

Contract Marriage With Mysterious President

Chapter 101 His Hickeys

"Mr. Carter, you don't have to hire so many nutritionists. I'm just 40 days pregnant. I will be fat as a pig if you keep feeding me like this!" Amy was annoyed and said frankly.

"What's wrong with that? I think pigs are cute." Hearing her complaint, Richard knew that the nutritionists had started to work.

"I... You won't understand!" Amy was even angrier.

"Then did you feel sick after eating the food they recommended today?" Richard asked her.

"No." Amy thought for a moment. It was true that she didn't vomit after eating what they prepared.

"Well. Then you should listen to the nutritionists. They are very professional. I've told them that you don't want to eat greasy food. You can't even smell it. It hasn't been long after you got pregnant, but you are too thin. You need more nutrition. I'll go back and have dinner with you tonight. OK?" Richard said gently.

It was the first time that he had been so patient to a woman. In the past, when Allison got angry, he would buy her a meal or give her a gift. He would not spend so much time talking to her.

But he was afraid that Amy would not eat anything, so he tried his best to cheer her up.

Amy thought about it and felt that Richard was right. The nutritious food had eased her morning sickness.

"Alright then." Since Richard just said that he would have dinner with her, her anger soon disappeared.

She started to look forward to the evening.

Richard was relieved for she agreed. And he was happy to know that she didn't vomit this afternoon.

When Robin called and told him that she was sick, Richard was very anxious. Therefore, he stressed it when he recruited nutritionists.

There was still an hour before he could get off work. Richard sped up to read the documents and contracts. He should not work overtime today. He had to go back home and have dinner with Amy.

Time seemed to go faster at work and one hour soon passed. Richard stretched out his arms and legs. He was surprised to see how a date had improved his work efficiency. He finished reading the files within an hour.

Richard bought some snacks for Amy on his way home. When he arrived, the dishes were already on the table. There was more food than usual because of his arrival.

Amy smiled at him when she saw Richard. They had lived together for several months, but she still felt a little uneasy because she just found that her husband was her boss. "Mr. Carter, dinner is ready. You can wash your hands first." Seeing that Mr. Carter had come home to have dinner with his wife, Robin thought that Amy had become an important person to him.

"Alright." Richard glanced at Amy. He suddenly felt that it was nice to have someone waiting for him at home. Why didn't he notice it before?

There were two types of dishes on the table. One was for Amy and there was no oil at all, but it was very nutritious.

And the one for Richard was fried in oil.

While eating, Amy saw several red marks on Richard's neck. It seemed that someone had kissed him and left the hickeys.

Richard was not with her last night. Did he go to Allison again? He didn't even cover the hickeys. She could see them so clearly.

Amy lowered her head. The joy in her heart was gone due to the marks. Richard did not know that Amy had seen the marks caused by his allergy to seafood. He just kept picking the food for her.

Amy was a bit annoyed. She felt sick when she smelled the grease in Richard's dishes.

She covered her mouth and ran into the bathroom.

Amy threw up the entire meal and felt that her stomach was empty.

Someone patted her on her back gently and handed her a glass of water.

After rinsing her mouth, Amy leaned against something behind her. It was warm and comfortable.

But she still felt hungry. It was really disturbing. She would feel sick if she ate. But she would be hungry if she didn't.

There was a familiar smell. Amy knew that it was from Richard, but she didn't want to look at him. She couldn't bear to see the hickeys.

When Amy went back to the table, she found that Richard's food had been taken away. There was only food for her now.

If she hadn't seen the hickeys, she would be moved by this. But now, she just felt jealous and annoyed.

After having some bites, Amy lost her appetite. She had just vomited and was too weak to eat anything.

"You should eat a little more, for your health." Richard said with concern.

"No. I'm afraid I'll throw up again." Amy started to feel dizzy.

"Let me take you upstairs." Richard walked over to hold her arm.

"It's okay. Just finish your dinner. I am fine. I can walk by myself." Amy didn't want him to see her cry.

Richard didn't ask again since she insisted.

He went to see Amy later, but she was already asleep. She was pregnant and needed more rest, so Richard went to the guest room.

After he left, tears flowed down Amy's cheeks. She put one hand on her belly, thinking, 'Baby, what should I do? What should I do?'

In the following days, Richard had dinner with Amy at home every night. Moreover, the food was mainly prepared according to Amy's nutrition needs. Richard also ate the same food and the servants didn't serve greasy food again.

Occasionally, Amy would go to clean the apartment she rented. She would move in when her father returned.

Her father had almost recovered from his illness. He was under observation in France now. Amy felt sorry since she was not there when he had the operation. When her father returned, she would spend more time with him and help him to improve his health.

Amy knew that she could always rely on her father.

"Amy, I will come back the day after tomorrow. I'm finally going home!"

Stephen called Amy. He was happy because the operation was very successful. And he could take care of his daughter when he recovered. __

Chapter 102 Stephen Returned Home

When Stephen walked into the arrival hall, he immediately looked around for Amy in the crowd. It had been four months, and he missed his daughter very much. However, he did not see Amy. Just when he got a little disappointed, someone walked over and said,

"You must be Mr. Stephen. I have been waiting for you. Please come with me." The man took Stephen's bags and led him forward.

"You are?" Stephen wondered why his daughter hadn't come.

"I'm here to pick you up. Your daughter is not well and can't come. It's too crowded here." The man explained to Stephen.

In fact, Amy was probably still angry with Richard. She was going to pick up her father this morning.

However, she wasn't feeling well today. She kept throwing up and couldn't eat anything.

Therefore, Richard asked her to stay home. And he called for a doctor to put her on intravenous drip.

"Amy was ill?" Stephen was very nervous. Amy didn't have her mother around since childhood. He had brought her up by himself.

"No. She is pregnant and has morning sickness. The master is worried about her and didn't let her go out.

Don't worry. Mr. Miller, you will see her when we get there." The man explained.

Stephen was relieved that his daughter's sickness was caused by pregnancy instead of diseases. Her mother also had morning sickness when she was carrying Amy. At that time, Stephen spared no efforts to take care of her. Although she left him afterwards, Stephen did not regret it.

"Matt is really a good man. He has always been nice to Amy." Stephen said with a smile.

The man didn't know what to answer. Matt? The manager of Wilson Group? What did he have to do with Mrs. Carter?

When they arrived at the villa, the man quickly showed Stephen in. Amy was lying in the living room on a drip while Richard had gone to work. Amy was still annoyed and didn't want him around.

"Amy!" Stephen felt like crying when he saw his daughter's pale face. "Dad! How's your journey? Is everything alright?" A smile brightened her face when Amy saw her father.

"It's alright. Amy, are you feeling better? I heard that you had morning sickness. You must be careful. It may be helpful to eat something sour. Your mother used to eat that when she was pregnant." Stephen said.

He told the servant beside him to get something sour for Amy.

Some oranges were soon brought to Amy.

Stephen went to wash his hands and peeled one.

"This one should be sour enough. Have a try. You will like it." Stephen gave one piece to her.

Amy took a bite. It was not sour at all to her.

Robin was stunned. He had just tried one. The taste was so strong that he couldn't help swallowing as he recalled it.

"It's yummy. I want more." Amy liked this flavor. It was sweet to her. Amy soon finished the whole orange.

She wanted another one, but was stopped by Stephen. She would find other food tasteless after eating the oranges. Besides, having too much sour food would do harm to her teeth.

The orange had relieved much of Amy's sickness. She felt better now. "Dad, how's your health?" Looking at her father, who was smiling to her, Amy thought of Richard. If it weren't for him, her father might have died.

"I'm good. I had many tests before I got discharged from the hospital. And there was no problem. The doctor said that I was one of the patients who had fully recovered in their hospital." Stephen was delighted that he had got well again.

"That's great. Dad, you haven't had a meal yet, have you? I've asked people to prepare some food for you. You can go and eat something. We will continue talking later." The intravenous drip was about to be finished. Amy wanted to have a talk with him after it was over. Robin took Stephen to the dining room. The dishes had been served before he arrived.

"This place doesn't look like Amy's home. I remember that Matt and Amy lived in an apartment. When did it become a villa?" The house was so big that Stephen was confused. "Mr. Miller, please have your meal. You must be hungry now." Robin said to Stephen with a smile.

Amy would explain to him. It was not proper for others to say anything. "Right. I do feel hungry." Having been abroad for more than four months, Stephen missed the food of his motherland.

He couldn't eat anything for a long time before the operation. And when he was finally allowed to eat, Stephen found that he didn't like those food. Therefore, he had seldom got a full stomach.

Looking at the domestic cuisine, Stephen was excited.

He almost finished all the dishes. Robin was shocked and suddenly understood why Mrs. Carter had a good appetite. Like father, like daughter.

Stephen put down the fork and started to heap praise on the food. He told Robin that he hadn't eaten any domestic dishes for a long time, and he felt that the food of his country was the best.

When Stephen finished his meal, the intravenous drip was also over. He went back to the living room.

"Amy, when did you move here? This house should be very expensive. Matt is just a manager. How could he afford this?" Stephen was afraid that his daughter had taken a loan. It would take a long time to pay off.

"Dad, I divorced Matt." Amy knew that she could not hide it from her father forever. Now that he had recovered, he might be able to accept it.

"You divorced Matt? Why? What happened?" Stephen had been deceived by Matt. And he hadn't known that it was Matt who made him bankrupt.

"Dad, listen. I..." Amy roughly told Stephen how she was forced into divorcing shortly after she got married. But she didn't say anything about the wedding night. Stephen slapped the table fiercely, which almost broke it.

"How dare he!" Stephen was irritated by Matt's behavior. Fortunately, he had a strong heart now, otherwise, he would have passed out.

"It's all over. And I've got benefits from my misfortune. Don't you think I'm better off now? Dad, your son-in-law had paid for your heart surgery." Amy tried to divert him from anger, and she wanted Stephen to get a good impression of Richard. _____

Chapter 103 A Satisfying Son-In-Law

Amy kept praising Richard, making Robin feel as if Amy and Richard had always been in love with each other.

"But, Amy, why were you dumped by Matt? You are such an outstanding girl. I really can't understand!"

Matt and his daughter were in love for three years. During the three years, although Matt was not very nice to him, he put up with him for his daughter's sake. He had never imagined that Matt dumped his daughter.

"Dad, don't be bothered about that. As the saying goes, this might be a blessing in disguise. Look, I'm very good now, right?" Amy let Stephen look at her.

Stephen sighed and looked at his daughter. She looked very well but he didn't know what kind of person she had married. What if he was a disgusting old man, or even older than him? How disappointed her mother would be?

"Am I late? Sorry, I went to a meeting this morning so I couldn't pick you up by myself." Richard rushed back. He didn't want Amy to go, but he had a very important meeting to attend.

Stephen turned around and almost fell on the ground in fear. 'This man... this man, oh lord! Isn't he

Richard Carter?'

"C... Car... Mr. Carter?" Stephen stammered. Richard was like the king in R City. In the past, he didn't even dare to think of cooperating with HD Group. However, this man just showed up.

"Mr. Miller, please just call me Richard." Richard walked to Amy and asked her how she was feeling today.

Stephen's mouth was wide open, and he was unable to accept the truth.

"Dad, this is your son-in-law, Richard. Don't be shocked. I've told you that I'm lucky!" Amy comforted Stephen. Hearing that, Stephen closed his mouth.

If his daughter was dumped by Matt but married Richard, it was her fortune.

"Mr. Miller, you travelled by plane for so long. Please have a rest in the guest room. Robin, take him to the guest room." Richard said thoughtfully to Stephen.

"Yes. Yes. Alright. I'll take a rest." Stephen was relieved. It was too good to be true. He was happy for his daughter to have such good fortune.

Stephen looked at Amy again and felt that the smile on her face was sincere, so he went to rest at ease.

As soon as Stephen left, the smile on Amy's face disappeared.

Just now, she had used all her strength to reassure her father. Now she felt very tired.

"Are you tired? I can carry you up." Seeing Amy looking tired, Richard bent down to carry her up.

"No, I can go up on my own. I'm pregnant so I need to walk more. It will benefit me when I give birth in the future." Amy was timid to let Richard pick her up in arms in front of so many people.

"You can walk more a few months later. You have serious morning sickness, so move as less as possible."

Richard didn't care about her embarrassment. He picked up Amy and walked upstairs.

Amy was so light. She was not short, but Richard felt she was light in his arms.

"You're too skinny. You should eat more. It's good to you and our baby."

Richard whispered to Amy.

Amy instantly blushed. She felt itchy for his whispering.

Looking at Amy's rosy face, Richard was in a good mood. He was going to be a father, so he had to take good care of the child's mother.

Ever since he found out that Amy was pregnant, Richard had been sleeping in the guest room. He would check Amy a few times every night, but Amy did not know.

"Amy, where have you been recently? You didn't even answer my call."

Hannah picked up the phone and complained loudly.

"Sorry, my phone is not with me. I missed many calls." After she was pregnant, Richard had strict control over her cell phone, so she often couldn't hear the phone ring. She could only call back later.

"Did Richard ground you? Why is he so strict? Shall Hilary and I go to save you?" Hannah thought that Richard was unkind to Amy.

However, Amy could not tell Hannah that she was pregnant. If Hannah knew, Hilary would know, and so would Cathy.

"No, something's wrong with my eyes, so he asked me to spend less time on my phone." Amy found a good excuse.

"It's so boring in the company recently. Why didn't you come to work? Life isn't fun anymore." It had been a long time since Amy went to work. Ever since Richard announced that she was his wife at HD Group, Amy had never gone to work again. She felt embarrassed to meet everyone.

"Hannah, I can't go out now. I'm not feeling very well these days. If you miss me, come and visit me with Hilary." Amy also missed Hannah and Hilary. It had been more than a week since they met.

"Really? I can go and see you? That's great. I'll come and see you with Hilary after work today. What's wrong with you? I'm so worried." Hannah had been worried about Amy.

"Nothing serious. You can come here later." Amy didn't care what Richard would think. Anyway, he had announced that she was married to him so this was also her house. Moreover, she was pregnant, so Richard shouldn't blame her, right? But Amy felt that she should tell Richard first, so she called him.

"Hello, Mr. Carter."

"Hey, Amy, what is it?" Richard was having a meeting but he immediately shushed everyone.

"I want to invite Hannah and Hilary over. Is that OK?" Amy's voice sounded pleading.

Richard smiled, "Of course, that's also your home. Your friends can come whenever they want. Just tell Robin what you want to eat." Richard's voice was drowned in love.

"Alright then, thank you." Amy only heard Richard agree. She was too nervous to pay attention to his tone.

The members of the board present all gaped. Was that soft and gender man their serious cold-blooded president? Were they dizzy? Did they really see the doting smile on his face?

"Alright, let's talk about the sales department!" Richard hung up the phone and his face turned cold again.

Everyone was relieved. They were sure they had been dizzy just now._
Chapter 104 A Luxurious Villa

"Richard is truly the richest person in R City. This house is even bigger than Andy's!" Hannah looked at the villa where Amy lived and praised it sincerely.

"Amy, I think it's quite good for you to live here. The environment is nice and the house is big, although the transportation is not convenient. However, you have cars, so it is not a problem at all." After Hannah finished admiring the living room, she was attracted by the fresh fruit on the coffee table before she shifted her gaze to other places.

"We are lucky. These strawberries are fresh. There are mangosteens as well. They're my favorite."

Hannah's eyes were shining with greed.

"Hilary, your family is so rich. You have to treat us to a big meal. I will rip you off to relieve my envy of you!" As Hannah enjoyed the fruit, she kept speaking.

"Good, suit yourself." Hilary happily agreed.

They romped around in the house. When they were together, they always roared with laughter.

"Come on. Braised shrimps are ready. You like it the most." Stephen came out of the kitchen. He was holding a large pot of braised shrimps in his hand. Stephen was a good cook. Amy had been brought up by him when she was young. He wore two hats at home as both father and mother, so he became a superb cook.

"Mr. Miller, when did you come back?" Hannah saw Stephen and ran over excitedly.

"Hannah! You must be Hilary, right? Amy said that her best friends would pay a visit, so I prepare these dishes. Seeing you, I feel that I am much younger!" Stephen patted Hannah on the shoulder. He watched these children grow up. They were just like his own children.

"Mr. Miller, you are young." Hannah and Hilary both praised Stephen in unison.

"Alright, sit down. I still have to cook two more dishes. They will be ready soon." Now that he was in good health and he didn't need to worry about his business, Stephen felt that he was relaxed.

"Alright, we'll wait patiently. Mr. Miller is the best cook. My mother has learned many cuisines from him!" Hannah said happily.

"I envy Amy for having such a capable father," As Hilary said, she reached towards the braised shrimps.

"It's delicious." Hilary couldn't resist it. It was too delicious, much better than what her mother cooked.

She planned to ask her mother to learn how to cook.

Seeing that Hilary was enjoying the food, Hannah hurriedly joined in. She was afraid that there would be no braised shrimps left in a second.

While Amy had no appetite. She felt a little uncomfortable when she smelled it. She had been two months pregnant. For she had taken some medicine, she didn't have strong reactions to pregnancy.

"Amy, have a try. Why don't you eat it? It will be finished soon." While they were busy eating, they didn't forget to shell a few shrimps for Amy.

"Alright, help yourself. My father can make it for me any time." Amy gave them back the shelled shrimps.

Hearing that, Hilary and Hannah thought it made sense. So, they no longer cared about Amy and enjoyed the food happily.

If it weren't for the fact that the plate was still on the table, Stephen would doubt if he had served the braised shrimps. There were no shrimps on the plate, but shrimp shells piled up on the table.

"Mr. Miller, they are so yummy. We've eaten them up," Hilary and Hannah said to Stephen, embarrassed.

"That's great. It means that I'm still a good cook. Here are braised meatballs and steamed bass." Stephen made many dishes to their liking, but Amy didn't want to eat anything. "This is Amy's favorite sweet cake." Only then did Stephen serve the food that Amy wanted. To cook what she liked was the most troublesome, so it took the longest time. But since Amy liked it, Stephen would cook it no matter how troublesome it was. This dessert was served too late and Hilary and Hannah had been full, so Amy had a chance to have them.

The food was full of her father's love. Amy enjoyed it happily. It had been a long time since she had the food that her father cooked. Ever since her father was hospitalized for a heart attack, Amy had been like a child that no one wanted.

"Amy, I think something's wrong with you!" Hannah suddenly said to Amy. While having soup, Hilary looked up at them.

"What's wrong?" Thinking Hannah might find that she was pregnant, Amy was considering how to explain it to them.

"Are you deliberately leaving the dishes for us? They are so tasty but you want us to eat first. I'm so touched!" Hannah hugged Amy.

Only then did Amy breathe a sigh of relief. She almost told them her pregnancy.

"That's right. You're my guests today, so I want to make you happy. Besides, this is the first time Hilary enjoys the food cooked by my father, and she likes it so much. Of course, I need to let her have more."

Amy was looking so generous and nice!

"Amy, I love you so much." Hilary smiled with great joy. Today, she ate happily and was satisfied.

After dinner, they went to Amy's bedroom to take a look. Hilary had been here before. But Hannah was shocked by what she saw. Was this just a bedroom? It was bigger than her house. The queen-size bed was so comfortable.

Without standing on ceremony, Hannah lay down on the bed and felt it. "I'm relieved to see you live such a good life. Amy, you don't have to go to work anymore. I heard that Allison was hospitalized, but she's coming to work tomorrow. It's annoying to see her. It's good for you to be with Mr. Miller at home." Hannah felt that Richard was quite nice to Amy. It must be fantastic to live in this house!

"Well, I'm not going to work for now. I feel embarrassed in the company." Amy didn't want to go to work anymore. She had got a relatively good job.

They chatted for a while. Even all of them slept on Amy's big bed, they wouldn't feel crowded.

It was getting dark, so Hannah and Hilary were going home.

Amy saw them off at the door, reluctantly to part with them.

"Amy, take care of yourself. We'll call you more often. I find that you're quite tired. You should rest well."

Hannah and Hilary reminded Amy before they left. _____

Chapter 105 Abort the Baby

Amy had been pregnant for three months, and she didn't suffer morning sickness any longer. She ate much, and her baby was good in her belly.

Stephen was still living in the villa. Richard said that Amy loved the food cooked by Stephen, so he asked Stephen to stay and cook for Amy.

Richard was right, so Amy found it improper to insist on her father's moving out. She felt it quite pleasant to have her father keep her company at home.

"Amy, it's been three months. We should go to the hospital to have another check-up." Richard took a day off from his busy schedule and planned to take Amy to the hospital.

"I'll go myself. Business first." Amy thought she could go to the hospital on her own, and there was no need for anyone to keep her company.

"I'd better go with you. Anyway, I've finished my work today, and I don't have much to do tomorrow."

Richard was still worried. He wanted to be there for Amy all the time. Amy didn't insist. Since Richard said so, she believed he had arranged everything well.

As Amy was pregnant, Richard spent more time at home, but he often went out at night. Amy thought that he might have gone to see Allison, so she felt a little flustered. "Mr. Carter, I'm sorry to tell you the bad news. Your baby suffers from congenital physical deformity. We suggest abortion," The head of the gynecology department looked at the ultrasound report and said to Richard.

"What? Congenital physical deformity? Is it serious?" Richard got anxious.

"Yes. Sorry. So far, we cannot see his limbs." The head showed the B-ultrasound image to Richard.

Richard took a look. However, this was Amy's first baby. She was so happy to be a mother. If he suddenly told her to abort the baby, Richard was afraid that she would not be strong enough to stand it.

"Can't we wait any longer?" Richard said to the head.

"We can't wait any longer. Otherwise, the mother will suffer more and it will cause ill effects on her womb. So we have to abort the baby as soon as possible. You are still young. You can have more babies in the future." The head sighed and comforted. She didn't want to see this either. But she had to be responsible for both the patient and the child. A child born with physical disability wouldn't be the only one who suffered. So would everyone around it.

"I'll think about it. I need to go back and discuss it with my wife." Richard had a heavy heart.

"Alright, Mr. Carter. If you make up your mind, please contact me as soon as possible so that I can arrange the operation." She sighed again.

Richard walked out of the office, feeling sad and unfair.

"How's it going?" Amy had a hopeful expression on her face. She felt that her baby was fine and there was no need for any examination.

"Amy, are you hungry? I'll send you back first. I have something to tell you tonight." Richard had yet to figure out how to tell Amy. He wanted to go to the company and think about it.

"Alright, then I'll wait for you." Seeing that Richard's expression was terrible, Amy stopped asking.

Just as they left the gynecology department, Allison came out from the corner. She saw Richard bring Amy here, so she followed them. Now that they left, she entered the head's office.

"Hello, Monica." Allison greeted the head.

"Allison? I haven't seen you for a few years, and you have grown taller and prettier." Monica Neville was a classmate of Allison's mother.

"Monica, you look as beautiful as before." Allison and Monica had a small talk.

After exchanged greetings, Allison got to the point.

"Monica, what happened to Richard just now? He looked a little pale."

"The woman coming with him was pregnant. It's supposed to be good news, but her baby suffers from physical disability. So she will have to abort it." Monica didn't hide anything from Allison and told her.

"Well, this is indeed quite pitiful." Allison knew that Monica was a kind person, so she pretended to feel sorry for Richard. After getting the answer, she said goodbye to Monica. Allison went to the company and found that Richard was working in his office. He probably hadn't told Amy about the news yet. But she came up with a better idea. She could go and tell Amy about it.

"Richard, I know Amy is pregnant, but I don't mind it. Don't force her to have an abortion. Life should be valued." Amy suddenly got this message.

Soon, another came.

"I made a mistake. Amy, don't misunderstand."

Amy deleted both text messages. 'What does it mean? Will Richard ask me to abort my baby? Did he pretend to be nice to me before? But it doesn't look like so.'

A second later, Amy received a call. She saw that it was an unfamiliar number, so she did not answer it.

However, that person was persistent. She kept calling, so Amy could only pick it up.

"Amy, I made a mistake just now. Don't get me wrong and never blame Richard. He has no other choice."

It was Allison who called. Her voice sounded anxious, as if she were about to cry.

"What do you mean?" Amy asked her.

"Amy, I don't mean to hurt you. Richard...I don't want to. The baby is innocent." After Allison finished speaking, she hung up the phone in tears.

Amy held her phone and stared at it blankly. Did Richard intend to abort her baby because he didn't want Allison to become a stepmother? Amy was four months pregnant. How could he be so heartless?

Amy didn't come to her senses for a long time until Stephen called for her for meal.

The food Stephen and the nutritionist cooked was delicious, but Amy found it tasteless.

She didn't know how much she had eaten, but she couldn't have anymore. She had no appetite at all.

She wanted to see Richard and asked him why he wanted to kill her baby.

However, she couldn't be anxious. She must calm down and protect her baby. Her baby couldn't be killed. It meant everything for her. If the baby was aborted, her love and affection towards Richard would disappear as well.

"Amy, why don't you turn on the light?" Richard walked into the bedroom and saw Amy sitting in the darkness.

"Richard, you're back." Amy called Richard in such a trembling voice that everyone would feel heartbroken once hearing it. _____

Chapter 106 Miscarriage

Richard heard Amy's trembling voice and felt devastated.

"I'm back. Amy, are you feeling unwell? Do you need a doctor?" Richard heard Amy's voice and thought that she was sick.

Richard wanted to turn on the lights, but Amy stopped him.

"No, I'm just a little tired." Amy did not say anything and turned to look at Richard.

"Oh, are you tired? Then have a good rest first." Richard wanted to discuss it with Amy, but when he saw that Amy was tired, he felt he should find a better time.

"Alright." Seeing Richard hesitate to speak, Amy knew that he was trying to say something to her. She would not mention it first. But she wanted to see what terrible excuse Richard would use to persuade her to abort the baby.

Richard had Amy lie down and tucked her in. He looked into Amy's eyes that were shining brightly in the dark.

"Richard, are you leaving now?" Amy called out.

"Then I'll stay for a while." Richard wanted to leave and think about how to talk Amy into abortion.

However, Amy wanted him to stay, so he stopped.

"Forget it, just go and do your work. I will be resting." Amy wanted to hear his excuse, but she was also afraid that she couldn't accept it, so she chose to escape.

Richard sighed. He went out and closed the door. He stood at the door and thought for a while. Without any clues, he returned to the guest room.

Amy couldn't fall asleep and tossed and turned in bed. She got up and wanted to pour herself some water. When she arrived at the corridor, she saw that the lights in the guest room were still on.

Richard was very hardworking, and Amy felt sorry for him. She went to the kitchen, cooked a bowl of noodles with a fried egg and was on the way to deliver it to him.

The door was unlocked. Just as Amy was about to push the door open, she heard Richard talking on the phone.

"Allison, listen to me. We can't let it be. We just can't. What about you if we keep it?"

Allison might be arguing with him on the phone, and he was very angry and he shouted loudly.

"I said no. Whatever you are going to say, my answer is no." Then he hung up the phone.

