Chapter 2691

“You, on the other hand, do you know why I’ve been asking you to take birth control while also asking you to use skincare? You’re different from the other women because you don’t know when to be content. I knew this day would come.”

Zephir pushed Roxy away.

Roxy looked like a flower that wilted.

“You said that you’re pregnant? Why don’t I ask the doctors to check if you can get pregnant?”

Her pregnancy was fake because she just wanted a way out. But why? Why did he have to be so cruel? She laughed. “If you knew, why did you keep me by your side? Because of this face?”

“You knew you were just a replacement but still stayed because of the money and status. I had said that I wouldn’t take you too seriously. We were just getting what we needed. Do you really think that you’re good enough to make me stay? Just because of that face? That’s so stupid.”

Zephir’s mind had always been clear, but he pretended that wasn’t the case. Roxy had been under the impression that Zephir wouldn’t get tired of her just because she looked very similar to Daisy.

However, when Freyja saw that people started to talk about her work on Thither, she was excited about it. She was at least getting some recognition.

Suddenly, she received a call from Leia. “Freyja, I heard Norman say that you and Donny are back to get ready for your new movie. How is it going?”

Freyja got up, walked to the window, and then smiled and replied, "The crew is building the set at the Kong Ports, but we won't start filming soon. We need to train the actors first."

Leia teased, "You're starting to become a famous screenwriter now. Going big soon?"

"It doesn't change anything. Do you want to come here?"

Leia paused upon receiving her invitation, then smiled. "Don't worry. I'll be there on your wedding day."

After the call ended, Freyja went downstairs and saw Deedee playing with Charm in the living room. She walked over and patted her head.

"Deedee, do you want to go back and see your grandfather after the summer break?"

Freyja took Charm into her arms. "Are you unhappy?"

"I don't even have a choice." Colton chuckled helplessly. He put socks on Charm. "You mother and daughter are both in on this. You're bullying me."

Freyja said to Charm, "Kiss your daddy, or he will be unhappy."

She moved Charm closer, and the latter planted a sloppy kiss with saliva on Colton's cheeks. Colton was annoyed but still hugged both of them and kissed them back.

Deedee wrote an essay. 'My Dad is a Star' and got first prize in her year.

When she read out her essay during the assembly, all the teachers felt sorry for the little girl who had lost her dad.

Freyja and Colton were there at the beginning of the school year event. They stood outside her classroom and listened to her reading it.

Freyja pressed her lips together, but Deedee saw her through the window.

She smiled and waved at her to cheer her up.

Cameron tried to talk back but had no retort.

"He's right. You just can't sit around. It would be terrible if you bumped into something."

Cameron had nothing to say. Were they treating her like a child?

Waylon carried her back to the garden, where Sunny and Damian were playing chess in the pavilion. Damian looked up and teased, "Where did you go to have to be brought home like this?"

Sunny smirked. "You're pregnant but still act like you're a wild child. How could we not be worried?" Cameron took a deep breath and looked at Waylon. "Put me down!"

After he did, she walked into the pavilion. "Oh, chess. Dad, aren't you ashamed of your skills?" Damian snorted.

Sunny looked up. "You're upset that I lectured you, so you're challenging me now?"

"Look at the board. How many of your pieces were taken already? Why can't I call you out for being terrible at this?"

Sunny choked. "You-"

The butler smiled and said, "There aren't a lot of young people who can play chess now. They're both doing very well."

Sunny nodded.

Nick was really outstanding. Sunny had accepted him as a disciple because he saw potential in him. His martial arts skills weren't too far off from Cameron's either.

If Waylon hadn't shown up, he would have wanted Nick to be his son-in-law.

Sunny was absolutely proud because both his son-in-law and disciple were connected to him.

Their match turned out to be a stalemate.

Damian walked closer. "Oh, both seem to be in good standing, and there's no way to determine who wins."

Nick looked at Waylon. "That was exceptional. I have no idea what move should come next."

Waylon smiled. "You're being too modest. There aren't a lot of people who can stump me."

Cameron crossed her arms. She had to admit that her game was terrible.

