

Chapter 374

Gina wondered if Mila had died or gone abroad since there were no news of Mila for the past six or seven years. Mila might not come back again for the sake of the safety of Frank and her daughter. Gina thought that it was Mila's weakness and incompetence that had allowed Gina to take her place. That was why she had successfully stolen Carlo and became Mrs. Taylor. "Eliza, call the family doctor for Gina," Carlo instructed. "OK!" Eliza nodded as she let go of Gina's arm and turned to make the call. As for Carlo, he helped Gina back to her room. Frank got into the car with burning anger. After he got in, he glanced at the second floor of the villa with an extremely cold gaze. Gary also quickly got into the car and started the engine to leave immediately. Frank did not want to stay any longer here! After he got the car on the road, Gary couldn't bear it anymore but complained. "Frank, no wonder you were unwilling to go home when you were young. We all know that you have had a hard time. I just didn't expect it would be so uneasy!" Gary looked at Frank through the rear-view mirror and felt deeply sorry for Frank when he came to see Frank's gloomy face.

Every time when Frank was going back to the Taylor's villa, he was unwilling to bring his friends with him. Now that Gary had followed him back, he didn't refuse Gary.

He was just back to pick up some things and was about to leave soon, so he did not expect such a thing to happen. Frank leaned his head against the back of the seat. His eyes were slightly closed, and his face was full of coldness. There seemed to be a hint of exhaustion in his eyes. His jaw trembled slightly. "Frank, are you really going to keep enduring like this? Maybe Gina also doesn't have Mila's whereabouts." Gary couldn't help but ask. He couldn't wait to give Gina a lesson! However, Frank was still scruple because of Mila. Frank remained in the same position and did not speak.

"Frank, if you want Mila to live safe and sound, follow my instructions. If you make me angry, none of you will live." Gina's vicious words echoed in Frank's mind.

"She knows!" Frank suddenly said in a hoarse voice.

His company had just gotten on the right track these two years. He now had the ability to find Mila! Right now, they were also doing their best to investigate. Frank believed that there would be news soon! Gary almost stepped on the brakes. "Frank, have you never told your father about these?" "He doesn't believe it!" This sentence made Gary speechless and sad.

He had seen what happened today. Carlo had always thought that Frank was particularly rebellious and did not listen to him. He had always had a prejudice against Frank. "Damn it!" Gary angrily cursed. "Gary, we've already found Jodie. Next, use all our connections to secretly search for Mila's whereabouts. "I will also remind Kathleen not to return home recently.

"Kathleen has been looking for Mila these years, but she has never been able to find her.

"Every year, Mila would send me a gift, but I couldn't find the address. Every time we got an address, we failed to find her there. I suspect that someone was secretly helping Mila, but it wasn't Gina. She wouldn't be able to erase all Mila's tracks."