The bowl in Amy's hands fell to the ground and she stood there in a daze.

"Who's there?" Just as Richard's voice came out, he already rushed to the door. As soon as he opened the door, he saw Amy, who was on the verge of collapse.

"Amy?" Richard immediately hugged Amy.

However, Amy went weak and fell on the ground.

Her knees were slit by the broken porcelain pieces on the ground, and she was bleeding.

"Amy, Amy." Richard was anxious. He didn't know what was going on with Amy. He saw the noodles on the ground and realized Amy was going to take them to him. But how did she drop the bowl?

At this time, Richard panicked at once. He bent down and picked Amy up, shouting at Robin for the doctor.

Amy's knees were bleeding, and blood was also flowing out from between her legs.

"Mr. Carter, we can't keep the baby. We have to go to the hospital immediately. It's a sign of miscarriage." The family doctor immediately asked Richard to take Amy to the hospital.

With the cold medical instruments operating on Amy's body, she felt as if her body were going to be hollowed out.

She opened her eyes and saw the white ceiling and she smelled the strong odor of disinfectant.

"My baby, my baby." Amy could feel that the baby had left this world.

"Try to calm down. The baby is... and we are cleaning up." The surgeon was talking to Amy. She was so anxious that the operation could barely proceed.

"Who told you to take my baby away? Give it back to me, give it back to me!" When Amy heard this, she became even more hysterical.

"Hold her. We'll be done soon. Miss, we are cleaning up to avoid a clot. Hold on." When the doctor saw that Amy was out of control, he asked someone to hold her down.

Amy's tears flowed out. Did Richard plan all this? He said that even if they got divorced, she could take the child with her. Was he afraid that she would use the child to ask for money?

'Richard, I hate you, I will never forgive you!'

"Amy, eat something." Stephen cooked chicken soup and sent it to Amy. He didn't know what had happened. His daughter had miscarried for no reason, but at this critical moment, his son-in-law had gone on a business trip.

"Dad, I don't want it." Amy had yet to recover from the pain of losing her baby.

"Sweetheart, eat some. You just had a miscarriage. You should take care of yourself. You can get pregnant again. Don't be sad." Stephen comforted his daughter.

"Okay." Amy nodded.

"Amy, Amy, what happened? Why didn't you tell us you were pregnant?" Hilary received a call from her brother and brought Hannah to visit Amy.

"Tell you what? My baby is gone." Amy's face was pale. No one wouldn't feel heartache when looking at her.

"My brother said that the baby was defective, which led to your miscarriage." Hilary said to Amy.

"Defective? This is a pretty good excuse." Amy sneered. Why didn't the doctor say anything? Instead, Richard said this after Allison sent the wrong message.

Hilary didn't know what to say since she really didn't know anything.

"Hilary, where is your brother?" Amy looked up at Hilary and asked her. Hilary didn't know how to answer. Her brother's wife had a miscarriage and was in hospital, and he wasn't there with her. He was so bad!

"Don't be afraid. Tell me, where is he?" Amy looked at Hilary in hope.

"He...went to France with Allison." Hilary knew that she couldn't hide it. He was going to stay in France for a long time, so Amy would find it sooner or later.

After Amy heard this, she didn't say anything. Everything was clear. Her baby was gone, but Richard left with Allison to have fun. Both of them were cruel monsters!

Looking at the chicken soup, Amy had a desire to drink it. Why should she be so depressed while they were happy out there?

"Dad, give me the chicken soup. I want to drink it." Amy pointed at the chicken soup and said to Stephen.____

Chapter 107 Leave

"Robin, I want to go out for a walk, you don't have to have a driver follow me. My father hasn't returned for a long time, and I'll go out with him." Amy told Robin. She was carrying her bag, wearing an ordinary white T-shirt and jeans as well as white canvas shoes. She looked like a high school student.

"Alright then, are you coming back for dinner?" Robin agreed. Richard asked him to try his best to satisfy any request Amy had. This request was too simple.

"If we come back, I'll call you. If I don't call, then you don't have to prepare dinner for us." Amy said with a smile.

Amy went out with Stephen.

"Dad, you can't always stay at your son-in-law's house. I've rented a house for you. The requirement of the renting is that you must take care of it and clean it, and nothing else." After leaving, Amy said to Stephen.

"That makes sense. I wanted to rent a house a long time ago. However, you've always been busy, and I was not free. I didn't expect that you had rented it for me. My Amy has grown up, and has been very thoughtful now." Although Richard's house was spacious and luxurious, Stephen always felt that it was not proper to live there.

"Then I'll bring you over today. Here are the keys." Amy and Stephen went to the rented house.

"Amy, the house you rented is fantastic. But with such good conditions, it must be very expensive, right?" Stephen was very satisfied with the house.

"Dad, don't worry. The landlord will not come back for the time being. Your son-in-law is rich, so of course I can rent a better house for you. When the time is right, I will buy you one." Amy showed Stephen around the house.

She was planning that in these few years, she could take on more jobs, save some money, and buy a house for her father. She rented this house for several years, which gave her a buffer time.

"Amy, I failed you. I thought I could give you a good life, but now I need you to do it for me." Stephen felt guilty and sorry for Amy.

"Dad, what are you talking about? You raised me up and I am already over 20. So it's time for me to take care of you now." Amy's eyes were filled with tears.

In these twenty years, Stephen was so good to Amy. He was both father and mother, and he also had to develop his own career. He had always been single and did not find a stepmother for Amy. He said that he was afraid that Amy would suffer.

"Good girl." Stephen held his daughter's hand. He had a lot of mixed feelings in his heart, but he couldn't express them to Amy.

"Dad, Richard happens to be away recently. So I'll spend more time with you. I'll stay here as well. We can talk freely now and I always feel uncomfortable in the villa." Amy sat on the rocking chair and looked at the blue sky outside the window. Her heavy heart was finally eased.

"Robin, what did you say? Amy and Stephen are both missing?" More than a month later, Robin finally reached Richard and immediately reported the situation at home to him. "Yes, Mrs. Carter didn't leave the hospital for long. She said that she was going out with Stephen, but she didn't come back. I've sent someone out to look for her, but they haven't found her."

'I called you but you turned off your phone. What do you wanna do?' Robin didn't dare to say this and only complained in his heart.

"Alright, I understand." Richard hung up the phone and asked someone to book a plane ticket to return home.

"Richard, what happened?" Allison lay on the hospital bed and looked at Richard's anxious face. Of course, she knew what had happened.

"Allison, our contract is over. The operation is finished. My obligation is fulfilled. I hope you will remember what you said." Richard wore a long face.

"Richard, how can you speak to a patient like this? Isn't my leg hurt because of you?" Allison started crying.

Her tears irritated Richard even more. He didn't know where Amy had gone. She must be so angry, but there was nothing he could do about it. For the sake of ending the relation with Allison once for all, he had to do this.

"Allison, look, I've been here with you for two months. You told me to turn off my phone and spend these two months with you. And I've done it. I hope you won't break your promise. There are only two days before two months. I have to leave." Richard felt that he couldn't stay any longer.

"You said that there were still two days left. At that time, we agreed that it would be the whole two months. You can't leave one minute earlier." Allison was sobbing again, and Richard was gonna get crazy upon hearing it. He really wanted to turn around and leave immediately. 'Fine, there are still two days left. Just wait.' Richard called Robin and said that he would go back in two days and asked him to continue looking for Amy.

Robin had no other choice. He managed to reach Richard with great difficulty, but Richard wouldn't come back now. He had searched all the places where he thought Amy would go, including Hannah's home.

As a result, Hannah asked why he came to her house, and in the end, he could only say that Amy was missing.

While Robin was looking for Amy throughout R City, he felt as if she had disappeared from the world without a trace.

But in fact, Amy went out once a week. She told Stephen that she was going home to take a look. Then, she would return on time in the afternoon. Stephen did not doubt her. He thought that his daughter wanted to spend more time with him. Since her husband hadn't come back, he enjoyed himself quite a lot.

Hannah did not come to find Amy because Amy left a message to her in advance, telling her not to look for her or ask where she had gone. She was fine and there was no need to worry about her.

Although Hannah did not go to find Amy, she was still a little worried. She did not know where Amy had gone, so she went to Andy.

Andy looked quite calm.

"Amy isn't a child. She must have her reasons for doing this. She has just miscarried, but her husband has gone out with another woman. What would you do if you were her?"

Andy placed the documents on the table and asked Hannah.

"Me? I might make the same choice. Since he doesn't love her anymore, why should they still be together? It's just a waste of time!" Hannah thought for a moment and understood Amy's choice.

"So, Richard doesn't love Amy. Otherwise, he wouldn't have done this.

Amy wants to leave to relax herself, so we don't need to disturb her. Hannah, stay home. You're not allowed to go anywhere!"

Chapter 108 Miss

Andy was worried that Hannah would find Amy and make a ruckus. He knew that Amy was fine and was still working hard.

Amy felt that the company she worked for was especially good to her recently. She had been assigned a lot of documents, but they weren't too difficult. She even felt a little embarrassed to take so much money for such a simple job.

"Erin, have you reviewed all the documents you gave me recently?" Amy asked Erin who gave her the documents.

"Our boss has personally reviewed them. What's wrong? Are they difficult? If they are too difficult, I'll report it to our boss." Erin didn't dare to offend Amy who was appointed directly by the boss.

"No, no, they are a little ... Forget it, I've got this." Amy couldn't tell Erin that these documents were too easy. She could translate one document a day. It was easy money. But since the boss had reviewed them, would she seem unbelievable by complaining it was too easy?

"By the way, Miss Miller, our boss is very satisfied with the quality of your translation. He said that he wanted to raise your payment. We'll pay you 100 more for every thousand words. What do you think?"

Seeing that Amy was about to leave, Erin suddenly remembered it. Fortunately, he did not forget.

"100?" Amy felt that it was like a dream. Was the boss so rich that he wanted to squander his money?

They gave her the simplest documents, but they wanted to pay her more.

Erin saw Amy's shocked expression and thought that the money was not enough. "If you think it's not enough, then I..."

"No, no! You don't have to pay me more. It's enough now." The company had given her the highest payment in the industry, so how could she ask for more?

"The boss said that we needed to raise the payment. By the way, these documents are rather urgent.

Can you finish the translation before Friday?" Erin asked Amy.

"Sure, then I'll send you the translation before Friday." Amy looked over the documents. There was no problem to finish the task before Friday.

Amy took the documents and left the company. Seeing the bus arrive, she quickly ran over and got on the bus.

Richard's car happened to pass here after Amy got on the bus. He had been back for two days, but still had no clues about Amy. He was so anxious that he got a pimple on the corner of his mouth.

At that time, he left for France in a hurry, thinking that he could explain to Amy when he came back. He knew that she was stubborn, but there was no time for him to explain back then.

It was all his fault. What should he do now? Where was Amy? Where was she?

"Kevin, spare no efforts to find Amy for me." Richard had been absent from work for two months, so he was still busy dealing with the affairs of HD Group.

He had no choice but to let Kevin help him.

"Richard, are you joking? You yourself can't find her. What do you expect from me? I heard that if a woman wanted to hide from you, you wouldn't be able to find her." Kevin had looked for her, but there were no clues.

Richard did not even raise his head. He only said, "I know that Hannah has loved someone since she was a child."

"Holy shit! Damn you! I'll go, OK? Who is the man that Hannah has loved since childhood?" Sure enough, Kevin changed his mind. He wanted to know who the man was.

"Help me find Amy first. If you find her, I'll tell you about it." Richard continued to work. He looked at the enormous pile of documents and just wanted to throw them out.

"Alright, it's a deal. Let's do this. I don't believe that I can't find Amy." Kevin's spirits instantly rose.

Sometimes, the harder he tried to look for someone, the less possible for him to find that person. Amy didn't hide. She had just lived as usual. Every day, she translated documents at home. Stephen went shopping and cooked for her. The father and daughter lived happily. It had been two months since Amy left the villa. Stephen had also felt weird about it. However, he did not ask. He thought that Amy must have her reasons. If she wanted to say it, she would tell him. It was also good to let her calm down.

On Friday, Amy held the translated documents, got on the bus and arrived at the company.

"Miss Miller, you came on time. You finished translating so many documents. It's really amazing." When Erin received the documents, he praised Amy.

"Erin, you're flattering me. Oh right, why do I feel like you overpaid me?"

The translation fees were transferred to her account normally the day after she handed in the documents.

"Overpaid? I paid you 100 more for every thousand words. Also, the festival is approaching. Everyone gets a thousand for the festival." Erin explained to Amy.

"OK, I see. We can get paid for the festivals!" Amy felt that the welfare of this company was too good.

However, she quickly searched the festival in her mind. The coming festival was Children's Day.

Forget it, maybe this company celebrated some foreign festivals as well. She didn't want to ask anymore.

With the documents Erin gave her, she left again. She paid all her attention to translating documents and didn't want to think about Richard or her baby. Thinking about them only made her heart hurt. She just buried herself in her work so that she could forget everything.

As Richard returned to his villa, it was already very late. He worked overtime every day so that he could finish these work soon and turned to focus on finding Amy. Nothing had changed in the bedroom. Amy didn't even take away the clothes he had bought for her. The jewelry he had given her was well arranged. Amy left here without taking anything.

But there was still her scent on the pillow and the sheets. Richard hugged the pillow in his arms and sniffed the faint scent. Then he felt there was something under the pillow which seemed to be a piece of paper.

Richard took out the paper Amy left for him. It was a divorce agreement. There was no content except Amy's signature at the bottom.

Richard was so angry that he grabbed the paper in his hand and tore it into pieces. Did she not believe in him at all?

"Amy, come back. I miss you." Richard hugged the pillow and buried his head in it. For the first time, he couldn't help crying. _____

Chapter 109 I Want Amy Back

"Amy?" Just as Amy was about to get on the bus, someone grabbed her on her arm. She paused and turned to look at that person.

Allison wore a delicate makeup on her face. She looked happy and cheerful. It seemed that she got along well with Richard, so she looked much more energetic.

"What do you want?" Amy asked her.

"Amy, I'm really sorry. I asked Richard to go to France with me and he couldn't take care of you."

Allison's face was filled with guilt, as if she were truly sorry for Amy, but her eyes were full of pride.

"It doesn't matter. I'm fine. If that's it, I'm leaving." Watching the bus leave, Amy's heart was broken. The next bus would not arrive until half an hour later.

"I want to buy you a cup of coffee, OK? I have something to tell you."

Allison put on an innocent expression.

"If you have anything to say, just say it here. I don't want to drink coffee." Amy refused. She didn't want to have something to do with Allison.

"It's about Richard and you. Don't you want to know?" Allison looked at Amy's face. She wanted to know how Amy felt about Richard. She couldn't wait to see how disappointed and sad Amy was.

"I don't want to hear it. I still have things to do, so I will get out of your hair." Amy would not give Allison a chance to show off in front of her.

Allison hesitated for a while and said, "Alright then, I apologize to you on behalf of Richard. Also, you two are still married. Richard and I are..."

"If you want to get married, I have given the divorce agreement to Richard. He can sign it at any time. I have signed it. Sorry, I'm leaving." Amy didn't want to say anything to Allison right now. She turned around and waved her hand to stop a taxi. She got on the taxi and left.

Allison looked at Amy's back and wanted to laugh. She just used a small trick and Amy fell for it. Her mother was really smart. She was right to follow her mother's advice. Allison did not stay any longer. She went home and wanted to ask her mother how to keep Richard by her side.

"Richard, you bastard! Where is Amy? Bring her back to me!" Cathy had always wanted to go shopping with Amy, but she couldn't get in touch with Amy anymore. So she went to Richard's villa and was told that Amy was out.

However, she felt weird since every time she came here, Amy was out. She couldn't be so unlucky. Under her questioning, Hilary told her about Amy's miscarriage.

As Cathy heard that her grandchild was gone, she was so angry that she drove her car with Hilary and came to Richard to ask for an explanation.

Seeing his mother's angry expression, Richard hurriedly stopped working and walked over to comfort his mother.

"Mom, what are you doing here? Why don't you tell me that you are coming?" Richard said to Cathy in the sofa.

"Can't I come here? Only that slut can come?" When Cathy was angry, she was mean. Coincidentally, Allison brought her a cup of tea, and she heard Cathy cursing her as a slut.

"Mom, calm down and drink some tea." Richard took the tea from Allison's hand and handed it to Cathy.

Jared Kushner & Ivanka Trump Dropped Off The Planet

"I don't want to drink tea. I want my Amy back. Find her. Go find her for me." Cathy was spoiled by Richard's father. She just lost her temper and asked for whatever she wanted regardless of everything.

"Allison, leave us. I'll call you later if I need you." Richard sent Allison away.

"OK. Mrs. Carter, I'll go out first." Allison politely said to Cathy and left.

Her mother had repeatedly warned her not to offend anyone from the Carter family. Otherwise, she would not be able to marry into the Carter family.

Seeing Allison leave, Cathy stood up again.

"Richard, you're already married, so don't do stupid things anymore.

What's wrong with Amy? Why do you treat her like this? I heard from Hilary that you let Amy abort the baby. Why? For Allison?" Cathy walked to Richard.

"Mom, it's not like that." Richard wanted to explain.

"Then what is it? Do you think I'm stupid? Amy had a miscarriage, but you accompanied Allison to France. Why did you do in France? To go on your honeymoon?" The more Cathy said, the angrier she became. She didn't know what kind of a spell Allison had cast on her son.

"Mom, I went to France with Allison because of an urgent matter." at this moment, Richard felt that his mother would not believe him no matter what he said.

He had an agreement with Allison which he couldn't tell anyone else so that he could leave Allison some dignity.

"An urgent matter, how urgent can it be? Do you know how vulnerable a woman is when she just had a miscarriage? But you didn't care about her. You even left her in hospital alone." Cathy felt heartache when she thought about it.

"Mom, I've arranged Robin to take good care of her. I wanted to explain to her when I came back, but she left." Richard pressed Cathy on the sofa again, letting her sit.

"I don't care. You need to find my daughter-in-law immediately. Also, Richard, don't think about divorcing Amy. If you want to divorce, I will kill myself!" Cathy also spoke ruthlessly. Amy was way better than Allison, but her son was too foolish to see that!

"Mom, don't worry. I won't divorce Amy." Richard quickly promised. Amy was missing, and he was also very anxious, but there was nothing he could do.

"That's good. I'm going back." Cathy was an impatient person. After getting her son's promise, she felt relieved. Richard was a man of his word and would not lie to her. Allison heard Cathy's words as well. She was so angry that she gritted her teeth. What was so good about Amy? Amy was nobody but the daughter of a poor family. However, she, Allison, was the daughter of the Field family. How could Amy compare to her? Hearing that Cathy was about to leave, Allison hurriedly hid to the side.

"Kevin, it has been three days. Haven't you got anything yet?" after his mother left, Richard picked up the phone and urged Kevin.

"No. I just asked Hannah. I think she knows something because she seems quite calm. I think it's very abnormal." Kevin searched throughout R City but couldn't find Amy.

"Then let's start with Hannah and use all your shameless means!" _____

Chapter 110 The Familiar Necklace

"Kevin, you've followed me for three days. I've told you that I don't know where Amy is." Hannah didn't know what to do with Kevin.

"I'm just following you silently. I'm not going to do anything to you."

Kevin had been following Hannah all along. A few days ago, he asked Hannah where Amy was. She said that she didn't know, but now he didn't ask anymore. He just followed Hannah, driving her crazy.

"Alright, it's the best if you don't ask, but don't follow me, please!"

Hannah was a little annoyed by Kevin.

He had been following her without saying anything. Her colleagues were asking her if she had offended the underworld.

"I'm just doing my own business. How can you accuse me that I'm following you?" Kevin started to be shameless.

"Are you sure you want to follow me in?" Hannah suddenly stopped. She turned around and asked Kevin.

Kevin raised his head and found that it was the ladies' room. He immediately shook his head.

"No, no. I won't go in. I'll stand here for a while."

"Suit yourself!" Hannah went into the bathroom. If there was a window or something, she would want to climb out. Richard could not find Amy and he deserved it. She did not know why Kevin was pestering her. She wanted to warn Kevin that if he followed her again, he would be screwed!

After thinking it through, Hannah came out of the toilet. She pulled Kevin to a place with no one around.

"Kevin, let me ask you, why are you working for Richard? Why do you get yourself involved?"

"You think I want to? I have no choice. I want to know a secret. Only Richard can tell me, so I have to help him. Hannah, you are Amy's best friend. How can you not know where she is? Richard and Amy just have a misunderstanding. Help me out!" Kevin continued to ask Hannah for help.

"Why don't you understand? Amy doesn't want anyone to find her, so she didn't tell anyone. I don't know where she is. If I know, do you think I will still stay here doing nothing? You've been keeping an eye on me. Have you ever seen me looking for her?" Hannah shouted at Kevin in the end.

It was so loud that his eardrums almost broke.

"Then tell me, who is that man in your heart?" When Kevin saw that he could not find Amy's whereabouts, he began to ask her the question he wanted to ask.

"It's none of your business. You know what, Kevin, you'd better return my necklace to me. Otherwise, I won't talk to you anymore." Hannah wanted to threaten Kevin with something, but after thinking for a moment, she had nothing against him. "I'll give it back to you as soon as you tell me. How about it? I just want to know who that man is. How can he be better than me?" Kevin said evily. He approached Hannah and pressed her against the wall. "Mr. Smith, if you are really bored, you can count the stars at night. I'm very busy, so I'll leave right now." Hannah wanted to push Kevin away. However, Kevin was so strong that no matter how hard she pushed him, he stood still. Looking at Hannah's babbling lips, Kevin realized that it had been a long time since he kissed her. He lowered his head on impulse and kissed Hannah's lips all of a sudden.

It Must Have Been A Kind Of Hell For A Little Chrissy Metz
He's Using This Secret Trick To Make Millions
He kissed her again! Hannah's brain went blank and she forgot to breathe for a moment. Ever since Kevin kissed her last time, she kept recalling his kiss at night. Shouldn't she hate it? But she didn't actually. And she even missed his kiss. Hannah felt that she was out of her mind. Hannah came to her senses. What was she doing? She should have refused instead of closing her eyes to enjoy. Thus, she opened her eyes and began to punch Kevin with both of her hands. Kevin quickly grabbed her two hands. He couldn't stop kissing Hannah. How could she taste so yummy? He felt he was addicted to kissing her and completely fell for her. "What are you doing here?" The manager of the sales department came here by accident. Looking at the two who were kissing, he was stunned. Why would someone make out in the company? Moreover, it was in his sales department. As Kevin heard this, he used his coat to cover Hannah's face. Anyway, she was in the uniform, so the manager couldn't recognize who she was.

He turned around and looked coldly at the manager of the sales department.

"Mr. Smith? Oh, I'm sorry. I didn't see anything. Please continue." Seeing that it was Kevin, the manager hurriedly turned around and left. He didn't notice that it was Kevin. If he knew, he wouldn't have said anything. He just didn't know who the girl was.

After the manager left, Hannah poked her head out of Kevin's coat. She was nearly scared to death by the manager.

She looked at Kevin gratefully. Fortunately, he covered her face. Otherwise, she would be so ashamed.

However, she did not dare to stay here any longer. She pushed Kevin away and hurriedly left.

Kevin licked his lips and smiled happily. It seemed that she did not reject him that much.

Kevin took out the necklace from his pocket. He always felt that it was very familiar. Where had he seen this necklace before?

He quickly recalled all the people he knew in his mind. But he did not remember who wore this necklace.

It was an ordinary necklace that had faded slightly, but Hannah treasured it so much. Kevin felt jealous of that man.

Anyway, Hannah didn't seem to know where Amy was, so he had to try new means. Where did Amy go?

Could it be that she had gone abroad?

Thinking of this, Kevin called his friend and asked him to check if anyone named Amy Miller had bought a plane ticket recently.

After leaving HD Group, Kevin got on the bus. He wanted to go to Bellamy's beauty salon. Last time, an accident happened there but there was still no result. Although these rich ladies didn't say anything, they definitely had some complaints in their hearts.

He drove to Bellamy's beauty salon very quickly. And Bellamy was already waiting for him in the office.

"Kevin, help me find what went wrong." Bellamy saw Kevin arrive and he finally felt relieved.

As Bellamy's brother, Kevin was going to help Bellamy find out the truth. _____

Chapter 111 The Truth in the Beauty Salon

Bellamy showed Kevin the surveillance video on that day. The two brothers shared quite little in common. Although both of them were good-looking, one of them looked like their mother and the other looked like their father. One was impatient and the other was calm. Kevin was calmer and smart, so every time something happened to Bellamy, he immediately turned to his elder brother for help.

After watching the surveillance video, Kevin didn't find anything wrong. However, there was indeed something wrong with the mask. Kevin played the video where two beauticians made the mask and the part where Amy got a facial several times.

Everything seemed good. The two beauticians followed the rules strictly and there was no problem at all.

Then the only possibility was someone did something to the mask outside the mask room.

After Amy finished her facial, her beautician was about to apply a mask on her face, but she got up and said something to the beautician. Then, she went to the bathroom.

Afterwards, her beautician gave her mask to Allison.

From beginning to end, Amy had never touched her mask.

Before that, Allison greeted Amy and Bellamy. She stood beside the mask for a while and said something to Bellamy.

"Bellamy, what did she say to you?" Kevin asked his younger brother.

"Nothing important. Just a casual conversation. I forgot what we said."

Bellamy had no good impression of Allison.

"You guys went out to talk later. What did you say?"

"She said that she had something to ask me. I felt that it was not proper to talk about it in front of the customers, so I asked her out with me." Bellamy recalled.

They looked at the video several times, but they did not find anything wrong.

At this time, someone was knocking on the office door. Mandy, Allison's beautician, was standing at the door.

"What's wrong?" Bellamy asked Mandy.

Because of Allison, Mandy was suspended. She could only do some cleaning now. When the truth came out, Bellamy would decide whether Mandy and Jane could still be beauticians.

"Yes, I have something to tell Mr. Smith." Mandy was timid. She thought that Bellamy was the only one in the office, but in fact, there was another handsome man. She was a little nervous as she stayed in the room with two men now.

"Go ahead," Bellamy told Kevin that she was one of the beauticians involved.

"Mr. Smith, I..." Mandy was very nervous.

"It's fine. I'm his brother. You're Allison's beautician that day, right?" Kevin's attitude was much better.

"Yes, yes." Mandy nodded.

"Then tell me, do you remember something?" Kevin poured a glass of water for Mandy.

Mandy took the water and looked at Kevin gratefully. Kevin was handsome and had a good temper.

"It's like this. I found this while I was cleaning the beauty bed after what happened that day. I didn't know what it was, so I kept it. I thought it belonged to Miss Field, but she didn't come to get it. Then I saw its name and searched online. It turned out..." Mandy didn't dare to say anything.

It was a medicine with two pills. One was gone, and the other was still there.

