Chapter 2671

Morrison smiled widely. "Madam Sadusky, you know that he didn't stand you up on purpose. He really wanted to borrow the wedding gown from you."

Hera looked up and adjusted her glasses. "He can come and get it. Why are you here?"

"I did it for him. He will only be able to come and see you after half a month, and then it will be the wedding. If you can't lend it, he won't be able to explain it to his wife."

Morrison sighed. "He almost lost his life because of this wedding dress."

"Do you think that's my fault?"

"No, I wouldn't..." Morrison walked to her. "Madam Sadusky, why don't you lend it to him? He really wants to borrow it. Even if it's just for half a day."

Hera arranged the dried flowers, placed them in the vase, and walked to the cupboard with the bottle. "I'll see him the day before his wedding."

Morrison didn't know if this meant she agreed to it. He explained to Waylon, who smiled. "Thank you anyway."

“Dad went to the De Armas.”

Meanwhile, at the De Arma mansion...

Nolan and Louis were chatting in the living room. When Louis found out about Waylon’s accident, he asked, “How is he?”

“After a week of resting, he’s almost fully recovered. He’ll be discharged next week.”

Louis picked up his teacup. “Next week? But I heard that his wedding was on the 9th?”

Nolan raised his brows. “What can we do? We delayed it to the middle of the month. Valentine’s Day is a good day for a wedding too, right?”

Louis paused, then chuckled and slowly sipped the tea. “That’s true. February 14th is a good day.”

“Who’s having a wedding on Valentine’s Day? Wayne?” Ryleigh walked in with some pastries.

Louis smiled. “Who else other than your godson?”

She remembered something and turned around. "This must have cost a fortune."

Waylon walked next to her and stopped. "It doesn't matter as long as it makes you happy."

"We only have one wedding. My dad will say that I'm wasting money if he finds out."

Waylon smiled and pulled her into his arms. "If he finds out that I spent money to borrow a wedding dress, will he probably pass out?"

Cameron had nothing to say.

Waylon touched her hair. "We only get married once in our lives. I don't want to leave anything out." The wedding design director walked over and asked, "Are you happy with the decor?"

Waylon looked at Cameron. "Thank you. My wife is very happy about it."

Cameron looked down at the dress. "It's unbelievable."

“Take a look.”

Cameron walked to the mirror and saw herself in it. She looked as if she was from that era. She looked beautiful and elegant but still fit into the romantic fashion of the era.

Hera walked out of the changing room and said to Waylon, “Take a look at your bride.”

Cameron turned around and was a little abashed when she saw Waylon outside. 2

Waylon looked at her and smiled. “You really are breathtaking.”

All the newspapers in Bassburgh were talking about the wedding of Wayne Goldmann, and since the wedding was open to the public, the media were allowed to attend it.

Daisy was heavily pregnant when she walked into the ballroom with Nollace. The reporters were there to interview them. They asked when she would be returning to acting, and she smiled and said, “I’m not in a hurry. After two years.”

When she was asked if she was worried about losing her place in the industry, she smiled and joked. “My sister-in-law is a great screenwriter. Why would I be worried that I won’t be able to get a role?”

There were a lot of guests there. Other than the Goldmanns, the Bouchers, the Lucases, the Pruitts from Octavia, and the Southernns were there too.

Colton clicked his tongue. "I want you to miss it."

Daisie wasn't happy about it.

Nollace chimed in. "Don't worry. We'll just kick him out of our wedding."

Colton chuckled. "Do you think you can?"

Nollace smiled. "It's not the first day you met me."

Freyja was tired. "Are you kids?"

These two just had a problem with each other. Everyone else was laughing.

The wedding was about to begin when the lights dimmed. The night sky lit up.

The master of the ceremony walked out on stage and excitedly said a few words of congratulations.

Next, the bride and groom were going to enter.

The crowd turned back to look and saw Mahina, the Maid of Honor, raising the veil with Morrison, the Best Man.

Cameron walked out, holding Waylon's hand. She had a bouquet in one hand and was holding Waylon with the other while they slowly walked in.

Chapter 2676

The news of Waylon and Cameron's wedding had been widely discussed on the Internet. In addition to the beautiful and spectacular scene, a lot of them were also talking about Madam Hera's vintage wedding dress.

The vintage wedding dresses that the masses had overlooked were starting to get more attention thanks to their wedding. A lot of the netizens also showed their grandmother's wedding dresses that they wore when they were young.

The first appearance of Daisie in front of the media after her pregnancy also hit the headlines.

Many netizens thought she would retire from the entertainment industry since she was the princess right now.

However, after watching Daisie's interview, all of her fans settled down and expressed their respect for her decision. No matter if she chose to retire from the entertainment industry or not, they would still be her fans.

The Fog hit number one in the ratings after it was released for some time. Shannon and his partners invited several of the lead actors to dinner.

Daisie arrived at the restaurant at 1:00 p.m. with Nollace.

Shannon and the rest came out to welcome them. "It has been a long time, Daisie. I thought you were not coming."

Nollace was rendered speechless.

Daisie stomped on James’ feet and said, “You’re still as talkative as always.”

It was almost evening when they finished eating. Daisie and Nollace walked Shannon and the rest to the door.

Shannon enjoyed the gathering immensely. He turned to Daisie and said, “Although people always say that there will be no market for actresses after giving birth and that younger actresses will replace them, I don’t think so.

“For me, good actors or actresses have nothing to do with age. Daisie, you don’t have to worry too much. Get as much rest as possible. If I come across a good script or see any role that’s suitable for you in the future, I’ll let you know.”

Daisie smiled and nodded. “Don’t worry. I’m sure we’ll have the chance to work together again in the future.”

After Shannon and the rest had left, Daisie turned around to look at Nollace. “I don’t know why, but I feel that I’m pretty lucky.”

The entertainment industry was a place where fame and wealth were above everything. However, despite that, she was still able to meet with people like Shannon and Charlie, who did not get close to her because of her family background.

Apparently, he was cutting ties with her.

Roxy's pupils constricted, and she asked, "You're breaking up with me?"

Zephir looked at her indifferently and said, "Yes. I don't see a future in our relationship. Besides, I'm tired."

His mind had been telling him that the woman in front of him was not the real Daisy whenever he saw her.

However, he lied to himself and treated her as Daisy.

It was just that Roxy would never be Daisy. They were two different people, and there was no way anyone could replace Daisy.

"Zeph, why? Did I do something wrong?" Roxy grabbed his hand. "Why are you breaking up with me? Is it because of Leah?"

Roxy had gotten plastic surgery to look like Daisy. Although she did not look exactly like her, one could see some similarities between them when they observed closely.

Since Daisy could become popular, Roxy could become famous as well.

The middle-aged man put on his jacket and said, "I can help you with that, but make sure you keep your lips tight."

Roxy chuckled. "Don't worry. I will."

After a few days, Roxy became an artist under Tenet Media with the middle-aged man's help. When the manager at Tenet Media saw Roxy, he was stunned.

This was the first time he saw someone who looked so much like Daisy.

Soon, the rumors about someone who looked a lot like Daisy began to spread in the company.

When Charlie heard the rumors from his assistant, he harrumphed and said, "So what if she looks like her? Do you think anyone can replace Daisy? Those people must be out of their minds."

Nollace had heard their conversation and sent a message to Charlie.

Other than becoming the leader of a girls' group, Roxy also made her debut on a show with the title 'Daisie Jr.' and received a lot of attention on the internet.

Not only did she look like Daisie, but she also dressed like her. Some of Daisie's fans were disgusted by her, but some of them were amused.
