

Chapter 60

The maids were all happy in their hearts.

Both Mr. and Mrs. are so pretty, and the little boy will be so cute!

Jenny didn't know what they were thinking.

In my mind, I was still secretly planning how I should mention this to Biden Lu when he returned later.

At six-thirty, the black Rolls Royce drove into the courtyard, and Biden Lu returned.

The maids had already brought the food to the table.

Jenny also changed back into her clothes and sat nicely at the table to wait for him.

It was the first time Biden Lu had seen her so well behaved, a little surprised, his eyes swept over the food, very keenly found two of them seemed not quite the same as in the past.

But he didn't say anything, he just pretended not to see.

Jenny greeted him with a smile, "You're back! Sit down and eat!"

Biden Lu nodded and received a hot towel from the maid to wipe his hands, before sitting down.

The first dish I put in my hand was Jenny's mushroom stew with bamboo shoots.

Jenny has been taking care of herself for the past few years, and her cooking skills are naturally unremarkable, but Rao still has little confidence in the mouth-picking Biden Lu.

I'm afraid that if he doesn't like the taste of what he's making, there's even less hope for negotiation tonight.

Biden Lu caught a piece of bamboo shoots and put it in his mouth.

In the meantime, Jenny's heart was in her throat.

"Well? Does it taste...okay?"

Biden Lu looked at her with a different meaning, "You did that?"

Uh....

Jenny didn't know whether to admit it or not, it was fine that he liked it, but if he didn't, wouldn't it be the opposite of what he wanted?

Just as I wanted to deny it, beside her, Aunt Liu couldn't help but smile, "Sir, this mushroom stew with bamboo shoots and sweet and sour fish were both made by my wife, she said they were made especially for you!"

Jenny: "....."

This Auntie Liu, why does she talk so much?

She had to smile awkwardly, "I'll just make it, but if you don't like it, don't eat it."

Afterwards, you reach out to move those two dishes away.

However the hand was only just outstretched when it was stopped.

Biden Lu looked at her with a starry smile in his eyes.

"When did I say I didn't like it?"

Jenny was stunned.

I saw him put another piece of sweet and sour fish in the bowl and eat it slowly, looking like he was still enjoying it.

Jenny:

What did you mean by that frown?

The recipes prepared by Aunt Liu basically avoided foods and flavors that the two of them didn't like, so even if Jenny just picked two random things to make, he wouldn't step on a lightning bolt.

By coincidence, her and Biden Lu's tastes were similar.

Both don't like spicy food, Jenny prefers sweet and sour things, and Biden Lu doesn't like or dislike it.

Seeing that he didn't reject it, Jenny finally put his mind at ease.

Biden Lu looked at her with a smile and asked, "So attentive, something to ask me?"

Jenny smiled somewhat embarrassed, "It's something I want to discuss with you."

"We'll talk after dinner."

After dinner, Biden Lu went to the study to answer the phone.

Jenny went to the kitchen to cut a plate of fruit, then carried the fruit plate up with her.

Upon entering the room, I saw him sitting behind a computer desk, as if he was having a video conference.

Jenny was hesitant, not sure if he should go in.

Then, I saw Biden Lu raise his head and wave at her.

On the computer screen was an office far across the Atlantic, where the executives of Lu's overseas branch were collectively briefing him on their work.

Jenny didn't dare to disturb him and lightly

Hand gently walked over to the couch next to him and sat down, then placed the fruit plate on the coffee table.

She had spent three years overseas and was very good in both English and French, but Rao still didn't understand the complicated technical vocabulary of the video conference.

Time passed slowly.

Jenny was a little bored, sitting on the sofa with his cheeks in his hands, taking a fork and mindlessly forking fruit to eat.

Behind the desk, Biden Lu looked at her, the two lips of the exquisite face of the sweet red lips up and down the movement, like two pieces of tempting jelly, one could not help but want to take a bite.

His Adam's apple rolled.

