

Chapter 212

Leon didn't think he was that great. It was entirely because he liked Alyssa and wanted to see Alyssa happy that he said that.

Alyssa looked into Leon's eyes and smiled gently, "There is probably no one in this world who can be more direct than you. But you just know how to move me."

"Andrea and Jacey should take a rest. Are you going to disturb their rest here?"

"I don't want to disturb their rest."

"Then let's go."

Leon pulled Alyssa outside.

The children were asleep, and they needed to rest too.

But Alyssa's eyes were fixed on the two children. She didn't look like she wanted to go at all.

This girl seemed quite smart before, but now why couldn't she see that he wanted to pull her to rest.

The two children finally fell asleep. Leon thought it was time for Alyssa to go back, but he had a feeling that Alyssa still didn't want to go back.

Sure enough, Alyssa, who had just been dragged out, went straight to the bunnies' room.

Leon had to follow Alyssa to check on the bunnies.

Alyssa watched the bunnies for a while before she went back to the room.

In the bedroom.

Alyssa could see Leon's unhappiness and asked softly, "What are you upset about? I feel like you're upset."

"Of course, I'm upset."

"Why?"

"You came back and went to see the kids, then the rabbits, then your belly for a long time, but you didn't even look at me!"

"I just spent more time looking at the kids and the rabbits. I just praised you before, and now you're throwing a tantrum. In fact, you don't have to feel upset. We've always been together before, haven't we?"

"That's true!"

"So what are you getting upset about? Hurry up and go to bed! We have a lot of work to do tomorrow!"

Leon tried to speak, but Alyssa stopped him directly.

With a strong pull, she pulled him straight to the bed.

With the lights off, the room was dark.

Alyssa was about to close her eyes and go to sleep when Leon suddenly came towards her and hugged her tightly from her front.

"What are you doing?"

"Isn't it obvious? I just want to hold you. Before, you were so busy, and you didn't have time to talk to me. Now you should have enough time! I don't want anything else. I just want to hug you."

Leon spoke with great resignation.

Alyssa felt quite sorry when she heard Leon's voice.

She took the initiative to hug Leon and whispered in Leon's ear, "It's all my fault. I neglected you. I'm sorry, okay?"

"I don't want to hear your apology. Just let me hug you."

"Hmm."

Alyssa moved closer to Leon and felt Leon's tightening arms as she finally realized that she had neglected him. She took his hand as she said, "You're holding too tight, loosen up a little."

"No, I just want to hold you like this. It's the only way I can feel your warmth."

Alyssa felt warm and didn't want to say anything.

She was so tired that she yawned and soon fell asleep in Leon's arms.

Leon still wanted to talk to Alyssa, but when he looked down, he realized that Alyssa had fallen asleep.

Leon smiled and kissed her forehead.

He closed his eyes. Under the influence of Alyssa's deep sleep, he soon fell asleep as well.

Early the next morning.

Alyssa and Leon woke up almost at the same time.

"Why are you up so early?"

"I'm going to see the last traffic officer. We agreed before, didn't we? I'm going to check on Kelly's mom's car accident. Besides, Kelly's mom's funeral has to be done. I want to do it decently. What about you? Why are you up so early too? We come back in secret. Grandpa doesn't know yet. Why don't you take this opportunity to have some sleep?"

"I have a lot of things to take care of, just like you. Grandpa knew that you and I were back last night. He sent me a message yesterday, asking me to see him early this morning. I guess it's time to deal with Colton."

"Good, then let's each do our own thing."

"Okay." Leon nodded and got up to wash up. Looking at Alyssa, he said softly, "You must call me in time if anything happens to you. Don't take it on yourself, okay?"

"Got it. Even if I want to, my body won't allow it."

"Yes."

Alyssa's belly was bigger than before.

But her waist was still thin, her arms and legs weren't thick, and only her belly looked much bigger.

It seemed that it was time for Alyssa's maternity checkup. Leon said softly, "It's time for you to have your checkup. It's just as well we're back. I'll take you to the hospital in a few days to see how the children and you are doing."

"Okay!"

"Good girl."

Alyssa smiled.

Ten o'clock in the morning.

Alyssa saw the driver who hit Ruby through the police.

This driver looked very timid. When he saw Alyssa, he even dodged back.

