Chapter 2661

Nollace chuckled deeply and pulled Daisy into his arms. "It's okay. After all, our babies will be born in summer."

Daisy caressed her distended stomach with a smile on her face and said, "Summer, huh? I wonder if they're Taurus or Gemini."

He kissed the top of her head and said, "Either is fine."

Meanwhile, at the Kong Ports....

Waylon chose to take their wedding photos in Cameron's hometown. The photography team that followed them helped many celebrities take their wedding photos. They were professional, but they charged high prices.

They took their wedding photos in Monte Jade, Kulon, Mahogany Town, and Causebay. They did their outdoor shooting in Crestmoon Bay, Lover Pond, and Bridgeport Island.

They would change their attire for each location, and they were all branded and custom-made in different styles.

From morning to afternoon, they went through all of the sites one after another and took almost a thousand wedding photos.

Cameron was so exhausted that she threw herself on the bed after they returned to their hotel.

"I didn't think taking wedding photos would be so tiring."

Both of them walked side by side, feeding popcorn flakes to each other.

Although Cameron could not enjoy other food, she was still very happy.

"Cameron?"

When Cameron heard someone call her name, she turned her head around to see Minzy walking out of a restaurant.

Cameron was stunned for a moment and looked toward Waylon.

Minzy did not expect to run into Cameron and Waylon here in the Kong Ports. She walked toward them and asked, "What brought you guys here?"

"Umm... We're here to..."

"We're here to take our wedding photos," Waylon said as he wrapped his arm around Cameron's shoulders. "We're going to have our wedding next month. We need to take some wedding photos, so we picked this place."

Morrison massaged his temple. "You must be kidding me. I suggest you drop your thought. Madam Hera would never sell that dress to you. When the princess of Stoslo got married, she also wanted that dress, but Madam Hera refused to sell it. In the end, she had no other choice but to spend $10,000,000 to rent it for one day."

Besides, Madam Hera wouldn't simply rent her wedding dress to anyone. A few celebrities wanted to rent the dress from her, but she rejected them..

Waylon chuckled and said, "Of course, I'm just going to rent it from her. I can offer her any price she wants, and I promise that I'll return the dress to her in one piece."

Morrison sucked in air through his teeth. "I can't believe that you really are going to spend so much money so that your wife can put on that dress."

"Even the princess of Stoslo wants to put on the dress, so of course, I'll give my wife the best."

Morrison nodded. "Fine then. I have always heard people say that a married man is the most irrational. It seems like they're right."

He picked up his phone and continued. "I'll send a message to her, but I can't guarantee you anything."

Waylon squinted. "If she doesn't say yes, then it'll be your problem."

Morrison rolled his window down and said, "Don't worry, Cam. Wayne will only be gone for a few days. Cone, I'll drive you home."

Cameron went back into the car and looked at Morrison. "Do you have any idea what he went back for?" Morrison looked at her through the rear mirror. A hint of amusement crossed his eyes as he said, "I'm not going to lie to you. The reason Wayne is heading back to Stoslo this time is to borrow a wedding dress from someone."

Even though Waylon had told him to help him keep the secret from Cameron, he decided to tell her to get back at him for tricking him last time at the restaurant.

Cameron was dumbfounded. "Lend a wedding dress? Why doesn't he buy one instead? Why does he have to borrow one?"

"He has his eyes set on a vintage-style wedding dress, and it's not a guarantee that he'll be able to get it. After all, getting the person to lend him the dress is not an easy task. When the princess of Stoslo got married last time, she spent $10,000,000 to rent it for one day."

Cameron was shocked. "$10,000,000 for a day?"

Morrison nodded. "Yes. The wedding dress requires a high maintenance cost. Let alone it's the princess who rented it. Wayne really is going to spend a lot of money this time."

Cameron was slightly stunned.

'That's why he said it's very important to our wedding? So, he went back to Stoslo just to borrow a wedding dress for me?'

Damon suddenly thought of something and grabbed the man. "Where is that guy?"

"He's still in the garage. We're currently interrogating him."

Damon told them to stay back and rushed back to the garage himself.

The man was tied to a chair inside the garage. Two men were interrogating him, but he refused to say a single thing.

Damon walked in and punched him in the face, sending him and his chair rolling on the floor.

"Damon!"

The rest of the people hastily went forward to stop him.

Damon pushed them away and kicked the man on the ground to vent his anger on him.

The man was wailing on the ground in pain, and there was blood lining the corner of his lips. To prevent Damon from killing him, two men came forward and stopped him. "Stop it! You'll kill him!"

