

Chapter 732

It's impossible!

So she refused without even thinking about it.

"I don't k*ss!"

She said and cocked her head to the side.

The man's eyes were cold, and he straightened up to look at her.

Suddenly he smirked.

That sneer was like a low cry from an extremely ferocious animal, causing Jenny to inexplicably feel a chill down his spine.

Vaguely, like you've heard it somewhere?

I only heard him say coldly, "You're my man now, this is a wilderness area, even if I were to punish you on the spot, no one would be able to control you, are you sure you want to continue to be obstinate with me?"

Jenny's lips trembled, looking up at him.

Only the man's gaze was like ice, and he was examining her without moving.

That look in her eyes was extremely strange, yet extremely familiar to her.

How did that happen?

Why did he have that look in his eye?

That look was so familiar to her, but it had been a long time since she had seen it.

That man...no, no, he wouldn't be here.

Jenny's heart was in turmoil for a moment, but the man in front of her leaned in once again and said, "I'll give you one more chance, whether to k*ss or not?"

Jenny pursed her lips and swallowed her saliva.

By this time, she also knew what it meant to have to bow under a roof.

She was now quite sure that the man in front of her was very scary.

By no means could she take it head on.

So she hesitated, and considering that Mo Nan was still lying in the car with her injuries, she bowed her head and went soft.

"Okay, I'll k*ss."

Afterwards, he ducked his head and gave her a quick peck on the cheek.

At the same time, yuck!

After the mind has built itself up this way, it's much better.

The man was k*ssed by her and really didn't embarrass her anymore.

Smiling, he straightened up and said, "I'll wait over there."

And then, after a pause, he said, "Don't think of running away oh, you know, we still have your friend."

Jenny smiled and nodded at him, the smile on his face so fake that it could almost be bored to death.

But the man didn't care, and after warning her, he stepped away.

He didn't go far, he just stood four or five paces away.

Jenny was secretly relieved and walked behind the tree, crouching down.

Naturally, she didn't really need to go to the bathroom, and she wouldn't take off her trousers.

Just crouched there, quietly observing the man's reaction.

It was a relief to see that he had really been standing there, his back to her, with no thought of turning his head to peek around.

She turned her head, looked around, and finally her eyes landed on a large boulder not far away.

It took two hands to hold the stone, and the edges were so sharp that she could guarantee that if it hit her head, she would faint without dying.

She quietly crouched over to the stone and moved it up.

Then, carefully easing her steps, she catwalks slowly, step by step, towards the man.

The man kept standing with his hands behind his back.

The way he stood with his hands in the warm yellow morning light, he somehow had a relic and independent beauty.

Jenny hugged the stone and pooh-pooed it in his heart.

There's an aesthetic for someone so bad.

Human face, beast's heart, that's the kind of sc*m I'm talking about!

Thinking so, she got closer to the man.

With her eyes already behind him, she raised her arm and lifted the large stone, and with a full thrust of her body, aimed for the back of his head and slammed it into him.

And yet, just like that.

The man, however, suddenly turned his head.

At the same time, a hand grabbed her arm in a lightning fast manner.

Jennyton's entire body froze there.

The man turned around and looked at her.

Only Jenny's two arms were raised in the air, and in his hand was a sharp stone, looking at the direction and the momentum, it was clear that he wanted to smash her to death.

And now, both of her arms were easily clamped down on by him.

Jenny didn't even know how he had found himself.

I heard him laugh, "Gee, what's that for? Murdering your own husband?"

The man's words bantered with a hint of laughter, causing Jenny to react and become completely angry.

"Murder your own husband!"

Anyway, having been discovered by the other party, Jenny simply broke the jar, unable to care about anything else at this point.

When the matter is exposed, it's either you or me, so regardless of the situation, breaking free of the other's grip, he will raise the stone again and throw it at him.

The man's body flinched, easily avoiding it.

Then chuckled lightly, "Gee, so fierce, looks like I'm losing money on that."

Jenny was furious.

At the same time, I was scared and frightened.

This man was nothing like she had imagined.

Things are getting out of her control, and Mo Nan, who is still lying in the carriage with a wounded leg, if he were to go back and tell his brother that the two have long since risen to the idea of running away and resisting, then what will greet her and Mo Nan will most likely be an abyss of doom.

The thought of this possibility sent chills down Jenny's spine.

