

Chapter 510

But in the end, Liu Ming gave her some time to adjust, and about the time she adjusted her condition, the actress was clearly much smoother when she shot again immediately afterwards.

A scene finally went off without a hitch.

Evelin was afraid that she might be mentally burdened and walked over to her, smiling, "Sister Yu'er, you acted quite well just now, don't stress."

Liu Yu'er looked at her in a complicated manner, her face not showing the gratitude it should normally show.

Instead, he said nonchalantly, "I'm not stressed."

After saying that, he turned coldly and walked away.

Evelin was cold and touchy, a little embarrassed and bewildered.

But she didn't think much of it, only that Liu Yu'er had lost face in front of her seniors, and at the moment some you can't pull it off.

After a short break in the middle, we quickly moved on to the next shot.

It was an action scene, also still with her and Ryu Yul.

Evelin's character discovers that her female counterpart, played by Ryu Yu'er, is an enemy spy, so they have a fight.

During the fight and a half, she would stab Ryu Yul'er with her sword and she would flee with her injuries.

Of course, the moves are all pre-set and don't really hurt anyone, they're just borrowed positions.

"One shot at a time, action!"

With Liu Ming's order, the crew quieted down and everyone's eyes focused on the two outstanding looking actresses.

Evelin was not dissatisfied with her makeup today, except for the fact that her costume was a bit too big for her movements.

But the good thing is that she's been practicing her set of moves before, so she should be fine.

As long as Ryuu'er could actively cooperate with her later, she believed she should be able to pass on one.

Unfortunately, the only person who held such thoughts was Evelin.

Ryu Yu'er, who was acting opposite her, didn't look at her at all during the opposite scene, and I don't know if it was just her, but there was always something wrong with Ryu'er's state of mind.

Her eyes suddenly became shady, as if a hardened poisonous snake was spitting out letters, and at first it was only moderately to continue the shooting of the fight scene, who knows that a new situation soon emerged.

Both of them held prop swords in their hands, and even the unbladed swords were not light in weight in their hands.

Some of the stabbing scenes in costume dramas were filmed through mismatches, and Evelin was planning to stab her under the big sleeve just like the trick she had learned earlier.

Willow would then quickly cover her armpits and then clip through the pack of blood that had been placed there earlier, thus creating the illusion that she had stabbed her.

Yet, suddenly, I saw Willow Yuer laughing coldly.

Immediately after that, he actually completely ignored the moves he had set up before, and directly side stepped his body to pounce on Evelin's sword.

In a hurry Evelin had to withdraw her sword, but Rao could still feel that she had stabbed the other party.

With a soft "poof" sound, the sword sliced through flesh, bringing up a hint of fishy red blood.

I heard a scream, and then I heard someone scream around me.

"Willow Jade, are you okay?"

"She's hurt."

Evelin was stunned, she was clearly stabbing at her just now as she had agreed to do, but in the end, not only did Liu Yu'er not cooperate, she even banged into her sword.

Because of the angle of the shot, to an observer, the scene is not only not

It was Ryo Yu'er's fault, rather it was caused by her own lack of business skills.

Her face sank a little.

And beside her, Willow Yuer looked at her before she fell to the ground with a frown on her brow, pretending to be injured and pale.

"How are you doing, Willow Yule?"

"Sister Jade, where's the injury?"

Willow smiled weakly at the staff, "I'm fine, a little scratch, it's not a problem."

Still unsure, everyone checked her over and found that it was indeed just a small cut on her arm, not too serious.

After all, it was an unbladed sword and not sharp enough to cause limited damage.

But Rao still had already gone quickly to notify someone to bring over first aid kits to stop the bleeding with a simple bandage before sending them to the hospital.

On the other hand, Liu Ming was also shocked by the change.

With a gloomy face, he said angrily, "What's the matter with you guys, haven't you been rehearsing for half a day already? You can't even film a simple fight scene like this?"

The second half of Liu Ming's sentence was directed at Evelin, and the favoritism towards Liu Yu'er could be seen by anyone whose eyes were not blind.

"Director I can explain..."

Evelin's words were suddenly interrupted by Liu Yu'er, who paled and stood up with her arms covered, looking disappointed.

"Evelin, I know you hate me for slowing down your filming schedule before, but I didn't do it on purpose, so even if you're angry, there's no need for you to do it so hard, right?"

Evelin frowned.

Before she could say anything, however, she saw Willow Yuer pick up another self-deprecating laugh.

"I'm not self-conscious either, but when you said a couple of nice things for me just now, I really thought you were thinking of me and remembering our old relationship, I was naive.