As Kevin looked at the name of the medicine and searched online, his face darkened.

"Are you sure it belonged to Miss Field?" Kevin asked Mandy.

"I'm not sure, but I found it on the ground after Miss Field left. After what happened that day, no one else came there, so I thought it was Miss Field's." Mandy hurriedly said. "Alright, you may go now. I'll let you know when we have more information." Kevin let Mandy go out.

He held the medicine in his hand and said to Bellamy, "We found the problem. This medicine is good for leg injuries, but its powder causes skin allergy."

There was no injury on Allison's leg. Moreover, it seemed that none of the people who came to the VIP beauty salon that day had any problems with their legs.

"This medicine is very expensive. A beautician like Mandy can't afford it. This medicine is imported and you can't buy it here. To conclude, it must belong to some VIP." Kevin said to Bellamy.

"Whenever a customer leaves, we will change the sheets. So it's impossible that some other customers had left it." Bellamy was a little excited.

"I see. Play the video where Allison stood beside the mask again. Slow down!" Kevin asked Bellamy to play the video again.

Slowly, they discovered that while Allison was talking to Bellamy, her hand was behind her back, and the mask was right behind her. However, because Allison had blocked the camera, there was no direct evidence that she had put the medicine in the mask.

"This bitch!" Bellamy hit the table. Although the video could not be used as direct evidence, anyone could tell that Allison did it. She wanted to hurt Amy, but she did not expect that Amy did not want to put on the mask and it backfired in the end.

"Fortunately, she didn't harm anyone else. She deserved it. Let's stop it here. Mandy did nothing wrong.

But we should make sure that she keeps her mouth shut and doesn't tell anyone about it. Bellamy, just tell your customers that you don't know Allison is allergic to whitening products. That's how that happened." Kevin already knew the whole story. If Richard knew the woman he had liked for so many years was actually a scheming bitch, Kevin didn't know what Richard would do.

However, Kevin had made up his mind that he would not tell Richard about this news for the time being.

After leaving Bellamy's beauty salon, Kevin stretched himself lazily. He was used to goofing around all day. Suddenly he had something to do, so he felt that it was very interesting. Then he saw someone!

When Kevin saw the person in front of him, he hurriedly stopped his car and followed up into a supermarket. That person bought some food and other things.

Kevin followed that person all the way out of the supermarket, and then that person got on a bus.

Kevin also got on the bus. But the bus driver was upset. _____

Chapter 112 Finally Found Amy

Kevin followed that person and got on the bus. Just as Kevin was about to get closer, the bus driver said,

"Hey, the one in the suit, pay!"

Kevin had never taken a bus before, so he was dumbfounded upon hearing it.

"Two dollars. Put it in that box. Hurry up! If you don't have it, get off," the bus driver said curtly. He couldn't believe such a well-dressed man wanted to steal a ride.

Kevin reached into his pocket and took out his wallet. However, there was no cash other than cards.

"Can I pay with my card?" Kevin asked the driver.

"No! Get off!" the driver said seriously.

There was nothing Kevin could do about it. So he was kicked out of the bus just because he didn't have any cash.

Kevin got off the bus and hurriedly called Richard. "Richard, I have some good news for you. I saw Amy's father just now. He came to Ocean Supermarket to buy something."

"Then follow him and see where he is going." Richard stood up excited.

"I can't. I've lost him," Kevin said helplessly. He didn't want this to happen, either.

"What? How could you lose him?" Richard's voice grew louder. Although Kevin looked like a playboy, he once served as a scout in the army.

"Well, I'll tell you the details in your office later. There are too many people here." Kevin was a little embarrassed to say that he had lost the man. Indeed, this was a disgrace to a former scout.

"Alright." Richard sighed. How could this happen? Did Amy's father find Kevin?

Soon Kevin arrived at Richard's office. The moment he got in, he was stopped by Richard.

"What happened? Tell me."

"I followed Mr. Miller all through his shopping, until he got on a bus!" Kevin pushed Richard's hand away.

"Then why didn't you follow him?" Richard didn't feel anything strange about the bus.

"Because I didn't have cash and the driver drove me off, so I lost him. By the time I drove over, the bus had left." Kevin shrugged.

"Looks like I have to take some change with me when I go out." Kevin heaved a sigh. In the past, he had never been in a situation where cash was so useful.

"Forget it. It's good to know she's still in R City." Richard had thought that Amy hid far away, and the news that she was staying somewhere near him came as a surprise. The supermarket that Kevin had mentioned wasn't far away from him.

After Amy handed in her translation, Erin gave her another stack of documents and told her to hurry up.

This time, she only got three days to finish it.

Amy looked at it and thought that she would make it, so she agreed.

After leaving the company with the stack, she felt a little thirsty and bought a bottle of water. The bus came right after she finished buying it. She dashed over.

There were very few people on the bus, and she sat down beside an empty seat.

Then she drank some water while appreciating the scenery through the window.

Someone took the seat beside her. Amy did not bother to look. Anyway, people just kept getting on and off, so she was not interested in knowing what this person looked like.

No Wonder She's Always In The Top 10 Of These Lists

It Must Have Been A Kind Of Hell For A Little Chrissy Metz

But the person seemed a little abnormal. He reached out and snatched the water from Amy's hand and opened the bottle for a drink.

Amy was shocked. She turned her head and saw that pair of familiar eyes fixed on her. He already finished half of the water.

"You, why are you here?" Amy looked around and found that all other passengers were sitting or standing in front or behind. No one came near them, as if they had some highly contagious disease.

"I'm supposed to be here. Amy, it was really difficult to find you!" With the bottle in his hand, Richard stared at her, sending a chill down her spine.

Richard raised his hand and Amy closed her eyes. She thought he was going to hit her.

Richard was both annoyed and amused to see her like that. He wondered if he was an unbearable man who would hit a woman in her eyes.

He stretched out his hand and smoothed the messy hair on Amy's forehead.

"Let's go home," Richard said softly.

Amy opened her eyes and looked at Richard strangely.

"Let's get off. I'll explain it to you." Seeing that the bus stopped, Richard dragged Amy off the bus.

"Richard, I don't want to hear your explanation. Whatever you do has nothing to do with me. I enjoy my life now. If you want to divorce, just let me know." Amy shook off Richard's hand.

Her tender skin went red from Richard's grip.

"Divorce? Amy, you're absurd. Why will I divorce you?" Seeing that Amy didn't follow him, Richard lifted her onto his shoulder.

"Let go of me! Richard, you bastard." Amy kept shouting, attracting the attention of everyone on the street.

Richard ignored her shouts and carried her to the roadside. His car arrived. He stuffed Amy into the car and locked the car door. The driver drove them back to the villa. In the car, Amy gave up struggling. She couldn't run away on the road just now and the car just made her escape more difficult.

Amy's silence angered Richard. He put down the partition in the back seat. Just as Amy was about to ask him what he was up to, he kissed her on the lips.

These longings piled up in the last few months all turned into a kiss. Richard got insatiable and aggressive, pressing her down on the seat and melting her. Kissing wasn't enough. Richard's hand found its way under Amy's clothes and went for sensitive parts of her body, making her tremble for a while. However, both of her hands were held by him, so Amy couldn't resist at all.

Amy sensed his erection, afraid that he would ask for sex in the car. She felt very ashamed and tears flowed down her cheeks. Richard felt her tears and shifted his lips from her lips to her wet cheeks. "Amy, don't leave me, okay? Don't leave me," he whispered in her ear. The driver had made several detours and didn't know when he could stop. He couldn't make a decision without Richard's approval.

"Richard, let me go," Amy said to Richard with tears in her eyes. _____

Chapter 113 Coming Home

Amy spoke to Richard with tears in her eyes. She told him to let go of her. She no longer wanted to live that kind of life.

"Amy, have you never liked me?" Richard looked at her sad face and asked her.

"But does this matter? I can't stand it anymore. We belong to two different worlds. Why do we have to stay together?" Amy cried.

"How could you say that? If that were true, we wouldn't have gotten married. In the vast sea of people, I chose you. This fully showed that we were meant to be together. Silly girl, I can't live without you."

Richard tapped on Amy's nose and took her in his arms.

Amy was surprised to hear that. It turned out her words had fallen on deaf ears.

"To the villa," Richard said to the driver, and the driver sped up towards the villa at once.

"Get out of the car, my dear. If you don't, I don't mind carrying you inside the house." Richard opened the car door and leaned close to Amy.

"I'll get out myself." Amy knew that Richard meant it, so she immediately got out of the car.

Looking at the villa that she had lived in for several months, Amy was filled with complicated emotions.

She didn't want to come back here at all. There were too many painful memories here.

But she didn't have a choice. She couldn't help but sigh.

"Mrs. Carter, you're back. This is great. You're finally back." Seeing Amy, Robin grinned like a happy child.

He had been worried that once Amy left, Allison would move in as Richard's girlfriend. Fortunately, Richard didn't make that mistake.

"Robin, how have you been?" Amy greeted Robin.

"Not good. Mrs. Carter, you left without saying anything. I was scolded many times by Mr. Carter." Robin wanted to enhance the relationship between the young couple.

"I'm really sorry." Amy was a little embarrassed. When she left, she thought that Richard would divorce her very soon. She didn't expect to come back in such a way.

Holding Amy's hand, Richard took her inside the house and upstairs.

Amy did not want to go upstairs with him, but she couldn't embarrass him in front of so many servants.

When the door was closed, Amy's heart tightened. However, Richard did not do anything. He only pulled her into his embrace.

"Amy, let me explain it to you." Richard didn't like to explain, but he had to today. Otherwise, the misunderstanding would only separate them.

"The first thing is about the baby. That baby did have congenital defects. When the doctor told me that, I was afraid that you couldn't take it, so I decided to wait until night. But that night, you wanted to go to bed early, so I didn't have time to tell you. Later, the miscarriage happened." Richard kissed Amy's hair and explained softly to her. Amy did not say anything. Even if that was true, why did he leave for France with Allison when she had just miscarried?

A 25-Year-Old Becomes The Richest Man In His City
No Wonder She's Always In The Top 10 Of These Lists

"You also blamed me for not being by your side after the miscarriage. This is what happened. Allison had hurt her leg when she was young in order to save me. The other day, a tumor was found in her leg. The doctor said that she needed to have an operation immediately. If she waited, her condition might worsen, but she was afraid and wanted to wait for a while longer. Her leg was injured because of me. If it was amputated, it would burden me more, so I took her to have the surgery done." At this moment, Richard felt that explaining to someone was also a very beautiful thing. Being misunderstood by his beloved one, though, was terrible. Amy was relieved. It turned out that this was the case. The proud Richard was willing to explain to her calmly. This was enough to prove that he loved her. "Amy, do you believe me?" Richard lowered his head and looked at Amy. "I do." Amy nodded. Since he was willing to explain, what he said must be the truth. If he didn't want to explain, he wouldn't have found her and taken her back. "Don't leave me again without saying anything. I can't bear it here." Richard placed Amy's hand on his heart. "Okay." Amy nodded. All in her mind was Richard in the past few months. She had missed him as much as he did her. To forget him, she had buried herself in work. Seeing that Amy had forgiven him, Richard wanted to be more intimate with her. He cupped her face and slowly approached her lips.

"Amy, I...." The door was pushed open with a bang. Startled, Amy quickly pushed Richard away.

Cathy's hand froze in midair. What did she do? She had ruined Amy and Richard's romantic moment, but this was what she wanted. Her son worried her too much.

Cathy put her hand down and walked over to pull Amy closer, observing her carefully.

"Mom," Amy and Richard called her in unison.

"Amy, let me look at you. You've become so thin." Cathy really cared about Amy.

"What can I say about you young people? You didn't tell me about the pregnancy, and you kept the miscarriage from me as well. What am I to you?" This was directed to Richard. To Cathy, whatever was wrong was her son's fault.

"Mom, the baby had congenital defects," Richard explained to his mother. He also wanted a child. When he found out that Amy was pregnant with his child, he was extremely happy. Later, he found out that the child had congenital defects, and he was also in pain.

"Defects? So you can hide it from me? Amy is your wife. You should take care of her. If you hurt her and she leaves you, it will be too late to regret it." Cathy rolled her eyes at her son.

Her expression made Amy and Richard have the illusion that she was Amy's birth mother or Richard's stepmother.

Seeing that Amy was fine, Cathy was relieved. When she passed by, she heard from Robin that Amy was back. She hurried upstairs to see her. She did not expect to ruin the romantic moment of the couple.

Now that she had seen Amy and scolded Richard, Cathy felt that it was time for her to leave.

"Alright. Since Amy is fine, I'm relieved. I still have to go to Bellamy's place for a spa. You guys should discuss whether to move back or not. Your grandfather is also worried about you!" Cathy rolled her eyes at Richard again before leaving.____

Chapter 114 Making Up

"Mom, Amy went home with Richard. How could that bitch still believe him? Isn't she supposed to hate him?" Allison said to Tracy as she lay on the sofa, eating some fruit. "How can I know that the bitch just forgave Richard so easily? But don't worry. I will think of another way for you. Richard is yours, and no one else can get him," Tracy promised as she helped Allison peel fruit. She was making a new plan.

"But now since they are together, what should I do? I get angry whenever I see them together." Allison fiercely stuffed the fruit into her mouth. She chewed it as hard as she could, as if she were biting Amy. "Allison, you should act generous at this moment. Bless them. You should stop going against Amy now. You have many more opportunities in the future. But your priority is to make Richard believe that you are a gentle and virtuous woman. Wait for the right time patiently and then we shall carry out our plan again," Tracy told Allison. Allison thought for a moment and realized that she had no other choice but to follow her mother's advice.

"Amy, why aren't you sleeping?" Richard asked when he saw she was still reading something under the lamp. Hearing his voice, she hurriedly covered the documents in her hands. "Richard, you're back. Are you tired? I'll go run a bath for you." Amy put away the materials. At present, she did not want him to know that she had found a job as a translator. "No need. I'll do it myself. Amy, you've been resting for so long. Why don't you go back to work tomorrow?" Richard felt a sense of loss when he couldn't see her in the company. "Alright." Amy agreed. She also wanted to be with Richard. She could do the translation at night.

Hearing that she agreed to it, Richard happily whistled.

As Richard entered the bathroom, Amy hid the materials quickly. She had almost finished all the translation work and she could go and hand in the translation the day after tomorrow.

After the bath, Richard came out of the bathroom with a towel wrapped around his waist. His muscular body looked especially sexy under the light.

Amy glanced at him and could no longer retract her gaze. She involuntarily swallowed.

Richard walked to her and took her in his arms.

"Richard." Her soft voice was fascinating. He could no longer resist the temptation and carried her up and walked towards the bed.

"Amy, you've finally come back to work. We missed you." Hannah and Hilary stood at the door of the President Office early in the morning, welcoming Amy.

Amy came to work in Richard's car today. He said that the bus was too crowded and uncomfortable, so he gave her a lift.

"I missed you too." Amy was joyful. The unhappy days had passed, and she wanted to live a new life.

"Let's go eat crayfish tonight. Just the three of us, no one else.

Otherwise, we can't talk freely." Hannah's point was obvious; she did not want Richard to join them.

"Alright, I'll tell him I'm going out to celebrate tonight," Amy agreed immediately.

It Must Have Been A Kind Of Hell For A Little Chrissy Metz

The three of them talked for a while, and the employees arrived one after another. Rubi had been notified that Amy, the wife of the president, was coming to work today, so she had come to work early.

"Amy, I haven't seen you in a few months. You're getting prettier. By the way, the president has arranged another place for you to work. Follow me." Rubi had always been nice to Amy. Now that she knew that Amy was the wife of the president, she became even more cautious around Amy.

"Where is my new place?" Amy looked at Rubi.

"Beside the president. He said it would be convenient." Rubi didn't know what Richard meant. Anyway, she just needed to do as told.

Amy blushed when she heard that. She followed Rubi to the president's office on the 30th floor.

Her desk had been put in place. As before, it was on Richard's right. There were only two desks in the entire office.

"Sit down. Everything is ready. You can start work directly," Richard said to Amy.

"Won't Allison work here anymore?" Allison's desk was gone. So was everything else that belonged to her, as if she had never been there before.

"Why do you care? You want someone between us?" Richard put down the pen in his hand and looked at Amy. As long as she was by his side, nothing else mattered.

"Of course not. I'm just asking." Amy snickered. She felt that Richard and she were just like an old couple.

Sitting behind her desk, Amy noticed that there was a pot of flowers on her desk.

Touching the petals of the flowers, Amy was very happy.

"Do you like it?" Richard's gaze was on her all the time.

"I do." She loved plants the most.

Hearing that Amy liked it, he was also very happy. Yesterday, he had personally chosen it at the flower market. The florist said that it was easy to nurture, had a long flowering period, and was especially fragrant. All of these merits met Richard's standards.

"If you're hungry, there's food in the drawer. By the way, make me a cup of coffee please." Richard had been waiting for Amy to finish talking with Hannah and Hilary so she could come up to make coffee for him. The coffee made by his wife was the most delicious. This was what Richard thought, but the result was not what he expected. Amy took a cup and went to the tea room to make coffee for Richard. In a particularly good mood, she didn't even notice that she had gotten a cup of cold water. On her way back to the president's office, Amy wondered why the hot water wasn't steamy today. It never occurred to her that what she got was cold water. After placing the coffee on Richard's desk, she went back to her desk. Her task was to read some insignificant documents. Richard happily picked up the cup of coffee and took a sip. Then he looked at Amy with a strange expression. Amy felt that he was looking at her. So she looked back since his expression puzzled her. "What's wrong? Is it bad?" she asked Richard. "No, it's delicious. I love it." With that, he drank up the cup of cold coffee. _____

Chapter 115 Allison Failed Again

Richard had run to the bathroom many times today. He was exhausted. He was very strong, but he still suffered from diarrhea. Amy looked at Richard and didn't know what to do. So, she decided to buy some medicine for him. She went out at once since her heart was almost broken for Richard's suffering. When Allison sent the documents, she happened to see Amy going out. Allison was so delighted that she immediately went upstairs with some desserts that Richard loved.

Allison opened the door, but there was no one in the office. It was so strange. She did not see Richard going out. Allison stood in the office for a while and heard the bathroom door opened. Then Richard walked out. "Allison?" Richard asked in surprise as he was pretending to be weak and pathetic to get Amy's attention. But how came he saw Allison when he walked out?

"Richard, I bought you your favorite desserts." Allison smiled at Richard.
"Allison, we've talked about this. Have you forgotten?" Richard was unhappy to see Allison here.

Allison was holding Richard's arm. Hearing this, she froze. The next second, Richard took her hand off his arm.

"No, Richard. I just saw your favorite cake and bought it for you." Allison lowered her head and said in a sad voice.

"Alright, put down the cake. And don't do this again." Richard turned his face away.

He didn't want to mess with Allison anymore. He had almost lost Amy and this pain nearly killed him.

Fortunately, Amy was a kind girl and forgave him. But he couldn't take any risk now.

"I see." Allison hated Amy even more. But she could only pretend to be gentle and generous in front of Richard.

Allison slowly walked towards the door. However, she saw Amy coming back, and Amy was about to open the door. But Richard, who turned his face away, did not notice this.

"Ouch!" Allison pretended to stagger and threw herself at Richard. Richard caught her quickly, though he was unaware what was going on.

Amy happened to see that Richard was hugging Allison tightly as she opened the door with the medicine.

"You?" Amy walked in and stared at Allison with her eyes wide open.

"Amy, nothing happened between us. Please don't blame Richard."

Allison immediately explained, but actually she only wanted to make Amy feel suspicious.

"I won't. If there's nothing else, you can go out now. Mr. Carter is not feeling well today. He needs to take medicine." Amy put the medicine on Richard's desk and went to get some water for him.

"You're so nice. I really don't want you to misunderstand us," Allison said and limped away.

To make it look real, Allison did sprain her foot just now.

Amy walked Allison to the door. She turned around and smiled at Amy.
"Amy, you don't have to walk me out. Take good care of Richard."
"Oh, no, I'm not walking you out. I just wanted to close the door. We don't want others to come in again." Amy also smiled at Allison.
Allison's face changed. But she couldn't say anything, so she only nodded and went out.
Amy slammed the glass door and even locked it.
Allison smiled. She knew her foot didn't get hurt in vain. As long as they had a fight, she would have a chance to get Richard back. Right now he was only temporarily tempted by Amy. Allison had confidence that Richard would come back to her in the end.

A 25-Year-Old Becomes The Richest Man In His City

Hearing Amy closing the door, Richard felt his stomach aching and rushed into the bathroom again.

Amy stood at the door. She was waiting for Richard to come out, so that he could take the medicine she bought for him.

"Amy, it's not what it looks like," Richard said in the bathroom. He was afraid that Amy would misunderstand him again.

"I didn't see anything. Hurry up and take the medicine." Amy's face was dark. When she went to get him some water just now, she finally remembered that she made coffee with cold water in the morning.

"Alright, that's good," Richard replied. He came out soon. He suffered a lot today.

"Here, take two pills." Amy put the pills in his hand and fed Richard with it.

"Amy, you're so sweet." Richard tried to flatter Amy.

Since Richard looked exhausted, Amy helped him to the sofa, letting him lie down and rest for a while.

"Tell me everything," Amy said with a stern face.

"I didn't do anything. I..." Richard was never good at explaining. He had tried his best to explain it to Amy, but he was afraid that Amy would get angry.

"Not this. I made you cold coffee this morning. Why didn't you tell me? Are you stupid?" Amy patted Richard's face gently to punish him.

"Well... I just didn't want you to feel guilty. I thought I would be fine. But I didn't know that I would suffer diarrhea."

"Are you feeling better now? Oh, you are so stupid. I don't even want to talk to you." Amy pretended to leave.

Richard immediately pulled her into his arms.

"It won't happen again. Honey, don't be mad." Richard pulled Amy's hand and left a kiss.

That medicine really worked. After a while, Richard stopped running to the bathroom.

"Amy, could you read the remaining documents and summarize them for me? I'm too tired to read them now." Although Richard got better, he was still very tired now.

"But I don't understand these." Amy had never had access to the company's secrets.

"You can try to learn it. Please share the burden with me. You don't want me to be too tired, right?"

Richard was being all pouty.

He looked at Amy and acted pouty with his big eyes, just like a child.

"Alright, alright. Let me take a look. I can read it." Amy was still not very confident. She thought that she could only read it to Richard.

Fearing business documents would be complicated, Amy chickened out. However, she had a look and found that it was not that difficult.

"What do you think we should do with this?" After Amy finished reading that document, Richard asked her on the sofa.

Chapter 116 Mutual Love

Richard enjoyed Amy's sweet and soft voice when she read the documents, as if he were eating a sweet candy.

"What do you think?" Richard asked Amy as he lay on the sofa comfortably.

"Me?" Amy couldn't believe it. She had never dealt with these affairs before. Why Richard would ask for her opinion?

"You locked the door yourself. There are only you and me in the office. Who else could I be speaking to?"

Richard looked innocent.

Yeah, Amy locked the door to show Allison her anger. But now she had forgotten about it.

"But I've never dealt with these. I don't understand it at all." Although Amy found that it was not that difficult, she was afraid that she would say something wrong.

"That's why I asked you. I want to know what an amateur will do about this." Richard smiled at Amy.

Damn. Richard was so handsome when he smiled. He must be seducing Amy.

"Alright, I'll give it a try." Since Amy was also interested in doing business, after reading the document, she had come up with a plan. But she didn't know if it could work.

Amy took the document, analyzed it in detail to Richard, and told him her opinion.

Richard was lying comfortably. But he slowly sat up as he listened to Amy's opinion.

A woman who had never dealt with these could come up with such a great plan? They were even on the same page.

After Amy finished speaking, she found that Richard was staring at her as if he had found a treasure.

"Did I say something wrong? I told you that I didn't understand it. I'm just talking nonsense. Never mind it." Looking at Richard's expression, Amy thought that she was wrong and immediately backed down.

But Richard grabbed her hand with excitement.

"You're a genius. I love you so much. You've never dealt with business, but your analysis is not inferior to that of a sophisticated businessman! You're amazing!" Richard praised Amy wholeheartedly.

Amy blushed. Her simple plan could be compared to that of a sophisticated businessman?

Richard asked Amy to read another document and tell him her opinion.

Those plans just popped in Amy's mind after she read the documents. And Richard thought each one was very impressive.

"Amy, are you sure you've never dealt with these before?" Richard couldn't believe it.

"Yeah. I hadn't graduated when my father went bankrupt. And I studied translation which has nothing to do with business." Amy also felt it strange. Did she get this talent from her father Stephen?

"I think I might get it from my father," Amy told Richard what she thought.

However, Richard did not think so. If Stephen had such talents, he wouldn't have gone bankrupt.

Stephen was inferior to Amy when it came to business.

However, Stephen was his father-in-law. Richard did not dare to say that.

"Maybe. I won't be so tired in the future. Amy, I want you to work for me as my assistant. You must help me," Richard said seriously.

However, Amy didn't want to accept it. She was doing translation. If she came back to work here, she wouldn't have time to do translation.

"I don't know, Richard. Perhaps it's just a coincidence. I should just only read these documents." Amy wanted to help Richard deal with some work, but they were all top secrets of the HD Group. Amy thought that she should not know too much about it.

"I'll be exhausted! You don't care about me at all. Are you still mad at me? It was all my fault. I will make up for you. I promise." Richard didn't like saying sweet words, but now he did for Amy.

"Alright, alright. I'll try. But you have to make the final decision. After all, I don't have any experience."

Amy thought that Richard was funny when he acted pouty.

After work, they held hands and walked out of the office. When they got off the elevator, Richard and Amy met a lot of employees, who greeted them. The employees all knew that they were married.

Allison was smiling among those employees. She was smiling even more broadly when Richard and Amy walked closer to her.

"Richard, Amy, you're so sweet together." Allison looked at them. It seemed that they did not quarrel, so what she had done was in vain?

"Yeah," Amy replied. Richard did not say anything. He stared at Amy and did not even look at Allison.

Everyone in R City used to say that Richard, the heir of the HD Group, only loved Allison. But now no one could be certain about that. They just wondered why everything changed when Allison came back.

Allison felt heartache that men were so changeable. But the next second, she cheered herself up. She was confident that she could change him and make him fall in love with her again.

When Amy and Richard walked to the door, Hannah and Hilary were waiting there for Amy. Amy had been busy all day and almost forgot about them.

"Richard, although you're much better, I've told Robin to prepare some light food for you. You can't eat outside today while I have promised to celebrate with Hilary and Hannah. You can go back yourself now." Amy told Richard to go back on his own.

Richard glared at Hilary, but Hilary didn't care about it at all. Now that she was Amy's friend, Richard couldn't do anything to her.

Seeing that Hilary ignored him, Richard had to let them go. After all, he felt exhausted since he had been running to the bathroom all day. He only told Amy to be safe before leaving.

"Amy, look at your husband. How did you make him so obedient?" Hannah joked.