No longer able to care about anything else, when he saw that the rock couldn't hit him, he simply jumped forward and lunged at him.

"Dog man, go to hell!"

She said and jumped on the man, at the same time, reaching out and choking him.

The other side thought she would resist, but didn't expect her to come up with this sudden move, so a mistake was made and she actually pounced on it.

After all, the average woman's first reaction to something like this at this point would be to turn around and run.

But there's no comparison between men and women in terms of physical strength or endurance.

So as soon as the other side runs away, they instead hand over all their soft threats to the man.

As long as they catch up with each other, they're bound to fall into each other's hands.

But Jenny didn't do that.

Not only did she not run, but she bullied her way up.

Looking at that vicious stance, there was a strong intent to let go of him and fight to the death.

Jenny struck first, choking him at once and pushing him down to the ground.

"Dog man, asshole, sc*m, go to hell!"

She cursed as she choked him hard.

Not to mention, she has quite a handful of strength if she launches into a ruthless rage.

The man, no matter how wise and powerful he was, at this time, was not strangled by her so hard that he rolled his eyes a few times.

Hands gripped her wrists, and it was hard, but one force lifted her off.

Immediately afterwards, I felt a sharp pain beneath me.

He didn't grunt as Jenny drove a knee into his weakest spot, and then it was a splitting fist that came at him.

Meanwhile, cursing while beating your mouth.

"sc*m!Asshole!!I'll kill you today!"

Chapter 733

And I don't know how many punches were thrown.

The wrist was finally caught, and then Jenny only felt a tightness in his waist, and his entire body was flipped over and pressed over.

She was suddenly horrified.

I was about to make another counterattack when I suddenly heard a familiar voice.

"Is that all there is to it?All those tricks I taught you back then, have they all been returned to Master?"

Jenny was stunned.

Look up at him, incredulous.

The other was holding her wrist, and her clothes, as well as her hair, were slightly disheveled from the earlier tussle.

But those eyes were also extremely sharp, so sharp that Jenny felt like a knife with a cold, sensual light that seemed to pierce into one's heart.

She shuddered a little and asked, "Who are you?"

There were only a few people who knew she could do kung fu, but she couldn't imagine that anyone would be here at this time.

The other smiled at the news.

The sharp eye sockets rippled with a light curve and said in a deep voice, "Little Seven has only gone a few days without seeing brother, and you've forgotten him? Can't even hear the voice?"

Jenny shook fiercely, dilating his pupils in shock.

"Gu Si Qian! You-!"

"Shh!"

Kusken put his finger to his lips in a silencing motion.

He looked up in the direction the car was parked and said, "If Seven doesn't want to beckon the others over, keep your voice down, okay?"

Jenny was extremely angry.

She never expected that the man in front of her was actually Gu Siqian pretending to be her.

And she didn't even see it coming!

Thinking of his own jitters along the way, this man was only afraid that he had already seen it in his eyes, but he didn't tell her, making it clear that he wanted to see her joke.

That's egregious!

She gritted her teeth and said, "Why are you here?"

Gu Siqian smiled, not in a hurry, played with a strand of her hair that fell by her cheek and said, "Don't talk about me yet, you still remember what you just said, right? You have to keep your word to be a man, oh."

Jenny stalled, thinking of the forced nature of the k*ss just now, and his blood surged, only wanting to bite him to death.

She said angrily, "Gu Si Qian, how dare you say that? You want to die, don't you?"

Kusken laughed.

He seemed to enjoy teasing a woman to the point of open-mouthedness, giving him a strange sense of accomplishment.

But he also knew that even cute kittens might reach out and give you a good paw if you really pissed them off.

So he took it as it came and didn't tease her any more.

Rather, it was a serious one: "I heard you were in trouble, so I came over to see you."

Jenny frowned suspiciously.

"No way, it would take at least a week to come over from China and then find this place, how could you do it so fast?"

Gu Si Qian narrowed his eyes and said, "You don't believe me?"

Jenny snickered.

"You've got what you want, does it make any difference to you whether I live or die?"

The man's eyes went cold for a moment.

He looked at Jenny, his eyes gathering a silky, cool chill.

“So that’s what you were thinking?”

Jenny didn’t speak.

The pursed lips, however, showed a few signs of her stubbornness.

Kuskan looked at her, half-heartedly, but eventually released her and got up.

r

There was a weird atmosphere that spread between the two, and he didn’t dwell on the subject any further, but his attitude had become noticeably colder than before, when he was more diffident.