But Evelin, whether you want to play the generous and considerate person in front of other people or you really have a personal problem with me, you shouldn't stab people with a sword, it doesn't matter if I'm hurt, what if I delay the filming?"

Not only did she cleverly deflect the anger of the crowd, but she also acted as if she had nothing to do with the incident.

Liu Ming became even angrier after hearing Liu Yu'er's words, he had gone to great lengths to get sponsors to serve these pampered actors, and now he had to deal with all this chicken-and-egg stuff on the set.

His face was so dark as to be indistinguishable from the bottom of a pot, and Evelin was completely stunned.

It never occurred to me that the senior in my heart who had helped me would one day use this despicable technique to trap me.

But just a little thought, and then a joint of all the things that had happened since she had entered the group, and she understood approximately what was going on.

Not even a glance was thrown at her anymore, but instead she turned to Liu Ming.

She just wanted to see what the director would say.

The staff at the back can't help but whisper, we all know that the relationship between the actresses is not good, and the news about them stepping on each other is uneven, but there are only a few who tear their faces off in public.

Ryu Yu'er's assistant had already attentively helped her to the chair, the wound was much better after treatment, only oozing a bit of blood, it didn't seem to be a problem.

In the face of the director's anger, Evelin reported silence.

It's not that she's afraid to tell the truth, but Ryu Yul has the upper hand for now and she's watching for the director's reaction.

"Keep your mouths shut, all of you, and make a lot of noise thinking this is a market?"

Chapter 511

Liu Ming impatiently yelled loudly, then looked coldly at Evelin.

"The idea of pretending to be a good guy on the set is a pretty good one on your part only the means aren't very clever."

Evelin raised her eyebrows.

This time, it was finally clear what Liu Ming's attitude towards her was.

Without having to look back, she could hear the rest of the people talking about themselves, and they had reason to believe the facts they were seeing, thus not thinking in detail about what need Evelin had to target Liu Yu'er.

The most important thing is that even the director Liu Ming has now concluded that he has a good mind, and in order to set up a person, he first helps Liu Yu'er to speak, and then takes revenge on her in private with a communiqué.

She smirked and looked down at the sword on the ground, picking it up in her hand with ease.

"It was indeed my mistake earlier, wasn't the scene not finished yet, now go on."

Liu Ming was stunned, looking at the gorgeous actress in front of him in surprise.

"Continue?"

"Yeah, I thought we didn't want to delay the progress. Then go on ah, I think Senior Willow's injury is just a little flesh wound, so it shouldn't affect the filming."

Willow didn't expect her reaction to be so calm.

So calm that it's as if, it never happened at all.

Not only her, but everyone else watching this scene also looked at each other, not understanding what kind of medicine Evelin Kang was selling.

In the end, it was Liu Ming who frowned and said with dissatisfaction, "It's noon, everyone go eat first, and this scene will be shot in the afternoon."

The director's voice was as pleasant as heavenly music, and we all breathed a sigh of relief.

Liu Yu'er sat peacefully on the lounge chair that was resting, her eyes purposefully sweeping over Evelin, and no one but the assistant who was close by could see the sneer in her eyes.

In order that the afternoon shooting scene wouldn't be too awkward, Evelin thought once in her mind and walked to Liu Yu'er's side.

Not far away, the field and camera crews were perking up their ears, as if they would miss a big scene if they weren't paying attention.

"What are you still coming over here for, the director has given his word."

When you look at the calm look on Evelin's face Liu Yu'er is actually a little bottomless, she has long forgotten the complacency she had when she framed Evelin, she just didn't dare to look directly at it.

"I came here to apologize for what I just did, and since we're shooting together we have to be cooperative, I'm sorry."

Evelin's voice didn't sound forced at all, but it made Liu Yu'er sound like she was on pins and needles.

"Okay I get it."

The right side of her face twitched in an unnatural way, and the cargo smile was worse than the cry.

Evelin gave her a deep look, then smiled and left without saying anything more.

Rather, Liu Yu'er, who was coping with such an attitude from her, was somehow starting to feel a bit demoralized.

The crew put out lunch, and the assistant soon brought lunch for Evelin.

Just come over here and don't look too good.

Evelin knew about the reason why, the assistant, Emotion, was a straightforward person, and usually couldn't quite listen to those gossip gossips about her.

Hearing gossip from the crew now, you'd be furious.

Sure enough, she saw her carefully observing Evelin's face, and then she said in aggravation, "Sister Luoyao, that Liu Yu'er is obviously giving you a hard time, why are you still holding back! That's the kind of guy who lives.

Should play supporting roles for life."

Evelin gave her a faint glance, then said in a soft voice, "Don't say that, it was my own carelessness."

