

Chapter 237

Jenny was stunned and looked up at him.

But I saw that his eyes were deep and serious, and there was a faint ring of crow's feet under his eye sockets, so it was obvious that he hadn't slept well last night and was worried about working all day today, so his whole body looked a bit tired.

Her heart softened, even as she felt a little guilty.

I was busy explaining, "I'm sorry, but this time it was really my fault for not thinking things through. I won't be so reckless next time!"

The man raised an eyebrow, "There will be a next time?"

Jenny: "....."

She reached out to tug at the man's sleeve, but she couldn't, as her own hand was wrapped in a bear paw, so she couldn't tug at it, so she had to rub against his arm next to her.

"There won't be a next time, so don't be mad."

"You promise?"

"I promise!"

"What if?"

Jenny Jing thought about it, and seriously said, "If there is a next time, feel free to punish me however you want, I have no complaints whatsoever."

The man's face softened a little at that, and he reached out and nudged her little nose.

"Next time, I'll chain you up and take you with me every day, and you won't go anywhere but by my side!"

Jenny nodded incessantly, "Fine, fine, you're in charge."

Knowing in her heart how much he cared for her and how scared she was of being hurt, she was willing to do anything he asked.

If love is a shackle, let her be chained!

She was willing to be locked up for the rest of her life and never come out.

Her good and obedient appearance pleasing the man, Biden Lu's eyes finally showed a few hints of laughter and asked, "Are you hungry yet?"

It was good that he didn't mention it, but when he did, Jenny really felt a little hungry.

After all, she hadn't eaten anything all day since last night.

Even nodded.

The man went out and gave his orders, and a few minutes later, some food was brought over.

She couldn't hold the spoon in her hand, so she just let him feed it.

Considering how weak she is right now, the man had all the liquid food, porridge, and chicken soup bought.

Feeding her, he was extremely patient, scooping it up with a spoon and putting it on his lips to cool it before bringing it into her mouth.

Jenny leaned on the bed head, at first a little embarrassed, but his own two hands are useless, can only cover up that embarrassment, good food.

The man's eyes deepened as he watched that pink mouth drink down the porridge from the spoon.

"How does it taste? Are you used to eating it?"

Jenny nodded, "It's quite delicious, did you buy it from Eight Treasures?"

"Well."

Knowing that she would most likely be hungry when she woke up, she had already sent someone to the Eight Treasures House to buy food, and kept it warm outside, just waiting for her to wake up and bring it in.

Jenny's eyes were a little shiny, perhaps because of the joy of being reborn after the robbery, or perhaps the satisfaction of the food's fruitfulness.

She suddenly leaned forward and k*ssed him on the cheek, saying sweetly, "Biden Lu, you're so nice."

The man's eyes were dark, his breathing slightly heavy.

"Just now?"

"No, I already knew that."

Her glittering eyes glittered with wry light, and the man chuckled softly, suddenly pressing the back of her head and k*ssing his thin lips against hers.

His lips were still slightly cool, with a crisp breath that belonged solely to him, and Jenny didn't resist, quietly allowing him to k*ss her.

At first the man was able to taste it superficially, but the girl tasted so beautiful that kssing and kssing had some tendency to stop.

Until there was a sudden bang at the door.

Cough.

Jenny reacted first, staring with wide eyes and a small blush, pushing the man away in a row.

The push, and forgetting his injured hand, the movement pulled at the wound and hissed softly in pain.

The man's eyes were dark.

The eyes swept coldly towards the door.

Standing in the doorway, Vicky looked aggrieved.

He didn't do it on purpose! Who knew you two were k*ssing in there with the door open? Besides, didn't the president say to come in and report as soon as there was news?

But he didn't dare say any of those words.

I could only grudgingly say, "President, we found the car where they kidnapped the wife."

Jenny was slightly stunned at the news.

Just heard Biden Lu say, "Then what are you waiting for? It's directly at the disposal of the police."

Vicky answered yes and was about to turn around and leave, but was suddenly stopped by Jenny Jing.

"Wait!"

She braced herself to sit up and said, "Don't dispose of it yet, hold off on this for a while."

In the meantime, Biden Lu looked at her, "You have other ideas?"

"Well." Jenny nodded, "I wasn't saved from her by you personally after all, if she dies and refuses to admit it, even if she calls the police, as long as there's no evidence she's capable of getting herself off the hook, the worst that can happen is that she'll push a scapegoat out in the end."

Biden Lu sneered, "If you really want to condemn her, she hasn't got the stamina to get out of it!"

Jenny pursed her lips.

