

My One In A Million Wife Chapter 303

He typed a message in the gang's group chat right away, "Guys, time to have some fun with Berry Furnishings! C'mon everyone!"

Meanwhile, the ambulance had already arrived at the Berry Residence. The head of the emergency department, Dr. McCoy, had personally led a team of doctors and nurses there.

The group of medical personnel dashed into the Berry Residence and asked, "Dr. Berry, where's the patient?"

"In the attic," Ashlyn replied.

"I'll carry her down, I'll go, you guys can just wait here," Horace offered with a guilty conscience. It would be really embarrassing if these people saw the situation in the attic.

"That's right. We are already feel bad enough that we have to call you guys to come all the way here. Let us go get her instead," Mary added.

Dr. McCoy noticed the grim look on Ashlyn's face and figured out at once that something unpleasant must have happened.

Without another word, he charged upstairs with his medical team swiftly. When Dr. McCoy saw the scene in the attic, he couldn't help but frown.

At the same time, he cast a contemptuous gaze at the Berrys and was unable to fathom how anyone could be so cruel.

Penelope stood rooted to the floor and was plunged into icy fear. Her colleagues had all seen this, that her grandma was staying in the attic of her big house...