"Yeah. He didn't even listen to Allison in the past. Oh, what did I just say? I'm going to buy three ice creams." Hilary was flustered. After blurting out, she realized that she shouldn't mention Allison again.

So, she ran away to buy ice cream.

"Hilary, it's fine. I'm very confident in myself." Amy looked Hilary's back and said.

Amy was confident in Richard as well. They loved each other, and they should trust each other and stay together.

If their love died, Amy would leave Richard no matter how painful she was. She had missed Andy and she didn't regret. She had got over Matt after he cheated on her. Now Richard said that he loved her. And she also loved him. So they should have faith in their love and live happily, right?

Chapter 117 An Encounter with Dexter

When Richard returned home, Robin had prepared some delicious dishes for him, but everything seemed tasteless for Richard.

Richard's stomach was not empty now, but he felt that his heart was empty and something was missing.

"Mr. Carter, do you want more food?" Robin had stared at Richard for a long time. Richard's plate was empty, but he was scooping the air into his mouth, as if the food were too delicious.

"I'm full. Please take them away." Richard finally found that his plate was completely empty now.

After dinner, Richard sat on the sofa and watched TV. He didn't know what was on TV, and he kept seeing Amy's face on the TV screen.

Watching TV didn't work for him. He stood up and went wandering into the garden, but soon he felt bored, too.

What happened to him? He never had this experience.

"Kevin, are you free? Let's go and have a drink." Feeling uneasy at home, Richard invited Kevin out for a drink.

"Okay. The same place. I'll be right there." Kevin felt very bored at home, so they went to the bar.

"Richard, have you explained everything to Amy? Did she forgive you?"

Last time, Richard left in such a hurry that he said nothing to Kevin.

Later on, Richard made it clear to Kevin, and Kevin was still worried about him. Richard had been away for two months, and it would be absurd if Amy wasn't angry.

"I had explained it to her. She has forgiven me." Richard was quite happy. His Amy was really a good girl.

He had prepared a lot of statements and witnesses, but she believed in him before he mentioned them.

He was very touched. Amy's trust was so precious.

"Forgiven you? Since you left with Allison to have her leg operation, now you must keep your deal with Allison. Amy is such a good yet stubborn girl. You can't let her down."

Kevin started to know Amy well.

"I won't let her down. I've made it clear to Allison before she had the operation that I did that only because I wanted to repay what I owed her. After the operation, I have nothing to do with her." Richard left Amy when she needed him the most only to repay his debt.

Richard didn't expect that this was a trap set by Allison.

When Kevin heard Richard's words, he said nothing. Richard was a man of his word. Since he had made it clear to Allison, he would keep his promise.

They drank a few more glasses of alcohol and felt very bored.

"Why don't we go and find them? It's not safe for three girls to eat out."

Richard couldn't wait to see

Amy.

"I'm also worried. Let's go." Kevin echoed. After Kevin heard that Amy, Hilary and Hannah went to celebrate, he had been thinking about coming to them.

Since they found the best excuse, they put down their glasses and went to find Amy and the others.

"Amy, why did you forgive Richard so easily? He had asked me to help him explain but you guys made up so soon." Hilary was eating the crayfish and was very curious.

"Actually, I had asked for my information in the hospital. The doctor told me that the baby was indeed defective and showed me the pictures." Amy said. Today, they were drinking juice.

"Richard said that he went to France with Allison for surgery just to pay off what he owed her. After that, he has nothing to do with Allison anymore. I believe in him, and he indeed hasn't contacted Allison since he came back. Though Allison called him and texted him, he didn't reply." Actually there was still another reason, but Amy couldn't say that yet.

"It seems that Richard is determined to say goodbye to the past and start a new life with you." Hannah felt this might be a good ending for them. She raised her glass, as if she were drinking alcohol.

"Yes, Richard is a man of his word. Since he has promised to say goodbye to Allison, he will keep his promise. Cheers." The three women continued drinking.

"But why is Allison still in the HD Group? She only moved from Richard's office to the secretariat.

According to her personality, she definitely will get back at you." Hilary knew Allison quite well. She was a little worried about Richard.

Allison was around Richard every day. Hilary was afraid that Allison would make trouble one day, causing misunderstandings between Richard and Amy.

"Maybe Richard feels embarrassed to fire her. The Field family is respected in R City. If Allison doesn't resign herself, it won't be easy for Richard to fire her. Richard is embarrassed to do so, but we are not.

Let's exclude Allison from the HD Group!" When Hannah finished speaking, she also finished shelling the crayfish. She put the crayfish into her mouth and chewed it hard.

"That's right, Hannah. You're so smart. Richard feels embarrassed, but we can do it for him." Hilary felt thrilled only at the thought of kicking Allison out.

Amy did not stop Hannah and Hilary. She felt uncomfortable about Allison's existence in the HD Group. If Allison could leave herself, conflicts with the Field family could also be avoided.

The three of them were having a good time eating. At this time, a handsome young man came over.

"Amy." Dexter did not expect to meet Amy at a roadside stall.

"Dexter?" Amy looked at Dexter. Today, Dexter was in casual clothes and wore a casual hairstyle. Even so, he was very charming.

"Amy, you guys also like the crayfish here? I also love this place." Dexter sat down beside Amy.

"Your friends are so pretty. Amy, could you introduce them to me?"

Dexter was very likeable. Since they were with Amy, they must be Amy's good friends. He always respected Amy's friends.

"This is Hilary. This is Hannah. Hilary, Hannah, this is Dexter, a friend of mine." After Mr. Jones' reception, Amy hadn't seen Dexter for a long time.

Both Amy and Dexter had outstanding appearances, so they couldn't forget each other easily.

"Dexter, you are so handsome. Why are people around Amy all so good-looking?" Hannah looked at Dexter. Dexter was probably only eighteen or nineteen years old, and still had a boyish look.

"You just wanna compliment yourself, don't you?" Everyone laughed when they heard Amy's words.

Chapter 118 Faking Illness

Hearing Dexter politely greeted them, Hilary and Hannah happily placed the shelled crawfish on his plate.

Dexter smiled at them. His smile was like sunshine, warming everyone's heart.

"Amy, how could this little boy be so handsome? I can't imagine how crazy girls will be for him when he grows up!" Hilary and Hannah liked Dexter very much.

The four of them were chatting happily there. Being surrounded by three friendly girls older than him, Dexter, a natural socializer, began to talk more.

"Look, they didn't go out with us, but with a young boy." Kevin pointed at Dexter and said sarcastically.

'That guy is indeed good-looking. No wonder these girls are all attracted by him.' Richard felt uncomfortable and thought to himself. When he saw the three of them shelled the crayfish for Dexter, he felt so jealous. 'He couldn't do it himself?' The two men didn't like Dexter at all and they walked towards them. The four of them stopped chatting as they noticed that someone was getting closer, bringing with him a cold vibe.

"Richard? Why are you here?" Amy turned around and saw Richard, who was wearing a strange expression.

"We just passed by and saw you guys eating here, so we came over to join you," Kevin explained.

The four of them were confused. The restaurant was away from the main road! How could they call their visit "passing-by?"

Kevin said to the restaurant boss, "Sir, we need two more chairs."

"Then I'm gonna leave now. Bye." Dexter didn't want to stay any longer since he found that the two men were unfriendly.

"So soon? OK. Bye." The reluctant expressions on these girls' faces made Richard and Kevin more upset.

Richard and Kevin didn't feel welcomed. None of these girls seemed happy about their coming, but they were reluctant to see Dexter's leaving.

Richard coughed, attempting to attract their attention.

It worked. These girls all looked at him with a concerned expression.

Amy knew that he had suffered diarrhea for a day because of that cold coffee she made. But she wondered why he would come out at this moment.

"Richard, aren't you sick? Why don't you stay at home?" Amy raised her hand and touched his forehead.

Richard's forehead indeed turned a little bit warmer because of his anger.

"You have a fever. Let me send you back." Amy was a little nervous.

"It's fine. I feel better when I see you guys. Just go on eating." Richard immediately acted as if he were an easy-going person.

They almost finished this meal, and now with Richard looking at them eating, no one wanted to continue.

"Just call it a day. I'll send Richard back. Kevin, please send my friends back," Amy said as she supported Richard. It seemed that he could barely stand.

Kevin felt that Richard was strong and had walked faster than him before they just arrived. All of a sudden, he was all weak and sick?

No matter what was going on, Kevin was happy to have such an opportunity to send Hannah and Hilary back.

Richard leaned his head against Amy, looking very frail. That burst of anger which caused his higher temperature, was a great help.

"Look at you. You're sick. You should stay at home instead of coming out and walking around. Now, you got a fever." Amy kept on nagging.

Hearing these words, Richard felt happy. Nagging meant care. He felt her care for him.

"I didn't want to come out. Kevin asked me to come out to drink with him. I had no choice." Richard made Kevin a scapegoat.

"You should tell him that you're sick." Amy pressed Richard's head closer to her to make him feel more comfortable.

She supported Richard, helped him to the bed, and carefully tucked him in. Richard thought she would go to bed with him, but Amy didn't. She went out and said, "Sleep tight. Call me if you need anything. I'm in the next room."

Richard sighed. All he did was to get Amy's care and love. But now she was going to sleep in another room.

"What's the matter?" Amy turned around and looked at him.

"I'm badly ill. How could you leave me alone?" At this moment, Richard gave her the most seductive puppy-dog eyes.

"I got something to do. You go to sleep first, and I'll come back later."

Amy was thinking about working overtime because she didn't finish her translation.

Richard thought Amy wouldn't be here for the night. It turned out she just got something to do. Richard said in relief, "Fine. Come back early."

"Go to bed now." Amy opened the door and went out.

After taking the medicine, Richard had recovered, not to mention he wasn't sick in the first place. Now he was in bed and couldn't fall asleep, wondering why Amy was a bit mysterious and what work she had to do now.

Richard couldn't fall asleep with all these doubts.

It was in the midnight. Richard wanted to see what Amy was doing, but he was afraid that she would get angry with him. So he decided to get up and go to the bathroom.

Amy finally finished the translation before the deadline. She stretched herself and put the translation into her bag. Then, she went to see Richard but didn't find him in the room.

"Richard, Richard?" Amy didn't see him and called out in the room, but Richard didn't answer. Instead, he hid in the bathroom and snickered.

Amy became anxious, wondering if he got sick again. She opened the bathroom and saw Richard inside, looking weak.

"Richard, what's the matter?" Amy asked anxiously.

"It's fine. I just got up and went to the bathroom. I'm fine." Richard kept saying that he was fine.

However, the harder he explained, the more skeptical Amy became.

Three days later. Richard was watching Amy reading the documents, which was supposed to be his work.

Richard loved it when Amy concentrated on her work with her head down, her neck slender and fair.

Ever since he pretended to be sick, Amy had done everything as he wished, but it had been three days since they made love. He couldn't suppress his desire anymore.

Even a glance at Amy's neck would turn him on.

"Amy!" Richard whispered. _____

Richard called out to Amy. She answered but didn't look at him. Seeing that Amy was too busy to pay attention to him, Richard walked over to hold Amy and rubbed his head on her shoulder.

"Amy, it's been a long time." Richard acted cute. He never knew that he could act cute.

"Yes," Amy answered casually. She was reading the document and thinking about how to deal with it. She wasn't really listening.

Amy had been busy since he asked her to help him with his work, so he decided not to bother Amy before she finished the work.

Just when Richard was nearly killed by the boredom, his phone rang. Seeing that it was his grandfather, he hurriedly sat upright and picked up the phone.

"Hi, Grandpa, is there anything I can do for you?" Richard respected John very much.

"Oh, OK. I'll ask Amy. Wait a moment. Hold on." Richard covered the phone.

He asked Amy, "Amy, Grandpa asked us to go back for dinner tonight."

"Oh. I'm not going," Amy refused. She didn't want to go back to the mansion.

"OK, I'll tell Grandpa." Richard deliberately said slowly.

Amy turned around to look at Richard and his phone. John was very kind to her when he visited her.

Thinking of this, she couldn't bear to let John down.

"No, don't tell him. I'll go with you." Amy decided to go back to the mansion. She did not want to before because the marriage between Richard and her was contractual and only lasted for two years.

It was different now. Since they decided to be together for the rest of their lives, Amy had to meet Richard's family.

Richard snickered. He knew that Amy was kind and she would say yes.

He stopped covering the phone and said to John, "OK, we'll be back for dinner tonight."

After hanging up the phone, Richard was in a particularly good mood. Amy was so nice and considerate. Richard didn't need to worry about her. What a lucky man he was! "Amy, this should be enough." Amy had bought so many gifts for John. Richard was almost crushed by the weight. And Amy got some in her hands too. This was the first time Amy went to the Carter's mansion. Amy was so nervous that she bought a lot of things. "OK, let's go now." Amy checked everything she bought. There were presents for everyone. When Richard told her about his family, Amy didn't realize it was such a big family. Now with all the presents she had to prepare, she truly got the point. Amy put the things in the car and she felt that her hands were almost broken. Fortunately, Richard helped her carry the heavy things. Otherwise, she wouldn't possibly carry such heavy stuff here. "Amy, there you are." John had been waiting at the door for a long time with his walking stick. When Richard told him that they were coming, he was so excited. When it was time for Amy and Richard to get off work, John insisted on waiting them at the door. "Grandpa, sorry to have kept you waiting. Let's go in." Richard asked the servants to take the gifts in. Amy and he helped John into the house. John complained about Richard coming back so late and keeping Amy hungry.

When they entered the house, the Carters were already sitting at the big dining table, their eyes on Amy.

Amy didn't know anyone except Cathy and Hilary.

"Come on. Have a seat!" Cathy helped John to his seat and asked Richard and Amy to take a seat.

Today was the first time Amy had come to the Carter's mansion. John gathered all the members of the family except Richard's father, Halbert Carter. He was abroad taking care of Richard's grandmother, who was recuperating there.

Amy sat down. She felt the different gazes from each member of the family. Some were inspecting, some disdainful, and some hostile.

But they went back to normal when Amy looked up to greet everyone. "Today is the first time Amy has come to our house. They will also move in to live with us. I would like to see that our family live together happily. Since we're a family, I hope we'll help each other. Amy is a good girl. You must look out for her." John gave orders to the family at the dining table.

"We will, Grandpa. You've always taught us to be kind and take care of one another." A young woman hurriedly replied. After she finished speaking, she deliberately glanced at Amy. There wasn't much kindness as she said in her eyes. Instead, there was hostility.

Amy looked at the young woman. She had curly hair and wore make-up. Her already pretty face looked even more delicate with that makeup.

Seeing that Amy was looking at her, Sophia immediately put on a smile.

"Amy, we're family now. I am Sophia White. My husband is Richard's second brother." Sophia was hospitable, but Amy felt uncomfortable.

"Hi, Sophia." Amy greeted. She was not happy. She had heard of Sophia who was Gina's cousin. It was said that Sophia was once abroad and married a very wealthy man. Gina had always been proud of that and often showed it off. Amy was surprised that Sophia's rich husband was Richard's brother.

"This is the first time we meet. I have prepared a small gift for you. I hope you would like it." Sophia handed the gift she had prepared to Amy.

"Thank you, Sophia. This is a gift for you. I hope you'd like it." Amy took it over from Richard and handed it to Sophia.

Everyone exchanged gifts with Amy. They looked harmonious and John thus was happy. He looked at them and wouldn't stop smiling.

John was a family man and loved family traditions. He liked to have his family together, his children and grandchildren around him, which to him was the joy of family.

"Alright, you are so considerate. I don't have anything for you. I'll just give each one of you some lucky money. I wish you all great happiness in life." John clapped his hands and the butler came in with a tray.

The red envelopes on it looked heavy.

"You must be hungry. Amy, it's so late and I think you're hungry after a long day at work. Let's start our dinner. Help yourself." John was afraid that Amy was hungry, but etiquette was necessary.

When the servants heard John announcing dinner, they came in and soon the big table was full of delicious dishes

Occasionally, Richard would put food on Amy's plate. There had already been lots of food on her plate, so Amy had no choice but to speed up.

Amy had a good appetite. The food piled up on her plate wasn't a problem for her. Besides, she wasn't picky about food. Actually, she quite enjoyed eating.

Comparing her daughter-in-law and other women, Cathy smiled. She thought that Amy was indeed unpretentious. Amy ate whatever she wanted while other women only had a little food. Those women had stopped eating for quite a while so as not to get fat.

"Look at Amy. She eats whatever she wants. But she still has a very slim figure." After that, Cathy had someone fill a bowl of soup for Amy.

After Amy heard Cathy's words, she noticed that Hilary and she were the only ones who were still eating.

While other women were looking at them.

Hilary was used to it. She was in her own home and wouldn't stop eating until she was full.

But Amy felt a little embarrassed. She looked around, discovering that those women were staring at her with disdain.

She could stop eating. But in that case, she would be hungry. However, if she continued, she might anger those women, which might also lead their turning against her. Holding the fork, Amy was in a difficult situation. She didn't know what she should do.

"A good appetite is a blessing. Amy, just be yourself. Don't worry about others." John said this with a gloomy face. He liked girls who had a good appetite.

Hearing John's words, Amy relaxed and stopped paying attention to those gazes. She realized that the most important thing now was to enjoy herself with delicious food.

"Amy, I want to discuss something with you." John also put down his fork.

"Okay, Grandpa, just tell me what you want." Amy hurriedly stopped eating and stared at John. She was waiting for John's words.

"I won't ask you to do anything. It's just a discussion. You married Richard. But Richard is not sensible enough to give you a proper wedding you deserve. In our family, this is not the right way to treat a wife.

We won't let you suffer from such injustice." After John finished speaking, he glared at Richard.

Richard hurriedly lowered his head. He had been feeling ashamed for this. He didn't expect that his grandfather would mention this to Amy before him.

"It's fine." Amy waved her hand. When they got married, their marriage was just a contract. She never thought that she would have a wedding.

"No, we will not treat you like this. We will give you a grand wedding.

Let's settle a date to meet your parents and discuss the proper etiquette with your families. I'll leave the wedding to Cathy and Sophia.

Sophia is a high-born lady and always helps Cathy with the housework."

John nominated the people in charge.

Although Sophia didn't want to do this, she did not show her unwillingness on the face. Instead, she immediately agreed with a smile.

"Since you're here, don't leave. Play cards with me later. Cathy, go arrange it and tidy up Richard's room.

They'll stay tonight." John has made all the arrangements.

"Yes, Dad. You're so thoughtful. We'll play cards in a while. Amy, you must be careful. Grandpa is very good at cards." Seeing that John was nice to her daughter-in-law, Cathy was extremely happy.

It Must Have Been A Kind Of Hell For A Little Chrissy Metz

Jacob Carter wasn't married yet, so he wasn't interested in such family matters.

William Carter was a man. And he was not very interested in these things, either. But Sophia was different. It had been a long time since John stopped playing cards. But after Amy came here, he offered to play cards with her. Sophia felt that John favored Amy.

"William, look at yourself. You are William Carter. But in the HD Group, you're just a manager without any real power. At home. You're not favored either. Why did I marry you?" Sophia pulled William into the room and started to lose her temper at him.

William didn't care about this trivia. He thought that men should do bigger things.

"Alright. Stop complaining. You have everything you want at home, right?" William comforted Sophia.

"What do you mean by saying I have everything I want? If it were not for the thing that happened to your mother, there would be no way that Cathy could marry into the Carter family! Now, everything belongs to them. We are just outsiders." When Sophia married William, she felt that it was a great honor to marry into the Carter family.

However, now being part of the family, she realized that Cathy was the hostess of the whole family and William's mother was in control of nothing.

"Don't worry, honey. Take your time. We'll get everything back." William didn't say anything more to Sophia. He thought Sophia was just a woman and he could satisfy her with a few comforting words. After all, he didn't believe that women could turn the world upside down. "He even wants me to prepare for their wedding. That wedding must cost a lot. It makes me feel terrible as we are going to spend so much money on Amy. They had already married. That wedding is totally unnecessary! I heard that Amy was once abandoned. Only the Carters would consider her as a treasure!"

Sophia knew Amy since she was her cousin's good friend.

"Right, I'll tell grandfather and mother that Amy was married once. I want to see whether they will still take her as a treasure after knowing this!" When Sophia thought of this, she immediately turned happy.

"What? Amy once married someone else? So, she is Richard's second marriage? Richard is better than me in everything, but his wife is not as great as my wife! My wife has only married me!" William was glad to know that he finally defeated Richard on something.

"Amy, you won again! You are so lucky today! You made us lose all the money we have." John pouted and showed everyone the money box in front of him. It was almost empty.

Richard helped Amy with the cards. He proudly showed everyone Amy's money box, which was filled with money.

"It seems after today's game, I need to draw some money from the bank? Amy, you ruined my reputation!" John said this with a bitter face.

"How about I give the money back?" Amy didn't know why she was so lucky today. She always got the cards she wanted. And Richard told her how to play the cards. It was like money wanting to come into her pocket.

When Janice heard that she could get her money back, she was delighted. She had already lost more than 2,000. But she could have afternoon tea again after Amy gave her money back. In fact, she did not mind losing money. And she had lost a lot of money before. But she didn't want to lose her money to Richard and Amy.

"What a bad idea! You won this money yourself. Keep it! You promised to play cards with me until ten o'clock. We still have more than an hour. No one is allowed to leave!" John asked the butler to get money for him again. _____

Chapter 121 An Awkward Breakfast

Because of John's words, Janice was too embarrassed to leave, so she asked someone to get some more money.

Amy was so lucky. When they stopped playing, she won almost all the money from the others.

"Alright. It's ten o'clock. It's time to sleep. I'm so unlucky today." It was late and Janice immediately quit the game. If she continued, she didn't know how much money she would lose. She even doubted if John was colluding with Amy to win her money.

"Alright, have a good rest." John looked at his empty wallet and smiled.

"Richard, I've never had such good luck in poker." Even Amy felt that she was too lucky today. She had played poker with Stephen before, but she hardly won.

"Perhaps you are destined to be in the Carter family." Richard smiled. Richard's room was huge but decorated simply. Black and white were the only two colors in the room.

"I'm so tired. I've been sitting all night. I'm going to take a shower." Amy felt that her waist was sore and she went to take a shower.

She was immersed in warm water and felt very comfortable. She was enjoying the bath, while the bathroom door suddenly opened and Richard walked in topless.

"You... what are you doing?" Amy blushed as she looked at his naked chest.

"What am I doing? I'm here to help my wife take a bath." Richard took off his shoes and stepped into the bathtub.

The bathtub was so big that there was still room even with them in it.

Amy didn't know how to refute him, so she moved to the side. Richard sat down and rubbed her back and massaged her waist.

Her waist was quite sour, so it was comfortable to be massaged by him. Amy relaxed and allowed Richard to keep massaging.

Early in the morning, Amy and Richard came out holding hands. Everyone was waiting for them to have breakfast.

Amy felt really embarrassed, so she nodded to everyone, but Richard pulled her to sit down directly.

Sophia curled her lips in disdain when she saw them. What was the big deal? No matter how proud Amy was, Matt had fallen in love with her cousin. But to be honest, Richard was much better than Matt.

"Enjoy." John said, and everyone began to eat.

"I remember Amy and my cousin were really close. When Amy and Matt got married, my cousin kept talking about it." Sophia was gossiping while having breakfast.

Her words stunned everyone. Did she wanted to start a fight early in the morning? Janice and others immediately got excited and couldn't wait to enjoy a show.

"Sophia, what did you say?" After John heard this, he asked Sophia.

"Oh, I'm sorry. I didn't say anything. I just wanted to say that I knew Amy before. She's really a cute girl."

Sophia pretended she had made a mistake and stopped talking. She was very smart. She knew if she continued, grandpa would definitely get angry.

Cathy glared at Sophia and thought she was indeed a troublemaker. She always said what she shouldn't say, just like her mother-in-law.

"You're right. Amy is very cute. Have another sandwich." Cathy looked at Amy who was awkward and gave her a piece of sandwiches.

John was went gloomy. Amy had been married before. Why didn't he know that? Did they lie to him?

John pulled a long face and drank a mouthful of milk before he stood up and left.

"Grandpa, just forget what I said." Sophia was actually reminding John of what she had said.

"Enjoy your meal. You really talk too much." Cathy glared at her.

Sophia ignored Cathy since she determined to make life difficult for Amy in this family.

"Mom, I was telling the truth." Sophia pretended to feel wronged.

"Mom, it's the truth. Sophia is not lying. Amy knows this very well."

William helped his wife.

"I heard that many college students would use their nude photos to take out a loan. I wonder if you have heard of it." Richard was silent all the time before he said casually.

Sophia's face immediately changed. How did Richard know about this?

That was her painful past. At that time, she had been abandoned and was pregnant.

"What do you mean?" William glared at Richard. When Sophia married him, she was innocent.

"Nothing," Richard did not continue.

He just wanted Sophia to stop talking. Since she dared to offend Amy, he could expose her scandal to everyone.

Richard often talked nonsense. Everyone was accustomed to it, so no one continued asking. Sophia was relieved.

'Damn Richard, how did he know? I must be careful from now on.

Everything about my dirty past was taken care of. Is there anything I missed?' Sophia was thinking.

The breakfast was very unpleasant. Everyone had their own thoughts.

After breakfast, Richard went to work with Amy.

"Hilary, take care of Amy today. I'll go and talk to your grandfather. I think Amy is upset now. Damn Sophia!" When Hilary was about to leave, Cathy pulled her to the side and said to her.

"Okay." Hilary agreed.

"Amy, don't worry about what happened this morning." Seeing that Amy was upset, Richard comforted her.

"Richard, what Sophia said is true. You are my second husband. And..."

Amy wanted to tell Richard she had sex with a strange man on her wedding night.

"I know. I went to get your divorce certificate, and I also got your marriage certificate. I know very well how you got divorced." Richard interrupted Amy.

"Yes, that's right, but do you know that on my wedding night..." Amy insisted on saying that. She felt that since they were married, she shouldn't hide this from him. She didn't want to hide it either.

"Baby, no matter what, I want to marry you. Don't worry." Richard interrupted Amy again. He was a little embarrassed

Chapter 122 Amy's Mother

"Stephen? Is it you?" Stephen was shopping in the supermarket. Recently, his daughter had returned to the villa. He was alone, but now since he had no business affairs to deal with., he lived a relaxing and regular life.

Stephen heard someone calling him, so he turned around and saw a beautiful lady looking at him.

Stephen looked at the lady and was surprised. He was so excited that the bag in his hands fell to the ground.

"Eliana?" Stephen called out softly, but he couldn't move a step, as if he were frozen.

Eliana walked over and held Stephen's hands. Looking at him carefully, Eliana began to wail.

She came back to look for him and their daughter. She had found he was abroad for treating heart disease.

"Don't cry. A crying woman is not pretty. My Eliana is the most beautiful woman in the world. Don't cry."

Stephen wanted to wipe Eliana's tears, but he raised his hand and put it down again. He couldn't do that anymore.