Mahina walked over and whispered, "I don't understand what is going on. Who won?"

Picking up his cup, Sunny chuckled, "I raised Cam as a son for more than 20 years. She had a fiery temper before I sent her to the military school."

Nick did not say anything.

After a long while, Sunny looked at him and continued. "Nick, although you're my disciple, I've long treated you as my son. My wife passed away early, and now Cam is married. I think I've already lived my life to the fullest. Now, I'll just have to wait until death comes and claims me."

Nick's pupils flickered, and he said, "You are in good health and are still far from the end of your life."

Sunny chuckled. "I still have about 20 to 30 years left, but it'll come sooner or later."

Nick took a sip of tea.

"When are you getting yourself a wife, then?"

James’s head was blank as he walked onto the stage. After he took over the award, he would give a

Everyone in the audience seats chuckled.

The host laughed and said, “You’re a real actor now, Mr. Tell. Since you can receive this award, it means that everyone has acknowledged you. This isn’t a dream.”

“I... I don’t know what to say,” said James, his voice thick with disbelief. “I feel like the sun has risen from

Chapter 2698

Nobody knew what was going on in the delivery room. Maisie and Nolan were worried about Daisie, while Freyja and Colton were waiting with bated breaths.

Nollace was pacing back and forth in the corridor.

He knew that labor was a dangerous process. Even though medical technology nowadays was advanced, the women giving birth would suffer more or less.

Two hours later, the doctor came out of the delivery room. All of them gathered around him and asked,

How is she now?"

The doctor was stunned for a moment, but he soon came around to his senses and asked, "Are you all her family members?"

"Yeah."

Nollace hastily pressed on. "How is my wife?"

"The baby is too big for vaginal delivery, so we have no other choice but to perform the cesarean section. We need one of you to sign the consent form."

Nollace suddenly grabbed the doctor by his collar. Veins were bulging out of his forehead as he said, "I want to go inside. I want to stay by her side."

The doctor hesitated.

Nollace placed her hand on his lips and chuckled. "Yeah. It took you such a great effort to give birth to them. If they dare to disrespect you in the future, I'll beat them up."

Daisie laughed. "They'll be as good-looking and smart as you. I don't think I can bring myself to beat them."

A week later, the news of Daisie giving birth to triplets swept through Bassburgh. All of her fans were excited and sent their blessings to her. Even Cameron and Waylon also rushed back to Bassburgh to see Daisie.

Inside the ward, Cameron looked at the three swaddled babies in the crib. She couldn't help herself and poked their faces. "I can't believe you actually gave birth to triplets, Daisie. You're so awesome."

Daisie let out a bitter smile and said, "It would be even better if one of them was a baby girl like my mom's case. I bought so many dresses and dolls, but all of them have gone to waste now."

Although she kept saying that she wanted a baby girl, she still adored her three sons very much whenever she looked at them.

Waylon stretched his arm and petted her like he used to do in the past. "Alright. It doesn't matter if it's a baby boy or girl. What matters the most is that all of you are safe."

She offered Waylon a smile and said, "Thank you, Waylon."

Chapter 2700

If Diana were not the queen, she would have gone to see her daughter-in-law now.

Rick, sitting beside her, let out a helpless smile and closed the book. "If you really want to see them so much, you can just make a video call with Nollace."

Diana jerked up and said, "Then what are you still waiting for?"

Meanwhile, at Taylorton...

Nollace was learning how to change the baby's diaper with the nanny when he suddenly received a phone call from his mother. He stepped aside and picked up the call. "Mom?"

"I want to see my daughter-in-law and my grandsons now!" Diana shouted at the top of her lungs, causing Nollace to bring the phone away from his ear to save himself from the shouting.

He frowned and answered helplessly, "Alright, alright."

Daisie was in the next room and heard Diana's voice. She came out and asked, "Is that Mom?"

When Diana saw Daisie through the video call, she got up anxiously and said, "Daisie, how can you get out of bed? You just had an operation. You need to rest more. Look how skinny you've become. I'm so worried about you."