Alyssa's face looked very grim. She quickly said, "Who asked you to do this? Say, who is the person behind you?"

The driver looked at Alyssa nervously and didn't say a word.

Alyssa picked up the file on the table and slapped it directly in front of him, making a loud noise.

The driver heard the sound and lowered his head, still not saying anything.

"It's okay if you remain silent. But once I find any evidence, you can't deny it!" Alyssa stood up. As she walked to the door, she said, "I heard that you used to work in a scientific research institute and were an intellectual. Later, for some reason, you were forced to leave your job. It was because your son was sick and needed a lot of money, right? If I check your accounts, I'm sure I can find out something!"

"You ..."

"The woman you hit and killed has two newborn granddaughters. Just a short time ago, the grandfather of the two children was in a car accident and their mother died of an illness. You killed those two children's only family member. Now how do those two children live in the future?"

"I ..."

"What if your son dies?"

"Nonsense! My son will not die. I will pay for his life extension."

"In your eyes, your son's life is more important than anyone else's, isn't it?"

"That's not what I meant."

"But that's what you did!" Alyssa looked at the driver, "You love your child so much! Wouldn't your child be miserable if he didn't have you?"

The driver's mind instantly went to the image of his son being kicked out of the hospital.

He looked up at Alyssa with guilt all over his face, "I'm sorry, I ... just wanted to make money. Since you know that my child needs money, you should know that there's really nothing I can do. I didn't mean to."

"Then who exactly was it that made you do this?"

"I can't say. Otherwise, I won't get the money."

"If you're locked up here for the rest of your life, who cares about your son?" Alyssa came up to the driver, her eyes flashing with pain and hate, "Two children lost their only family because of you. Do you know that those two children are now orphans because of you? You didn't just kill a person, you killed the future of two children. You ... you are not just a murderer. You destroyed the good souls of human beings. You shouldn't be a human being at all!"

"I'll tell you about that man. That man's name is Kyle. What do you want to know? I'll tell you everything."

The man finished, clutching his head in pain and trembling with fear.

Alyssa heard the man's words and stopped, "Now that you're willing to talk, you can talk to the police! Your sentence might be reduced."

"Okay, I'll tell them all."

Alyssa walked outside. The voices inside quickly disappeared with the sound of the door closing.

She couldn't hear the voices inside but felt relieved. With this driver's accusation, Kyle couldn't deny it.

He would soon be brought to justice.

By bringing Tony and Ruby's killers to justice, she would be able to explain everything to Kelly and her two children.

The Hunters' old house.

Kevin looked at Leon, "Since you decided to do it here, of course, I support you. It's good to have you back. This way, I'm relieved. Before, during the time you left, I was so worried."

"Grandpa, if it goes well, Colton won't come to us in the future, but there will also be accidents."

"I know."

"Don't worry. I'll try to keep the accidents to the minimum."

"Okay."

Kevin's old eyes fell on Leon's body. He smiled at Leon, "Why didn't Alyssa come with you today? How about Alyssa's condition now? Does she have any discomfort? You have to be nice to Alyssa. The most important thing for you is to take good care of her."

"Alyssa is fine. She didn't come over today because she had something to do. She'll be here when she's done."

"That's good." Kevin nodded and looked at Leon, "I heard that you and Alyssa adopted two kids. What happened?"

"Their families are gone. Their mother is a friend of Alyssa's."

"I see. It's good to be kind. Alyssa is a good girl, no wonder you like her. I didn't think she was good enough for you before. Now it looks that she is totally perfect for you."

Kevin found another good thing about Alyssa through this, kindness!

Leon smiled and said, "She's actually very simple. That's why she was so easily tricked before and left a bad reputation. But in fact, she's a very nice girl."

"Then why don't you go back? Are you going to stay here and wait for your nice girl to call for you?"

"Then I'm going back."

"Go home!"

Kevin didn't want to keep Leon, and he was glad to see his grandson back safely.

It turned out that he was right. Leon was not a child anymore. He could protect himself and take care of everything.

Leon was watched as soon as he left the old house.

The people who were watching him were Colton's people.

This was something he had expected.

Colton was in A City, so there were still his eyes here.

He let them follow him on purpose.

He drove away, and the car behind him soon followed his car.
