

My One In A Million Wife Chapter 301

That made Ashlyn seem like an annoying, arrogant, pretentious, and vainglorious woman who liked showing off and had also put her parents to shame.

Ashlyn shot a glance at Penelope, who was feeling smug that she had exposed her step-sister. With a frosty glint in her eyes, Ashlyn said nonchalantly, "I never knew that you were so eager for me to start work."

Penelope let out a scornful snort, "It's too bad, you can't get a job."

Ashlyn twisted her lips into an unfathomable smile and there was an icy look in her crescent eyes which also exuded an inexplicable sense of haughtiness. "Don't worry about that, Mr. Haddock will come and beg me eventually."

"Ashlyn, are you daydreaming? Did you just say Mr. Haddock was gonna beg?" Penelope burst out laughing as if that was the funniest joke she had ever heard.

Horace and Mary were both ashen-faced.

None of them uttered a word.

Ashlyn looked at that family with an ambiguous smirk on her face and turned her back towards them.

She had already told them. It was up to them to choose whether to believe her or not.

turned around and was her tracks and cast a sharp glance towards laughed nervously, "It's just the of discomfort which crossed his face and said coldly, "If it's really the nanny, why are you looking with a forced quickly! That was the one thing Mary did not say out obvious that the couple was hiding something from a poker face and remained unfazed as she said, "Since the nanny is not feeling well and Penelope is a nurse, why don't we get Penelope to go upstairs and check yourself over such a trivial matter," Horace said quickly and continued, "Penelope had already treated corners of Ashlyn's mouth curved upwards as she said that. "Can I know what medicine did instructed her previously. The nanny isn't ill at all, not let Ashlyn glance which Mary had cast towards her. They had some chemistry as mother and daughter serious and there's phlegm in her throat. Based on my preliminary other three Berrys and was about out what exactly was it that enough to stop her, "What's there for you to see? She's just a scared of that," Ashlyn