The crew is full of people, Evelin has to hide her true emotions, in fact, her heart is like a mirror, some words are not good to say to the straightforward assistant, she remembered to beware of Liu Yuyer on the line.

When Little Emotion saw this, she couldn't say anything more, so she could only leave her mouth open and walked away to eat as well.

After picking up the mood, it was soon another round of intense shooting, during which Evelin was interrupted several times by Liu Yu'er's rhythm, because the other party's lines were not up to par Evelin ng at least five times.

Liu Ming's face became increasingly ugly, and by seven or eight o'clock in the afternoon even Liu Yu'er herself was embarrassed.

She offered to take a break to adjust her mindset, the reason used naturally still a little tingling in her arm.

Evelin sat silently on the arbor and waited, with two makeup artists whispering gossip behind her.

"They say that female number one and female number two are enemies seems to be true, that Evelin is especially good at playing a big game, it's fine to be late for the start-up banquet, and her business ability is not good either."

"I knew she had to have a background, considering how beautiful she is..."

Evelin couldn't listen to a word of the next words, and she abruptly got up and walked quickly towards the studio.

As soon as I walked out, I saw Little Emotion slumped across the distance, only to complain when she came forward, "Sister Evelin, just now I went over to get what we needed, but the people just wouldn't give it to me after all the excuses."

"Liu Yu'er's assistant can get it, but it's just not for me, Miss Evelin, I really want to go over there..."

Seeing that her assistant was on her side, Evelin didn't say anything, she just smoothed down her assistant's shredded hair and whispered to her, "It's probably going to be like this for the next few days, just bear with it for a while and let it go."

"But..."

The assistant didn't want to quarrel with the staff, but the more she thought about how someone as nice as Evelin would also be treated unfairly, her heart was as bitter as if she was stuffed with yellow sage.

Evelin used her eyes to signal her assistant to be at ease, she believed that she could always read people's minds after a long time, and as for Liu Yu'er's little trick was not long to play.

In the evening, Liu Ming announced that he was leaving work early today, and the whole group who had worked hard all day smiled.

Liu Yu'er purposely distanced herself from the others, and she pretended to graciously approach Evelin's side.

The assistant came over with an arrow to separate her from Evelin and said fiercely to her, "What are you still coming over here for, to pick a fight again?"

"Why? What do you think I am, I'm just trying to tell her to make sure she gets a good shot tomorrow."

Ryu Yu'er disgustedly patted the sleeve of her shirt that was touched by her assistant and toed away on her heels.

Behind her the assistant blushed a small red face, she had never seen such a shameless person.

"Well, it's enough that we do our own thing."

Evelin pulled her assistant to her side like a big sister, and everyone who passed by them saw the scene just now and didn't even dare to breathe in the face of Evelin.

Though she didn't want to admit it, Evelin did take a bit of a hit and put a professional smile back on her face, saying to herself that it was okay, that the storm would always pass.

The next morning Evelin's faith was shaken by a small accident: her relative of the month had come.

There was a twinge of pain in her abdomen, and soon Evelin's forehead was filled with beads of sweat, and her assistant was shocked when she came over to see it.

Chapter 512

"Miss Evelin, why don't I go get you some medicine, or take a leave of absence from the director?"

It seems like the medicine bought last month was in Evelin's bag, yet Emotion didn't find it at all when she went to look for it.

Evelin looked at her anxious look and shook her head.

"I'm fine."

She braced herself to stand up and sit in front of the makeup mirror with a fury on her face.

"Just help me with a thermos of hot water later, no need to make a sound."

Emotion looked at her pale face and tried to stop talking, but in the end, she nodded her head.

It didn't take long for the rest of the cast to come in.

There weren't many dressing rooms, and we were all a few people crammed into one room.

Because of yesterday's incident, everyone had more or less some opinions about Evelin, but they just didn't dare to show it due to her female lead actress status and her rising curiosity in the circle over the past two years.

But Rao, the sense of rejection and isolation that naturally flowed from it made Emotion keenly aware of it.

She pulled down her face and was about to attack, but her sleeve was tugged silently.

Upon lowering her head, she saw that Evelin was shaking her head gently at herself.

Emotion had no choice but to stop, and went out in exasperation to call a makeup artist to do her makeup.

Not far away, Willow Yuer saw this scene and a dark mane crossed her eyes.

It didn't take long for the makeup artist to come in and do her hair, it was eight o'clock in the morning and Evelin saw that it was about time and went out.

The notice indicates that today was originally filmed as a cultural drama.

Evelin didn't worry too much about it, after all, although her body was not feeling well, but it was still relatively easy to act in a literary drama, not to mention that it wasn't too intense, and she didn't even need to have too many emotional turmoil, so it wasn't a problem.