A meeting that was supposed to take an hour and a half was hard pressed to finish in less than forty minutes.

"You just said you had something for me, what was it?"

Jenny Jing saw that he had finished his work, which was why he even got up and said, "Oh, that's right, isn't Starlight Entertainment now taken over by me? But the company isn't doing too well at the moment, and I'd like to talk to you about the possibility of hanging out under Anning International first, that...having the right resources to share and stuff."

She said that she was embarrassed herself first.

I have to say that with the size that Serenity International has grown to, there's really no need to work with a small company like hers.

Biden Lu wouldn't be short of her share of the bonus money.

But Jenny really can't think of another better way, the company is currently dealing with semi-paralyzed state, if there is no give resources, the back will not be able to move an inch.

Most importantly, she didn't want to be on the opposite side of the fence from Serenity International, no matter what developed later.

Therefore, it would be better to cooperate in advance.

Biden Lu looked at her and laughed lightly.

"Want me to help?"

Jenny squeezed out a pleasing smile and nodded his head.

"Well...it's not impossible."

The man leaned back in his leather chair, tapping his fingertips against the armrest, and said carelessly, "So how are you going to bribe me?"

Jenny was stunned.

Biden Lu looked at her with a hint of an otherworldly smile in his ink-black pupils.

She couldn't help but think of something, and a blush crept up her face.

Dropping his eyes slightly, he muttered quietly, "How can I bribe you..."

Lu Jing smiled deeply and bent close to her, lowering his voice, "Mrs. Lu, if you really want to bribe me, there are many ways to do it, you understand."

Jenny:

The man leaned in close, and the nice crisp scent lingered on his nose with the strong scent of testosterone.

Then she thought that she was probably really motivated by lust for profit at that moment, and that's why she k*ssed him that way without knowing what she was doing.

The warm touch with a light sweet scent, like a dragonfly gently imprinted on the corner of his lips.

Biden Lu's pupils shook slightly.

He reacted quickly, pulling the woman back the moment she shrank back in one hand.

Jenny didn't stand still and fell into his arms, and the next second, the back of his head was pressed and a fiery k*ss fell.

Biden Lu k*ssed fiercely.

His nature had always been distant and gentle, and he had never acted so fierce before, causing Jenny to be so shocked that he didn't even react at once.

By the time he responded, his entire mouth was occupied.

The man ferociously attacked the city, taking all her territory with a dominance and ferocity that was very inconsistent with his usual display of dominance and ferocity.

It took an unknown amount of time.

Biden Lu finally let go of her.

Jenny was panting, her small, palm-sized face was all scarlet, her clear eyes were wet like a poor little beast, and her k*ssed lips were still brimming with water.

Biden Lu stared at her, his throat tightening, feeling like he wanted to k*ss her again.

"Mrs. Land, are you trying to seduce me?"

He asked in a hushed, whispered voice.

Chapter 61

Jenny was shocked, finally reacting.

It was hard to believe that I was actually seduced by this man and k*ssed him in such an extremely ambiguous and dangerous position!

She screamed and tried to get up.

However, the chair Biden Lu sat in was originally very close to the desk.

She stood up so violently that her back knocked against the corner of the table, screamed in pain, and fell back heavily.

Biden Lu's face changed.

Catching her, she even reached out to rub the spot where she had just been hit.

"Why so careless? Does it hurt? Here, show me."

The man's palm rested on her waist through only a thin layer of fabric, and the hot temperature passed through the palm, causing Jenny to tense up and stiffen.

She pressed his hand that was trying to examine her wound and shook her head.

Misty eyes were already aching for tears, but gritted their teeth and said, "I'm fine, it doesn't hurt."

Biden Lu's sword eyebrows narrowed.

He didn't say another word, but picked her up across the room with a sinking face and strode off to the bedroom.

Jenny was shocked, struggled a few times to no avail, grabbed his clothes and said urgently: "Biden Lu, what are you doing? Put me down now!"

