

Catch Me If You Love Me

Chapter 50

“Just ask why you came in! If you don’t have any rules, you dare to come in this room and look for death!”

When the voice fell, a girl with a slightly younger grade suddenly jumped up, and rushed towards Zoey Gu.

She couldn’t help but grabbed Zoey Gu’s hair, raised her hand and struck down...

In the next second, she suddenly met a pair of icy eyes, dark as a pool of death.

Zoey Gu raised his head, looking at the girl calmly.

“I suffered all the hardships outside at a high price because I made the wrong choice and made an unforgivable mistake. But I have never known you, and I will never be slapped by you for no reason.”

She bit each word clearly.

It was obviously a weak body, but his eyes were like a cold arrow, and the whole body exuded an aggressive cold light.

“Don’t believe me, you can try!”

There is a kind of aura of breaking the boat and seeing death as home.

The fierce girl who was still opening her teeth and dancing her claws a moment ago suddenly stiffened her hand and looked at people not far away with some hesitation.

The older women among the few chuckled lightly, and then said something.

“Let go, little girl. Didn’t you see? She is different from those soft buns, she doesn’t eat yours.”

After the woman finished speaking, she looked at Zoey Gu again, with a slight smile on her face but did not reach the bottom of her eyes, she raised her hand and patted her side.

“You are young, but it looks like a story. Tell me? If you listen well, you will get along well in the future. If you are not going well, you will have a hard time in the future.”

Zoey Gu gritted his teeth and slowly stood up while leaning on the wall.

I don't know which words of the woman pierced her heart, making her nose sore inexplicably, and tears almost fell.

For so many years, she was too depressed and too desperate, facing a group of strangers, suddenly no scruples.

"Want to hear the story? Good."

After she finished speaking, she smiled suddenly, raised her hand and opened her clothes, revealing the arm full of pinholes.

"The story begins with the man I love, and my blood..."

Early in the morning, Anna Yun went into Liam Lu's ward carrying a thermos.

Opening the door, Liam Lu was not awake yet, Shiyue stood by.

Seeing Anna Yun coming in, he took the initiative to get up and said something to Anna Yun in a low voice.

"Ms. Yun, Liam wakes up once in the middle, and even specifically tells me. If you come, let you go back. You don't need to stay here forever."

Anna Yun glanced at the bed, frowned and asked softly.

"Liam, have you asked about anything else?"

Shiyue shook his head.

After Zoey Gu disappeared, Liam never asked about it. Apart from reading the financial news and resting in bed every day, he was not anxious even to disconnect from the outside world.

Thinking of this, Shiyue felt a little frustrated inexplicably.

Anna Yun furrowed his eyebrows deeper, staring at Liam Lu, who was facing his back and breathing evenly, and lowered his eyes.

"Then you take good care of him, and I will come back when he wakes up."

Shiyue nodded and sent away Anna Yun, closing the door, turning around, but met a pair of Sen's cold eyes.

His hand slipped and the thermos barrel almost fell out.

He looked up again, and his voice became unstable inexplicably.

"Lu, Liam, when did you wake up? Miss Yun just came to give you food, she..."

“Shiyue.” Liam Lu interrupted him.

He slowly got up and leaned against the head of the bed, squinted his eyes and stared at him, curled his lips and said meaningfully.

“Some opportunities, if they are missed, there will be no more.”
