

Catch Me If You Love Me

Episode 79

The old doctor looked up at her in surprise.

“You... have you ever given birth to a child, don't you know?”

But when she raised her head and looked at Zoey Gu with a pale face, with an unspeakable look, she put down the medical records and stood up.

“You follow me inside and I will check it for you.”

Zoey Gu bit her lip and walked in behind the old doctor, took off his clothes, and lay flat on the small bed behind the curtain.

The old doctor had been practicing medicine for many years, and she knew what Zoey Gu was in her heart after only a check. But in order to give her the most evidence-based answer, she opened a list and handed it to her.

“Go for a check and I will tell you the result later.”

Zoey Gu nodded, her strength seemed to be drained, and she walked out of the clinic like a corpse, numbly lining up for examination.

For the first time in her life for more than 20 years, she felt that the waiting time was so long and so suffering.

After about forty minutes, a head suddenly appeared in the examination room and called her vigorously.

“Zoey Gu, the results of your inspection are out.”

Zoey Gu took the order and was shaking all over. The distance from the examination room to the consultation room was not too far, but she was in a cold sweat.

The old doctor put on her glasses and glanced at the list, then looked up at Zoey Gu, and told her with certainty.

“According to the results of my observation and examination of your body, you have indeed given birth to a child. And judging from your physical reaction, the time is not short...”

In an instant, the whole body's blood went straight to the brain.

Zoey Gu stared at the old doctor's closed lips blankly, her ears roared and she couldn't hear anything.

She came out of the consultation room mechanically, sat on the bench outside the consultation room trembling, bent down and held her face, crying.

Lydia Lin lied to her.

She once gave birth to a child.

In terms of age, she is already four years old.

Even though the child was born to her and a strange man who insisted on her, it was her blood.

Knowing the existence of the child, she wanted to see him madly.

can...

Lydia Lin, the only one who knew where the child was going, had evaporated from the world. Who else in this world can help him find someone?

Despair and helplessness, like vines, crazily entangled in her heart.

At this time, the elevator door not far away opened, and two doctors in white coats walked out side by side and talked.

"You know? The vegetative in the inpatient department suddenly reacted yesterday. It's a well-known tracing detective who was seriously injured in a car accident not far from the hospital."

"I heard that the caregiver discovered it early in the morning. His fingers reacted first and his eyes blinked during the period. People from the authority department visited to see it today and said that the signs are slowly recovering, maybe someday they will recover suddenly. Up."

The speaker has no intention, the listener has the intention.

Hearing this, Zoey Gu's hand holding her face stiffened, and suddenly raised her head to look in the direction where the two doctors were leaving, and the whole person trembled with excitement.

It's a missing person detective, he is about to wake up!

After getting this recognition, Zoey Gu suddenly stood up from the bench and ran to the end of the corridor without thinking.

She is going to see him!

As long as he wakes up, she will be able to know the truth about the death of her father and brother in the first place, and she will hopefully find her own child!

She didn't even take the elevator. She rushed to the top of the stairs like a gust of wind and walked downstairs directly.

Just jumped over the safety gate, and instantly ran into the oncoming person!

The other side staggered back a few steps, and after seeing that it was Zoey Gu, he suddenly raised the volume.

“Zoey!”