Damon flung them away and grabbed the man up from the ground, his eyes red with anger. "Who instructed you to do that!?"

The man coughed a few times, and his face was contorted with pain. "I dare you all to kill me."

After saying that, Morrison could not help but blame himself. "I should have persuaded him not to go there alone."

Maisie staggered backward, and Nolan supported her.

Nolan then looked at Morrison with a serious expression. "How is he doing now?"

Morrison replied, "He's still in the operation theater. They said that his injuries are grave and he needs an operation."

“What happened to Wayne?” Colton was standing in the entryway and just so happened to overhear what they were saying.

Morrison turned, saw Colton, and was stunned for a moment.

‘Is that Wayne’s younger brother? The resemblance is uncanny.’

Colton walked over. “Dad, I’ll travel to Stoslo. Wayne got into an accident. I can’t just sit here and watch from the sideline without doing anything.”

Nolan responded, “I’ll go with you. I have to take a look at your brother’s condition. No matter what, we must get to the hospital to ensure that he gets out of danger.”

Colton went upstairs to pack his luggage, and Nolan grabbed Maisie’s hand. “Zee, I might have to leave for a bit.”

After changing into Waylon's clothes, Colton shocked Morrison when he came out of the room. "Jesus, you look exactly the same."

'The twins already look very similar, but they're almost identical with some slight changes.'

Colton straightened his coat. "Let's go to the hospital."

Morrison nodded. "Okay."

At noon, Colton pretended to be Waylon and got discharged from the hospital under Damon and Morrison's protection. Damon opened the car door for him, and after Colton got into the car, Morrison and Damon got into the driver and front passenger seats.

After the car drove away, a man hiding not far away looked astonished, and he could not help but frown." How is this possible? His injuries were so serious..."

He thought of something and immediately called someone, "Wayne Goldmann has already been discharged from the hospital. His injuries seem to be fake."

Damon nodded and blocked Evelyn's sight. "Ms. Woods, I'm sorry, but Master Wayne doesn't want to see you."

Evelyn left the villa in frustration. She got into the car and could not help but clench her hands.

'If he had treated me better, I might've told him about Jamie's scheme. I really didn't expect him to be this ruthless.'

In the villa...

Colton sat down on the couch with a cup of coffee. "Has that woman been pestering Wayne all this time?"

Damon replied, "Not really, but we all know that Ms. Woods has always taken a fancy to Master Wayne. When Master Wayne brought his wife here last time, she actually did something that made Master Wayne ban her from the Night Banquet."

Colton drank the coffee slowly. "Then how did she know about Wayne's accident?"

"I want to know that too. Could it be Morrison? After all, Morrison still doesn't know what Ms. Woods did, and he's rather close to Ms. Woods."

Damon wondered if Morrison had blown the gaff.

Colton shook his head. "Morrison knows about our plan, so it shouldn't be him."

Damon walked over. "Master Goldmann."

Nolan whispered something in his ear, and Damon went into the interrogation room and talked to the police officer.

The police officer nodded and looked at the man. "It doesn't matter now, even if you don't want to talk because someone has already identified you."

The man refused to believe it. "That's impossible!"

The police officer took the tablet from Damon's hand and placed it right in front of the man. "Does this man look familiar to you?"

The man froze immediately.

He had been caught speaking with a middle-aged man in a parking lot!

'But I was extremely cautious with everything I did!'

The officer added at this time, "I think the person planning everything behind you has to abandon at least one of you, so he can only sacrifice you in order to protect himself. Anyway, since you're willing to take up this responsibility, we can just let him go now, can't we?"

Just when the police officers were about to send someone in to convey the message, the man finally spoke. "It's Jamie Ramsay! He's the one who ordered me to do so."

Waylon's expression turned cold and stern. "He's taking revenge on me for this?"

"Anyway, that b*stard truly didn't like you to begin with. Now that we're sure he's behind all these shenanigans, he's not getting away from us."

At that time, Jamie, who was staying in the hotel, still did not know that he had been exposed. After getting it on with Evelyn, he comforted her. "Don't worry. Since he's been treating you so heartlessly, I'll surely teach him a lesson for you."

Evelyn turned her back to him and remained silent.

Hearing the doorbell ring, Jamie thought his men had returned, so he wrapped himself in a bathrobe and got out of bed to open the door.

Damon kicked him down before he could clearly see who the person standing outside was.

Damon then broke into the room with his men, and Colton came in after him, still playing the role of