"But if you use strong power to suppress it, eventually there will always be people who will be disgruntled, and when things get big, maybe even involve the land family, you need to know that public opinion is sometimes the best weapon against power."

Biden Lu was slightly silent.

Indeed, having reached such a position as the Lu family, sometimes it could already be said that there were no enemies.

But there is an invisible constraint, and that is the power of public opinion.

No one, no one, wants their family to be thrown into the dirt.

Jenny laughed, "So, I have a better idea."

"What's the solution?"

She smiled a little.

"I'm going to make her, herself, tell me the evil she once committed against me!"

.....

That afternoon, it was unknown who had gotten the news that Jenny had been kidnapped and was now missing, and it was quickly released to the top, setting off an uproar.

The news wasn't just an idle rumor, and it didn't take long for Starflight Studios' official blog to release a statement proving that the news was true.

But at the same time, we hope that Friends will not continue to speculate or spread wildly so as not to affect the police case.

The official blog of the Visterdem police also reprinted the ruff, while calling on people to report any clues anonymously, but if the information is true, there will be a big prize.

The incident quickly caused a stir on the, #Jenny kidnapped # hot search quickly butchered the charts, occupying major headlines.

Lin Shufan and Nina Hua and the others were also very worried after they found out.

Nina Hua was so anxious that she went directly to Biden Lu, and didn't know where she found the phone number, after Biden Lu received it, it was not good to explain more, just said Jenny was fine and hung up.

Nina Hua was a little confused at first, but then thought about it carefully and reacted sharply.

I'll go!Jenny's got a trap rhythm going on here!

Knowing that she was fine, Nina Hua was relieved, and since she was going to pit people against each other, of course she moved to the bench to watch the show, so there was no rush.

Biden Lu gave the police side a shout out, because there was no hiding the fact that the police were there when the rescue took place.

So, just a little bit of work on how to catch the killer and get him to ambush the law.

Chapter 238

Jenny didn't know what method he had used to convince those people to keep the news that they had found him to themselves for the time being.

But now that the negotiations have been made clear, her side naturally can't drop the ball.

So that night, while no one was around late at night, Jenny Jing had Mo Nan give himself a simple disguise, and then he quietly left the hospital and returned to Lu Yuan while the night was dark and windy.

Naturally, Biden Lu was fine with it, the injuries on Jenny Jing's body weren't serious, not to mention that there were doctors at home, whose medical skills weren't worse than those in the hospital.

When he got home, he sent most of the maids away and gave them a week's vacation, leaving only Aunt Liu and the other maid in charge of the kitchen for the long term.

Aunt Liu didn't know about their plan, but she wasn't a nosy person, so she didn't dare ask if Biden Lu didn't say anything.

Rumors were swirling outside about Jenny's kidnapping.

Everyone is wondering who the person who kidnapped her is and what their intentions are.

There's talk of offending people at work and jealousy of her seeing her so hot out of the gate.

Others say that it might be because of feelings.

After all, in just a few months' time, the matter about Jenny's feelings had been on several hot searches, of which the confusion was so confusing that it was really hard to see clearly.

But in short, no matter what anyone out there says, there is a unanimous expression of an attitude.

That's being curious and sympathetic to her.

After all, whoever it was, this was just a short time ago, and this is what happened.

It would be a pity if something happened to him, wouldn't it?

It's strange, though, that with all the speculation on it, there's no one to speculate that it was Clara who did it.

It is really the past in front of people to create a simple and weak image is too deep in the heart, even if the past year frequently burst scandals, but most people also just think that she may not be as gentle and simple as usual in front of the camera, as for the kidnapping? That's never going to happen.

Until the next night, when a well-known entertainment v suddenly popped up with a recording.

The recording was long, nearly ten minutes in total, and the voice was distorted, but it could still be heard, I think.

To the Lord details how it was ordered by Clara to frame Jenny Jing.

Not only secretly filming her, but also drugging her and director Lin Shufan's meals and drinks with the intention of trying to frame them for a female affair.

Not only that, but the recording talks about a few little things that happened inside the set.

For example, deliberately paying off the staff who put out the box lunches to give Jenny the worst box lunches.

As well as knowing that they are on their period, they only prepare cold drinks, and when they ask for hot drinks, they say that there is no hot water in the power outage there.

It's just a few insignificant little things, but everything adds up to enough to be disgusting.

The recording shocked the entire pink circle when it was released.

None of the friends expected that the seemingly gentle, polite, and kind and gentle Clara would actually do so many bullying and horrible things.