There are a lot of maids watching downstairs!

Biden Lu, however, turned a deaf ear to this, passing through the hallway and carrying her back to the bedroom amidst the astonished eyes of several servants downstairs.

As soon as he dipped into the bed, Jenny immediately jumped down.

Biden Lu didn't force her to do so, and looked at her with cold eyes, then turned around and took a tube of ointment out of the drawer.

"Lift up your shirt!"

He was cold and icy.

Jenny covered her clothes, blushing like two ripe tomatoes, and hung her eyes, not daring to look at him.

"I'll do it myself."

She said, reaching out to take the ointment from his hand.

But suddenly I heard him snicker, avoiding her hand and lifting her dress up in one hand.

"Ah! Biden Lu, how could you do that?"

Jenny shouted as the man caught her with his hands over his head and flipped his whole body over onto the bed, even his tender two legs were suppressed with his knees.

The woman's resistance was pressed into the pillow and dissolved into a blur of sobs.

Biden Lu's face was cold, looking at the red mark that was banded out on her snowy skin.

It's only been this short two minutes and already the bruising is trending.

With a grimace, he unscrewed the lid with one hand, squeezed some ointment on his hand, and pressed it against her injury.

"Ooh...that hurts..."

Jenny shouted in a blur.

Biden Lu said in a cold voice, "How dare you be so rash when you know it hurts? How old are you? Can't even see the table?"

Jenny was so aggrieved.

He's the one who took advantage of the fire and k*ssed her, and now she's banged up like this and he's calling her names!

Biden Lu saw that she was muffled and said, "Dumb?"

Jenny exasperatedly yelled at him off to the side, "I don't want to talk to you!"

Her little face held red, and there were tears of pain coming out of the corners of her eyes, like a grumpy little lion with its fangs pulled out.

Biden Lu couldn't help but laugh.

Slightly coarse fingers rubbed her delicate skin, her palm silky smooth to the touch, like a milk cake, and it felt unbelievably good to the touch.

His breathing was slightly ragged.

Deep within the body, the heat that had only recently been pushed down, had a hidden tendency to rise again.

Jenny also gradually realized what was happening, the ambiguous and dangerous feeling that came along with the silk of the man's fingertips, making her panic.

She said evenly, "Are you done yet? Let go of me when you're done!"

This time, Biden Lu didn't insist.

After all, there was no guarantee what would happen if he pressed any further.

After the man got up, Jenny also got up in a hurry and straightened his clothes.

Biden Lu turned around and went to the bathroom.

It took a good half hour for the party to come out.

Jenny could about guess what he was there for, and the scowl on his little face grew heavier.

There was always the feeling that the more time I spent with this man, the more dangerous certain aspects became.

But it was a side effect of the man's gentlemanliness.

He sure did what he promised her before marriage.

Never really touch her without her permission.

Thinking of this, Jenny couldn't help but curl her lips again.

Biden Lu went out and poured in two glasses of water, his eyes staring at her heavily.

"I can have Starflight hang under the Annunciation International banner, but I have conditions."

"What conditions?"

"You're joining Serenity International as its director of public relations."

Jenny was stunned.

In any case, I never thought he would make the request.

Biden Lu explained, "Although Anning International is growing fast, but fast has its drawbacks, although resources are our advantage, but also, because of the rapid development, the talent department has become our weakness, especially the PR department, so I hope you can come over and help me build a strong and effective PR team."

Jenny was stunned.

The weakness of Anning International's PR department was actually hidden from her earlier case of Snap Xie.

Otherwise, such a not-so-complicated case would not have dragged on for half a month.

Ultimately it will take lending her a hand to fix it.

But knowing is one thing, hearing Biden Lu confess to her today is another.

Jenny was actually a little hesitant.

For one thing, she has to take care of Starlite and worries that she'll be too busy to take over the international side of Serenity again.

