

Chapter 810

The next morning, Yin Group.

Yin Luo sat on her black office chair, and from time to time she used her slender fingers to press the mouse and slide it on the large black mouse pad, staring at the content on the computer, with serious expressions all over her face.

After a while, there were two knocks outside the high-level, atmospheric white wooden door.

Before Yin Luo looked up, he said faintly "in."

In fact, you already know who it is without looking at her. What she asked Lin Lin to do should have an answer today, and she probably knew the knocks she had heard for so many years, and the knocks of familiar people.

How is it? Yin Luo only slightly raised his head when he heard Lin Lin come in, and put down what was on hand. Crossed his fingers on the table and asked seriously.

Lin Lin smiled, showing her standard eight teeth, and replied respectfully, "President, everything is ready. If you want, you can set off to inspect the construction site now."

Well, let's go now. Yin Luo nodded and simply cleaned up the documents on the desk, then stood up from the office chair, picked up the bag hanging on the coat rack, and put the phone in. Going out.

Lin Lin immediately stepped forward to help Yin Luo open the door, and then followed her closely.

Lin Lin stared at Yin Luo's slender back, a flash of hatred in her eyes. Yin Luo couldn't be proud of her for long, and even to be precise, she might not see the sun tomorrow. Thinking of this, Lin Lin felt a little more comfortable. After she reported to her husband that Yin Luo was going to inspect the factory, the husband said that as long as she led Yin Luo to a place, he would leave the rest to the husband.

There was a sullen smile at the corner of her mouth, someone who was so wicked and cruel like her husband, who never treated the enemy softly. If Yin Luo is to be recorded by him, I am afraid that he won't live long, and the strength of the husband is beyond doubt.

They took the elevator downstairs together, Lin Lin stretched out her hand and made a gesture of asking, "President, the car going to the construction site is over there."

Yeah. Yin Luo nodded indifferently, and walked to the white Mercedes arranged by Lin Lin. There were already two bodyguards and a person in charge in the car, so they were ready to set off for the construction site.

There are also a lot of people going to the construction site. Every time I go, I can feel the hard work of the people at the bottom of the society. It's okay in cloudy or cold weather. If in the hot summer, the red and big sun shines straight on their backs and heads, they often sweat. Men who have been working on construction sites for a long time, no matter how white their panels were when they were born, they will look like black charcoal after a few days.

Although it is not the hot summer anymore, the sun is still hanging high in the sky, shining fiercely on the ground, and the sand on the construction site has become hot because of the direct sunlight.

After they arrived at the construction site together, Lin Lin got out of the car and walked quickly to Yin Luo to help her open the car door. Yin Luo wears flat shoes on his feet, and he feels particularly at ease when he steps on the ground mixed with sand, mud and big stones.

After Yin got off the car, a group of people followed her into the construction site.

They walked to a special office place on the construction site, and the supervision engineer had already been waiting there after receiving the notice.

How is the project going on this time? Is it going well? Yin Luo asked with a serious face, sitting opposite the supervision engineer.

Everything is going well, and the project has been halfway. Mr. Yin, how about I accompany you to patrol, and then tell you concretely on the road, how about it?

The supervising engineer looked at the woman in front of her earnestly. She was pretty. If she was coquettish, a woman would definitely be more attractive to men. It's a pity that she has always been expressionless, revealing an aura that no one else should be near. And there is also a noble temperament, such as the most beautiful thing in this world, not to be desecrated by others.

It's a pity that he has promised others to do things, take money from others, and eliminate disasters with others. This time he can only say sorry.

Okay. Yin Luo said concisely, and then followed the supervision engineer to the construction site.

The weather was still very hot, and the workers did not care about the hard work of building bricks by bricks. In fact, she prefers to go to the field for inspections rather than talking here. Quality and environmental protection are especially important. They must not be careless. These two points are most in need of supervision.

Moreover, she wants to see the completion process of each project with her own eyes, so that she knows the project and how much hard work and sweat the workers have put in, she will even cherish every money that comes to it.

Right. Yin Luo suddenly looked back at Lin Lin behind him, "After I leave, follow the old rules."

Seeing that the president was about to fall into a trap, Lin Lin suddenly turned around to talk to her. She was guilty of a guilty conscience, and she was shocked.

What's the matter? Yin Luo looked at Lin Lin and was startled just now, his face looked a little bad. She seemed to have something on her mind, Yin Luo spoke to her in a normal volume, and she could be frightened.