Especially the drugging thing, which Jenny had even clarified in an interview before, but fewer people believed her at the time.

Now that it's blown up by another person, the credibility will naturally improve.

But spare a thought, there are still many who question the authenticity of that recording.

After all, a recording is no better than a video, and we don't know who said it, so if there is a real desire to frame someone, wouldn't it be okay for anyone to come out and say a paragraph?

This

It started with a small group of people, gradually expanded, and then more and more people voiced their doubts, especially King's fans, who demanded that the owner of the recording come out and confront him face to face.

As a result, that afternoon, a girl named Aoi came forward and admitted that she was the owner of the recording.

Aoi is Kyouya's life assistant and has been with her for several years, as many of Kyouya's fans know.

Because before, whenever there was a meeting or going to pick up the plane, she could almost always be seen following Clara.

So there are actually a lot of people who know her.

At this point, seeing that it was actually her who stepped forward, one by one they were all shocked.

Not only were these youkai surprised, but even Jenny, who was staying home in seclusion for the past two days, was surprised.

She had asked Mo Nan to bring Aoi here before, but only to get evidence from her that Clara had set her up, and didn't think much else.

She knew that Aoi was so loyal to Kyouya because of her mother's illness.

So, as a condition of the deal, it was also promised to treat her mother.

But other than that, the two didn't interact much.

Jenny Jing had even had his voice changed to keep her out of this matter.

It's just that I'm afraid the recording will come out later and she'll be recognized and it will affect her normal life.

But unexpectedly, now she has come forward on her own accord!

Jenny was shocked and ran to watch the video of Aoi being interviewed.

The little girl had a baby face, and although she wasn't particularly pretty, she was considered to have a clean look, and had the feeling of a small family.

She looked at the camera and said seriously, word by word, "At first, because of my mother's illness, I chose to let Clara do whatever she wanted and made many mistakes, I hereby apologize to Jenny Jing and the vast number of you who were deceived.

I came forward today because at the most critical moment, Clara abandoned me and instead, Jenny Jing, who I had hurt, came up with the money to save my mother's life.

So, even though after today, there may be a lot of name-calling and possible criminal liability, I will willingly come forward.

My mother said that although we're poor, we can't owe people favors, and if we do, we must pay them back, although I don't know if Clara did the kidnapping this time, but I can at least give everyone an explanation for what happened before."

The little girl in the video had firm eyes, a serious face, and no sign of cowardice, unlike the little Aoi she had seen before.

Jenny leaned back in the sofa and sighed helplessly.

Biden Lu just brought up a bowl of fruit, saw her sighing at the computer, walked over, forked a piece of cantaloupe and passed it into her mouth.

"What are you looking at? Why are you sighing?"

Jenny tilted the screen to show him the video he'd just tapped again.

Biden Lu finished reading and was silent for a moment.

It took a moment before he said, "The little girl is young, but quite spirited."

Jenny nodded and sighed again, "It's just a pity that she underestimated the power of public opinion and power."

A person like Clara might not even be as good as an ant in front of Biden Lu.

But in front of Aoi, it was like a mountain of existence.

She could almost decide Aoi's future and life if she wanted to.

Sometimes life is just so unfair, and the adult world, where the weak are the strong, is always cruel.

Chapter 239

Biden Lu naturally thought of this and said in a deep voice, "Since she dared to come forward, she should have understood that there would be such a consequence, she has done so much wrong to you before, and now that she is willing to make amends like this, she can be considered asking for mercy."

Although Jenny was upset, she also knew that Biden Lu was right, so she didn't say anything else.

That video of Aoi's spread quickly, and before long, it was all over the place.

Naturally, Clara also saw the video and was shocked and angry!

She never would have thought that when Aoi disappeared, she was actually captured by Jenny.

When Shang was on a crusade against Jenny Jing, she hadn't come out with evidence to prove her innocence, and Clara had gotten away with thinking that maybe Aoi's disappearance had nothing to do with her.

Now it seems that she is just holding back a big trick, the so-called hitting the snake with seven inches, she's trying to completely screw herself to death.

Clara was in a panic, and that recording from before was enough to have a big impact on her.

Plus now that her ex-assistant has come out to prove it, with her nose in the air, who will people believe in the end?

Damn it! That b*tch!

Clara was so anxious at home that she immediately looked for Tong Shu to discuss the strategy with her.

Tong Shu was also helpless, she had seen artists who could get into trouble, but she had never seen an artist who could get into trouble this much.

Every time I didn't get anything done, I lost my wife and my army every time.

Instead of counting others, they folded themselves in.

