

Chapter 771

In his arms, he also had another woman in his arms, only to see that woman's gorgeous appearance, a burgundy dress, the skirt open to the root of the thighs, just a slight movement, you can see the provocative scenery.

Her entire body was as if she was bonelessly nestled in Gu Si Qian's embrace.

The low v of the chest reveals a blood-stirring curve, so full that any normal man would just want to come forward and rub it.

The man, on the other hand, was sitting idly, one hand languidly resting on her waist, the other leaning on his temple, crooked and gangly.

The sudden entrance of the man shattered the harmonious atmosphere in which these two sought to have fun.

He narrowed his eyes and looked up at her, his eyes looking as normal as if he was half uncomfortable at being disturbed.

Instead, the woman in his arms, after seeing Bella Qiao, screamed out as if surprised, and at once covered up her long skirt that exposed almost her entire waistline.

"What are you? Why did you just come in? Don't you know we're working inside?"

Work?

For what?

The man-girl thing?

Bella Qiao's mouth curved up in a cold line.

Admittedly, it never occurred to her that there would be no other woman beside Gu Si Qian during the years she was away.

It was as if, in the six months he had held her, he had been around a woman who had ended up dying inexplicably at her hands as evidence to keep her in jail.

But despite this, Bella Qiao had never thought that she would one day see this with her own eyes.

What is this?

A show of strength? Or...provocation?

Heh. She smirked in her mind and a sarcastic and cold smile rose on her face as well.

"Since Mr. Gu is busy, I won't bother you, let's talk again when you're free."

Afterwards, turn around and walk away.

Yusra Lin was stunned.

In the next second, I heard the man next to me, with a cold start to his lips, "Stop!"

The cool and stubborn temperament woman stopped and stood there, but didn't look back.

Yusra Lin couldn't help but frown as she saw this and shouted out in aggravation, "Si Qian..."

It was only last night that she was suddenly allowed to come over and stay by his side.

Yusra Lin didn't know what the reason was.

Just know that three days ago that night, she had prepared the entire day to use her beauty and body to seduce him as a last hurrah.

But I didn't expect the man in front of me to be moved at all.

No matter what she did, he looked at her with nothing but sarcasm, not to mention the valley of owed expectations a man should have.

This knowledge was simply frustrating to Yusra Lin.

She just realized that what she had always thought she was, people really didn't care about.

Sometimes, she even wondered if this Gu Si Qian was a real man or not.

Because she really didn't want to believe that there was any other man in the world who could look at her standing naked in front of him and not change his face in the slightest.

It even threw her out like she was seeing some kind of trash.

She was reluctant, but there was nothing else she could do.

However, just when Yusra Lin thought that there would be no other chance.

Last night, Gu Si Qian suddenly sent someone to look for her, saying that she was allowed to go to the main building, and, moreover, to accompany her to the side.

Yusra Lin was stunned.

There's a feeling of a sudden pie in the sky.

She didn't dare have a moment's delay, so she even went over there.

That's how we got to this scene today.

Yusra Lin is also a well-informed and quite clever person.

She was initially unable to grasp the reason why Gu Si Qian suddenly allowed her to stay, and could only take a tentative step closer.

The good news was that in the face of her deliberate display of affection, Gu Si Qian did not show his disgust as he had done on previous occasions.

That was why today, Yusra Lin could only snuggle into his arms so boldly and still dare to call him by his name.

Seeing that Gu Siqian had remained silent, a sense of crisis rose in Yusra Lin's heart.

The smile on her face also became a little forced, and she softly said, "Si Qian, didn't you just say you wanted to take a nap? Why don't I help you up to rest."

Kusken tilted his head and looked at her face, his eyes narrowing shallowly.

"Tired?"

The exit voice was actually gentle as never before.

Yusra Lin was startled.

Quickly responding with a flattering smile, he shook his head evenly, "I'm not tired."

"Then sit with me a little longer."

The man's tone was low and dark, with an unexplainable, s*xy magnetism.

Said, fingertips also gently fondle the skin of her waist, the two movements and tone of voice, both extremely ambiguous.

Yusra Lin couldn't take it anymore at once.

The voice came to my ears with a nice aroma that belonged solely to the man, and it just felt like a glass of old wine soaked in poppies.

She softened for a moment.

As if his bones had gone soft all over, he snuggled into his arms and nodded his head nicely.

It was only then that Kusken withdrew his gaze and stared once again at the figure with his back to him.