So Stephen took out a tissue from his bag and handed it to Eliana.

"You are still a smooth talker, Stephen." Eliana took the tissue and wiped her tears. She felt that she owed Stephen a lot.

"How long have you been back? Have you seen our daughter?" Stephen asked Eliana.

"Almost half a year. I've seen Amy. You've taught her well. I'm very grateful to you. Stephen, let's go and have some tea, shall me?" Eliana had calmed down. Just as she was in the car, she saw Stephen by accident. She hurriedly stopped the driver and followed Stephen to the supermarket. The supermarket was so big that she walked around back and forth before finding Stephen at the place where vegetables were offered.

"Sounds good." Stephen knew this day would come.

"Stephen, I remember that Rode tea is your favorite tea, right?" Eliana ordered Rode tea for Stephen.

"It's kind of you to remember my preference. Thank you, Eliana."

Stephen picked up the teacup, but he couldn't enjoy the tea.

The atmosphere was stale. Eliana did not know where to start. The person she owed the most in her life was Stephen.

Stephen didn't know what to say, either. He was honest, and even was a little stupid.

"Stephen."

"Eliana." After thinking for a long time, the two of them called out each other's names at the same time.

"You first." The two of them said at the same time, again.

"Okay. I'll start." Stephen felt that since he was a man, he definitely had to break the ice.

"Amy is a good girl. She has never complained during the years you've been absent. She may be too young to remember you." Stephen reported to Eliana about Amy's past life.

Stephen was telling everything about Amy in detail, from kindergarten to college, but he was a little confused about Amy's marriage.

Eliana wiped her tears as she smiled and listened to him.

"Thank you, Stephen." Eliana was very grateful to Stephen.

"I've treated Amy as my own daughter. I'm her father for the last 21 years. That's enough for me. Since you've all come back, take her back to live a decent life. I'm broke now, and I can't give her anything anymore." When he said the last sentence, Stephen was sad as if his heart were stabbed by a knife.

Amy was his everything. He could no longer give her the best life, so he could only give up. He just hoped that Amy could live a better life.

"No. I'm not here to take her away from you. I know that Amy is indispensable in your life. I just want to look at her from afar." How could Eliana take Amy away from Stephen who helped her a lot?

When Amy was born, Eliana was not in good health. It was Stephen who took care of Amy at night. He could stay up all night and go to work as usual in the daytime. Eliana knew that Stephen was good to Amy, so she trusted him with her daughter.

"Thank you, Stephen." Eliana did not know how to convey her appreciation, so she could only keep saying thank you.

"You don't need to thank me. Amy is also my daughter although she has no blood relationship with me. If you don't care the fact that I am broke, I am still willing to take care of Amy." Stephen smiled, but his smile was bitter.

The two of them talked for a while. Eliana had known that Stephen's company was bankrupt. It was the son of the Wilson family who tricked Stephen.

After the two parted, Eliana gave a phone call, "Well, stop working with Wilson Group. If they have any questions, ask them to talk with me."

"Dad, I'm going home for dinner tonight. Richard will go with me." It has been many days since she came out. Amy missed Stephen very much and wanted to go back to see him.

"Okay, Daddy will make your favorite food." Stephen was originally afraid that Eliana would take Amy away, but Eliana allowed him to continue to take care of Amy.

At this time, Amy called him, which made him happier.

He hadn't remarried for fear that Amy shouldn't be taken good care of. Amy was Stephen's sweetheart.

He couldn't love Amy more.

After he hung up, Stephen went to the market for ingredients of today's dinner. It was a big deal for him since his daughter and son-in-law would come back.

"Amy, why are you smiling all the time?" Richard, who had asked Amy to help read the documents for two days, had no excuse and had to read the documents by himself.

"Because I'm happy." Amy was happy when she found Richard didn't care about her past. Wasn't it so fabulous that the husband and wife were candid with each other?

"Oh, tell me why you are so happy." Richard had never found that he was very disgusted with those boring documents. With Amy staying with him, he simply could not focus on his work.

"No, don't come over. Go back to work." Amy hurriedly waved her hands.

Last night, she was so tired, but Richard was still full of vigor and vitality on bed. Moreover, she thought he was still sick.

"If you're here, I can't focus on my work." Richard had walked over and hugged Amy on his laps.

"Then I can only leave now. I don't want to be accused of disturbing the president's work." Amy pushed Richard, wanting him to let go of her. _____

Chapter 123 Wilson Group's Troubles

"Dad, we're back. It smells so good. You must have made the sticky rice balls." As soon as Amy entered, she was attracted by the smell of the food.

Knowing that Richard would come, Stephen prepared some specialties.

Although there were just three people, he prepared a feast.

"Come in and wash your hands. The meal is almost done except for the soup." Stephen had been taking care of Amy by himself for many years and he had become a superb cook.

As soon as Amy walked to the dining table, she picked up a rice ball with her hand and put it in her mouth. It had been a long time since she ate this dish.

"No need to hurry. I have prepared a lot. Take some with you when you leave. It's your favorite and you must miss it." Stephen walked out with the soup. Seeing that Amy had started eating, he smiled. Amy was still his lovely daughter.

"Have a try, Richard. These are all my father's specialties." While putting food on his plate, Amy introduced these dishes.

"Amy's flattering me. These are all Amy's favorites and I don't know whether you like them or not, Mr.

Carter." In front of Richard, Stephen was still a little reserved.

Although Stephen was older, Richard was a successful businessman in R City that ordinary people didn't dare to offend.

"Stephen, you are so kind. Since you're Amy's father, we are a family. Just call me Richard." Richard said to Stephen.

"That's right, Dad. He's your son-in-law. Why are you so polite?" Amy was chewing with food in her mouth, looking quite cute.

"Well, Richard. Suit yourself." Only then did Stephen feel relaxed.

They enjoyed their meal. The dishes were so delicious that they finished them all up.

Amy touched her belly and leaned against the sofa. She didn't care the two guys who scrambled to wash the dishes.

This was the marriage that she longed for. She was pleased with her life since her husband and father both loved her.

"Dad, these are gifts from Richard." Amy showed Stephen the things they brought back.

"It is so kind of you. You don't have to bring me gifts." Seeing those gifts, Stephen said.

"It's our pleasure." Richard quickly replied.

There were various gifts from food to daily necessities. What attracted Stephen the most was a chess set made of jade. He was fond of playing chess but had no decent chess set. With this, he could play chess with his friends.

"Stephen, I still owe Amy a wedding. I've discussed it with my family and decided to have one. What do you think?" Richard asked Stephen's advice about the wedding. "It's not necessary. Since we've married for quite a long time, just keep it simple." Amy didn't want a wedding. As long as Richard was nice to her, she was satisfied. "I don't think so. How can I take it for granted?" Richard insisted on having a wedding. He always felt that he owed Amy a lot. "You didn't say this when we got married." Amy muttered.

Richard took Amy in his arms and apologized, "Sorry, I was stupid at that time."

Seeing that Amy and Richard were having a happy life, Stephen was happy too. All his efforts paid off.

"Call Mr. Newell again. Why did he stop the project all of a sudden? It runs well." Landon Wilson was anxious after being told that the Newell Company had stopped their cooperation with Wilson Group. He made great efforts to accomplish this cooperation. How could it stop?

"It's not decided by Mr. Newell but by Mrs. Newell. She says if you have any questions, just talk to her."

Seeing that Landon was furious, the secretary said in fear.

"Mrs. Newell? Women are all narrow-minded. Did we offend her? But we have no contacts." Landon didn't remember when he had offended her.

'I don't know. It has nothing to do with me.' The secretary thought in her heart, but she still pretended to be anxious.

Landon walked back and forth. He was so anxious that he wanted to hit someone.

"Call Matt in." Landon felt that since Matt divorced Amy, their company had gained no profit at all.

Although they had merged the Miller Group, it was not a good choice. At first, the HD Group stopped the cooperation with them. It was still reasonable because he heard that Richard had married Amy.

Now the Newell Group also stopped cooperating with them. Could it be that Mrs. Newell had a crush on Stephen?

"Go and prepare a gift. I'm going to visit Mrs. Newell." Landon gritted his teeth. If this project succeeded, it could bring him hundreds of millions in return.

He had to try his best.

"Mrs. Newell, the boss of Wilson Group wants to see you." While Mrs. Newell was working in the office, the secretary said to her.

Mrs. Newell stopped working. She didn't expect him to come so soon. She thought he would still hesitate for a while.

"Bring him to the reception room. I'll be right there." Mrs. Newell said to her secretary.

"Alright." Then, the secretary went out.

Landon, Matt, and the whole Wilson Group were troublemakers. How could Landon still enjoy his life after he knew that his son stole the Miller Group by deception? Landon was so shameless. She would do Stephen a favor and give Landon a lesson.

Standing up behind the desk, Mrs. Newell combed her hair. Although she was in her forties, she looked good, just like a young woman in her early thirties.

People could tell from Mrs. Newell's appearance what a happy life she was living and how much Mr. Newell loved her.

When Landon saw Mrs. Newell at first glance, he had an instinct that she was a powerful woman and she was in charge of the Newell Group._____

Chapter 124 You Have No Conscience

"Are you Landon Wilson from the Wilson Group?" After Mrs. Newell went in, she sat opposite Landon.

"Well, yes, Mrs. Newell. It's my gift. I hope you'll like it." Landon handed Mrs. Newell the expensive gift, but Mrs. Newell didn't take it.

Landon smiled awkwardly and put the gift aside.

"Why do you come to see me? Is there something wrong?" Mrs. Newell drank her tea elegantly and looked at her teacup instead of Landon. Landon was furious. Although the Wilson Group was not a top company in R City, it was a long-established enterprise. Other than HD Group, no one dared to be so rude to him.

But since he asked the Newell Group for help, he had to repress his feeling.

"Yes, there is something I would like to discuss with you." Landon suppressed his anger and thought she was just a woman and he would cope with her easily.

"I'll give you ten minutes. I'm very busy." Mrs. Newell put down her teacup and said impatiently to Landon.

"Oh, well, Mrs. Newell, the Newell Group and Wilson Group had a deal, right? But as the construction was about to start, why did it suddenly stop?" Landon asked carefully.

"Alright. Let me tell you. When I investigated the Wilson Group's background, I found that you were not qualified." Mrs. Newell looked at her fingers with red nail polish. Her fingers were pretty, fair, and tender.

"Of course we are qualified. Haven't you investigated us before the negotiation? Why did you do it again?" Landon felt that Mrs. Newell was making things difficult for them.

"It was not thorough. You have no conscience. I have heard many complaints from the merchants that the Wilson Group often plays tricks. In the end, the Wilson Group's partners always suffer losses and some companies even went bankrupt. Is that so?" Mrs. Newell said to Landon.

Landon was nervous. She was right. However, it was Matt who did it. But, he knew it was the truth.

But the Newell Group had just expanded their business in the R City. How came they knew it so clearly?

"Mr. Wilson, did you forget?" Mrs. Newell suddenly stared at him with her big beautiful eyes.

"Well, it might be a misinformation. Even if it's true, our group also suffered losses. But our company is large and can survive the loss. Those small enterprises couldn't, so they went bankrupt." Landon found an excuse.

They were very cautious. How could Mrs. Newell know about it?

"Really? That's why we don't want to cooperate with you. We don't want risk or get into trouble. Our employees depend on Mr. Newell. We can't afford to suffer losses." Mrs. Newell changed the subject.

"So we stopped the cooperation with you. I'll pay for the liquidated damages according to the contract."

After saying this, Mrs. Newell stood up.

"Your ten minutes are up. Mr. Wilson, please leave." Mrs. Newell gracefully left the meeting room.

Landon was so outraged, but he couldn't do anything. The Newell Group was rich and powerful, even stronger than the HD Group. He didn't have any chance going against them.

When he walked out of the Newell Group, Landon gave Matt a call.

"Did you leave any evidence when dealing with those small companies?"

"Of course not. Many of them didn't know we set them up," Matt said with certainty.

"Are you sure no one knows?" Landon asked again.

"Yes. But when I divorced Amy, she was doubting me." Matt suddenly remembered Amy. She said that he had tricked the Miller Group.

"Amy? Go and find out the relationship of Amy and the Newell Company. Why did the Newell Company help her?" Landon hung up the phone in a burst of anger. Stupid Matt!

When Amy was suspicious, he should have denied it. He must have thought that Amy couldn't bring Wilson Group down.

When Matt heard that the cooperation between Wilson Group and Newell Group had been suspended, he panicked.

'Last time, the HD Group stopped cooperating with the Wilson Group because Amy married Richard. But what's the relationship of the Newell Group and Amy? At the party, it seemed that Mr. Newell gave Amy 15% stake. Did Mr. Newell fall in love with Amy?'

"Matt, what's wrong with you? You don't look well." Gina looked at Matt who was waiting for her and and noticed his anxious face.

"It has nothing to do with you. I asked you out today for one thing. Don't come to see me again. We are done." Matt looked coldly at Gina.

"Matt, can we not talk about this for the time being? I know you're in a bad mood recently. I can help you." Gina would not break up with Matt. She had come a long way to be with Matt.

"Help me? How can you help me? The Newell Group won't cooperate with the Wilson Group anymore.

Can you help me? Because if you can, I won't break up with you." Matt roared at Gina.

Gina was too annoying. She gained the sympathy from him with someone else's child. That was why he broke up with Amy. The more Matt thought about it, the angrier he got.

When he was infatuated with Gina's body before, he could bear it. But not any longer.

"What? The cooperation with the Newell Group is ruined?" Gina was surprised. Landon himself made great efforts to get the deal with the Newell Group, but now it was ruined.

"Yes. You jinx. When I was with Amy, everything went well. But now, things changed." Matt blamed everything on Gina.

Gina loved him so much that she felt that it was her fault.

"Matt, don't worry. I might not help you with the Newell Group, but I can help you with the HD Group."

Gina said to Matt.

"HD Group? Who do you think you are? Amy's husband is the president of HD Group. Do you think we will get the project?" Matt shook off Gina's hands. _____

Chapter 125 Win the Project

Gina said that she could accomplish the cooperation with HD Group, but Matt absolutely did not believe her.

"Matt, I'm not lying to you. I can get the project for you. Why don't you let me try?" Gina looked at Matt's handsome face. She couldn't get any man better than him now. Thus, she couldn't let Matt go. At least, he was one of the sons of the Wilson family.

"Well, since you are so confident, you will have one week to get the project. If you do, I won't break up with you. If not, don't come to me anymore." Matt glared at Gina. He felt so unbelievable that Gina got pregnant with another man just in order to be with him.

Matt thought that if Gina gave birth to his child, it would be the first grandchild of the Wilson family, and his status would be improved. However, Gina got pregnant with someone else.

Whenever Matt thought about it, he became angry, but Gina was indeed quite nice to him. Anyway, it was better to make the best use of her.

"Okay. Matt, I will try my best. I'll do it in a week." She didn't tell Matt that her cousin was Sophia who married into the Carter family. And she must ask Sophia to help her by all means.

Gina left and was going to find Sophia who was all she could rely on now.

"Sophia, please have some tea." Gina respectfully handed Sophia a cup of tea.

Sophia was not very polite to Gina. Sophia's family was much wealthier than Gina's. Therefore, Sophia had been looking down on Gina.

"What's up? I'm going to the beauty salons, shopping and playing cards this afternoon." Sophia said while drinking the tea. Gina told her that she had something very important to tell her. That was why she was here. She didn't want to come here, but Gina threatened her, which made her even unhappier.

"Sophia, I want to win the cooperation with the HD Group." Gina said straightforwardly.

"You? No way. Your family is running a small business. Even if you win the project, you cannot carry it out well." Sophia put down the teacup and wanted to leave. So Gina invited her here just to talk about this? Gina was ridiculous.

It was pie in the sky! Sophia was despising Gina.

"It's not my family's company. It's the Wilson Group which is a very powerful company. It can cooperate with the HD Group, right?" Seeing that Sophia was leaving, Gina said her real purpose hurriedly.

"Are you crazy? You ask me to help you on behalf of the Wilson Group? That's so kind of you!" Sophia got angry. She knew that Gina had always been jealous of her, but she should blame herself for her bad luck!

Sophia stood up and was about to open the door.

"Sophia, I have a report from the hospital. Why don't you take a look?" Gina calmed down and put something on the table.

Hearing this, Sophia stopped. She looked back and was confused. She picked up the report on the table. As she looked at it, her face changed at once.

"Where did you get this?" Sophia's hands trembled and then she tore the report apart.

"It doesn't matter, Sophia. It's just a copy. I have the original." Gina knew that she had something that Sophia was worried about the most.

"Well, which project do you want? Give the original to me after I help you." Sophia sat down again.

"You are so nice and sweet. What I want is the project that HD Group cooperated on with Wilson Group before. Once it's done, I'll give the original to you." Gina said straightforwardly. She felt so lucky that she knew Sophia's dirty secret.

"Deal!" Sophia did not want to stay here anymore. She grabbed her Hermes bag and hurriedly left.

Gina looked at Sophia's back and smiled. True, she was not as lucky as Sophia who had the bigger house and more expensive clothes and even attended a better school. However, she had Matt right now. And he would bring all these to her.

Time passed quickly and the last day came. It was already the afternoon now. Time was running up, but Matt did not receive any notice from HD Group. When he realized that Gina might lie to him for the whole week, he became much angrier.

"Matt, I cooked some soup for you." Gina came inside with an insulated lunch container.

"Gina White, what did you promise me? One week? Now the time is up. Where is the project?" Matt walked to Gina and clutched her fiercely.

"Time is not up yet. Now it's just three o'clock. We still three hours before you get off work." Actually, at the moment, Gina did not have any confidence in herself. Could it be that Sophia was unable to help her or that Sophia had come up with a way to deal with her?

"Well, I'll wait for another three hours. You'd better not lie to me. I've told my father about it. If I can't cooperate with them, I have to resign!" Since Gina promised him so confidently, Matt pledged to his father too. However, there was no news until now.

"I will definitely make it. Don't worry. Just wait for a while." Gina became nervous. If Sophia did not help, she could only be ruined and she swore to ruin Sophia first!

At five o'clock, the phone rang. It was from Landon asking about the cooperation with the HD Group.

"Mr. Wilson, please wait for a while. Good news is on the way," Matt was sweating with anxiousness.

He was being tortured by tension and anxiety as time passed by.

At 5:40pm, the phone rang again but Matt hesitated to answer it.

"Matt, answer the phone." Gina said nervously and put all her hope on this call.

Matt had no choice but to answer the phone with hands trembling.

"Dad, I..." Matt answered the call from Landon. He was prepared to be scolded.

"Matt, you're quite capable. The HD Group called me just now and said that the cooperation would proceed. Well done." Landon was excited and laughed happily. Hearing that, both Matt and Gina became relaxed. Matt finished the call after a few words.

And then he turned to Gina.

Chapter 126 Sophia's Secret

Feeling excited, Matt turned around and looked at Gina. He didn't expect that she really helped him at the critical moment.

Gina didn't know what Matt had heard on the phone, but looking at Matt, she felt he was quite frightening.

Suddenly, Matt held Gina tightly in his arms.

Then Gina knew that Matt made it, so she was relieved. Matt would definitely thank her for this, and she would also be the real Mrs. Wilson.

"Gina, how did you do that? Thank you so much." Matt was very happy now. He thought women were supposed to be taken advantage of. If they were useless, he just needed to drive them away. He treated Amy like this and worked out just fine.

However, when he thought of Amy, he was still very reluctant. That fatty got so lucky and had slept with Amy on the wedding night. Such a shame! Amy was still a virgin back then.

"I'm willing to do anything for you." Gina was also very happy. In the future, with Matt's help, she would be able to live a rich and peaceful life.

"Come on. Let's celebrate." Matt held Gina's hand and wanted to celebrate. After accomplishing the cooperation with the HD Group, Landon would definitely change his attitude towards Matt. His status in the Wilson Group would also improve greatly.

"Alright," Gina followed Matt out of the office, and they went to celebrate.

"Sophia, what's wrong with you? You've been angry for a long time. Who made you so angry?" William saw his wife sighed for a long time and looked gloomy. He walked over to comfort her.

"No. I just felt sorry for bothering you." Sophia rested in William's embrace.

William was very good to her. He almost did everything as she said. However, the person that Sophia had originally fallen in love with was not William, but Richard. But at that time, Richard loved Allison, so Sophia gave up and did not continue. But now, Richard suddenly changed and became interested in Amy, who was so ordinary. She did not expect this at all. In addition, Amy was not even a virgin before they got married. Why did Richard still regard her as his treasure? Sophia was even angrier when thinking of this.

"Dear, just tell me if you want anything. I will try my best to satisfy you. I won't let my wife suffer any losses." William treated Sophia so well because when Sophia slept with him on their wedding night, she was still a virgin.

There weren't many girls as chaste as like her now, so he cherished her very much. He didn't necessarily want a virgin to be his wife, but he thought Sophia was very pure, which was something a man could show off.

"I know. You are always so nice. Darling, I'm tired. I want to rest now." Sophia smiled at William.

She wanted to be closer to Richard, so she married William. Among the three brothers in the Carter family, William was the most ordinary one. He wore a pair of glasses and looked very gentle.

"Alright, you go rest. I'll watch the news for a while." William smiled at his wife, and then Sophia went back to the bedroom.

William looked at her back and felt extremely satisfied. With such an outstanding wife, he must give her the best. He must fight for a bright future for his wife and him against Richard!

Amy got off the car and walked towards the teahouse. She happened to see Gina who was walking in a hurry. Just now, while Gina was taking out something from her bag, a piece of paper fell on the ground.

Amy walked over and picked it up. She wanted to stop Gina, but Gina left very quickly, so Amy had to give up.

She unfolded it and looked at it. There were two pieces of paper. One was about the abortion in the hospital, and the other was a hymen repair surgery record. The name on both sheets was Sophia White.

Amy felt that it was very strange. Why did these fall out of Gina's bag?

She was confused and just put them in her bag. Then she went to see Cathy.

John knew that Amy got divorced before and then married Richard.

He felt very uncomfortable, and he had a problem with Amy.

However, Richard and Cathy explained everything to him. Richard even told John that he had sex with Amy on her wedding night. Only then did John feel happy again.

However, John felt embarrassed to admit his mistake to Amy considering his age and identify. So he asked Cathy to be here and help him.

After entering the private room, Amy saw that Cathy was already waiting there.

"Mom, you came so early. Actually, I planned to come early as well. But I didn't expect you to be earlier than me." Amy put her bag aside and took the teacup that Cathy handed to her.

Cathy's brewing technique was very good. The tea she brewed smelt quite good.

"You have your work to deal with. I have nothing to do, so I came earlier." Cathy pushed the snacks over to Amy as well.

"Mom, do you have anything to tell me?" Amy tasted the snacks and looked at Cathy, who would not invite her here for no reason.

"Well, I do have something to tell you." Cathy smiled and said to Amy. They talked for a long time, and it was getting dark. Amy hesitated for a while and wondered whether she should take out the paper dropped by Gina and give it to Cathy. Anyway, it should be Sophia's privacy. It was not good for Cathy, who was Sophia's mother-in-law, to know about it.

Amy thought for a moment and didn't take it out.

"Gina, you liar. Didn't you say that you would bring me the things I wanted as long as I helped you?"

Sophia threw the teacup at Gina.

"Sophia, don't be angry. I indeed brought it with me today, but I didn't know what happened. I can't find it now." Gina was sweating.

Sophia's name was on the paper. If someone picked it up and told William, Sophia would lose everything.

"You just want to continue blackmailing me, right? So shameless! I'm telling you, Gina. I can tell them that you faked all those things. Anyone in the hospital can do that."

Sophia was furious.

Gina was very helpless. She did put that in her bag, but she did not know when it disappeared.

"Sophia, I'll go back and look for it. I don't want to blackmail you anymore. I really want to give it to you.

Please believe me." Gina had no other choice. It was indeed gone.

"I will never trust you again," Sophia almost overturned the table. How dare Gina plot against her? She would get what she deserved.

Sophia left angrily. Gina continued searching her bag, but she didn't find it either. Damn. This time, Sophia would never forgive her._

Chapter 127 Move to the Carter's Mansion

"Amy, mom told us to move back. What do you think?" It suddenly occurred to Richard while he was taking a bath. His mother had called him today and asked him about it.

"I don't think it is a good idea." Amy felt very nervous. There were so many people in that family that she was afraid that she would not be able to get along with them.

"Mom said it was Grandpa's idea. Grandpa is going to be eighty years old soon. He really wants to be accompanied by all of us. Forget it. We can just stay here if you don't want to." Richard was a filial man, but he didn't want to force Amy to move back.

Now Amy was in a dilemma. That was Grandpa's idea. Grandpa would be unhappy if she didn't come back.

Right now she really enjoyed herself living with Richard alone! If she returned, she had to deal with so many people, especially Janice and Sophia.

"It's fine. Don't think about it. You have your reasons. I won't force you."

Richard came out of the bathroom and saw that Amy looked so worried.

Men were usually busy earning money to support their families, so they didn't pay attention to the disputes among women. They definitely had no idea how terrifying it was.

Amy thought it over and felt that since Sophia was already living in the mansion, people might talk if she did not come back. Besides, Grandpa and Cathy might feel awkward.

"Let's go back. After all, I am the daughter-in-law of the Carter family."

Amy made up her mind. She had to cope with those disputes. She could also try to avoid them if she could not deal with them smoothly.

"How nice you are! I'm gonna kiss you, my darling." Richard secretly hoped that Amy could return with him. He believed that once they moved back, more people would help take care of Amy and grandpa would also be happier, so as to live longer.

After they made the decision, Richard called Cathy and told her to make some preparations. They only took some daily essentials instead of all things since they might come back for vacation.

Knowing this, Cathy was so happy. She finally got someone to talk with at home and she wouldn't feel lonely anymore.

The day Richard and Amy moved back, the Carters had mixed feelings. Someone got angry, while others were really happy.

"William, I used to help Mom with the housework. Now that Amy is back, she will definitely replace me!

She is Mom's real daughter-in-law after all." Sophia started to complain to William.

"Don't worry, honey, your ability is praised by grandpa. No one will take your place." William comforted Sophia.

"When can I get the family heirloom, that jade bracelet from Cathy? If I get it, I will be afraid of nothing."

Sophia longed for the jade bracelet very much, but Cathy had never taken it out.

"Honey, if you want a jade bracelet, I'll buy one for you. Why do you want hers only?" William was clear that it would either be given to his older brother's wife or Richard's wife. Sophia was the last person for it.

Since his older brother didn't get married, Amy was most likely to get the jade bracelet.

"No. I want that jade bracelet only. What the hell do you know? Only the one who runs the household and family can have it. I'm so good at it, so I deserve it." Sophia felt that her husband was really cowardly. That was what she deserved. She was married into the Carter family the earliest.

William had always doted on Sophia. He would follow whatever she said.

However, he could not satisfy her this time.