However, it was only on the set that we learned that the actor she was playing opposite was suddenly seriously ill today and had to take a leave of absence.

Liu Ming saw her and waved at her.

Evelin walked over.

"There's a temporary change in today's scene, the indoor scene can't be filmed, so let's change it to this outdoor water scene, you'll go get ready later and let Wufei set the moves for you."

Evelin was stunned, looking at the script in Liu Ming's hand, a little confused.

"Director Liu, but..."

Liu Ming frowned and gave her an unpleasant look.

"Xiao Zhou acute gastroenteritis hospitalized, now the crew to catch up with the schedule, not so much time to spend with here, you do not give me advice, anyway, this water play sooner or later to shoot, just today the weather is not cold, I'm also for your sake, understand?"

Evelin bit her lip, and half-heartedly nodded her head in the end.

"Understood, thank you Director Liu."

Liu Ming waved his hand and she went down to get ready.

Emotion was shocked to learn that she was going to do that water scene.

"Sister Evelin, you can't go into the water ah, you're already not feeling well, what if this is going to happen?"

Evelin sighed.

"Emotion, go get me some cotton buds."

"Sister Evelin."

"Don't say it."

When Evelin interrupted her, the little love stomped her foot and turned to run to the lounge.

After Evelin finds Wu Finger and learns the set of tricks that she had prepared before, the actor she was filming water scenes with takes his place.

Self-employed crew members came to set her up with Weah and started shooting.

It was another fight.

There are a lot of fight scenes in the script itself, and naturally Evelin, the female lead, has even more, at least 40 percent of which are fight scenes.

If it had been a normal day, she would have been able to handle it.

But I'm really sick today, and even if I try my best, it's hard to get the effect the director wants.

"Cut!"

Liu Ming frowned taking his eyes off the screen and looking at the two men hanging over the pond.

"What's the matter with you, Evelin? Didn't eat this morning or something? You don't even have the strength to raise your sword, how can you still look like a female general like this?"

Evelin pursed her lips, knowing that he didn't mean to embarrass himself because his performance today was truly poor, and could only say, "One more, I'll try my best."

Liu Ming didn't say anything at this point and sat down again in a huff.

The call to start was renewed, and the two men set up and started shooting.

The plot requires the two to fight for a while before Kang Loyo, who is a woman, is stabbed and falls into the water.

It's only late fall, but it's already cold, and while the sun was good today, the temperature is actually still a bit low.

The water is just a little wild pond out there with duckweed and weeds and everything.

After a few rounds of fighting, Evelin was soon “stabbed” and fell into the water with a scream.

Naturally, the actor flew back to the shore, holding his sword in his hands and pulling a very beautiful flower.

And after struggling a few times in the water, Evelin managed to emerge against a pile of colorful weeds, pointing at the shore and shouting, “Lin Muchen, how dare you stab me!”

“Cut!”

Director Liu Ming’s voice rang out at the right time.

“Over.”

Two simple words that caused everyone present to breathe a sigh of relief.

The actor immediately changed from being indifferent and indifferent to nervous and concerned, looking at Evelin, who was shivering in a ball in the water, and asked, “How are you? All right?”

Evelin only felt cold and shivering, even her teeth were chattering, shaking her head, “I’m fine.”

The staff was busy pulling her up.

Once on shore, Emotion came over with hot water and a blanket.

When she saw that she was freezing even to the point of turning pale, Emotion’s eyes turned red.

“Sister Evelin.”

Evelin patted the back of her hand comfortingly and whispered, “I’m fine, don’t worry.”

Emotion deflated, not daring to say anything else but wrapping her tightly in a towel.

After drinking some hot water, Evelin walked over to Liu Ming.

"Director Liu, was that one okay just now?"

Liu Ming nodded and looked up at her again, seeing that she was dripping wet and her face was so white that she frowned.

"There's no more drama for you today for a while, so go home and get some rest."

Evelin nodded.

"Thank you, Director Liu."

She turned to leave, and not far away, Willow Yule frowned inwardly as she watched such a scene.

"Guide Liu."

She came over and smiled at Liu Ming, "Is my play next?"

Liu Ming nodded and told the assistant director to go speak to her about the scene first, Evelin looked back over there, a darkness crossing her eyes.

Back at the hotel, Evelin took a hot shower, only just dipping into the bed, feeling as if her body ached like she was falling apart.

She closed her eyes and her head was a little dizzy, too, like something was stirring in her head, and it hurt and shook so badly.

Emotion finally ran outside to buy medicine and came back, and when she saw her lying there, she even poured a cup of hot water over.

"Sister Evelin, are you okay?"
