

Chapter 555

It was as if the promise made between the two that day didn't even exist.

If her mother wasn't still in St. Peter's Bridge Hospital, she was almost in a trance as to whether or not the events of that day had happened.

But since Tailor Feng hadn't come over, then of course she wouldn't be foolish enough to take the initiative to find him herself.

So it's all taken care of.

The days went on uneventfully, and the day finally finished the last scene, the crew was facing killing off the night, and the director had arranged a venue outside to treat everyone to dinner.

Naturally, Kang Loyao is in it as the lead actor.

After she went back to her room and changed, she went over very early with her assistant and a few other actresses from the same group.

However, when she got to the dinner place she realized that the director had booked more than one compartment today, and that the other two were occupied.

One of the boxes was for the rest of the crew, while the luxury box at the far end was for some of the guests the director had invited.

She was surprised, but didn't think much of it and went into her compartment and sat down.

It didn't take long for everyone else to arrive.

The director came over as well, but he didn't linger in this box much, just had a few drinks with everyone and then called Evelin out alone.

Evelin came into the hallway and asked, "What do you want to see me about alone, director?"

The director looked at her and smiled, "It's like this. After this collaboration, I personally appreciate your abilities. It just so happens that now that the play has been killed off, I have a movie coming up next, and I don't know if you're interested, but if you are, I'd also like to get you for the role of the female lead."

Evelin was a bit surprised and pleasantly surprised.

This director has been a pleasure to work with and she likes it and has a lot of confidence in the other person's character.

Since they said they wanted to use themselves, the decision must have been made after careful consideration, and they were by no means joking.

And as an actor myself, if the script is good, what's the point of saying no?

Therefore, she nodded evenly, "Of course I'm interested, thanks to the director for appreciating me."

The director seemed to have anticipated her answer and smiled, "It just so happens that the investors and writers of another film are over there today, and since they want to get the script out first in a hurry, they wanted to talk to you about your idea first. If you don't mind now, you can come sit with me over there."

Evelin nodded her head without even thinking about it.

So the director let her go back to the box to say hello to the crowd, and then when she came back out, he took her to another box.

After going over, Evelin realized that there were three men sitting inside, and a female screenwriter.

Most surprisingly, her previous lead actor in the drama, Snap Xie, was also there.

Snapshot saw her and waved at her, smiling, "Okay, I thought you weren't going to come over. You seem to have a lot of nerve, come and sit down."

He was obviously joking.

After these few months of being together, Evelin about understood that his nature was a picture of a hangdog, especially fond of jokes, and he was quite nice to everyone.

The most important thing was that she knew his relationship with Biden Lu, who was counted as Biden Lu's cousin, that is, Jenny Jing's cousin, and he was an artist under Jenny Jing's hand, so he had always taken very good care of himself.

Coronation

It was only for that reason, so I didn't think much of it, and was even more relieved to see him there.

She snorted at Snap's poking fun at her.

"Why am I afraid to come? Is Director Lin so nice that he can still eat me up?"

Xie Snap laughed, "That's not necessarily true, you have to be confident in your appearance."

The others laughed at this joking down.

Only Director Lin gave him a displeased look and said seriously, "Don't be ridiculous. When you scare someone away later, you'll go get it for me?"

Xie Snap was busy begging for mercy, "Yes, yes, it's nonsense, Miss Evelin, don't mind. And don't get angry and walk away, they're really looking for you to talk business today, and that's not just after talking to me. I swear you'd be interested in this book if you read it."

With the conversation having come to this point, Evelin naturally became interested.

So they sat down with the director.

The female scriptwriter who had been sitting there laughed: "The specific script hasn't come out yet, but there's already a draft outline, I'll give you a look first, any comments can be put forward in time, our script hasn't been specifically finalized, we can then make changes according to your ideas, we can pool our wisdom. More comments."

Afterwards, they were given two outlines, one for each of them.

Since it was only an outline and not much content, Evelin read it quickly.

After reading it, my eyes lit up and I really came to be interested.

It's not a positive story to say the least, it's a comedy of sorts, a laugh-out-loud comedy about a man and a woman soul swapping.

But since their profession is forensics, there are some serious situations interspersed between the laughs.

She has just finished filming a mystery detective drama, so this is a very easy time for something with some suspense elements to bring itself in.

