

Chapter 3796

"It is about me." It is a bit wronged.

"It's about you?" George Han asked.

It nodded: "Yes, my father."

George Han frowned slightly, thinking about it carefully, it seems that there are still some strange things undecided.

It makes sense that the dragon ants have not been born, and they can still be irrigated with no dragon power, so that they cannot awaken themselves.

So what about fire? !

How can this be explained?

Yes, although the queen ant obviously has fire, but George Han has contact with her after all, but she always only has this attribute, far from how powerful firepower.

Not to mention, it's still just an egg dragon ant.

Even if it inherits the fire nature of ants, it doesn't need to be so exaggerated and perverted, right?

Secondly, there is a detail that further proves this point.

Even if George Han made a misjudgment, even if the dragon ant not only inherited the fire genus from the ant, but also changed the firepower it inherited through the blessing of the dragon gene, but one thing is certain.

Fire should always be it, right?

But the problem is precisely here. When George Han pulled it, the flames around him suddenly intensified. However, this flame only burned George Han, but it even burned the eggs at that time.

This is where the problem lies.

How can you burn yourself with your own fire?

Isn't this bullshit?

Therefore, both results show that there is no problem with George Han's judgment.

Dragon ants are dragon ants, and fire is fire.

"What the hell is going on?" George Han looked at it and said anxiously.

Dragon Ant shook his head, then lowered his head and looked at his body: "Father, look at my stomach."

Looking at it,

George Han could easily see the abnormality in the middle of the little earthworm. red dot.

“What is that?” George Han asked.

“I don’t know, since I existed, I have this thing in my stomach.” The little earthworm said: “It’s strange, it has been dissipating heat and burning fire.”

“You mean...” George Han Suddenly, the frown became even tighter: “The fire around here, including the fire inside the egg, is all from it?” The little earthworm nodded obediently: “Yes, my father.”

!

Enough bullshit, but everything is in line with the signs around.

“Can’t you control it?” George Han asked.

“Not only can it be uncontrollable, but as long as I have a little luck, it will go into a rage, just now... just because my father wanted to take me away, I resisted a little bit of luck, and it... ignited

.”

“But now there is no one around . Fire, and you don’t need to resist, I will take you away directly, and it will not happen, so is it okay?” George Han asked, “Why do you say you can’t leave?” “My father In order to protect the child, he was swallowed up by the fire and was almost burned to charcoal. Although the child did not grow up, he knew the kindness of his parents. Therefore, when the child was born, seeing your father was in danger, so the child was also with you. At the critical moment of being burned, luck exerted its force and opened an energy shield on your chest, protecting your heart.”

“Although you were injured externally, you were protected by the baby, so you did not die. After the baby is completely born, you will quickly go to your chest again to release energy, heal your body, and let you recover...”

“In other words, The baby was born, the body of the dragon ant has been formed, and the energy in the body is naturally very high, but to save you... I used at least half of it.”

“What about the remaining half?” George Han seemed to perceive the problem and asked softly. road.

“I used it to suppress this thing in my body.” After it finished speaking, it looked down at it: “Under my suppression, although it can’t release more fire, I can feel it, and I’m about to be unable to suppress it. It’s gone, its temperature is already extremely high.”

“So, if your father wants to take me out of here, I’m afraid... I will...”

“The flames burst out again.” After the words were finished, the little dragon ant lowered his head, It seems to be very guilty, very self-blame, and even... a little inferior.

George Han did not speak, nor did he choose to leave. Instead, he walked a few steps to the side of the little dragon ant, squatted behind him, and looked at the fiery red object in its body...

At this sight, George Han frowned. Tighter...

Chapter 3797

seems that it is a stone-like thing.

George Han suddenly had a very absurd guess in his mind, and even wanted to laugh at himself, wouldn't this be the stone of a little dragon ant?

However, a joke is a joke, George Han is still more confused, what kind of thing is this.

It exists in its body, but the huge firepower it emits seems to be completely out of the control of the little dragon ants.

Maybe if it was in the past, George Han could at least break his head here and couldn't think of a reason.

But now, George Han quickly had some speculative answers.

Although not necessarily accurate, it is indeed an extremely likely existence.

In this case, you can use it to do the same and a similar thing as Heaven's Qiongqi.

That is to say, they did not originally belong to the body they came out of, they just lived there because of some coincidence or reason.

This point can also be perfectly explained with some situations today.

That being the case, George Han had a bold idea.

"I want to give it a try." George Han looked at the little dragon ants. The little dragon ant asked in confusion: "What do you want to try, my father?"

"I want to try that thing in your body. Maybe there is some danger, would you like it?"

What is hatched, naturally, the children will obey what Father Father says. If Father Father wants to try, just try it."

With its consent, George Han directly said nothing, pulled out the little Chaos power left in his body, circled around in the heart of the Dragon Clan, and then mixed the power inside into one, and hit him directly with one palm. on the body of the little dragon ant.

The heart of the dragon family has dragon power, so letting it wrap the power of chaos, in George Han's opinion, should be the most suitable method for the little dragon ants.

At the same time, it is also the most suitable force that does not cause rejection in its body.

Sure enough, with this force entering the body of the little dragon ant, there is nothing unusual about the little dragon ant, which at least fully shows that George Han's prediction is correct.

In the next second, in order to prevent accidents from happening, just like Zi Qing at the beginning, this power directly wrapped the stone while it was not paying attention after it entered.

After that, the power of Chaos went straight to the small stone like a scalpel.

“Damn, it’s really a stone.” George Han couldn’t help but muttered.

Moreover, as the little dragon ants said, the temperature of this stone is indeed abnormally high, and it is still generating high temperature from the inside.

Like a bomb about to explode, it can trigger sky-high energy at any time.

Therefore, it is indeed no exaggeration for the little dragon ants to say that they cannot move for the time being.

However, George Han quickly discovered something strange during his exploration.

That is, the previous joke seems to be really not just a joke, but...

true!

It is actually tightly connected to the inside of the body of the little dragon ant by a very fine meridian.

However, George Han believes that the meaning of this meridian’s existence is definitely not to survive by absorbing the nutrients of the dragon ants.

Therefore, there can only be one result, and that is to rely on it for some kind of energy absorption!

It’s really the same thing as the original Qiongqi.

Therefore, if you want to prevent it from detonating, you should cut off the connection between them in time. So even if it wants to explode again without energy support, to what extent can it explode?

At least it should be manageable.

Thinking of this, George Han opened his mouth slightly: “I want to help you take it out of the body, do you agree?”

“The child belongs to the father. Whatever the father says, that’s how it is.” .

He thought about it a little to himself, in fact, George Han is really nothing, but his answer so obediently made George Han guilty for a while...

However, if it is not removed, the little dragon ants can only stay here. .

Therefore, George Han still decided that even if it is very dangerous and there may be any unpredictable consequences, he will still choose to do it.

purpose, all for one.

leave here.

“This may be dangerous to some extent, but don’t worry, I will be by your side and face you together.”

“Father, come on.” After the words were finished, Xiaolongyi closed his eyes.

George Han also nodded, gritted his teeth, directly increased his strength, and moved his hands...