It was as if he didn't even want to say a word of nonsense to her, and said directly in a cold voice, "I promised you what you proposed last time, but you have to understand that this is only temporary, and even if you help me find that place, it doesn't mean that you can atone for all the sins you committed before."

Georgie stood there and smiled coolly.

The irony spread up from her heart to her mouth.

She sneered, "Boss Gu wants everything left and right, but he just hasn't thought about whether or not he can afford it, and if you want to find me to pay back for the crimes you committed in the beginning, I'll also ask you for the eighteen lives of the Vermilion Bird Society that fell under your hands in the first place!"

Gu Siqian was not afraid at all and said coldly, "I'll wait for you to want it."

"Then it's a deal!"

She said, never looking back at him again, and strode away.

The man behind her watched her back as she left, his eyes deep and then deep again.

In the end, that handsome face, in the end, was still completely gloomy in its thin anger.

Yusra Lin didn't know about the entanglement between these two, but just went by a woman's intuition that there was something between these two.

So, a subconscious wake-up call rose.

Seeing that Bella Qiao had left, she then asked curiously, "Si Qian, who is she? You guys..."

Her tone was puzzled, and her eyes, too, were unabashedly curious.

Kuskan looked back at her, coldly.

There was nothing in her eyes that Bella Qiao had shown her when he was still in love with her.

There was only a million miles of frost that sealed his eyes and his heart like ice.

He said in a deep voice, "What did you call me?"

Chapter 772

So, naturally, there was no need to inform Gu Siqian of such a thing.

Ober went straight to his study, walked away with a hundred thousand dollars from the castle's public ledger, transferred it to a bank card, and, taking the card, went out to find Georgie.

Unexpectedly, only just after coming out, he ran into Yusra Lin who was returning from the main building.

Strangely enough, the castle was huge, with three or four secondary buildings in addition to the one main building.

Gu Siqian naturally lived in the main building, while Yusra Lin lived in the innermost one, the secondary building, and there were three remaining buildings, all of which were vacant.

This time, when Bella Qiao came over, Ober originally thought that Gu Si Qian would have a separate building for her.

But I didn't expect that Gu Siqian would directly ask him to place her in the building where Yusra Lin lived, and also beautifully said that there were too few servants in the castle, and that it was not good to live too far away to take care of her, and that she couldn't be separated.

God knows, there were already dozens of servants in the castle just sprinkling around.

Not counting the other servants, another building out to live in is fully taken care of.

However, since it was Gu Siqian's order, there must have been some deep meaning in it, and it was hard for Ober to say anything.

Just another thing that puzzled him even more was that even if it was okay to let Bella Qiao and Yusra Lin live together, Gu Si Qian had given a, very subtle order.

Say what, the owner of the secondary building is now Yusra Lin, let the servants of the house, have any matter directly to her, do not need to bother him with everything, but whenever Yusra Lin made a decision about her building, Ober could not interfere arbitrarily.

What does this mean?

Isn't it like, in the old days, when the emperor gave a palace to a certain concubine, and everything in this palace was left to the concubine to make her own decisions.

Although the emperor has the final interpretation, he does not intervene in ordinary affairs.

It's just as well, the castle is big enough anyway, and it's okay for Gu Siqian to give someone a building whenever he's in a good mood.

But the point is, now that Jackie is living in it.

This means that the palace, which belonged to this consort, is now inhabited by another consort.

First came the hosts, naturally, and then the guests, and it was not uncommon for the women to fight among themselves over men's affairs.

Add to that the fact that Yusra Lin was such a calculating and mean natured person, wouldn't that make all kinds of trouble for Bella Qiao?

When he thought about it, Ober couldn't help but sigh.

It seems that the young master still hasn't put that incident from back then behind him.

Although he already knew the reason for this, Ober couldn't say anything else, so he could only do as he was told to do by taking care of Si Qian.

She came to the secondary floor, handed her bank card to Bella Qiao, and gave a few words of explanation before leaving.

And as he left, he was just seen by Yusra Lin who was following him.

When she saw Ober give Bella Qiao's bank card, she knew that there really was something between Bella Qiao and Gu Si Qian.

Huh? Trying to steal her man? Don't even think about it!

She thought this, dropping her eyes slightly, but for a moment, she counted on it.

Just as well, Gu Siqian's temperament is such that even she can't seduce him, let alone this gentle woman in front of him.

She would like to see how good this woman could be, not knowing that the more you actively approach someone like Gu Siqian, the more annoying he would be.

Now that he was already a little annoyed with himself, he might as well let this woman, too, come up to him, and maybe he would find that she was still more thoughtful and interesting than this woman.