He said in a deep voice, “I had a recent business deal going on around here, I just came over to check it out and heard the news of your accident and came along for the ride.”

He made this claim, but Jenny believed it.

A heart was finally at ease.

She realized the other man was still on top of her and pushed him with her hand, “You get up first.”

Gu Si Qian’s identity was now exposed, and there was no more teasing her to follow up.

Only after he got up did Jenny get up from the ground, patted the dust off his body, and asked, “Why are you with them? And what’s with that face?”

His face, which can still be a peasant’s face now, is by no means what it was before.

Gu Siqian sniffed, touched his cheek, and said, “I’m wearing a human skin mask.”

“A human skin mask?”

Jenny's eyes widened in surprise.

"Well."

Gu Siqian didn't seem to want to explain more on this issue and said, "The two brothers are from an ordinary family in the town, and this one, who is the older brother, just happened to be working for someone under my hand two days ago.

When I heard about your accident, I delineated the approximate range of where the parachute would land, so I just changed his appearance and came to check out the news.

As soon as I came over here, I heard that they were going to sell two girls your age, and I guessed right away that it was possible that you were shady and fell into the hands of traffickers.

So, I'm going to take the easy way out and simply buy you two together with them, so that I can avoid any other mistakes in the middle."

It was only after Jenny listened that this was a general explanation of his arrival.

She nodded and said, "I know, thank you."

Kuskan narrowed his eyes.

This was the first time Jenny had ever thanked him properly.

Although he looked a lot more polite, for some reason, he liked the old Jenny who was clawing and clawing at him a lot more than the current, distant and polite Jenny.

But this is clearly not the time to be so calculating.

He looked at the car not far away and said, "Let's follow the car to town."

Jenny was hesitant.

"So that guy..."

Gu Si Qian had an amused expression.

“What? Are you really worried I’m going to sell you out?”

Jenny pursed her lips.

Of course she knew that Gu Siqian wouldn’t really sell himself.

Only according to what she thought, now that she had learned that this person was Gu Siqian, the threat of that person was naturally lifted.

Then she and Mo Nan, of course, should just leave, so why follow them back?

As if guessing what was on her mind, Gu Si Qian explained, “The gang is already in town, they should be looking for you everywhere, I still have some things to take care of and I can’t leave for a while, so it’s actually safest for you to stay with me.”

After a pause, he added, “Of course, I’m not forcing you, just a suggestion, if you insist on leaving, that’s fine, but if something happens, I won’t be responsible.”

Jenny gave him a look.

Knowing that the man was deliberately trying to provoke himself, but in the end it still sank in.

She resigned herself to her fate, “Okay, we’ll go with you, and we’ll get to town first anyway.”

With that, Gu Si Qian nodded in satisfaction, tugged at her wrinkled clothes and said, “Let’s go back.”

Chapter 734

Jenny nodded.

So that’s when they both headed to the car.

Mo Nan had already received her signal, knowing that she would find a chance to take care of that big brother, and later on, she would just have to wait for her to return and take care of the one left behind together.

Unexpectedly, I waited and waited, but finally she came back.

And found that it was two men who came back.

She was stunned, very surprised, and for a moment thought she'd misunderstood.

But in this situation, it's hard to know what to do.

Is it going ahead? Or are we waiting?

Did something change in the middle of that?

Mo Nan sat there in a daze.

Jenny was also helpless and secretly gave her a wink, which Mo Nan understood, before shutting up and not saying anything.

Jenny climbed into the car, and that younger brother, seeing them return, warmly exchanged pleasantries with Gu Siqian.

Gu Siqian could actually answer him in a fluent dialect as well, Jenny hadn't felt anything when he didn't know he was Gu Siqian before.

Now I hear it, but it's just how strange it sounds and feels.

It's all over the place and feels odd.

Mo Nan's heart was already anxious as a hot pan as she looked at her expression of being unable to say anything.

After all, it was hard for two people to find the right opportunity to think that they could escape at this time.

If we don't flee now, when we get into the city, we'll really be in a den of thieves, what can we do then?

So, after the carriage door was closed again, Mo Nan finally couldn't hold back and pulled Jenny down and asked in a breathy voice: "Jenny, what's going on? You didn't take care of him?"

Jenny sighed helplessly.

But this matter of Gu Siqian being the big brother was too complicated for her to explain too much at the moment, lest she be discovered by another man in front of her.