After reading it, Evelin happily said to that screenwriter, "This script will be great to write, I'm very interested in it."

The director resolutely smiled, "I knew you'd be interested, I did, and you worked so well with Snap Xie in the previous scene. The show hasn't aired yet, but there will be a wave of cp fans when it does, as long as the results aren't bad."

"We'd like to take advantage of the heat by having you guys make the movie and fry the cp, which will also take the two of you and the two shows to the next level, what do you think?"

Of course Snap Xie was fine with it, he was even eager, after all, he had been if anything, fawning like Evelin for the past few months.

It's a pity that the other party is really too slow to react, and he doesn't dare to pursue directly, after all, considering the identity of the two, the thing before him has already brought a lot of trouble to himself, and now the script is still in the shooting, if once he picks through this layer of window paper, by then the other party agrees or not, wouldn't it be embarrassing for both sides and affect the crew.

But now it was different, the scene had been filmed and killed, and he could say what his heart wanted to say without fear.

Evelin frowned subconsciously when she heard that she was going to fire CP.

But she wasn't in a hurry to say no, just said, "I can't make a personal decision on this, I have to ask my agent first."

The forest guide nodded his head, indicating his understanding.

"That can be discussed later, do you have any requests regarding the script?"

Evelin thought about it, but she didn't actually have a specific request.

Chapter 556

She has never been a troublemaker and understands that screenwriting is not an easy job. Basically, she won't change the script as long as it doesn't involve a matter of principle.

There was just one thing that worried her a little.

Thinking about it, she asked, "My last drama was a mystery, and now I'm taking on a mystery movie, so would it be a bad idea to repeat the genre?"

For this, the forest guide has obviously thought about it.

She gently explained, "That's still different, for one, the previous one was a TV show and this one is a movie, which itself is fundamentally very different."

"Then again, this movie, although the plot is a mystery, it actually goes in the style of a comedy, which should technically be considered a comedy, and compared to that regular drama you did before, the style is very different, so there's no risk of clashing styles."

When Evelin heard this, she let her mind down and nodded her head.

"I see, so I'll talk to my agent later."

Director Lin nodded yes, and then there was a discussion about the script.

With Xie Snap and Evelin being able to take two scenes in a row, the relationship naturally needs to be handled properly.

Thus, after a dinner, it was obvious to the naked eye that Snap Xie took extra care of Evelin, to the point of almost being somewhat attentive.

Evelin only thought that it was because of their status as partners, so she didn't think much of it.

Several people on the table are open-minded and sparse people, and now that the man and woman have been finalized, they are happy and naturally want to drink more.

Evelin was infected by their atmosphere and was in a cheerful mood, and drank a lot of wine after a dinner party.

She wasn't a very good drinker, and by the time the meal was over, she was a little drunk.

Seeing this situation, Director Lin didn't trust her to go alone, so he sent someone to inform her assistant to come over.

The assistant, Emotion, was still in that box from the original cast, and when she heard that Evelin was drunk, she rushed over to pick her up.

It was only when they reached this side that they realized that Snap Shea was there.

She was a little surprised, no wonder she said how today was obviously the crew's kill party, but the director was not there, the actress was not there, and even the actor was missing.

It's all here.

By this time, Director Lin had already sent a few other investors and screenwriters away, and only Snap Xie and Evelin were in the box.

Evelin's wine tastes were good when he was drunk.

It won't be a drunk or too disoriented, just leaning back and sleeping peacefully.

Therefore, when Emotion came in, she saw Evelin leaning against the sofa, her eyes closed, her cheeks flushed.

And Snap of Shea was sitting next to her.

"Sister Evelin, she's..."

Having been on the same crew for three months, Emotion had been following Evelin almost all the time, so of course Snap Xie knew her.

She looked up and saw that she was the one who came in, she even smiled and explained, "Evelin she's drunk, she's probably asleep at this moment, can you drive? I'll send you down if I will."

Emotion shook her head at the news.

"No, don't bother! I'll just send Miss Evelin down myself."

Snap Xie chuckled, "You only underestimate the weight of a drunken person, she's not heavy but it's not that easy to help someone down. I see you're a skinny little one, don't wait until the person didn't help down two people fell down, that's ugly."

Said Conroe, who was already lying there.

Yao helped up.

On second thought, Emotion thought he was right.