She didn't know what to say all at once, but it was just very dumb anyway.

Seeing that Clara was as anxious as an ant on a hot pot, she thought about it and said, "There's no way to avoid this matter, since Jenny Jing has been able to keep Aoi until now, there might be some other evidence on hand.

The more we deny it, the harder it will be to answer later when she produces evidence, so we might as well just admit it.

After all, your fan base is there, and when the time comes, let's just say there was a little friction between the sisters in the family and you were momentarily obsessed with doing something like this.

Then give Jenny an apology in front of the whole, it won't completely fix the situation, but at least it won't make it any worse, and so far, it's the best way to do it."

Clara stared at her, incredulous.

"Tong Shu, I called you over here so you could find a way to excuse me! You didn't tell me to go apologize to her!

If I can apologize, then why do I need you? Wouldn't I just go out and talk to the media myself and be done with it?"

Tong Shu frowned.

"So what do you want to do?"

"Of course, get someone to suppress the message, and all those videos and recordings! Delete them all!"

Tong Shu looked as if she had fallen into madness and sighed helplessly.

"The videos and recordings have been so widely disseminated that there's no point in suppressing them now, even if we spend a lot of money to keep them down.

Those who should have known better, would have known by now that the Friends are not stupid, and that such a hot topic was suppressed all at once, and anyone can see that you paid to deliberately withdraw it.

At that time, people will only think that you made a mistake with a tough mouth and refused to admit it, but also played the audience as a fool, and then your impression of you will only get worse, do you really want this result?"

Clara watched her calmly say this pile of words, only to feel as if the last straw in her heart had also been taken away, ton

When there was no bottom.

"Child, I can't just stand out and apologize, if I stand out now, my comeback will hit the bottom again before it even begins.

Grandmother wouldn't want to see this happen, neither would Mom and Dad, and Brother Azawa, Fenghua Entertainment has invested so much money in me that he won't let me go if I really lose it all!"

Tonshu looked at her and frowned tightly.

"But..."

"Go find Jenny!"

Clara suddenly thought of something, widened her pupils, grabbed Tong Shu's hand and said urgently, "Go find her, ask her what she wants, I'll give her whatever she wants, as long as she comes out to help me clarify that these are all fake! You go get her!"

Tong Shu was in a bit of a dilemma.

"Is this going to work? After all, this time it's..."

"It must be possible!" Clara sneered, "You don't understand that woman, she's a lover of money, she was willing to put up with me and Brother Azawa for money before, and then she'd rather carry the dirty water on herself for shares.

So, this one will be no exception, and she'll do anything as long as enough money is paid!"

Tong Shu was still a little puzzled.

"But didn't the rumors say she'd been kidnapped? It hasn't been found yet, where am I going to find her?"

"Bullshit! She's already been saved back!"

As soon as this was said, Clara realized that she had missed her words and shut her mouth without turning pale.

However, Tong Shu had already heard her and couldn't believe it.

"What do you mean, Maya? How did you know she'd been rescued? Did this kidnapping..."

"I didn't! Not me! Don't be ridiculous!"

Clara was busy denying it, yet the eyes that kept flickering had already leaked out her guilty conscience.

Tong Shu simply felt like he was about to collapse.

"Maya, are you crazy? How could you do such a thing? Do you know that if this comes out, it's not just your reputation that will be damaged, it's breaking the law, and you might have to go to jail, do you understand what that means?"

Clara snorted lightly.

"It didn't kill her, did it? They say that a thousand years of misfortune is a legacy, she has a great life, and now that she has escaped on her own, even if she wants to sue me later, what makes her say that I kidnapped her?"

When Tong Shu heard her say that, something flashed in her mind and she asked, "So have you disposed of those things yet?"

Clara nodded.

"Don't you worry! I'm not so stupid as to put the handle there for her to take, she left on the front foot and I took care of all the traces on the back foot, and even if she goes back, there's no evidence that I kidnapped her."

Tong Shu was only slightly relieved by this, but still felt that Clara was a bit too bold nowadays.

"In this matter, you'd better find Mu Shao to give an account, although you said that you've completely disposed of the traces, but there's no guarantee that there'll be any more basket cases in the back, so it's better to say hello first, just in case there's really something to deal with."

King, face stiff and slightly uncomfortable.

"No, I can make my own decisions about this, don't worry! No need to tell him."

"Really? Are you sure?"

"I'm sure." Clara was a little impatient, "Okay, I didn't come here today to talk to you about this, so you should quickly think of a way to see how you can help me put this down."