"Darling, I remember you said that you wanted a diamond necklace. We happen to have some in fashion.

Do you want to have a look?" William changed the topic.

"Really? That's great. Let's go now, otherwise it might be bought by others." Hearing that news, Sophia was very happy. She wanted to be the most attractive one. When Sophia and William reached the hall, Cathy and John were talking to Amy. They looked very close. Sophia snorted, and went out holding William's arm after greeting Cathy and Grandpa. She took a look and found that Cathy did not have anything for Amy. As long as Cathy didn't take out the jade bracelet, she believed that she had a chance. She did not know that the jade bracelet had been given to Amy. "Amy, I'm really happy that you can come back. You are so nice." John was glad as all the children were staying by his side. "Grandpa, we should be filial as we are your grandchildren. This is what we should do." Amy said humbly. She only had her father, and her grandparents had passed away before she was born. But John was so nice to her as if he were her grandpa as well. "Good." John nodded his head all the time. He almost wronged his good Amy. After talking for a while, John was tired and went to rest. There were only Cathy and Amy in the living room. "Amy, I'm so glad that you can come back. Tell me if anyone dares to bully you. I will always stand by you." Cathy assured Amy. "Thank you, Mom." Amy took out the gift for Cathy. "Mom, this scarf is for you. Do you like it?" "It's really beautiful. I like it so much." Oh, Amy was so sweet! Cathy was more certain that she made a right choice. Amy was the best daughter-in-law. "Amy, you might be tired. Go up and have a rest. I'm going to arrange for dinner. We should celebrate today. I'm so happy that you're here." It had been a busy day for Amy. Cathy cared about Amy and didn't want her to be so tired. _____

"She's so arrogant. I can't believe we are actually waiting for her to have breakfast." In the past, Sophia was the only daughter-in-law in the Carter family. John had always treated her well, so she became capricious.

"Wait for a few minutes."

Since John said this, Sophia had no choice but to wait. She felt that her status in the family was threatened.

Amy didn't want to be late, but she wore a white skirt this morning. As she was about to come downstairs, she realized that her period came and stained the skirt. She had to go back to change her clothes and wash them. She asked Richard to go down first, but Richard insisted on waiting for her.

When they came downstairs, Amy blushed when she saw everyone staring at her.

"Sorry, there's something urgent." Amy explained.

Richard took her to sit down. John didn't say anything since they had come down. Then they began to eat.

After breakfast, Richard, Amy, and Hilary was ready go to work. William and Jacob also packed up and drove to the company. They were the managers of the branches, so they weren't working in the headquarters.

"Jacob, Richard is married now. Why aren't you married yet?" William asked Jacob while he was walking to the car.

"I haven't met someone that I love." Jacob said with a cold face. He did love someone, but she didn't like him.

They got into the cars and left respectively. Jacob didn't feel quite good. He was the oldest son in the family, but all good things belonged to Richard. Even including women. He had loved Allison for many years but Richard just turned her down. 'Allison, I've loved you for so many years. Why can't you get over with Richard?' He thought to himself.

However, just as Jacob was thinking about Allison, he received a phone call, and it was exactly Allison.

"Was Grandpa unhappy just now?" Sitting in Richard's car, Amy was still worried.

"No, Grandpa likes you the most. He definitely won't be angry with you. It's just that Sophia is getting a little impatient." Hilary explained to Amy.

Actually, they didn't wait for a long time, only five minutes.

"If Grandpa isn't angry, that's fine." Amy was only worried that Grandpa would get angry.

When they arrived at the company, they went to their own seats. Today, another guest also came very early, who was quite annoying. And it was Kevin.

"Hello! Good morning everyone." Kevin greeted them.

Amy wanted to say something but was taken away by Richard. Kevin could only leave with Hilary.

"Kevin, why are you here so early?" Hilary asked Kevin as she walked.

"I came so early to see someone." Kevin said to Hilary.

Last night, he looked at Hannah's necklace for a long time and always felt that it was very familiar.

However, he couldn't recall where he had seen it before.

He went to the bathroom and washed his face. Then all of a sudden, he knew where he had seen that necklace. So, he came to see Hannah early this morning. He hadn't fallen asleep for the whole night due to excitement.

"To see someone? I think that person is definitely not me. Kevin, you are in the wrong place. The Marketing Department is over there." Pointing afar, Hilary said to Kevin.

"That's right. Why should I go with you? I'm waiting for Hannah. Bye! I'm leaving." Kevin was so excited that he was even silly.

Seeing that Kevin left without hesitation, Hilary pretended to be very sad and said, "How can you just drop your friend like this?" With that, she went to the secretariat.

Hannah came to the company on time today. She arrived the gate of the HD Group at 8:50 a.m. and walked to the Marketing Department. It was 8:55 a.m. She often arrived at this time every day.

But today, when she came to her seat, she saw Kevin sitting on her seat and waiting for her.

She raised her hand and checked the watch. She was very punctual today and wasn't late.

"You're not late." Kevin said to Hannah with certainty.

"Why are you sitting on my seat? I thought you were here to take my place." Hannah put the things on the table and looked at Kevin.

"Please sit down. I'm just tired of waiting for you and rest here." Kevin hurriedly stood up and let Hannah sit down.

"Wait for me? Why are you waiting for me?" Hannah put all her things in order and was about to get some water, but there was already water in her cup.

"I want to ask you something." Kevin stopped teasing her and spoke seriously.

"Go ahead." Hannah said.

"It's still about this necklace. Where did you get this?" Kevin took out the necklace and said to Hannah.

"That's none of your business. Give it back to me!" Hannah's expression changed. She didn't know what was wrong with Kevin. He took her necklace and didn't return it.

"I want to know the truth. Because when I was fifteen, I once lost such a necklace." Kevin took the necklace back.

"You are crazy! I think you just want to know the secret about this necklace so much that you are losing your mind. I won't tell you." Hannah glared at Kevin.

"No, I'm serious. I always feel that this necklace is very familiar to me. I just can't recall where I've seen it. Last night, I finally remembered that I lost it when I was 15." Kevin said seriously to Hannah.

Hannah's heart beating so fast because of his words.

When she picked up the necklace, it was indeed dropped by a young boy. That boy was so handsome.

She rarely saw a boy as good-looking as her cousin.

She wanted to return the necklace to the boy but was pushed away by the boy's bodyguards. When the boy got into the car, he smiled at her. That smile left a deep impression on her.

"You lost it when you were fifteen? Where did you lose it?" Hannah couldn't stay calm. Could Kevin really be that boy?

At that time, he was so good-looking, but now, she really didn't like him to be a slovenly person. He was so different from the past.

"I had studied in the Fifth Middle School for a year. Maybe I lost it at that time. Afterwards, I went abroad." Kevin recalled the past.

Hannah indeed picked it up at the Fifth Middle School. She was eight years old that year and was studying at the elementary school beside the Fifth Middle School.

Really? Kevin was that boy? That was impossible! That was just so dramatic and unbelievable!

"Please give me a few minutes. I need to calm down. Kevin, stay away from me for a while. I'm afraid I'll go crazy and hurt you." _____

Chapter 129 The Mysterious President

It was difficult for Hannah to accept the fact that Kevin was the boy in her memory! That boy was always so special in her heart. However, now a handsome and mature man stood in front of her and told her that he was the boy she had been looking for. Hannah was just overwhelmed by joy and surprise.

Kevin finally told her and completely understood that Hannah couldn't digest the fact in a minute. Just by putting himself in her shoes, he might go crazy at once.

"Alright. I'm gonna go. Take it easy. You can keep the necklace." Kevin placed the necklace on the table and left.

Hannah nearly freaked out. 'What the hell is going on? Oh my god. Who can help me?' The good-looking boy in her memory just stood before her. That handsome boy she always dreamed of was Kevin!

Kevin was a notorious playboy in R City. Hannah picked up the necklace and looked at it. After all, she kept it for so many years. She didn't want to throw it away. But if she kept it, it constantly reminded her of that playboy. After thinking for a while, Hannah still held the necklace tightly in her hand. She felt kind of attached to it. She was reluctant to say goodbye to the boy in her memory. Hannah comforted herself by seeing Kevin and that boy as two different people, so that the boy with a smile could still live in her memory. Now Hannah was relieved, so she put the necklace back. As she looked at the computer screen, she saw many messages from Hilary. "Hannah, why did Kevin want to see you? What can I do for you? If you need help, just call me." Hannah read the messages and smiled. She sent a smiling meme to Hilary and replied that she was fine. Kevin only came to see her and did not trouble her.

"Hannah, come with me to HA Group today. We need to persuade them into adopting the building materials of our company. This is my proposal. Read it. We will set off soon." The director of the marketing department walked over and gave Hannah a document, asking her to have a quick read. So Hannah began to work. HA Group was the largest real estate developer in R City. Many building materials manufacturers scrambled to make a deal with HA Group. However, the president of HA Group was very shrewd. Legend had it that he did not come to the company quite often, so it was not easy to find him. The director said, "Hannah, you must do your best. If our company can make a deal with HA Group, the bonus we get could support the rest of our lives." "Alright, I will try my best." When Hannah heard this, she beamed with joy. She must work hard to get the bonus. They arrived at HA Group's headquarters by car. The Carters of HD Group showed off his wealth and status by locating the headquarters in the center of the city, while the president of HA Group kept low-key, building the headquarters in the suburbs.

But the surrounding environment was quite good. There was only a tall building surrounded by beautiful green plants.

As Hannah and the director walked into HA Group, a receptionist came to greet them.

"Excuse me, what can I do for you?"

"We want to see the president. We have something to talk with him."

The director told the receptionist the purpose of their visit.

"You could only see our president by making an appointment first. Do you have an appointment?" The receptionist led Hannah and the director to the waiting room and offered them some tea.

"No. But we are from HD Group and have business to talk with your president." The director indeed did not make an appointment with the president in advance. But how could he make one with a person who even did not show up at his own company?

He came over with Hannah today, only because he got the news from an insider that the president was at HA Group's headquarters today.

"I'm sorry. You can't see our president without an appointment. Besides, our president will meet the president of Dudley Group today. Others have to wait. Our president is very busy," The receptionist explained to Hannah and the director.

She meant that they wouldn't see the president without an appointment.

"Miss, please do us a favor. We really have something important to talk with your president," the director said to the receptionist.

However, the receptionist was arrogant. She was new here and never heard of HD Group. Seeing these two people keep asking to see their president, she became even more impatient.

"I told you that you couldn't see our president. Not anyone can see our president!" The receptionist didn't want to talk to Hannah and the director anymore, so she turned around and left.

"We didn't make an appointment. No wonder they refused us. Maybe we can come here next time after making an appointment." Hannah wanted to leave.

"It is said that the president is very lazy. He seldom show up at the company and thus it's very difficult for us to find him." The director also felt helpless. He had cooperated with many companies before, but he never made a deal with HA Group. That was a challenge for him.

"We can wait until he comes up. You can go back now if you busy. The receptionist said that their president was indeed at the company today. I can wait for him at the parking lot. Anyway, he needs a car to take him home," Hannah said to the director.

The director thought for a while. There was no better option. Besides, he still had a lot of things to deal with at the company, so he couldn't waste time here. Since Hannah proposed to wait for the president, he thought that it was not a bad idea for him to leave.

"Alright. If you make the deal successfully, I promise I will give you an increase in your bonus." The director was satisfied with Hannah's suggestion.

Although Hannah had a bad temper, she was good at her work. She managed to make deals with many picky clients, so the director came to HA Group with her.

Before he left, the director told Hannah not to lose her temper and remember that it was their company that asked HA Group for help now.

Hannah agreed. When did she ever lose her temper in business? She became furious only when some clients wanted to flirt with her.

After the director left, Hannah went to the parking lot and waited for the president of HA Group.

It was lunch time, and employees came out one after another. Those who wanted to go home on lunch break drove their cars away.

However, she didn't see anyone looking like the president come out. It was said that the president's car was a red Ferrari. Hannah looked around, but didn't find the Ferrari.

Hannah's legs were numb after she stood for a long time. Suddenly, someone called her name. "Hannah? What are you doing here?"

Chapter 130 The President of HA Group

While Hannah was waiting for the president of HA Group at the parking lot, she heard someone calling her. She instantly knew who he was since she was so familiar with his voice. Hannah just told him to get away early this morning. She didn't expect to meet him here again. "Mr. Kevin, what a coincidence. Are you here to see the president of HA Group too?" Hannah put on a smile immediately. She'd better be friendly to people while she was working.

Kevin smiled as he heard that Hannah wanted to see the president of HA Group.

"I'm not here to see him. I just stopped by. By the way, I can take you home. It's not easy to hail a taxi here. If you don't take my car, you have to wait for a long time before the bus comes." Kevin advised Hannah to get in his car with good intentions.

Hearing his words, Hannah realized that she was in the suburbs now.

Besides, the director drove the car away just now. It seemed that she had no option but to take Kevin's car.

"Mr. Kevin, could you wait for a while? I want to stay until the president comes out. I need to tell him something very important." Hannah was in a dilemma now.

"Don't wait for him. He will not come out. But you can talk with me. It will be the same." Kevin pulled Hannah into the car.

"I've been waiting for a long time. My legs are numb. So just wait a bit longer, please?" Hannah said in a soft and sweet voice. Her helpless expression made Kevin burst into laughter.

"Let's go. It's time to have lunch. Now you should have lunch with me and I'll take you to see the president after lunch. How about this?" Kevin said to Hannah.

At this moment, Hannah's tummy started to rumble.

"Alright. Remember to take me to see the president after lunch."

Hannah was also hungry. It was not bad to have a free lunch.

So Hannah got in Kevin's car and went back to the downtown.

"The same dishes as usual and one ice cream for desert." Kevin brought Hannah to the private room and ordered something.

"Don't order too much. I'm afraid we couldn't eat them all." When Hannah heard "the same dishes as usual", she thought there must be a lot.

"Then no ice cream?" Kevin asked.

"I want it." Ice cream was Hannah's favorite. She didn't care about other dishes, but ice cream must be ordered.

As the waiter took the order and left, Kevin began to chat with Hannah.

"Hannah, what do you want from the president? What's the matter?"

"The president of HA Group is the property tycoon. Our company wants to persuade him into using building materials supplied by us. The director told me to handle it, but I don't have confidence.

Although HA Group is the bee's knees, it was set up only a few years ago.

Even few people know what their president looks like. I only know that his car is a red Ferrari."

Hannah said with no confidence in her voice.

She even didn't know what the president looked like. How could she manage to make an appointment and talk with him?

"I have a red Ferrari." Kevin gave Hannah a hint.

"It's normal for a rich man like you to have such a luxury car. I'm thinking that there might be many people in the city who have this kind of cars. I can't just stop them and ask if they are the president of HA Group, right?" It didn't immediately occur to Hannah that the president of HA Group was possibly Kevin.

Kevin smiled faintly. She was so cute. He didn't know what Hannah was thinking. The answer was so obvious, but she never thought that he could be the president of HA Group.

The dishes were served soon. Kevin put all the delicious dishes closer to Hannah.

Hannah was so hungry, so she began to eat. While eating, she was still thinking what she could do in the afternoon.

"Mr. Kevin, do you know the president of HA Group?" After eating for a while, Hannah suddenly remembered that Kevin promised to take her to the president in the afternoon.

"Sort of." Kevin replied in a humble way.

"What do you mean by 'sort of'? Do you know him or not?" Hannah asked anxiously.

'Please don't waste my time if you don't know him. I want to get a higher salary at the end of this month by making the deal.'

"I know him. Hannah, how did you do at school?" Kevin worried that Hannah was kinda stupid, but it was not a bad thing. At least, she wouldn't be scheming.

"Not bad. Although my grades were not as good as Amy's, I was average. Why did you ask me that?"

Hannah felt it strange.

Kevin didn't say anything. He left everything tasty to Hannah, and only ate something that Hannah didn't like.

"Alright, I'm full. Mr. Kevin, take me to the president. By the way, is the president a man or a woman?

What should I call, him or her?" Hannah asked Kevin about the president.

"It's fine. You'll know his name soon. We just finished lunch. Take a rest now. The president also needs to rest. I'll take you somewhere to have a rest. The president will be there, too. We'll wait for him there."

Seeing Hannah's anxious expression, Kevin did not expect that she took her work so seriously.

"That's great. I'm a little drowsy now. I'll go with you." Hannah completely let down her guard and trusted Kevin wholeheartedly.

Kevin brought her to a club where even rich people might not be allowed in.

Hannah had never been to such a classy club before. She followed behind Kevin and looked around. She was curious about everything.

"Come in and get some sleep. I have to go and talk about business. If the president comes, I'll call you."

Kevin said to Hannah.

He took her into a lounge.

The lounge was luxurious. Hannah was satisfied with everything there, especially the big bed. There was also a big transparent refrigerator. It was easy for her to choose what she wanted to eat.

Kevin told Hannah something and then he went out. In fact, he said nothing but asked her to eat whatever she wanted and have some sleep. Also, he told her not to worry and he would arrange everything for her.

The fresh fruits made her mouth water. Hannah opened the refrigerator and took the mango and mangosteen out.

After eating, she felt really sleepy and got to bed.

'It is so good to know Kevin. He could help me meet the president of HA Group. That's great.' Hannah fell asleep with a smile on her face.

Chapter 131 Hannah Becomes Regretful

Hannah didn't know how long she had been asleep. She didn't wake up until Kevin called her a few times outside the door.

"Mr. Smith, is the boss of HA Group available?" Hannah asked as soon as she opened her eyes.

She just had a dream, in which Kevin was the boss of HA Group, and he signed all the contracts quickly.

What a funny dream.

"Yes, he is. Get yourself ready and come with me. I'm waiting for you outside," Kevin said to Hannah.

"No problem. I'll be ready in a minute." Hannah hurriedly got out of bed, put on her shoes, and tidied up her clothes and hair. She also put on some lipstick. She looked at herself in the mirror. Although she wasn't the dazzling type, her face was quite eye-pleasing. She believed she would leave a good impression on the president of HA Group. She opened the door to see Kevin waiting outside. Hannah smiled at him. After what had happened this morning, Hannah felt a little awkward when facing Kevin. "Ready? Then let's go," Kevin said. "Okay." Hannah followed Kevin to a room. This room was large, and drinks were ready inside, waiting for them to have a business talk. "Sit please. Try some tea," Kevin asked Hannah to have some tea and sat opposite her. Hannah took a sip of tea and found it delicious. However, at this time, she was not in the mood to enjoy the tea. She was here for the business negotiation. She needed to get the contract signed.

Hannah was a little angry as she found no sign of the president of HA Group in the room.

"Mr. Smith, I'm sorry about this morning, but that doesn't give you any excuse to make fun of me. Where is the president of HA Group?" Hannah was certain that she got tricked since there was no sign of anyone else.

"Can't you see that I'm sitting right here?" Kevin pointed at himself. "You? Yeah, you're here, but you're not the president of HA Group. Why should I talk to you? Can you make the decision for HA Group?" Hannah looked at Kevin with disdain. Everyone knew that Kevin was just a playboy, and his father couldn't trust him with the Smith's Beauty Salon.

When Kevin saw Hannah's expression, he pulled a wry face. She would rather believe the rumors than what she saw with her own eyes.

"Hannah, I am the president of HA Group. If you want to talk, you can start right now. My time is precious," Kevin said with a stern face.

Hannah sat upright at this time. She didn't buy the crap that Kevin was the president of HA Group. If his time was that precious, why would he go to HD Group for her early in the morning?

"Come on. It's not funny at all. I know you can't convince the president of HA Group to meet me, and I don't blame you. Anyway, I have time tomorrow. I can go wait for him." Hannah stood up, picked up her handbag and was ready to leave.

"Alright, go ahead and continue waiting there tomorrow." Kevin didn't want to say anything else.

Anyway, she was not going to believe him. Now that she'd turned down the opportunity he offered, he wouldn't mind letting her learn a lesson.

Hannah left. She cursed at Kevin as she walked away. This man had wasted her an entire day for nothing.

No Wonder She's Always In The Top 10 Of These Lists

It Must Have Been A Kind Of Hell For A Little Chrissy Metz

She took a taxi and was ready to return to HD Group. Obviously, she wouldn't be able to make any progress today.

As soon as she got into the car, Hannah received a phone call from the director, Cadman .

"Hey, Hannah, how is it?" Cadman asked Hannah.

"Don't mention it. I've made no progress at all," Hannah sighed, but she didn't shift the blame to Kevin.

"It's alright. I've asked around and got something useful for you. The president of HA Group is named Kevin Smith. This information source is very reliable. Make good use of it," Cadman told Hannah what he had found out.

"What? Ke ... Kevin ...?" Hannah stuttered in shock.

"Kevin Smith. He's the eldest son of the Smith family. HA Group was founded by him, but he didn't tell it to the public." Cadman repeated Kevin's name to Hannah.

'Oh no! Why didn't you call me earlier?' Hannah complained secretly.

Given that she'd offended Kevin twice today, she figured she had lost the project already.

Hannah did not want to go back. What should she do? The dream she had today turned out to be true - Kevin was indeed the president of HA Group.

'Hannah, how can you be so stupid? Your dream has told you everything. Why did you ignore the sign? Well now, you've pissed Kevin off, haven't you?' Hannah muttered to herself in the car.

However, regret wouldn't change anything. Now that she had offended him, she didn't want the project anymore. Regardless of how much money she could get from that project, she didn't want it anymore.

"Hannah, you're back. Remember what I told you. That president's name is Kevin Smith." When Cadman saw Hannah, he hurriedly emphasized the name again, which he had spent a lot of efforts to find out.

"There is something I need to tell you," Hannah said to Cadman.

"What is it?" Cadman thought that Hannah was going to talk about the plan.

"You should give the task to someone else. I can't do it. I'm not in my best state right now. I don't want the team to lose the project because of my poor performance," Hannah said.

"What's wrong? If you're not feeling well, I'll have someone else do it. You've been out there all day. You must be suffering from heatstroke. Go take a rest." Cadman was very reasonable. Looking at Hannah's pale face, he guessed that she must be suffering from heatstroke. Hannah felt relieved to know that she didn't need to see Kevin again.

"Amy, I'm going on a business trip. Next week is Grandpa's eighty-first birthday. Help me pick a present for him. I don't think I can make it back in time," Richard said to Amy. He had to go abroad and stay there for a while for something important.

"Okay. I'll take care of it. Don't worry. We're all at home," said Amy. She knew Richard cared about his grandpa a lot.

"I know I can trust you with this. I'm leaving tonight. I might not be able to see you at home. I have to go and fetch something first. The secretary will get my things for me. Please help me pack them up." After Richard finished, his landline rang. He told Amy he had to go and picked up the landline receiver. _____

Richard didn't come back for John's birthday. The birthday party was very lively and many people came to congratulate John on his birthday.

Mr. Newell came to the birthday party with his wife. Since Mr. Newell had come, there was no reason for others to refuse.

Halbert and Richard weren't here today, so William and Jacob had to receive the guests. Cathy and her two daughters-in-law would arrange seats for them.

Today, John was wearing a handsome suit, which made him look exceptionally energetic.

Sitting in the hall, he was receiving everyone's wishes and grinning from ear to ear.

The Newell couple were honored guests. Cathy seated them in the quietest place and asked Amy to greet them.

"Mr. and Mrs. Newell, please come with me." Amy was wearing a purple dress today. Her hair was done in a bun and her beautiful neck was exposed.

Sophia noticed that Mr. Newell kept looking at Amy. She guessed that Mr. Newell was interested in Amy and she planned to embarrass her.

"Mr. and Mrs. Newell, please take a rest here. I will tell you when the dinner begins." Amy kept smiling and the Newells were fond of her.

"What a good girl," Mr. Newell praised.

"Mr. Newell, you're flattering me. Please take a rest. I'm going to meet the other guests," said Amy politely. She walked out to greet the other guests.

"Jacob, Sophia, you're busy." Allison followed her family to the birthday party.

Allison said hello to everyone and even gave Amy a special greeting. Although Allison was smiling, Amy felt chilly.

Sophia arranged the seats for the Fields. Amy did not know where their seats were. In any case, she did not want to see Allison.

As the dinner began, Amy went to invite Mr. and Mrs. Newell. When she walked out, she saw Jacob and Allison together. They looked very intimate.

"Amy, I haven't seen you for a long time," Allison called out to Amy. Amy only nodded and continued her work.

Allison pretended to feel wronged. Jacob looked coldly at Amy and thought that she had no manners at all.

"Allison, don't mind her. She is from a lowly family and she is so rude." Jacob comforted Allison.

"Will you tell Grandpa about our relationship later?" Allison asked shyly as she held Jacob's arm.

"Yes. You're my girlfriend. I've wanted to tell everyone. I'll announce it at the dinner later." Jacob was in a particularly good mood today. He loved Allison and finally got her.

"Jacob, you are so good to me," Allison said cheerfully and delighted Jacob.

Amy had been married before and the Carters knew about it. However, Allison was different. She was pure and elegant, and Jacob was proud of that.

"You deserve it. You are a good girl. I will be nice to you with all my life," Jacob swore to Allison.

Allison covered his mouth and stopped him as if she were very concerned about him.

As the dinner began, everyone toasted John's health. They said a lot of best wishes such as "many happy returns".

In a good mood, John drank the glass of wine in one mouthful.

At the dinner, Amy, Cathy, and Sophia were busy checking if all the dishes were served to the tables.

There were too many people and a lot of dishes and they were afraid that something would go wrong.

When the dishes were almost all served, they were about to take their seats. John's table was full. Allison was sitting beside Jacob and Amy had no seat.

"Amy, we have a seat here." Mrs. Newell looked at Amy and beckoned her to sit down.

Sophia saw that it was Mr. Newell who asked Mrs. Newell to call Amy. She was more certain that Mr.

Newell was coveting Amy. So she worked out a plan.

While everyone was eating, Jacob stood up.

"Hello, everyone. Welcome to my grandfather's birthday party. On behalf of the Carters, I would like to express my gratitude to all of you." After he finished speaking, he drank his glass of wine. The other people followed.

"Secondly, I'll tell you a piece of joyous news. From today onwards, I am not single anymore. I have a girlfriend. She is Miss Allison Field." Then, he drank another glass of wine.

However, everyone was dumbfounded. Wasn't Allison the woman Richard had loved? Why did she become Jacob's girlfriend now? No one knew the complicated affairs of a wealthy family.

Someone finished the glass and others followed.

"Lastly, Best wishes to my grandfather. Many happy returns of the day!"

Jacob was joyful and he livened things up with fine-sounding words.

After he finished his three glasses of wine, the room became lively.

Everyone was toasting and talking to each other.

John was delighted when he heard that his eldest grandson had a girlfriend. However, he was surprised that it was Allison. What was going on with his grandsons? Forget it, he didn't want to meddle with their things.

After taking some food, John was tired, so he went back to his room for a rest.

The guest toasted Amy one after another. Amy did not drink wine but juice.