Moreover, in the past few months that she had been spending time with the crew, she knew that Snap Xie wasn't a bad person and had always taken quite good care of Evelin, so although there was some consideration for the two of them and she was worried that she would be seen spreading some kind of scandal, it was better to have his help sending it down at this time than to find someone else, so she didn't say anything else.

Emotion politely thanked him, "That's a lot of trouble."

Xie Snap didn't say anything and hugged Evelin, gesturing for her to lead the way.

Emotion then led them in the direction of the underground car park.

Xie Snap helped Evelin all the way to the underground car park, helped the person into the car, and after explaining the driver to drive slowly on the road, this said to Little Emotion, "She's in a good mood tonight, she drank more, and I'm to blame for not watching her at the time, when you go back, remember to get her something to relieve the alcohol to drink, otherwise tomorrow will be difficult."

Although Little Emotion felt that it was a bit strange for him to account for and care for Evelin like this, but thinking that we were after all co-workers who had been together for three months, so she didn't think elsewhere.

Just a nice nod, "I know, thanks Snap."

Xie Snap smiled and signaled that they could get in the car and go, before turning to his own car.

And then, in the shadows, where they didn't know, a shutter clicked.

It waited until Evelin's car left and Snap Xie also got into another car to leave, before quietly turning away from the darkness.

second day

Evelin was still asleep and hadn't woken up yet when she was suddenly awakened by the sound of a fierce phone call.

She frowned in dissatisfaction and touched her own phone in confusion, hitting connect.

Su Hong's exasperated voice came from across the room.

"Evelin, what's going on? Weren't you and Snap Xie at the crew's wrap party last night? How did you get photographed like that?"

Evelin's head wasn't fully awake yet, just a confused and somewhat confused hmmm.

Subconsciously, I asked, "What photo?"

On the other hand, Su Hong found that she was still sleeping at such a late hour, and the Internet was in an uproar, but she, the rightful owner, was unperturbed, quite a feeling that the emperor was not anxious eunuch.

She was in a huff and didn't have the good sense to say, "And you say! What photo, get up and look on the Internet to see for yourself? Give me a call when you're done reading and give me a careful account of what happened yesterday!"

Afterwards, he just cut the phone off.

This time, Evelin finally came to her senses.

She frowned and sat up in bed, opening Twitter on her phone.

As soon as I turned to the hot page, I saw the #1 spot on the hot list, with my name hanging out.

She was slightly stunned and clicked in to see that it was about the gossip between her and Snap Xie.

The headline is very exciting and eye-catching: flow of flowers Evelin night meeting rock prince Xie Snap, suspected romance sitting true.

She froze and continued to flip down.

The only thing I saw posted on it was a picture of Snapshot when she walked her to the underground garage last night, when she was drunk, but vaguely still remembered.

I don't remember much, but I also know that I had nothing at all to do with Snap Xie, he was just seeing that he was too drunk to be worried, so he was kind enough to send himself down.

I didn't expect that something as simple as this would actually be caught on camera and be the subject of such gossip.

Chapter 557

Evelin was momentarily speechless, but she turned to remember what she had discussed with Lin Guiding and the others last night at the dinner party.

She hadn't informed Su Hong about this yet, and she didn't know if Su Hong would agree.

Evelin herself didn't like things like flipping cp, but these days, it's just impossible to win over people without doing a little marketing.

So, as long as it wasn't malicious marketing or something detrimental, she wasn't so insistent.

Usually it's the other person who suggests it, so she just follows through.

When she thought of this, she slapped her head and called Su Hong over in a row.

After Su Hong hung up the phone, he waited for her response.

When I saw her call come in, I pressed connect without even thinking about it.

But she didn't expect to be told something so important after the connection, she was so shocked that she didn't know what to say for a moment.

In fact, it's reasonable to say that Evelin is now in this position and there's no longer any need to speculate on gossip.

But for one thing, she's now facing a transition and hasn't had her work on the air for a long time.

The previous one has been killed off, but it's still in post-production and I'm afraid it will be a while before it airs.

Although the curry was already set there, the necessary exposure was still necessary, and after listening to Evelin's relay, she knew that this was Director Lin deliberately trying to promote Evelin.

In that case, there was absolutely no reason for her to refuse.

What's more, the object is Xie Snap Xie Snap that person, to say whether it is good or bad, but the strength and status is also there, two people passed on such things, as long as the two teams have each other in mind, in fact, is not a bad thing.