Secondly, if she really agreed to go as the director of the PR department of An Ning International, then she would be a straight line subordinate of Biden Lu.

Whether it was out of selfishness, or for other reasons, Jenny was actually reluctant to become subordinate to Biden Lu.

She was hesitating when Biden Lu suddenly said again, "As long as you're willing, the resources of Serenity International can be made available for you to pick first in the future."

Jenny's eyes lit up.

"Really?"

"Sure."

"Yes!Deal!"

There's a big difference between hanging on to shared resources, and prioritizing and selecting resources.

One of them is to find meat to eat from the seam of a meat head that people don't want left over, and the other is to eat a pot of meat that is freshly cooked and eat any piece you want.

It was the equivalent of giving a direct promotion path for Starflight, or a VIP seat kind of thing!

Jenny couldn't help but be pleased.

Even if she had to be in the same company as this man in the future, she admitted it.

Biden Lu looked at her happy face and curved her lips.

"Just sell yourself short? Are you sure you don't want to reconsider?"

Jenny blinked.

A pair of clear eyes stared at him seriously, "So you'll bully me?"

Biden Lu:....

Little girl, you've learned how to turn him against you!

Jenny, having gotten away with it, didn't smile either and took two steps backwards to wave at him.

"Mr. Lu, then it's settled ah, tomorrow I'll ask you to deduct the contract, you can't go back on your word, I'm going to take a shower first."

Afterwards, the man had gotten into the bathroom with his clothes.

Biden Lu looked at her back and helplessly lost his smile.

Chapter 62

The next day, Jenny went directly to Serenity International.

After signing a series of contracts, Starflight has reached a real cooperation with Anning International.

Since it was a direct order from Biden Lu, even if the executives within the company were surprised, they didn't dare to say anything.

After signing the contract, Vicky brought Jenny back to the PR department and directly announced her status as the director of the PR department.

In the past two years, Jenny had already made a name for himself in Fenghua.

Even if she acted in a low-key manner, most of her peers still knew her and recognized her abilities.

When I learned that Mr. Lu had actually invited her over, I was not very happy.

Of course, there are some individual seniority, thought that now hard to vacate the director's seat, finally have hope to sit up, but did not expect a temporary parachute, seemingly robbed their own position as.

There was quite a bit to say about it, but not in the context of a welcome by all.

Jenny first familiarized himself with the personnel situation in the department, then said he would come to work the next day before leaving.

After leaving Serenity International, she went back to Starlight.

Back when she first took over Starflight, she called He.

Today, it happened to be the day that He had completed his exit formalities and officially came over.

Jenny was naturally very happy about the arrival of this right-hand man.

It could be said that with her helping to sit in, along with Vice President Lin, Starflight's side didn't need her to worry too much for the time being.

After bringing Xiao He to familiarize herself with the company environment, Jenny suddenly received a phone call, saying that he was coming to see her shop.

She just remembered that the transfer had been hung up on the side of the shop and the matter hadn't been dealt with.

If someone hadn't called, she would have almost forgotten about it.

After work, Jenny didn't go straight back to the land garden, but went to the shop.

The person she had an appointment with had already arrived, and upon asking, I found out that he was a relative of Xiao Zhang's.

Xiao Zhang helped her keep the shop for so long, for the approximate profit is also very clear, there is such a good opportunity, naturally, is eager to inform the family.

After Jenny knew that, he smiled, said nothing, and gave them a discount.

The transfer paperwork was handed over smoothly.

It was eight o'clock in the evening after all this was done.

Jenny Jing had called Lu Yuan in advance so that Aunt Liu didn't have to prepare her dinner.

It just so happens that Biden Lu is working overtime tonight and should not be back yet.

She walked out of the shop, only to find that it had started raining outside at some point.

Now that it's late autumn, there is a bit of a chill in the air from the north, and with the rain, the cold air is felt even more intensely.

She wrapped her knickers tightly around her body and tweeted him as she headed to the garage.