Sophia also walked over to Amy. She had toasted the guests. Now she was going to toast Amy. Amy's glass happened to be empty.

"Someone, bring me a drink," Sophia asked someone to bring another drink over and handed it to Amy.

"Amy, we're family from now on. Let's forget about the old grudges.

Here's a toast to you," said Sophia and she raised her glass. The glasses clinked and they finished drinking.

After toasting, Sophia left Amy's table and returned to her seat to eat.

Amy had drunk a lot of juice and wanted to go to the bathroom. When she stood up, she felt a little dizzy, so she clutched at the table for support. _____

Chapter 133 She Was Drugged

"Miss Miller, are you sick?" Mr. Newell asked.

"Oh, I'm fine. I'm just a little dizzy. Maybe I'm overjoyed." Amy did not think too much. She calmed herself down and smiled at Mr. Newell before going to the bathroom.

After coming out of the bathroom, Amy felt that something was wrong with her. She was dizzy and her skin was burning up. She washed her face with cold water, but it was useless.

"Miss Miller, Madam asked you to go to Room 808 to have a rest. She already went to rest." A waiter walked over and said to Amy.

Amy nodded. She was sick and she really needed to find a place to rest.

She turned around and took the elevator to the eighth floor.

As soon as she reached Room 808, she pushed open the door eagerly.

She felt so dizzy and so hot. She was very thirsty and wanted to drink some water.

Why did she feel so similar, just like she did on the wedding night? Was she drugged again?

Amy had a horrible feeling. She wanted to leave, but she found that the door had been locked. A sound of water came from the bathroom. There was already someone in this room.

Obviously, she was set up. Although she was getting more and more dizzy, she didn't panic. She bit her finger to stay sober. She bit herself so hard that her finger was bleeding.

She looked vigilantly at the bathroom door. She didn't know who was in the bathroom and was thinking about how to escape.

Seeing that there was an ashtray on the coffee table, Amy walked over to get it. Her legs were so weak now. As soon as she approached the coffee table with great difficulty, she tightly held the ashtray in her hands.

The sound of water stopped. The person inside seemed to be coming out. Sure enough, the bathroom door opened and a man walked out. He wore a simple T-shirt and shorts, water dripping from his hair.

Amy almost fainted. Her vision was blurred. Even if she bit her finger hard, she couldn't stay sober in pain.

"Miss Miller?" When the man saw Amy in the room, he was very surprised. The most surprising thing was that Amy was holding an ashtray and she was not in her right mind.

"Miss Miller, Miss Miller, what's wrong with you?" The man squatted down and helped Amy up.

"Don't come near me. Keep away from me," said Amy with all her strength. She was warning the man, but her voice was soft and seducing.

"Oh, you have a fever." The man touched Amy's forehead and felt that her skin was burning. And then he was shocked by what Amy did.

Amy could no longer control herself. She was getting hornier and hornier. She wanted to tear open her clothes. She felt so hot that she urgently needed something cold. It happened that this man's body was cold after bathing.

When the man saw Amy leaning over to him, he knew that something was wrong. Someone had drugged

Amy. He was also shocked that someone had the nerve to drug Amy and set them up.

The man carried Amy to the bed. Seeing that she was sick and trying to seduce him, he tore apart the sheet and tied her up.

"Oh, I feel so bad. I'm sick," Amy muttered softly.

The man's eyes were filled with hatred. Just as he tied Amy up, someone knocked on the door. He was about to open the door, but he found that the door was locked. He was getting more furious.

With a loud noise, the door was broken. A group of people rushed into the room, including Cathy, Mrs.

Newell, Jacob, William, Allison, Sophia, and many reporters.

This scene was once a painful memory for Amy. She didn't expect that it happened again. When she saw it, she shed tears.

"Amy, what happened? What's going on?" Mrs. Newell did not fight with Mr. Newell and Amy. Instead, she ran to Amy and looked at her with concern.

"She was drugged. Are you here to catch us sleeping together?" The man was Mr. Newell. He was livid with rage.

Cathy walked forward and looked at Amy who was still in her clothes and tied on the bed. Cathy looked at Mr. Newell gratefully.

"Mr. Newell, why are you in this room with Amy? What are you doing?"

The other people asked Mr.

Newell who noticed that Sophia was gloating.

Mr. Newell thought that the waiter must have deliberately spilled the soup on him just now. So he was asked to go up to take a shower and wait for his clothes to be dry-cleaned. It turned out that he and Amy were set up. However, they were wrong about him.

"What am I doing? You have seen it, haven't you? You're a reporter, right? Show me what you took." Mr.

Newell was tall and strong. He walked towards a reporter and reached out his hand. He was so aggressive that the reporter could only hand over the camera.

The reporter stuttered, "We haven't taken anything useful yet. We just took a photo of your face and the young lady on the bed."

Mr. Newell checked other reporters' cameras and found no useful photos. They took no essential photos to make up the scandal.

"Oh, I'm quite handsome in the photo. You can make it a headline. I've remembered your company now.

Do you want to take a few more? I can put on a good posture." As Mr. Newell spoke, Mrs. Newell knew that he was angry.

"No, no, no, we're not taking photos anymore. It's all a misunderstanding." The reporters of the tabloid newspapers all ran away one after another. They had no substantial photos. If their newspaper was banned, their bosses would kill them.

"Oh, what happened to Amy? Who tied her on the bed?" Sophia pulled Allison over. She was happy to see Amy feel painful on the bed.

"Go and get a doctor," Mr. Newell said to a waiter.

The waiter quickly went to find the doctor.

Sophia thought she could enjoy the show, but it was ruined by Mr.

Newell. She thought that Mrs. Newell was really useless. She planned this and asked Mrs. Newell to catch them being together, but the latter was concerned about Amy. Why didn't Mrs. Newell just slap Amy in the face? What a pity!

Just as Sophia was thinking, she did hear the sound of slapping.

Chapter 134 The White Group Went Bankrupt

Sophia had heard a slap when she was thinking. However, it wasn't Amy that had been hit, but Sophia herself.

"Why did you hit my wife?" William was unhappy to see Mrs. Newell slap his wife.

"Who are you? You are lucky that I only slapped her instead of suing her. It was her who told me that Mr.

Newell and a woman were upstairs. It's obvious that she planned all this." Mrs. Newell said to William with disdain.

William didn't reply. He knew how powerful the Newell Group was at home and abroad, and what Mrs.

Newell said seemed quite reasonable.

"It's not me. I just heard it from someone. How can you accuse me?"

Sophia cried. It killed William to see her sad face.

"You heard it? If I'm not mistaken, your family name is White, right? Ms. White, why did you bring so many people here for a rumor? Do you think we're all idiots? I don't believe you didn't arrange it!"

Seeing that the doctor was here, Mrs. Newell let him in but stopped Sophia at the door to teach her a lesson.

"Mrs. Newell, please, come in and calm down." Cathy was irritated as well, but this was a family scandal.

It was really a disgrace for one of her daughters-in-law to plot against the other.

"All of you, go out. If something like this happens again, I will have to punish the culprit." The two sons of Halbert's ex-wife were a pain in the neck for Cathy.

Sophia wanted to say something else, but she was pulled away by William. William knew that Sophia had done it. However, she was his wife. He had always doted on Sophia, so he didn't say anything.

"William, do you believe me? I didn't do it." Sophia still wanted her husband to believe in her kindness.

William didn't know what to say, so he just nodded.

"I believe you." He held Sophia in his arms. Sophia was extremely annoyed. She had thought that she could definitely take down Amy this time, but she didn't expect Mr. Newell to be such a gentleman.

Mrs. Newell was weird. She didn't even ask her husband why he was here with Amy but instead walked straight towards Amy. Was there something more she didn't know?

"Darling, why is Mrs. Newell so nice to Amy? She looks so nervous as if Amy were her own daughter."

Sophia asked William as she couldn't figure it out.

William didn't understand either. "Perhaps Mrs. Newell has other plots that we don't know. Forget it, honey, don't overthink it. Overthinking will age you. If you get old, you won't be beautiful." William always liked to say so.

"What? Am I getting old?" This was William's most successful trick. Every time he said so, Sophia would look in the mirror for a very long time, and he could enjoy the quiet again.

If Mrs. Newell really had any other thoughts about Amy, the White Group would definitely suffer as Sophia had offended Mrs. Newell.

Thinking of this, William felt that he should warn her father-in-law.

Recently, the Wilson Group had offended Mrs. Newell somehow, and the latter called off the project on which they had worked together.

"It's alright. William, we never work with the Newell Group. She can't make things difficult for me."

Damian, William's father-in-law, had a disdainful look on his face. His company wasn't big, and it had nothing to do with the Newell Group yet.

"I hope so. Anyway, you just have to be careful." William knew that the Newell Group was too small to have anything to do with the White Group.

Not even half an hour after the call with Damian, Sophia came crying to see William.

"William, what's going on? The White Group's share price plunged, and it will soon go bankrupt."

Oh lord! This was just too soon. He just called his father-in-law half an hour earlier. Except for the Newell Group, only the Carter Group could be able to do this.

"Honey, calm down. Leave it to me." William had got his hands tied. The Newell Group and the Carter Group were on par, but in fact the Newell was better slightly.

Besides, William wasn't that powerful in the Carter Group. He was only the manager of a branch, and he couldn't save the White Group.

"Come on, do something." Sophia urged William while Damian called.

"William, William, you must save our company. It's going to be bankrupt soon. The stock prices collapsed." Damian didn't care if he was mortified but begged William. "Damian, I'm sorry, there's nothing I can help." After thinking for a while, William felt that he was unable to help. It might be better if Richard were here, but Sophia was scheming against Richard's wife today, so he would not help either.

Well, Sophia asked for it. William did not dare to say it out because he loved her too much.

"Why not? You're one of the Carters. Why can't the Carters save us? You don't want to save us, do you? I really shouldn't have married my daughter to you!" Damian was angry. He was willing to kneel to anyone who was able to save his company.

An hour later, everything was settled. The White Group had disappeared from R City completely.

As John's birthday banquet was over, many people left happily. On such an occasion, many of them had taken the chance and made big deals.

Yet, some people were helpless. This banquet was really a surprise.

"Honey, say something," William urged Sophia.

"William, what else do you want me to say? My family went bankrupt just like that, but as a Carter, there's nothing you can do about it. What else can I say?" Sophia looked at William resentfully.

William felt embarrassed for his current identity, but it didn't matter. He believed that it wouldn't be long before everyone looked up to him.

He couldn't tell Sophia about this. He wanted to give her a surprise.

"Alright, don't say anything if you don't want to. No matter what you do, I am always here for you."

William embraced Sophia, wanting to give her a sense of security, but Sophia was disgusted by his action.

Chapter 135 Hilary Is So Gossipy

Amy had no idea what had happened to White Group. She was still lying in Room 808 put on a drip.

Mr. Newell and Mrs. Newell kept Amy company all the way, which moved Amy and Cathy.

"Mr. and Mrs. Newell, thank you so much for what happened today. You've been busy for a whole day.

Why don't you have a rest now?" Cathy said to the couple.

"We are fine. Fortunately, we didn't do Miss Miller wrong today. If we hurt her, we would feel sorry."

Mr. and Mrs. Newell said politely.

Cathy did not think too much. She felt that it was normal that Amy was liked by others since she was such a good girl.

"Thank you. Right now, Amy is fine. Why don't you have a rest now?"

The hotel was owned by the Carter family, which gave Sophia the chance to perform her scheme.

"Thank you. But we should be back now. We are sorry to trouble you."

Only then did the Newell couple remembered that they had been waiting here for hours.

The couple stood up and were about to leave.

Cathy sent the couple to the parking lot. She got along with Mrs. Newell, and they chatted happily. She also thanked Mrs. Newell for giving a lot of presents to her and Amy last time.

Cathy made an appointment with Mrs. Newell that they would have some tea together someday.

Amy felt that the fever was gone. She felt much better and fell asleep. When she returned, Cathy saw that Amy was asleep. She closed the door and leaned against the sofa to look after Amy.

It must be Sophia's scheme, as Mrs. Newell had said. Amy had just married into the Carter family, and she seemed not to have any grudges against Sophia. But why did Sophia set Amy up in such a vicious way?

Cathy did not like the two sons of Halbert's ex-wife. She was very kind to them, but they had always been very hostile towards her, especially towards her own children. The two sons always felt that Richard had stolen their things.

Once, Jacob and William refused to admit that Richard was better than them. John took a fair method that Jacob and William should run the company alone for half a year. As a result, they almost ruined the HD Group. Only then did they admit that they were inferior to Richard. Thinking of Halbert, Cathy was still very angry. Grandma Eva never liked her, and always believed that Addy, William and Jacob's mother was the hostess of the Carter family. So even if she was sick, Grandma Eva would rather ask Addy to look after her. Cathy felt very aggrieved when she thought about it. Fortunately, her son was excellent. Although Grandma Eva did not like her, she was nice to her children. She even said HD Group must belong to Richard.

As her mind wandered, Cathy looked at the drip bottle again and found that there was no liquid left. She hurriedly turned off the valve, and then went out to call the doctor over.

At this time, Amy also woke up. She was much better now and looked puzzled at the sight of Cathy who wore a guilty look.

"Amy, I'm sorry. I almost fell asleep just now. Your blood was almost drawn out by the needle." Cathy was frank and just admitted her fault.

"Mom, I am fine. It doesn't matter. The blood flowed into my body again." Amy smiled and comforted Cathy.

Cathy also laughed. Amy was really a good girl. She didn't blame Cathy, but instead, tried to amuse Cathy after she encountered such a bad thing.

"Amy, Sophia is..." Cathy didn't want to forgive Sophia, but Sophia was a member of the family after all.

If they had a big conflict, John would be very sad.

"Mom, you don't have to speak up for her." Amy put on a sullen look. It was really interesting that Gina and Sophia had used the same method to set her up.

"I don't mean to speak up for her. Grandpa's condition is not very good. Although he looks healthy, he is sick now. I don't want you to make a fuss about it. As long as Grandpa doesn't find out, you can do whatever you want." Ever since she married into the Carter family, only John was kind to Cathy. So she respected him.

Amy had thought that Cathy would ask her to forgive Sophia, but she never expected that Cathy was a reasonable woman. John was a good man, so Amy wouldn't bear to see his sad look. Amy would handle the thing properly.

"Grandpa is sick?" Amy was shocked. John looked like a very healthy old man.

"Yes, Grandpa's lung is not well. He feels pain at night. However, he doesn't tell us that. He might have a year left. So we try to satisfy all his needs. He can do whatever he wants, and we will try to make him happy." At this time, Cathy was about to cry.

Amy didn't ask anymore. The old man had to suffer from illness at such an old age. He didn't want anyone to feel disturbed. What a good man he was!

"Amy, I also heard a very strange thing. I don't know if it's true." After a moment of silence, Cathy suddenly remembered something she had heard when she went out.

"Mom, what is it?" Amy looked at Cathy strangely.

"I heard that the White Group went bankrupt for no reason within an hour. It was a total failure." Cathy whispered to Amy.

"How could this happen? Were there no signs before?" Amy also felt that it was very strange. Although the White Group wasn't a giant, it wasn't a small company, and it was even bigger than Miller Group in scale. How could it collapse within such a short time?

"No, there are no signs at all. Everyone felt strange and are gossiping. I also find it weird too. However, it may collapse due to the poor management." Neither Cathy nor Amy thought of any other possibilities.

Amy and Cathy started chatting in the room again until Hilary ran in.

"Mom! Amy! Let me tell you something. The White Group went bankrupt within an hour or so. I even went to inquire about that. Do you guys know the reason behind it?" As she spoke, Hilary went to pick up Cathy's cup and took a big gulp of the water. Today, she had spent much energy in obtaining the first-hand information._____

Chapter 136 Grandma Eva's Coming Back

Amy and Cathy both looked at Hilary, looking forward to the explosive news she was going to tell them.

Hilary drank the water and turned to Amy and her mother. She finally caught their attention.

"What is it?" Cathy was impatient. Seeing that Hilary was still silent, she became anxious. When she was anxious, Hilary found she was needed!

"Take it easy. Let me drink some water first, for my throat." Hilary took another sip of water.

"Well, the White Group went bankrupt very quickly today! It only took an hour. The bankruptcy was so thorough that nothing was left. Many people thought that we, the Carter family did that. In R City, we are capable but have no reason to do that. Still, Sophia is a Carter, isn't she? Therefore, it can't be us.

"So who was it? Very few families in R City are so powerful, but it couldn't be the Field family either.

Since the White family is closely connected with the Field family, they will never do this.

"Then who did it?" Hilary paused for another sip of water. She was indeed thirsty.

"Who did it?" Cathy was curious, but Hilary stopped talking.

"Mr. Newell," Hilary said mysteriously.

"Mr. Newell? Impossible. He had been sitting here by Amy's side. He had never left. Neither of them had left." Cathy didn't believe it at all. How was that possible? How could he just sit here, doing nothing, and the White Group went bankrupt? It would need some super power.

"It's the truth. I went outside to nose about it when I heard this. I even bribed an insider. He told me that the person who suppressed the stock was from the Newell Group."

When Hilary saw that her mother did not believe her, she added the evidence she knew anxiously.

Cathy and Amy looked at each other. No one could afford to offend Mr. Newell. Today, Sophia brought the disaster to her whole family for her offence to him. From now on, it seemed that they had to keep far away from him.

"We believe you. In this city, other than us and the Field family, only the Newell Group is capable to do so." Cathy nodded.

"Mom, but I think Mr. and Mrs. Newell are very sensible. If they were unreasonable, they would have come in to hit me directly today. But Mrs. Newell didn't do that. Instead, she just checked me first." Amy also felt the couple were very strange. Obviously, they were kind souls, but they did such a ruthless thing.

"I can't figure it out either. But who cares? The White Group's tragedy has nothing to do with us. All we need is just to mind our own business, so don't worry so much." Cathy was careless about other families.

The three of them returned home together and John had rested. Cathy had sealed the news, so he knew nothing about what had happened to his family.

When Sophia came back, filled with anger, she felt that her husband was really a loser and she would be despised by those rich ladies in the future.

Her family had gone bankrupt, but the Carters just stood by and laughed. No one lent a hand. Who did this to the White family? Could it be Mr. Newell? But he had been staying with Amy and hadn't left at all.

This was truly weird. Who did this to the White Group?

William was out, leaving Sophia alone in the house. She was watching TV alone in the living room.

Seeing the three women giggling as they entered the house, she felt vexed. Why were they so happy when she was unhappy?

"Mom, you're back?" Sophia suppressed her anger and greeted Cathy.

"Yes." Cathy snorted, thinking that Sophia really had the cheek to sit in the living room at this moment.

"I'll go and get you some water." Sophia stood up and poured water for them, as if nothing had happened.

"Is she mad or something? As a Carter for two years, she has never poured water for me," Hilary said in disbelief.

"I guess so. Sit down. She is pouring us some water, so we have to drink it." Cathy sat on the sofa and invited the two girls to sit beside her.

"Mom, I am afraid it's poisonous. Amy, don't tell me you're going to drink it. Today, you just survived her trap." Hilary refused and wanted to pull Amy away.

"That's right. I won't, either. It will be too late when trouble really comes." Hilary's words reminded Cathy of what had happened today. She immediately stood up and they went to Amy's bedroom.

When Sophia brought out three glasses of water, she saw no one in the living room. These women looked down on her increasingly, right? The White family had collapsed, so they treated her like shit.

Sophia threw the glasses on the carpet and went back to her room.

Richard rushed back. He already knew the White Group's bankruptcy and that it was done by Mr. Newell.

But he thought it made sense. He would have done exactly the same to anyone who dared to ensnare him.

Unlike many around him, Richard appreciated Mr. Newell, since great heroes thought alike.

But now he came back with bad news.

"Richard, welcome back. Your wife is deeply hurt. You must comfort her properly." Cathy's face lit up when she saw her son.

"Yes, I see. I brought you all gifts." Richard smiled and asked his subordinates to give the gifts to everyone.

"Where is Amy's gift?" Careless as she was, Hilary discovered that Amy did not have any gifts.

"I'll give it to her later," Richard said with a smile.

Cathy found that ever since he married Amy, she saw more smiles on Richard's cold face.

"A secret gift," Hilary said discontentedly.

"Mom, I have some news for you. Grandma gets well so Dad wants to bring her back. You can prepare her room first," Richard said to Cathy.

Grandma Eva was an odd fish. She lived by herself with her daughter-in-law. Halbert had repeatedly asked her to live here, but she kept refusing. She and Grandpa John had always lived apart.

It was interesting to know that she was coming here this time. What changed her mind?__

Chapter 137 Miss Amy So Much

When Cathy heard that Grandma Eva was moving in, she felt bothered. Grandma Eva and Cathy detested each other. They had never lived together, so both of them could have a peaceful life. But why did Grandma Eva decide to move back here now?

"Will Addy come with Grandma Eva?" This was what Cathy was worried about the most. Grandma Eva had been taken care of by Halbert's ex-wife, Addy. If she was moving here, wouldn't she bring Addy along? How could they live in peace with each other here?

"I really don't know yet. But don't worry, mom. Amy and Hilary and I are here with you. They don't dare to bully you." Richard said.

A man would never understand the war among women. Even if Cathy told Richard, he wouldn't understand. Thus, Cathy didn't want to tell more to him.

Back then, Halbert divorced Addy due to personality incompatibility.

After the divorce, Halbert met

Cathy at a reception. He fell in love with Cathy at first sight. Then he chased after Cathy, got married and had a family with her.

However, Grandma Eva insisted that Cathy was the one who seduced Halbert, so she and Cathy quarreled with each other once they met.

"Alright, I'll make an arrangement. Grandma Eva doesn't want to live with Grandpa John, so I'll arrange a quieter place for her to recuperate." Cathy had no choice. Although Cathy did not like Grandma Eva, she was Halbert's mother. Cathy could only suppress the grievance.

"Mom, you're so kind." Richard praised Cathy.

Cathy was like a child in terms of character. If Cathy liked a person, she would share all good things with him. Otherwise, whatever that person had done, she wouldn't be satisfied.

Then Richard pulled Amy and said to Cathy, "Mom, we're going upstairs for a rest and I will give Amy the present."

"Okay, take a rest and then come down to dine later." Cathy was very happy to see Richard and Amy in a good relationship.

Amy's face instantly turned rosy. Richard tightly pulled her upstairs with a parcel in his hand, which was the gift for Amy.

Closing the door, Richard opened the mysterious gift. It was a German version of Gone with the Wind.

Amy did yearn for this book, but it was out of print. She didn't expect Richard found it.

"I didn't take it out before my mom just now because I was embarrassed. Because I knew she would say that the gift I bought for you was valueless. In her mind, nothing else can be considered as a gift, other than jewelry and jade or world-famous brands." Richard said to Amy.

Amy stroked the book. She was touched since she just casually mentioned this book once, saying that she had looked for it for a long time but could not find it. She did not expect that Richard would take her words so seriously.

"Do you like it?" Richard asked.

"I like it so much." Amy had never worn jewelry because she did not like those things, but this gift made her pretty happy.

"Don't you have anything to say if you like it?" Richard moved his face to Amy.

Then Amy kissed Richard's face.

Richard took advantage of the situation and just held her tightly. He put the book aside and caressed her gently. It had been so long since he left. He missed her very much.

"It's daytime." Amy said nervously. What if someone came in?

"It's fine. They all understand. Besides, I've locked the door. I know you are worried." Richard said as he took Amy's clothes off.

Soon, Amy's clothes were taken off and they made love happily.

Amy looked at Richard sleeping soundly beside her whose arms were around her.

She carefully looked at Richard's face. His long eyelashes were so adorable and made her want to kiss him.

Richard had a prominent nose as well as thin lips. His appearance was exquisite, and his skin was fair and tender. How could a man be so good-looking? His skin was even better than a woman's. Oh, it was unfair!

Looking at Richard fondly, Amy couldn't help but reach out her hand to touch his face.

"Do you like it?" Richard woke up but didn't open his eyes, and then he placed Amy's hand on his face, letting her touch his skin.

"I like it." Amy answered honestly. She really liked it. It was smooth and tender, feeling nice to the touch.

"If you like it, you can touch it for the rest of your life." Richard stretched out his long arms and firmly held Amy in his arms. Only by hugging Amy could Richard sleep soundly.

Richard hugged Amy and thought that Amy must be tired for the wild sex, so he rubbed her waist thoughtfully.

As Richard was massaging, Amy's tummy grumbled due to hunger.

"Hungry?" Richard laughed.

"Get up. I'll take you to a place after the meal." Richard kissed Amy's face and pulled her up.

While dining, Amy felt that everyone was looking at her strangely. She felt that it was weird, but Richard was eating elegantly, and was very considerate to help her with the dishes.

And Hilary was sniggering until Amy glared at her fiercely.

After dining, Amy asked Hilary what was going on.

Hilary pointed at Amy's neck and whispered, "There are hickeys." Amy blushed. Obviously, Richard had seen it, but he didn't tell her, which made a fool of her in front of everyone.

"Richard, why didn't you tell me when you saw this on my neck? Why did you do this to me?" Amy grasped Richard's clothes angrily.

Richard turned around and hugged her in his arms. "What's wrong with that? Isn't it so natural since we are a couple? I'm crazy for you and want to leave this on your body. You don't like it?" Richard said plausibly.

However, Amy felt embarrassed. She hurriedly went upstairs to find a silk scarf and wrapped it around her neck.

A few days later, Halbert called Cathy that he was going to pick up Grandma Eva to move here, but he didn't mention Addy. Therefore, Cathy pretended that she knew nothing about it, saying they would talk about it when they arrived.

Regarding Grandma Eva's arrival, everyone kept silent in the Carters, except William and Jacob, who were very happy. Even John did not look forward to seeing his wife very much._____

Grandpa John wasn't happy, "She's fine in the country. What's she doing here? This stubborn woman now needs our money!"

When Halbert and Addy divorced, Grandma Eva insisted on staying with her daughter-in-law. She said that she didn't need the money of the Carter family. And she wouldn't live with them.

However, she changed her mind. Grandpa John looked down on such broken promises.

"Dad, Mom probably missed us." Cathy tried to persuade Grandpa John. "That's impossible! The family all went to visit her during the Spring Festival! If she comes, we would suffer a lot." Grandpa John was clear about that. He knew his wife. Cathy didn't know what to say. No one seemed to like Grandma Eva. But her return was inevitable.

Apart from Grandpa John, every one of the family was standing at the door to welcome Grandma Eva.

The black Bentley eased into the yard. Halbert got off the car first, then he helped Grandma Eva out.

Jacob and William supported Grandma Eva. Richard was not here. As for Amy and Hilary, they just stood where they were.

Grandma Eva had white hair but was hale and hearty. She did not have many wrinkles and took great care of herself.

But she was not that kind of old people. Her gaze was sharp. When she passed Amy and Hilary, she looked at them with disgust.

"William and Jacob are still so caring. Unlike some people, they are now too proud to be polite!" When everyone was seated, Grandma Eva said suddenly.