She asked, "I don't have a problem with it, it's just speculation anyway, it's not real, but did Xie Snap agree? He's a flow kid, he still plays rock and roll, and this first shoot is the perfect time to collect a wave of girlfriend fans, will his team approve of him doing something like this?"

Evelin scratched her sleepy, messy and shaggy hair, also a little confused.

These days, it's more dangerous for a male artist to fry cp than a female artist.

Especially a male artist like Xie Snap, who has a lot of wife and girlfriend fans.

A little bit of bad operation, it is easy to cause fans to turn against you, and then you can really steal the chicken and lose the rice.

Thinking this way, she was a little unsure, "I think it's agreed, I didn't see any objections from Director Lin when he made the proposal yesterday at the dinner party."

Hearing her say that, Su Hong let go.

"Well, in that case, I'll go contact Snap Xie's team later and finalize the specific plan for this matter."

"But that said, this online thing is making quite a big deal right now, for your safety, it's best that you don't go out for the next two days, I don't have any activities planned for you, you can just take a vacation and rest at home, in two days there is an indoor variety that needs you to be an amphibious flying guest, I'll have my assistant send the information to you in the afternoon."

Evelin agreed to each and every one of them over the phone.

Su Hong gave her a few more uneasy words before hanging up the phone.

It was only after she hung up the phone that she had time to seriously read some of the comments on the internet, she hadn't even had time to seriously read them just now because she was in a hurry to reply to Su Hong.

After all, the strength and curiosity of both of them are there, and both of them are flow artists.

So the story has been exposed, and it's really been attracting attention online.

It made a big splash.

Especially the fans of Snap of Shea. One by one, the comments section is screaming, "I don't believe it! It can't be true!"

It's never like that! The brother is theirs. I'll never be seduced by those sl*ts out there!

There are also some more sensible fans who know that they previously worked together on a TV series.

Last night was the crew's kill party, and it was normal for the two to run into each other sometime.

So someone brought it up in the comments section.

Maybe it's just that we all had dinner together and happened to be photographed, don't worry, my brother is still young and won't fall in love.

There was no shortage of the kind of people among the fans who were well-informed and already knew through certain channels that yesterday was indeed a dinner for the crew, and that they were all together at the hotel for a killjoy dinner.

It was originally the entire crew that attended the dinner, but the paparazzi ended up filming just the two of them popping out, clearly suspected of wanting to make trouble.

At one point, the few v's that broke the news were besieged and fallen by fans.

Thankfully, the news broke was a good thing for Evelin.

Fans have been targeting those who broke the news, as they don't believe their gossip, but few have come to her comment section to bash and accuse.

Evelin looked over her comment section and was relieved after making sure no Xie Snap fans were coming over.

However, she was satisfied, but not so much on Director Lin's side.

Originally, after discussing with Evelin and Snap Xie yesterday, they had been ready to find a chance to create a little buzz.

But I didn't realize that sometimes opportunity just comes so fast, and before they could make their move, someone had already taken an early picture of the two together.

As such, the best way was naturally to go along with it and just let the two acquiesce.

While they don't lead the public opinion, they can also build momentum ahead of time, whether it's for a new movie or a play that's just now being completed.

But never would I have guessed that these fans were so sensible and smart that they didn't believe in that stuff at all.

A person who usually screamed that he was not married to his brother was quiet as a chicken at this time.

Where's the promised girlfriend powder?

Where's the brainiac?

Can't you guys be a little crazy and jealous when your brother is holding up other women and walking them to their cars?

Director Lin deeply felt that it was too hard to bring in the fans this session.

But now that things are moving in this direction, they are not in a good position to come forward again at this juncture so as not to add to the picture.

Fortunately, there's still some time before the new movie starts shooting, and they just want two people to bring some heat to the movie and TV show, but they don't expect much else.

So this time, though unintentionally, it's a willow.

In this way, both teams tacitly kept quiet.

Ignoring this scandal, neither has issued any statement, much less come forward to speak out.

Both protagonists also treated it as if they didn't know.

Even if you encounter a reporter who raises the issue in public, it's just a diversion with another topic.

This instead makes it hard to figure out if the two of them are related or not.

On the other hand, Zhu Yi saw these news online and clenched his fist viciously.