With comparisons, there were advantages and disadvantages, and when the time came that she didn't need to do anything, Gu Si Qian would naturally get rid of her.

Thinking this way, Yusra Lin Fang put her mind at ease and turned to leave.

On this side, Yusra Lin had been calculating in her heart, but on the other side, Gu Siqian had suddenly received news that the first wife of the domestic Gu family had come over.

Mrs. Gu is Gu Changhai's original wife, back then, Gu Changhai cheated on Gu Siqian's mother, Yunlan, she was the one who stepped forward and pierced Gu Changhai's mask.

But the two did not divorce, and, all these years, Mrs. Gu even shone a lot of Buddha on Gu Siqian.

Although, Gu Si Qian never bothered to pay attention to her, but because one, she didn't do anything too excessive, and two, in that incident, in the end, the person at fault was not her, she was just a victim, so although he had never been close to this lady, he never really loathed hating her.

After years of shining a light on the Buddha, even if it's superficial, there's ultimately some affection.

This time Mrs. Gu was out on a trip and just happened to be passing through the area, so she came over for a small stay for two days, and he couldn't refuse.

But thinking of the two women in the house and the plan he wanted to implement next, Gu Si Qian couldn't help but frown.

Back then, when Bella Qiao was still with him, Mrs. Gu had made it clear that she didn't like Bella Qiao as a woman.

But at that time, Gu Si Qian didn't bother with her opinion.

So it's not moving at all.

But this was a sensitive time, and he didn't want Bella Qiao and Mrs. Gu to have any more arguments.

For one thing, Bella Qiao must have been too lazy to say anything to Mrs. Gu, so he would probably choose to turn a deaf ear to her attitude.

But it's not surprising that in such a relationship, the more you stand tall and turn a deaf ear, the more the other person will make a scene.

Secondly, deep in his heart, hidden deep down, he didn't want Bella Qiao to suffer.

It's just that even he doesn't see it and won't admit it.

Thinking of this, Gu Siqian called to Ober and instructed, "Go to the side building and say a word, don't go out or come over if you have nothing to do in the next few days, just tell you what's going on and don't come over to me."

Ober also knew what was at stake, and even agreed to go down.

After giving the order, Gu Si Qian ignored the matter and continued to do his own thing.

Mrs. Gu did indeed arrive that afternoon.

After not seeing her for a long time, she was still as concerned about Gu Si Qian as ever.

Gu Si Qian was also as polite and cold to her as ever.

She was ordered to set up a guest room and didn't even have dinner with her before going back to her own room.

Mrs. Gu didn't care, and stayed on as usual.

Rather, the attendant maid who had been following her and had come out from China together, Little Red, was a little angry at the sight of her.

In the middle of dinner, he said to her, "Madam, look at the third young master, you came all the way over here to see him, but he's like he can't see you, and he won't even accompany you to dinner, no matter what, you're at least his elder...."

However, before she could finish her sentence, she was interrupted by Mrs. Gu.

Mrs. Gu said carelessly, "Little Red, you don't understand this, do you."

Red stared at her, dazed.

Mrs. Gu said: "He's not my own son, his mother, and I have those problems, here, you've seen his ability, do you think my two useless sons, can be his opponent?"

Chapter 773

Crimson was startled, and although she didn't want to admit it, she had to say that the Eldest Young Master and Second Young Master were indeed inferior to Gu Siqian.

She hesitated for half a second before finally telling the truth, "No, no."

Mrs. Gu laughed without a care in the world.

Like a sigh, sighed and said, "Yes, they are no match for him, Changhai is old again, this Gu family's promising rivers and mountains, in the end it will be simply clear whose will be whose, you say that I, as his stepmother, have never brought him up or lived with him, the mere hint of affection he has for me is just not as good as a random maid grabbed here."

"Faced with this situation, what do you think we're going to do for mother and son if we wait until Changhai is really old and gone?"

Crimson was completely stunned.

She just looked on, dissatisfied with the way Gu Si Qian was treating her.

But not even thinking deeply about them.

Mrs. Gu shook her head and sighed again.

"Do you think that I really enjoy running into my rival's territory, looking at what she left behind, caring for the son she left behind, and trampling my pride and dignity and face into the ground?"

"I didn't like it, I had to do it, the Gu family is having a hard time right now, but at least there's a descendant out there who can hold up the fort."

"If even he is gone, the Gu family is truly finished, and when the Gu family is finished, we're finished, and that's how it is with the so-called one flourishes and the other loses."