William, Jacob and Sophia were pleased to hear this, but Cathy was not. "Mom, you only have two arms. You don't need that much people to help you."

Grandma Eva glared at Cathy. She now knew why Amy was so indifferent to her. It was because of Cathy!

What a mother-in-law!

"So many excuses." Grandma Eva said.

Cathy wanted to explain, but Halbert signed her.

"She has just recovered. Just stop." Halbert said softly.

Grandma Eva came, and it was fortunate that she did not bring Addy over. Cathy felt a little better.

"Where is that old jerk? Why doesn't he come to meet me?" Grandma Eva looked around and did not see Grandpa John.

"Mom, Dad is in poor health. The doctor advised him to have more rest." Halbert explained.

"I just came out of the hospital! And look at me! He just doesn't want to see me! That liar!" Grandma Eva was angry.

The Carter family was big and wealthy. But Grandma Eva came from a peasant family. Her father helped the Carter family a lot. Therefore, Grandpa John's father let Grandpa John marry her.

Jared Kushner & Ivanka Trump Dropped Off The Planet

She pretended to be kind, but over time, her cynical nature was revealed.

Thus, Grandma Eva and Grandpa John only had two sons and a daughter. After giving birth to a girl, Grandpa John never touched her again.

Listening to Grandma Eva, Amy felt a little sympathetic towards Grandpa John. It was really hard to live with a wife like that.

Halbert and Cathy then took Grandma Eva to her room.

"You call this a room? You want me to stay here? What are you thinking about?" Grandma Eva looked at the room and started complaining.

Actually, it was a clean and sunlit room. It was the best choice. But Cathy prepared the room and Grandma Eva didn't like her.

"Mom, what's wrong with that? Just rest here. Cathy will prepare the food. William and Jacob, bring over all of your grandma's things. Amy, Sophia and Hilary, help your grandma clean her room." Halbert knew that his mother did not like Cathy, so he let Cathy go somewhere else. Everyone started to do their business. Grandma Eva stopped complaining when she saw Cathy leave.

"Sophia, you are really nice and pretty. William is so lucky to have you." She liked Sophia because Sophia was Addy's daughter-in-law. Grandma Eva did not like anyone related to that Cathy.

Amy and Hilary kept quiet and did their cleaning work.

After the cleaning, Grandma Eva glanced at Sophia and praised, "You're really on the ball. Sophia, I didn't prepare much. Just take this." She deliberately gave Sophia her jade bracelet in front of Amy.

Sophia actually did not like that bracelet. What she wanted was Cathy's bracelet which was a symbol of family dignity.

But Sophia hid her feeling. It showed that Grandma Eva liked her, and did not like that Amy.

"Thank you, Grandma. It is a beautiful gift." Sophia held the bracelet and showed it off in front of Amy.

Amy did not react. She did not interested in these things.

Hilary couldn't bear to see this stupid show.

"Amy, why aren't you wearing the bracelet that Mom gave you?" Hilary said this on purpose. She wanted to remind Sophia that Amy's bracelet was more valuable.

Sophia almost threw away that bracelet when she heard this.

What? How could Amy own that bracelet? She, Sophia, was the first one to marry into the Carter family!

Sophia stared at Amy with hate.

"It looked very valuable, and I was afraid of breaking it." Amy answered honestly. She did not know that her bracelet was completely different from Sophia's.

Hilary looked at Sophia's face and secretly smiled. Sophia always wanted that bracelet. She would be furiously to know that it belonged to Amy now.

But what Hilary done brought a lot of trouble to Amy. That greedy

Sophia would do anything to achieve her goal. Chapter 139 A Storm on the Dining Table

"I'm so angry. I'm so angry." On returning to her room, Sophia casually threw the jade bracelet that Grandma Eva had given her onto the carpet. She even trampled on it.

"What's wrong, my darling? Who pissed you off?" William pulled Sophia into his embrace.

"People in your family are so annoying. I was the first who married into your family, but your stepmother gave Amy the jade bracelet that belongs to the family's matriarch. Your grandmother gave me this stupid jade bracelet as if it were precious. Is she trying to make a fool of me?" Sophia punched William in the chest with anger.

"What? The matriarch's jade bracelet was given to Amy? This is truly outrageous. No wonder you're angry." William was also very angry. Didn't they say that everything would be fair? There was nothing fair in this. That jade bracelet was worth millions of dollars. Cathy just gave it away, and they didn't even know it.

"Yeah, look at that stupid bracelet. Take it away from me. I don't want to see it anymore." Sophia kicked the bracelet again.

William picked up the bracelet from Grandma Eva and took a look. Although it wasn't as valuable as the jade bracelet of the matriarch, it was still worth hundreds of thousands. "This jade bracelet is acceptable. It looks pretty good." William comforted his wife.

"Take it away. Don't show it in front of me. Even though our White Group is bankrupt, you can't fool me with such a shitty thing." Sophia pushed away the jade bracelet in William's hand, and it fell to the ground again.

"Alright, alright, I'll take it away. Away." William picked up the bracelet again and put it elsewhere. He carried Sophia to bed.

"Amy, did you see Sophia's look afterwards? She must be pissed off. It's so funny." Hilary held Amy's arm and laughed wildly.

"Look at you. Is it that funny? Look at your wrinkles from laughing." Amy touched Hilary's face and said to her. Sure enough, Hilary quickly stopped laughing.

"Is that so? I've always thought my skin isn't as good as yours." Hilary nervously touched her own skin.

"No, I was just joking. Let's go. Cathy is still waiting for us." After coming out of Grandma Eva's room, Hilary dragged Amy to a secluded place and had enough laughs there.

"Oh, yes, I forgot that she is still waiting for us." Hilary followed Amy to find Cathy.

Although Grandma Eva did not like Amy very much, Amy did not care too much. She had to work during the day anyway, so she would only see Grandma Eva for a little while at night. It was Cathy who had to suffer.

Cathy had waited for Amy and Hilary for a long time. She was afraid that her children would suffer a loss.

Grandma Eva had always been hostile to Cathy, so she wouldn't be nice to Cathy's children, especially Amy.

"Mom, we're back." Hilary and Amy came back hand in hand. Seeing Cathy, Hilary ran into her arms and kissed her.

"How is it? Your grandmother didn't make things difficult for you, did she?" Cathy saw that their looks were normal.

"Is that possible? Amy and I are tired from helping her make the bed. But she only talked to Sophia, saying that Sophia was the most capable and obedient. She even gave Sophia a bracelet." Hilary complained to Cathy.

"Oh? It seems that your grandmother is very rich, giving a bracelet at her will." Cathy was amused. 'Has she come to the Carter's mansion to show off her wealth? The Carter family in the R City and the Cameron family in City L are both the locally richest people, so she's literally teaching one's grandmother to suck eggs.'

"Yes. I can't stand Sophia's complacent look, so I asked Amy why she didn't wear her jade bracelet.

Sophia was so pissed off. I couldn't stop laughing at her look." Thinking about Sophia's expression, Hilary felt satisfied.

No Wonder She's Always In The Top 10 Of These Lists

It Must Have Been A Kind Of Hell For A Little Chrissy Metz

"That's right, Amy, put on the bracelet I gave you. We the Carter family have a more precious jade bracelet." Cathy also felt satisfied. 'It's ridiculous for that old lady to show off her wealth here.'

"Mom, I'm afraid it's not a good idea. I don't want to break it while wearing it." Amy said worriedly. Her jade bracelet looked very good, but she couldn't bear to wear it.

"It's fine. How can it be so delicate? Just wear it." Cathy also wanted to vent her anger. 'My daughter-in-law can't be inferior to other people's daughters-in-law!

Persuaded by the mother and daughter, Amy agreed to wear the jade bracelet starting the next day.

Since the food was prepared, Halbert asked Sophia to invite Grandma Eva over for dinner.

The whole family gathered in the dining room, and the atmosphere was very lively.

There weren't many members in Garry Carter's family. He was Halbert's younger brother. He and his wife had one son and one daughter. In contrast, in Halbert's family, there were many people, who took more than half of the seats.

Grandma Eva did not like Cathy, and she liked Janice, Garry's wife, even less. The old lady was very snobbish. Although she did not like Cathy, she liked the Cameron family's money.

In contrast, Janice spent a lot while she didn't have any money, and she was neither beautiful nor sweet.

Therefore, Grandma Eva almost said nothing to Janice.

Cathy had arranged the dishes on the table, which catered to everyone's taste. In this regard, Cathy was very thoughtful.

Grandma Eva and Grandpa John sat together. Only then did the two of them meet.

"You call this a dish? It's so salty." Grandma Eva took a bite of fried whitebait with scrambled eggs and commented.

Then she ate a piece of meat and belittled it for being too greasy.

Anyway, she complained about every bite she took.

Even Grandpa John couldn't listen to her anymore.

"If you don't want it, then don't eat it. So much nonsense. I think they're all delicious and the arrangements are very good." Grandpa John scolded Grandma Eva. When Grandma Eva heard her husband's words, she stopped. However, she didn't have any good expression as she ate.

"Mom, it's probably been a long time since you've eaten our family's food, so you're not used to it. Our food is arranged by Cathy every day, and we all love it." At this time, Halbert also spoke up for his wife.

A woman's position in the family was determined by her husband instead of other people.

"What did I say? I just expressed my opinions, then all of you are blaming me. Do you despise me? I'm an old woman from the countryside, so I'm not used to the city food. Is that so? Really, my husband despises me, and my son too. I won't eat anymore!" Hearing Halbert's words, Grandma Eva threw her chopsticks on the dining table and stood up angrily. _____

Chapter 140 Sophia Stirred up Trouble

Grandma Eva suddenly stood up, and everyone at the table looked at her.

"Grandma, don't be angry. You've just recovered. Sit down and calm down." At this time, Sophia hurriedly walked over to Grandma Eva and helped her sit down.

Grandma Eva felt relieved and liked Sophia even more. She thought highly of her own granddaughter-in-law. In her eyes, she only had a few grandsons and only treated Jacob's and William's wives as her own granddaughters-in-law.

"See, Sophia is so nice. I really love you for nothing." Grandma Eva scolded the people around her.

Garry's wife curled her lips. What did Grandma Eva mean by saying that?

Garry was brought up by a nanny. Only Halbert was brought up by Grandma Eva. However, the most ridiculous thing was that Grandma Eva even set Halbert up with one of her distant relatives, forcing him to marry her. That woman was so rustic that even Garry's wife disliked her.

Grandpa John didn't say anything else. Anyway, he didn't want to see Grandma Eva. After eating, he left with someone's help.

Grandma Eva and Sophia were chatting warmly. The others had finished their meal and left. The two of them sat on the sofa in the living room and continued to chat.

"All of you are members of the Carter family. Why did you leave after dinner? Does anyone want to stay with me?" Grandma Eva was even angrier when she saw that everyone stayed away from her. Cathy must put them up to all these. Didn't they look down on her? "Mom, I'm going to clean up the kitchen." Cathy went to have the kitchen cleaned up every day. She had a passion for cleanliness and didn't want things to be scattered everywhere.

"Grandma, we're going to read. I'm going to graduate school," the two children of Garry said to Grandma Eva.

"OK, just go. You guys are really annoying. I have Sophia." Grandma Eva's impression of Sophia was even better.

"Let's go. The two of them want to chat. Let me show you the clothes I bought today. It looks good."

Hilary pulled Amy away.

She didn't like Grandma Eva. Anyway, Grandma Eva didn't like her either. Whoever liked to flatter Grandma Eva would just do it.

Amy followed Hilary upstairs and went to Hilary's room.

"I don't understand Richard. He has taken a fancy to such a woman.

She's pretty, but she can do nothing." Grandma Eva looked at Amy's back and said to Sophia.

"Sophia, you were born into a wealthy family. Your temperament and education are the best. No wonder William likes you so much. I like you too." Grandma Eva liked very few people in this family, but she felt it was still much better here than in the countryside.

She enjoyed good food and a lot of fun here. Although Halbert's ex-wife cooked for her in the countryside, her cooking was really too bad. Grandma Eva had insisted on living in the countryside to protest against Halbert's divorce from Addy. However, her protest had no effect at all. Halbert still married Cathy. A few years ago, he would often ask her to come back to the Carter's mansion. However, everyone seemed to have forgotten about this over time. She was embarrassed to mention this. Actually, she had long wanted to go back to the old mansion.

A 25-Year-Old Becomes The Richest Man In His City
No Wonder She's Always In The Top 10 Of These Lists

This time, it just so happened that she was sick. Halbert just asked her to return again, and Grandma Eva immediately agreed. This time, she didn't want to leave.

"Grandma, you are William's grandma and also my grandma. That's what I should do." Sophia knew that Halbert was a very filial person. If she treated Grandma Eva well, Grandma Eva would help her. And she would have a strong backing to deal with Amy.

"Well, you're so good. Grandma will definitely love you well." Grandma Eva listened to Sophia's words happily.

"Grandma, let me tell you, Amy once divorced. She cheated on her husband on the second day of the wedding. So they got divorced immediately. I wonder what happened to Richard. He treats her as a treasure." Sophia leaned over to Grandma Eva's ear and secretly told her about this.

"What?" Hearing that, Grandma Eva widened her eyes. Although she did not like Cathy, she was very good to Richard. Besides, he was her grandson. She subconsciously preferred sons over daughters. In addition, this grandson was truly capable.

"She was divorced. Grandma, you have to make the decision for our family. Both Cathy and Richard were deceived by that woman, but they don't know it. Even Hilary is on her side." Sophia wanted to stir up trouble.

"This is outrageous. I just felt that this woman was too beautiful. I didn't expect that she is a disaster.

Cathy is very smart, isn't she? She actually was tricked into submission.

Without me, this family would really be getting worse and worse," Grandma Eva said sadly.

It was as if the Carter family had already declined in the years when she had been away.

"Grandma, it's a good thing that you came back. If not, I don't know what would become of this family.

I've been looking forward to your return for a long time." Since she had achieved her purpose, Sophia was secretly delighted.

"Yes, I came back to help our family. I will definitely show no mercy to these bad women. She wants to share our family's property. Dream on!" Grandma Eva spat on the ground, which disgusted Sophia, but she still had to smile.

"Grandma? Good evening. Sorry, I had a few meetings today, so I couldn't come and have dinner with you." When Richard walked into the living room, he saw Grandma Eva and Sophia talking about something. He also saw Grandma Eva spit on the ground.

"Richard, it's you. Let me look at you." Grandma Eva looked at Richard and felt a sense of accomplishment.

She looked ordinary, but when Grandpa John was young, he was very handsome. Their son Halbert looked like Grandpa John, and Garry looked like her.

The two children of Halbert and Addy were both very ordinary. Then Cathy and Halbert were married.

Their children were really beautiful.

Therefore, Grandma Eva liked Richard very much.

"Grandma, are you feeling better? Daddy said you're sick, and we're all worried. But you look very healthy now." Richard walked to Grandma Eva and observed her.

Grandma Eva was actually in good health. Although she was already in her seventies, her skin was still ruddy and her hair didn't get grey too much. She was wearing strange clothes, which was her personal hobby. Richard didn't pay much attention to it.

"Richard, I missed you so much." Grandma Eva held Richard's hand and let him sit beside her.

Chapter 141 Resign

Seeing Richard sitting beside Eva, Sophia was so excited. It was rare for the two of them to sit together.

Eva was truly her blessing.

Eva looked at Richard. This kid was really handsome. He inherited all the advantages of Halbert and Cathy.

Eva looked at her grandson in a daze, and Sophia looked at Richard too, in the same fashion. This man was a hundred times more handsome than her husband. Why did all good things happen to Amy?

"Grandma, it's getting late. You're tired from flight today. Why don't you rest early?" Richard looked at his grandmother who had been staring at him in a daze. He didn't know what was going on, but it was time for her to rest.

"Richard, you really are my sweetheart. I love you the most. You must treat me well." Eva held onto Richard's hand. She looked pitiful, making Richard's heart soften a little.

Although he was quite cold to outsiders, he was still very good to his family, especially to the elders. He was very filial.

"Grandma, of course I have to be filial to you. Don't worry!" Richard patted Eva's hand and comforted her.

"OK, I know you are the best. I can rest assured. I was still afraid that I wouldn't be able to live here." Eva whined.

"No, Grandma, don't worry. Everyone here will treat you well." Richard helped Eva up.

"Grandma, I'll help you go back to sleep. We'll talk tomorrow. I'll be back early tomorrow to accompany you." Richard supported Eva, and Sophia quickly supported Eva's other arm.

"Richard, leave it to me. You've been busy all day." Sophia said to Richard with distress.

"Right, Richard, you can go rest. Sophia will send me back." Eva also felt ached for Richard, so she didn't want him to send her back and pushed him away.

"Alright then. Grandma, go slowly with Sophia. I'll go back to take a bath first." Seeing that Eva and Sophia had left, Richard went upstairs. It seemed that the family had gotten along quite well today.

Richard went upstairs. He was really busy today. At this time, he missed Amy very much.

"Amy?" Richard pushed open the door and saw that Amy was busy in the bedroom. Hearing Richard's voice, she turned around.

"Richard, you're back?" As soon as Amy put away the things in her hands, she got up and walked in front of Richard. She helped him bring the things over and hung up his clothes.

"I'm so busy today that I don't even have time to think about you. What were you doing just now? You looked so mysterious." Richard discovered that it happened many times. She saw him and immediately put away the things.

"I'm doing my own things. Richard, I'll run you a bath. Wait for me." Amy went to the bathroom to run Richard a bath.

Richard drank some water. He wanted to see what Amy was doing, but after thinking for a while, he didn't act. This was Amy's secret. Since she didn't tell him, there was a reason for that.

Before he could finish his glass of water, Amy had come out. The bath was ready.

"Alright, Richard, you can go take a bath. I still have something to do. I'll go to bed when I'm done."

"Alright, then I'll go take a bath." Richard put down his teacup and went to the bathroom.

Amy's translation was still unfinished, so she continued to translate.

Then, she put everything in her bag and prepared to deliver it to SY Company tomorrow.

Richard still went to work early. He said that he would come back to accompany Eva for dinner today, so he had to hurriedly finish his work so that he could come back early. Amy's entire body was aching. Richard's energy was so good. He had been working all day, and he still had energy to make love when he came back. He was afraid of waking her up early in the morning, so he quietly left.

After stretching her body for a while, Amy got up from bed. She must go to SY Company to hand in the translation today, and then go to HD Group to help Richard. Richard had given her many days off, so it was time to go to work.

After breakfast, Amy went out. The Carter's mansion was very remote. Amy walked for a long time before she reached the main road. She took a taxi and arrived at SY Company.

"Erin, I'm here to hand in my work." Amy handed over her translated documents to Erin.

"Okay, Amy. Our boss said that your translation is very good and accurate. I'm going to raise your wages." Erin said to Amy.

Amy wanted to resign because now she was living in the Carter's mansion. She needed a lot of time to accompany her family. If she stayed in her room every day, people would think that she was very lonely.

If she said that she was still working part-time as a translator, Richard would definitely not be happy about it. Everyone else would also have a problem with it.

However, before she could say anything, she was stopped by Erin. Now it was a little difficult for her to say it out.

"Erin, who is the boss of SY Company?" Amy asked. She had been here for so many months and had never seen the boss before.

"Our boss rarely comes here. He is usually in the headquarters. SY Group is only a small subsidiary of his." Erin explained to Amy.

"Erin, I want to tell you something. I want to resign. Must I tell your boss about this resignation?" Amy thought for a moment and felt that she still had to explain her intentions.

"Resign? Why? Could it be that the treatment of SY Company is not good enough?" When Erin heard that Amy was going to resign, he felt that it was inconceivable. He was sure that no matter where Amy went, she would not be able to get her current salary.

"It's very good, but I have something to do at home, so it's not convenient for me to continue doing this work." Amy said. She also felt very sorry.

"Erin, how about this? I can help you translate before you find other translators. However, I can only give you one month. I won't help you after that. You don't have to pay me during this period." Amy also knew that if she left SY Company, she would never find any job with such good salaries.

"Then wait a moment. I'll give the boss a call." Erin realized that he couldn't keep Amy, so he hurriedly called the boss.

She didn't know what Erin had said on the phone, but he just kept nodding and looking at Amy.

After waiting for a while, Erin finished his call. He walked over and said to Amy, "Amy, our boss invites you over."

Erin called and told Amy that the boss of SY Company wanted to see her. Erin wrote the address on the paper and handed it to Amy.

"Amy, if you want to resign, you should tell the boss personally. After all, he likes you very much." Of course, the boss had taken care of everything for Amy since she had entered the company.

"Alright, I also want to take the chance to thank him in person."

Although she had never met the boss in person, he had indeed helped her during her most difficult time.

After saying goodbye to Erin, Amy went to a tea house according to the address.

When she was there, the boss hadn't arrived yet, so Amy asked for a cup of water and waited.

Ten minutes later, the door was pushed open. Amy hurriedly stood up and looked at the door.

A handsome man appeared at the door. He looked gentle, but startled Amy anyway.

"Andy?"

"Amy, I'm sorry for being late. I was held up in traffic. I thought I would arrive early, but I was late. I'm really sorry." Andy apologized to Amy.

Amy was still in shock. It turned out that it was Andy that had been taking care of her. Then it all made sense now. It was Andy that had extended a helping hand to her.

"Sit down, please. Why are you drinking water? I remember that you like tea, and that's why I booked this tea house. The black tea is its specialty, and it's beneficial for girls."

As Andy spoke, he sat opposite

Amy.

Andy ordered a pot of black tea and some popular snacks there.

"Andy, so you've been secretly helping me. Thank you so much. Thank you so much." Amy was so excited that she didn't know what else to say.

"What are you talking about? Shouldn't I help you? We are friends, aren't we? If I don't help you, then who will help you? Don't think too much. Come on, have a sip of the tea." Andy poured two cups of tea, one for Amy and another one for himself.

The black tea was really good. Amy felt very warm.

"Amy, I heard that you are going to resign, aren't you?" Because the atmosphere was too warm, Amy didn't find a chance to bring about the topic. She thought she was heartless since it was Andy that began the topic in the end.

"Well, I have already returned to the Carter's mansion to stay with my family, so I don't have much time for the job. But I can still help before you find another translator." Amy mustered up the courage to say what she had prepared to say. She was indeed in a very difficult situation right now.

Andy knew that Amy was kind. She went back to the seemingly noble Carter's mansion, however, in fact, she might suffer countless grievances from now on.

A 25-Year-Old Becomes The Richest Man In His City Islamabad Janitor Became A Millionaire Almost Overnight!

Amy was young. She had grown up with her father, Stephen, and had never experienced the awkwardness of being living with a large family. However, Andy was not supposed to say something like that. After all, that was Amy's family matter.

"Oh, it's OK. We have enough translators. I'll just give those tasks to them. Don't worry about that. Amy, are you happy now?" Andy changed the topic. He was more concerned about Amy.

"I'm fine. Richard is very nice to me now, and the people there are also very kind." Of course, Amy was talking about most people. Although there were some people who didn't like her, she just ignored them.

Andy took a sip of tea. He looked at Amy through the smoke of the tea. She might be indeed very happy.

Now that she could forgive Richard for not being there for her when she had miscarried, she must have been deeply in love with Richard. She would believe whatever Richard said.

It was useless to say anything now, so it'd be better for Andy not to interfere with Amy's life anymore.

"Amy, I wish you happiness for the rest of your life. Your happiness is the most important. It's OK if you want to resign. You will get the money you deserve. Remember, my door will always be open for you. I hope that if you ever encounter any difficulties in the future, you can come and ask me for help, okay?"

It was useless for Andy to say anymore, so Andy could only wish Amy good luck.

"Andy, it's OK. It's my fault. I can't take that money." Amy hurriedly waved her hand. She would remember Andy's words. She knew that Andy had always been caring about her.

"What are you talking about? You get what you deserve. If it's not yours, I won't give it to you anyway.

How about another cup of tea? Have some snacks. Do you have time for lunch? My treat." Andy said to Amy.

Amy was still worried about Richard. She wanted to go to HD Group to see him and have lunch with him.

"Andy, I have something to do at noon, so I'm afraid I can't have lunch with you. Thank you for your kindness, I'll treat you next time." Amy rejected Andy.

"Well, alright, then I'll be waiting for your treat then." Andy laughed self-deprecatingly. Amy was still the same as when she had been a child. She was not good at lying as she always blinked her eyes whenever she lied.

After the conversation with Andy, Amy got relaxed. So Andy was in charge of SY Group. Then she would not have to worry about it, because there were many excellent translators in SR Company, which belonged to Andy, too.

Andy gave up his pursuit in medicine to take over the family business, and only he knew how difficult it was to make such a decision. He had had a big fight with his father over the matter. However, when Andy came back this time and found out that Miller Group had gone bankrupt, in order to help Amy, he took over SR Company resolutely.

However, it was still too late. It was so late that Amy had already fallen in love with someone else.

Watching as Amy disappeared into the distance, Andy felt an urge to cry. He had once dreamed of a simple and ordinary life with Amy, where he would be an ordinary doctor, so that Amy would have nothing to do with the wealthy families.

However, good fortune always played tricks on people. Amy still entered a wealthy family and was destined to live a life of intrigue.

Chapter 143 Collusion

Amy took a taxi to HD Group. She did not tell Richard because she wanted to give him a surprise.

The receptionists knew that she was the president's wife, so they just let her in.

When Amy arrived at the president's office, she heard that it was quiet inside. Gently opening the door, she found that Richard was on the phone.

Without saying anything, she walked in and closed the door.

"Alright. Goodbye." Richard was surprised to see Amy.

"Amy, come here." Richard hung up the phone and waved to Amy, signaling her to come over.

"Come sit here." Richard smiled flirtatiously and pulled Amy onto his laps.

"There are chairs. It's not appropriate. People will see us." Amy wanted to get up, but Richard stopped her and held her tightly in his arms.

It had been hours since he saw her last time. He missed her, and some parts of his body also missed her.

"It's fine. No one will come in. They know that my wife is here. They are not stupid." Richard buried his head in Amy's neck, sniffing the fragrance of her body.

There was someone stupid, though. When they were making out, the door was opened, surprising Amy.

Allison came in and saw what happened in the room. Then, she stepped back while apologizing.

After Amy stood up, Richard told Allison to come in.

"Come in. What's the matter?" Richard put on a long face.

"I'm sorry, Richard. Here is a very important contract. The other party requests us to sign it immediately." Allison looked aggrieved.

However, she should have brought the contract to Richard early in the morning. She had forgotten it.

Seeing Amy was here, she couldn't help but want to mess up with Amy.

"Put it down. Leave us alone if there is not anything else," Richard said.

Allison bit her lips and put down the contract. Before leaving, she smiled and walked to Amy.

"Amy, you are getting beautiful. How about we grab a cup of coffee when you are available?"

"Thanks, but I don't like coffee." Amy didn't even look at Allison. