

Love At First Night

Chapter 213

interesting..." Gary smiled and continued, "Frank, I have never seen you smile like this since we know each other. It's beautiful." Frank looked at him, raised his eyebrows slightly, and explained patiently, "Gary, you don't understand. Judy gives me a lot of happiness, so strong that I want her so much. She only b That was true. She had always belonged to him.

They met each other under such circumstances seven years ago and had a baby, a representation of their love.

But at that time, he didn't recognize her. He really regretted it. She had to suffer for seven years! He thought, "Judy, I will make it up for you for the rest of my life." The soft wind blew in from the window, very comfortable.

Frank was brimming with happiness, very relaxing. Judith said goodbye to Adam after dinner and then headed back home. The yellowish street lamp was on her face, on which there was an innocent smile. It was a smile that no one could look away from when they saw it. The simple suit fully showed her graceful shape. Lucas looked up and found that lights in many houses were on.

The night sky was very bright tonight. Now the lights of thousands of houses answered the stars in the sky.

He glanced at his mother and saw her bright face. He also smiled and said, "Mom, you are very happy whenever you are with Uncle Adam."

He found that Judith's smile was very warm, just like the rising sun, which could warm his body.

People found their anger disappear when they saw her smile. Uncle Adam told him that Judith's smile was very infectious and could give people positive energy.

Judith smiled and nodded. "Lucas, in my entire life, the people I owe the most are Adam and Alissa. They are the ones who have contributed to our happy life. You must remember this when you grow up." Lucas nodded, "Mom, don't worry. You have always told us that we need to be grateful. The three of us will remember their kindness."

Judith smiled and nodded. They chatted all the way home. "Lucas, it's the weekend tomorrow. I don't need to work. I'll show you the new house. I like it very much."

"Mom, is the money enough?" Lucas was a little worried.

Judith frowned, thought for a moment, and said, "Lucas, don't worry. I will check it in the bank tomorrow. If it is not enough, we can get a loan first. I will work hard and pay it back in a few years," "OK!" Lucas nodded. Eric said that he had made enough money over the past six months, but it seemed that Judith had not checked it. Frank had walked on the road several times to completely suppress the excitement in his heart. He then took a shower before going to see Judith and Lucas. Now he was standing at the door of Judith's apartment, with a lot of things he had bought. He frowned slightly when hearing their conversation.

The housing prices in Mayfield had always been high. But how could he help Judy? Judith had just reached the fifth floor when she looked up and saw Frank standing at the door of her house. The dim light at the top of the stairs didn't hide the domineering aura from his tall figure. The corners of his mouth curled into a warm smile as he quietly looked at them.

She was very surprised and asked, "Mr. Taylor, why are you here?"