Though she knew it would be a matter of minutes for the three of them to subdue the man.

But since Gu Si Qian would be disguised as the other party, he must have his other things and plans, and she didn't want to expose his identity.

So she didn't say anything, just shook her head silently and wrote a few words on her hand.

Don't worry, things have changed.

Mo Nan was stunned, not quite understanding what she meant.

Jenny couldn't explain too much, so she just nodded to her, signaling that they were safe now, and told her not to worry.

Mo Nan frowned.

Although she still didn't quite understand, Jenny could only trust her since she had already expressed that the danger had been averted.

Thinking this way, Mo Nan didn't ask any further questions.

The car swayed, and after about half an hour, it was finally in town.

Once in the city, Jenny had the distinct feeling that the road became smooth under the wheels.

It's now 6:30 in the morning and some people are starting to appear on the street selling breakfast at stalls.

Everywhere was a bustling bustle of people yelling and rushing for the morning market.

After arriving at this place for so long, this was the first time Jenny had heard such lively sounds, and a heart that seemed to have been frozen for so long was finally alive again at this moment.

Before, in that deserted mountain, the scenery was beautiful, but staying too long made you feel a little less popular and a little suffocated.

It's only now that I'm out that I feel like I'm alive again.

Jenny wanted to see what was going on outside, but the doors of the compartment were all closed, and there was only a sliver of airy seam to be seen.

There was the sound of a man's conversation from the front.

"By morning grin, we'll go home and have breakfast, put them in that room on the left first, and we'll have one of each for the night to see who you like."

This was said in official words, which Jenny and Mo Nan naturally understood.

They were both a little speechless.

The most speechless thing was that Gu Siqian actually answered.

"Okay, then I'll take the one with less words."

The other party perked up, "Really? Then I want the one who talks a lot."

Jenny: "....."

Mo Nan: "..."

She could almost imagine the nasty smile on Gu Si Qian's face as he said that.

Good gas! But also pretend to smile.

Mo Nan didn't know the inside story and was a little anxious, but looking at Jenny Jing's calm appearance of an old monk settling in, he felt that things shouldn't be what he thought.

The town wasn't large, but the population was large and very densely distributed.

All along the way, Jenny was listening to the brother in front of him greeting people passing by as if he was familiar with them.

The car drove for about another half hour before finally coming to a stop.

The man in front jumped off and the door to the back of the car was opened.

Next thing you know, you see the man's bright smile.

"Here we go, come on down."

Jenny and Mo Nan looked at each other and got out of the car in a heartbeat.

Mo Nan's legs were inconvenient, and he needed the aid of crutches to walk, so Jenny Jing was the one who assisted him along the way.

The man who was her brother had tried to come over to help her a few times, but he was avoided by Mo Nan and Jenny Jing without showing his face.

He had about never been around or in contact with girls before and was a bit clumsy.

After being shunned by them, they didn't notice their deliberate intentions, but took it as a sign of their inexperience, and laughed all the way through, a little silly and cute.

Rather, it was somewhat different from the kind of vicious human traffickers that Jenny had imagined.

When I got out of the car, all I saw in front of me was a very ordinary country house.

The building has two floors with three rooms on each floor, not too big and not too small, but it was clean, so it looked good.

The four of them went into the house together, Jenny and Mo Nan were placed in a room, and when they went in, the man was called away by Gu Si Qian.

In this way, only Mo Nan and Jenny Jing were left in the house.

Mo Nan had endured all the way today, and by this time, they were finally the only two left, and asked immediately.

"Jenny, what's going on? Why didn't you follow through with the plan, and now that we're in their lair, what do we do?"

Jenny looked at her nervousness and laughed at once.

She shook her head and said, "Don't worry, because we ran into an old acquaintance this time."

"What old acquaintance?"

Mo Nan still doesn't know that Gu Si Qian is the man.

Jenny saw the truth and told her the truth.

Mo Nan listened, staring in amazement.

Never thought it would be like this.

Jenny sighed, "Now we're considered safe for now, I'll talk to him later, go out and contact Biden Lu, you take care of your injuries at home, as long as we're contacted, we should be completely safe."

Mo Nan nodded vigorously.

After about half an hour, Gu Si Qian and the man returned.

Not only did they come back, they came back with a big bag of breakfast.

It's all about some of the snacks sold on the streets of town.