When she learned that the man was indeed still at work, she drove to Greenwater Hills.

Biden Lu's taste was something she only learned about last night when she was cooking.

Knowing that this man was picky and only loved to eat what Aunt Liu and Green Water Villa made, he still made the trip himself even though it was late.

Fortunately, there were few cars at night and her location was relatively close to the mountain resort, so it wasn't a problem.

After packing a few meals from the lodge, he came out and headed straight for the Luks.

In the president's office, Biden Lu was still in a meeting.

As the current head of the Lu's zaibatsu, busy for sure, and he is expected to make decisions on matters large and small.

In addition, the recent overseas research and development of new electronic technology and results, this is the most important piece of Biden Lu, many aspects must be personally asked to rest assured, that is why the recent overseas meetings are particularly numerous.

When Jenny arrived, the image of the other conference room was being projected on the office's big screen.

She froze, reacting to the silence, and walked in gently.

When Biden Lu saw her coming, he quickly ended the meeting and stood up.

"It's raining?"

In the meantime, he asked with a slight brow when he saw that she seemed to be wet.

Jenny smiled, not caring to stroke away the rainwater that had just accidentally stained his hair, put the food on the table and said, "It's just a little bit of rain, I guess it will be winter after this."

Biden Lu saw the situation and didn't say anything else, only silently turning up the temperature in the office a bit.

Jenny said, "I know you haven't eaten yet, so I went to Green Water Villa to pack it up, how about it? Do I care about you?"

Lu Jing deeply smiled.

"I am deeply honored and feel very happy to be so cared for by Mrs. Land."

The fleshy words were said by the man with a smile like this, causing Jenny to get a bad chill.

Even stopping this topic that you've started.

After the two of them sat in the office and finished their meal, Biden Lu poured her a cup of warm water and personally cleaned up the leftovers on the table before saying, "I'm going to be busy for a while longer, will you take a break here and wait for me to come home together?"

Jenny, for some reason, was particularly lacking today, so he came with no intention of driving himself home and nodded.

Biden Lu smiled and rubbed her head, then walked back to his desk and continued to deal with his work.

Jenny sat on the sofa, holding a cup and playing with his phone.

After flipping through the news and blogging for a while, I felt my eyelids fighting and my head getting dizzy.

Thinking that maybe it was because I was too tired today, I didn't think much of it, and seeing that Biden Lu seemed to be busy for a long time, I put down the cup and took a pillow from the side to lie down.

It was already an hour later when Biden Lu finished handling the work.

With Jenny there, he couldn't afford to be too busy too late and turned off his computer and stood up, only to find that she had actually fallen asleep on the couch at some point.

In the meantime, Biden Lu walked over and bent to pat her gently on the shoulder.

"Jenny, we're going home."

The woman on the couch drew her eyebrows together slightly, not responding.

He reached for her forehead.

In the meantime, the temperature was a little hot, and the next thing he knew, the back of his hand was slapped.

The woman, still drunk in her sleep, seemed dissatisfied with his intrusion and raised her hand to wave at the back of his hand, mumbling something.

Biden Lu couldn't help but laugh.

He turned his head to look out the window, it was still raining, and although the heat was on indoors, it was still too easy to get cold sleeping like that.

He turned to take his jacket and put it on Jenny before bending over and picking her up.

Outside, as Biden Lu's personal special assistant, Vicky was waiting.

Seeing him carry Jenny out, his pupils shook a little, then he lowered his head in a hurry.

"President, going home?"

"Well."

Biden Lu carried Jenny Jing down the stairs, and she didn't wake up until she got into the car.

He didn't mean to wake her up again, so he just let her fall asleep in his arms, and halfway through he just told Vicky to turn up the heat in the car.

There was silence in the compartment.

It wasn't until we were almost home that Jenny woke up quietly.

"Well? Why am I in the car?"

She rubbed her eyes and looked out the window in confusion.

There was a soft chuckle from the man overhead, "Awake?"
