Marilyn smiled in agreement and looked at Frank with a worried face, saying, "Yes. He is dedicated to his work. He even can't look after himself well." It seemed that Frank had never been happy since Mila left and Jodie was lost. Marilyn knew that Frank was very pitiful.

Therefore, she had never blamed Frank for accidentally losing Jodie.

Marilyn didn't like Gina because Gina had destroyed Frank's warm home. However, the Taylor Group and the Chaney family had a cooperative relationship, and they were neighbors. Therefore, Marilyn had to deal with Gina even though she disliked Gina very much

Marilyn clearly knew that the people who maintained their marriage for the sake of responsibility were acting every day like actors. Those people could not even express their feelings at will. Marilyn felt that the Taylors must be very tired. At least, she and Collin loved each other. Ann smiled at Frank and said in a sweet voice, "Frank, Gary, we will be leaving now." Frank didn't even raise his head. He was still sitting there with a cold expression on his face.

This time, Gary watched Marilyn and Ann enter the elevator before he closed the office door. Back in the office, Gary sat down on the sofa and took a deep breath. He felt very tired.

Gary sighed

He tugged at his tie and gasped for breath, his chest heaving.
