a

a

a

a

a

a

å

a

ď

a

a

a

a

å

đ

Seth's POV I was born a vampire. There are not many of us in the world, because it is almost impossible for a female to survive a vampire pregnancy, resulting in both the female and the child to die. Born vampires become fully matured at the age of 20, than we never age further. For vampires who were turned, their aging only slows down to one year for every five years that passes. I am 370 years old. I move around a lot. I almost never stay in one place for more than twenty years. It increases the chances of too many people finding out about vampires. Because I move around that much. You meet a lot of people, make friends and alies all around the world, trustworthy people. People who decide they want to join me on my travels until they find a better reason to stay in one place. It was time to start looking for a new place to go. We were currently only five people traveling together. The twins, Allegra and Arlo. Both equally stubborn. Then there is Enzo, he is quite and doesn't really open up to anyone, the only reason he is still sticking with us is because I'm am forcing him to. I have know him for a long time and a er his beloved passed, I couldn't allow him to go into the darkness of depression and self pity. There is also Valcyrie, another born vampire, she is a great warrior, who was seen more than one person is supposed to in a lifetime, traveling with us to try and remember there is still good le in the world. And lastly Sebastian, he is the youngest and only trafeling with us in hopes of finding his beloved. I was pulled out of deep thoughts when someone curled onto my lap, or should I say something, how can I corget to introduce my favorite girl Flower, she is a Fennec Fox. She has more ears than any other and has been traveling with us ever since.

body part but she crawled into my heart when I saw her the first time way through the house towards the back door. It was a thirteen hour drive but we finally made it in one piece. I was a bit shocked to see the new place we were going to live in. It was at the edge of town near the woods, a modest looking place.

"Okay, is everyone ready to go? We have to leave." I say making my

We take turns in choosing the new place to live in, and the twins chose our new location and they usually go for something over the top like a mansion when they pick. We were finished unloading, when we decided to go for a run and everyone to get high in the trees out of sight. I saw werewolves doing their nightly patrol, we usually try to keep our distance from werewolves. It is not like we are enemies or

It was starting to get late when I heard a sound, I signaled for explore the woods.

before her eyes.

It shattered my heart.

paths with. We just like to stick with our own. Werewolves can't easily smell us if they don't concentrate on it or we are not covered in blood.

anything, but you never know the tipe of people you might cross only they could unknowingly pick a place right next to a werewolf pack. We waited in the trees until they were far enough away to come

I turn and gave the twins a look, I don't know what I was expecting, down. Seb was the first down, when we heard more voices making us freeze on our spot. How can the guards already be making another round of patrol? What is this place Fort Knox? But instead of the guards like we expected, there were two girls walking in the woods, neither of them old enough to even be in their twenties, but both radiating more power than I have felt in a long time. Out of nowhere, came a mountain lion, ready to attack them. What are they even doing alone in the woods this time in the evening.

I stood frozen expecting them to run or at least do something, but both of them just stood there like it is just a friendly neighborhood cat. That is a bit overreacting, the older one of the two looked like she regretted coming into the wood and was ready to see her life flash

Right as the mountain lion was about out to jump on them I used as much speed as I can getting closer jumping out of the tree, snapping the mountain lion's neck in the process. I look up million thoughts running through my mind. Do I scold them for being alone in the woods? For being wreckless? For not protecting themselves? Or do I explain why I am in the woods?

All my thoughts was cut short when I looked up to see the most beautiful grey eyes in the world, I always thought grey eyes would look dull and lifeless, but I couldn't have been more wrong. I heard the most angelic voice say 'mate', her voice. Than she dropped to her knees tears streaming down her face.

I have never been one to go out of my way searching for my beloved, I

I stood frozen not knowing what to do, do I go to her and demand an knew I would find her if it was meant to be, but I never thought that she would be sad to meet me, would want to reject me.

I can't do the latter, a er seeing her, it would break my heart, she is already buried deep haunting my thoughts, e ecting me.

explanation or do I leave and act like I never saw her.

purple eyes? She looked around before saying "You have company, that's nice. Do they want to come too?"

where?" "Our house of course! It is getting late we should get back before they send a search party for us, those usually end with a big speech. It has been a long day, I can't sit through a speech now. And we have cake." 考 even sure if she accepts me. She was still on her knees on the ground looking like she is having trouble breathing.

The young girl was still walking, Arlo right beside her at the mention

"I know I know stu, but this is not how I expected this to go. What is wrong with you people! Mal stop being dramatic, you have been hurry up already, for vampires you are very slow. "

Everyone just gives me a confused look.

face asking "you're still here?"

of cake. She turned to look back to us.

waiting years to meet your mate can you at least say something or do something! Mr Vampire, get yourself together and pick my poor sister up out of the dirt, I think she went into shock. Can everyone please

My vriends are instantly next to the young girl, and I have to say they look a bit scared or maybe it is annoyance at being called slow.

I don't have time to think about this, I have other things on my mind. She wants me, she has been waiting for me for years. With inhuman speed I am next to her, picking her up, cradling her in my arms. She is light as a feather, so small and fragile. She unknowingly snuggles deeper into me. She fits into my arms so perfectly. đ arms loving the breathtaking smile on her face. "Seth!" I look up to see a everyone waiting for me to join them.

"I'm not going anywhere, love, ever." I say squeezing her tight in my

I hope you enjoyed my new chapter! Should I put another character list in to remind everyone of the names and ages and how they fit in the book, because I added a lot of characters and had a time jump, or are everyone keeping up. Please let me know.

Vote & Comment♥

"Took you long enough! Do you know how close that was? You had me worried for a second." the younger one of the two girls said. As much as I didn't want to turn my gaze away from my mate, I couldn't help but look at the young girl confused. Does she have I look at her confused how can she know that? I couldn't even hear them, but then again I wasn't concentrating on them. It took me a few seconds to process everything she said before I asked "come

She bent down picking Flower up. Where did she come from? "Aren't you a pretty little thing?" she said holding Flowers tight in her arms. "Come, come! The sun waits on no one it will be dark soon." she said turning and starting to walk the opposite direction. I looked at my beloved, not sure what she wants me to do. I'm not

I know how you feel. Her so voice whispers 'mate' like she is trying to convince herself. I look down kissing her tears away whispering back 'I'm here, love.' She looks up into my eyes, pushing some of my wild hair out of my

I slowly take my first step towards them. I guess it's time to meet my beloved's family.