

Chapter 12

Lilah's POV

It has been a few months a er Xay and Hazel moved into their own house.

I walked into the kitchen, hoping to have a nice quiet, peaceful breakfast. Only to find half of the pack in our kitchen. In other words all of our friends and family.

I only needed one look at everyone to know today was going to be disastrous. I should have stayed in bed or went out for breakfast.

I was still in the doorway inspecting everyone when Noah gave me a strange look asking what is wrong, making everyone's attention shi to me.

I don't know if I should thank my cousin for getting people to stop the chaos, or mad at him for the attention.

I just shook my head mumbling "everything". If I didn't have to use my wolf senses to hear Xay whisper "teenagers".

"Don't talk to fast brother, just wait 13 more years and you will know what it is like to have one of your own." he just rolled his eyes not getting what I am saying.

Everyone turn away, going back to what they were doing. I roll my eyes getting some breakfast.

As I took my first bite, I heard a gasp making everyone in the kitchen turn to the sound.

"What is wrong baby? Are you okay? What happened?" Xay quickly made his way towards Hazel, fussing, being the overprotective mate he is.

Her gaze met mine "I'm pregnant?" she questioned, but it came out as a statement.

Putting a piece of toast in my mouth I nodded. Didn't I already say that?

And like another switch was flipped, the kitchen was in chaos again. People congratulating them, hugging them, Mason grumbling about Xay knocking up his daughter too early.

Hazel came up to me giving me a bone crushing hug.

Thankfully a er a while people's started eating and the only sound in the room was the cutlery against the plates. You got to love werewolf metabolism.

When I was done eating, I turned towards Lexi, looking her up and down.

"What's wrong" Lexi whispered, trying not to draw too much attention. Really?

"Everything" I grumbled, standing up pulling her with me "it is time for you to go outside."

With a lot of protest from everyone, gasps, and comments about being rude, I pushed her outside making Ace growl at me.

"What is wrong with you? Why are you kicking my mate out of the house?" Ace said angered. While everyone followed us outside.

When we were on the grass, I stopped pushing her, looking around satisfied with our location I turn towards her "okay, we're good here."

"Okay? Good for wha... Ahhh!" she fell to the ground clutching her stomach. "What is happening?!"

Everyone turn towards me, silently asking me the same question.

What is this? Should I write a book about werewolves? How can they not know the answer to this?

"What do you mean what is happening to her? Every wolf goes through this. She is shi ing." I said a bit annoyed.

Ace quickly makes his way over too her rubbing her back whispering words of encouragement into her ear, trying to soothe the pain.

"What do you mean my little girl is shi ing? It is still two more weeks until her sixteenth birthday, she is too young" Xander says accusingly

I can see in Chase's eyes that he is happy she is shi ing early although he feels bad that she is going through this much pain.

I turn towards Xander confused "I don't make the rules, it is not my fault she is shi ing. I'm only stating the facts."

He hu s at my answer before turning his attention back to his screaming daughter.

A er a few minutes she is fully shi ed into her beautiful red-brown wolf.

Chase's POV

I can't belief my brother actually has a pup on the way, I am so jealous, but I can't even say it out loud because Lex would scold me about not being patient.

When Liley shoved my mate out of the house I had to remind Orion that she is my sister and we can't kill her, but now seeing my mate is taking my breath away.

She shi ed early.

Nothing in the world could make me happier. She is perfect, so beautiful!

She walks up to me and sni s me, before jumping up, putting her front paws on my shoulders licking my face.

How the tables have turned. She wil not hear the end of this. How long did she make me work until she forgave me when Orion did this to her?

I couldn't keep the smirk o my face. I rub my hands through her so fur earning a so purr from her. This is perfect.

I made the mistake to push her back down so I can shi into my wolf so we could go for a run earning a mixture between a growl and a whine.

Not even bothering to take my clothes o and angering her more, I shi into my wolf form.

For the next few hours we were running through the woods playing going for a swim and letting our wolves get to know each other.

When we made our way home we went behind our separate trees to shi back and change into some clothes.

I made my way out behind the tree in just some pants waiting for her. She came back in just a oversized t-shirt. As she looked into my eyes her smile grew as she said 'mate' before she ran up to me jumping into my arms wrapping her so , smooth legs around my waist.

Before I could say anything I felt her teeth sinking into my neck making me freeze in shock before I pulled her closer silencing a moan in her neck.

A er a while she pulled away, she looked into my eyes, while I couldn't keep the smirk o my face. So much for not marking the same day as she shi s. And she can't even blame me for this one.

She gives me a sheepish smile before saying "don't even say it" and burying her face back in my neck inhaling my scent.

"I love you" I say holding her impossibly close, I don't think I will be able to ever let her go again. I don't even care what our parents will say about this.

Malia's POV

I was sitting in my room studying. Or with all the events of the day, it was more like distracting myself.

My door burst open and Liley walked in flopping down on my bed laying on her stomach, cuddling up with one of my pillows.

"You don't have to be sad" she whispered. Sometimes it is a curse to have a sister who knows all your feelings, but right now is not one of those times.

I stand up walking over to her falling next to her as she pulls me into a hug, as a silent tear streams down my face.

I have never gotten along with my siblings as well as I wanted, always being the odd one out, but I feel safe and comfortable in Liley's arms.

It is ridiculous. How can someone who is constantly around people feel so lonely.

Since Liley got older our relationship got better, and she is always there for me, but I still can't help feeling envious of my two brothers who has their mates.

I want that too.

I don't know how long Liley was silently holding me in her arms while I cried before she whispered "Want to go for a walk? It will help make you feel better, I promise."

I nod getting up, putting some shoes on as we made our way outside. It will be getting dark soon, so I was a bit hesitant when she started walking towards the woods, but I followed without complaint.

The sun was setting when I heard a noise not far from us, making me question my life choices and why I followed my 13 year old sister into the dark woods.

My thoughts got cut short when a mountain lion came running ready to catch its prey. US!

I looked towards Liley, who didn't look scared or like she was about to do anything about it.

I was about to shi when someone dropped out of a tree above us landing on the mountain lion like an expert, easily killing it.

The shirtless, muscled man with sky blue eyes and dirty blonde hair stood up locking eyes with me.

I said the words I never thought would leave my lips "mate".

I dropped to the ground as my knees gave away, a few tears streaming down my face.

My mate is a vampire.