She said, her eyes deep, deep voice: "Plus, Gu Siqian is a man who knows how to repay his kindness, even if we didn't give him any kindness, as long as the face of the sentiment to, in the future, if it really comes to the time to fight for the family fortune, even looking at this only some thin face, he will not be too harsh to us mother and son three, do you understand?"

Crimson stayed put.

It was completely unexpected that this was what was actually on her mind.

She lowered her head as if she were a little afraid and a little resigned.

In a low voice, he said, "Eldest Young Master and Second Young Master may not have no chance, so why are you so aggravated..."

Although her voice was lowered, it was still heard by Mrs. Gu without a hitch.

She raised an eyebrow and asked, "Is it really aggravating?"

Heh. And how can you be aggrieved?

If her two sons really have a chance to get the inheritance of the Gu family in the future, then she will be fine, and if not, she will be able to plan for the future by showing her goodwill now.

It's just a double insurance policy, so what's the grievance?

But that's obviously not what she's going to say to Red.

In the end, it was just a maid, with shallow eyesight, and all she saw was always some rope head in front of her, so it would do no good to talk to her any more.

Mrs. Gu shook her head and stopped talking.

Just then, however, there was the sound of a car engine outside.

She froze slightly and asked, "Who's driving back?"

Little Red was also stunned and said, "I don't know, Young Master is in his room, he didn't go out."

After a pause, he added, "I think it's Ober, they're the only two who can drive in and out of the interior of the castle."

But Mrs. Gu shook her head.

"No, Ober just finished serving us dinner and went to the back garden, I saw him go over there with my own eyes, so it can't be him."

She paused and commanded, "Red, go out and see who it is."

Red nodded and went out in a flurry.

Soon, in less than a minute, she rushed in.

It didn't look good.

She ran to Mrs. Gu's side and whispered, "Madam, it's a young woman."

Mrs. Gu was startled.

Women?

Is there a woman in Gu Siqian's life?

She was tense, and the knowledge made her heart, which had been very relaxed, tense.

She was trying to show Gu Siqian goodwill, but that didn't mean that she was willing to sit back and watch Gu Siqian get married and have children.

After all, her own two sons, to this day, have not produced children.

This position of the Gu family's eldest grandson must not be someone else's turn to sit.

Thinking so, she stood up immediately.

Said, "Go see who it is."

I said, and walked out as first.

Crimson saw the situation and followed suit.

Outside, Georgie just happened to be returning from outside.

She was out on an errand today, because Ober had said that she was free to use the castle's vehicles as she pleased, so she was out in the castle's car.

There wasn't really anything special to do, but it was just to give Tang Qi Qi the bank card of 100,000 yuan that Ober had given her last time.

She knew that Tang Qi Qi was now working as a waitress inside a nightclub for a very low monthly salary, not to mention the hard work, and most importantly, it was dangerous.

Tang Qi Qi was different from her, she was the kind of person who had fallen to the fence and dared to pull the emperor down.

People want to take advantage of her, only to be sold by her before they take the advantage.

But Tang Qi Qi was different.

Tang Qi Qi was the kind of girl who was very good and honest, she didn't want her to go down the wrong path or be bullied in any way, but she herself couldn't be around her all the time to protect her and keep an eye on her, so the only way to get her out of that place was to give her a new job as soon as possible.

But whether it's changing jobs or leaving that lifestyle, you can't do it without money.

That's why Bella Qiao asked Ober for 100,000 yuan and took it to give it to her, all because she remembered what Tang Qi Qi had said before about wanting to own her own clothing shop.

100,000 isn't a lot of money, but it's enough as start-up capital if you want to open a small storefront.

None of the shops here are too expensive, and you can still get a lot of goods in for $100,000 after paying rent and a deposit.

As for the future, it was up to Tang Qi Qi to walk on his own.

She was just trying to pull her along, but she wasn't going to keep holding her up to move forward, and she was ultimately responsible for her own life.

So, Bella Qiao just gave her the money, explained to her what she was doing, and said nothing else.

When Tang Qi Qi first heard about it, he refused to take the money.

After all, she also knew Bella Qiao's current situation, 100,000 yuan was not a small amount of money, it was too heavy for her to accept.

However, Bella Qiao says that it's right to borrow her and just pay her back if she makes money in the future.

Tang Qi Qi listened, which was only reluctantly accepted.

After accepting it, she was naturally inevitably asked where the money came from, and where she was working now, etc.

Jackie naturally had answers to deal with it.

She was only told that she was staying at a friend's place and was helping her friend with her work and that the money aspect was her own salary that she had advanced in advance, so she had nothing to worry about.