Ah? It's okay, President, I'm sorry, I just accidentally lost my mind. Lin Lin lowered her head, a pity that piously admitted her mistake.

Yin Luo didn't see a woman like this the most, and said quickly, "It's okay, how can people make mistakes?"

Thank you, President. Lin Lin nodded hurriedly. Fortunately, Yin Luo spoke well and was stupid enough to see that there was nothing wrong with her. Otherwise, the plan might fall short because of her.

Yin Luo had to repeat it again, "After we leave, you follow the old rules."

Yes, President. Lin Lin replied, and then desperately flattered, "President, you are so kind. When you come, those employees will have benefits. They praise you privately."

Let's go. Yin Luo always didn't like these flattery, if there were no such workers, then where did the money she made come from. So there is no good or bad to do these, it's just what she should do.

Under the leadership of the chief engineer, Yin Luo and his group came to a construction site. It is a big place. Among all the buildings, this one is conspicuous, because this one has the tallest building at present.

The chief engineer pointed to the five-story building in front and explained to Yin Luo, "President, look, this is the highest floor at present. I have checked all the buildings many times, including materials, appliances, etc. There is no cutting corners. The quality of the project is absolutely no problem, and we also pay great attention to environmental protection and other issues. And the workers are also working hard."

Well, I'll take a look on the other side. Yin Luo replied coldly, saying things like this or not, she usually puts her left ear in and out of her right ear. As for whether what he said is right or not, there is a certain degree of credibility, and you have to understand it yourself. But the hard work of the workers is certainly true.

Those workers generally count on a daily basis. For the sake of more benefits, they will naturally let the workers work non-stop so that the benefits can be maximized. But in fact, they are all big projects, with only a few hundred employees' wages. It is also so demanding and too stingy.

Wait for Mr. Yin. The chief engineer immediately stopped Yin Luo, and he smiled at Yin Luo, "You must be thirsty after walking for so long, or you will be waiting for me here, I will get it for you. Here comes a bottle of water."

No, we will do inspections first, and finally take a rest and drink water. Yin Luo refused. Those who have been working at heights also had to work for a long time before they could drink water. Sometimes they seldom take a break in order to catch up, so she is nothing at all for a while.

This... Director Engineering looked at the people behind Yin Luo and hesitated, "Mr. Yin, you don't think you are tired. The people behind you have not rested for a long time. Or I will take them there. Get some water to drink, and you will walk here alone first?"

Yin Luo looked back at the few people behind him. Although they had been standing, they wouldn't be very tired. She looked at Lin Lin who was closest to her and asked, "Are you thirsty? Need a rest?"

I... I seem to be a little tired. Lin Lin knew that the chief engineer had deliberately distracted them, otherwise someone would protect Yin Luo, and that would not be foolproof. Or accidentally hurting others is not good. That's why this time I changed my previous image of being serious, winking, responsible, and modest in front of Yin Luo.

Because the former Lin Lin always put work first in front of Yin Luo and would not think about herself easily, so Yin Luo would easily believe in Lin Lin. I thought Lin Lin was really tired this time, but this time she only cared about her inspection work and didn't take them into consideration.

Okay, then you will go with the chief engineer to get water and drink. If you feel tired, take a break by the way. I'll just go around just by myself, don't worry about me.

Okay, then I'll take them away first. When the chief engineer heard Yin Luo's answer, he breathed a sigh of relief. Fortunately, there were no accidents. If not, it is really difficult to handle because of the large number of people.

At this time, a tall but pretty bodyguard stood up. He looked at the chief engineer and said, "No, I'm not thirsty or tired at all. I can accompany the president on tour."

The bodyguard's eyes were staring straight at the chief engineer. He seemed to be guilty of conscience, and kept avoiding his gaze. So the chief engineer must have a problem, and he can't leave the president.

What's your name? Yin Luo walked up to the bodyguard and asked. She admires him a little now. She can go to lazily and rest openly, but now he is very honest and wants to stay with her.

President, you can call me Xiaohuo. Xiaohuo introduced himself concisely.

Okay, Xiaohuo. She remembered him, and when she returned to the company, she reused him. He was so honest and loyal to her just now, so she should reward him to take a good rest, "It's okay, you go with them, I will be fine alone, and I'm very lucky."