

Catch Me If You Love Me

Chapter 43

The garage was originally Gu's garage. After Lydia Lin married her father, it was forced to change it into a storage room. Zoey Gu later learned that it was actually Lydia Lin's "little vault."

Soon, the man opened the door of the storage room and flashed in, even boldly turning on a small light.

She squatted in the faint light and turned over the cabinets. Even wearing a hat and a mask, Zoey Gu still saw Lydia Lin's familiar face and back.

Only Lydia Lin would risk looking back home at this time for money.

Zoey Gu gritted his teeth and stood behind the window with his fists clenched, trying to rush out to bite her neck countless times in his heart, drink her blood and eat her meat!

But she held it back.

Lydia Lin cannot redeem her death, but the simple way of death is too cheap for her!

The next second, she lowered the curtains, opened the door in the dark and walked out. But for a moment, the figure disappeared into the dark night.

The people in the storage room were looking for things excitedly, and they didn't even hear any movement outside.

Soon, she turned off the lights, and with some effort carrying a bag full of Dangdang, she sneaked out, seeing nothing around her, she ran out of the door.

As a result, as soon as I left the door of Gu's house, I only heard a "pop" in my ear, and a strong car high beam instantly hit the woman's face.

The woman shook all over, suddenly raised her hand to cover her eyes, struggling to see where the light source came from.

But instantly met Zoey Gu's deadly scarlet eyes.

"what!"

The woman screamed as if she had seen a ghost, her body shook abruptly, and the things she was carrying fell to the ground, and instantly rolled to the ground.

She turned around without thinking, and rushed to the ground, scrambling to pick up things on the ground.

Sure enough, it is the master who wants money without life.

Zoey Gu laughed coldly, his hands on the steering wheel tightened quickly, and the accelerator under his feet stepped on to the end...

The woman picked up the thing and turned around, and the car had bumped into it without hesitation.

Seeing that she was about to be unable to escape the fate of being hit, the car stopped abruptly a few centimeters from her knee.

The woman's legs trembled and she collapsed softly. Just after regaining consciousness, I heard the sound of restarting the engine again, and I crawled to the side of the road with my hands and feet scared.

"Ah-help, Zoey Gu is going to kill someone!"

When the voice fell, the car ran into it again, but stopped at the moment it was about to hit her.

Hit, stop.

Hit, stop.

So repeatedly.

Zoey Gu in the car seemed to be deliberate, chasing after the woman all the way, watching her scrambling to the ground and screaming, all the things in her hand fell on the ground, and the floor was covered with debris.

It wasn't until she finally lost the strength to shout, and crawled to the bridge not far away with her hands and feet, and the car finally stopped.

There was no strength to escape.

Zoey Gu looked at the figure outside the car with satisfaction.

Married into Gu's family for many years, she has been hurt by her father. When has Lydia Lin, who is elegant and exquisite, ever so embarrassed?

She squeezed her face tightly, and icy blood burst into her eyes with a trace of water vapor, started the engine, and stepped on the accelerator again.

This is Qiaotou.

It fell and was washed downstream, straight into the sea below.

When my father and younger brother died in the sea, she was going to send this vicious woman Lydia Lin down in the same way to make them apologize!

As for her, she already has nothing, so why not lose it again? !

The next second, the car made a huge roar, and rushed out like a sword again...

“what!!”

The woman who had already climbed the bridge screamed desperately, but she was so frightened that her legs were soft and she couldn't get up at all, she could only shake her head frantically over and over again.

“I am not, I am not...”

She even tried to reach for the mask on her face...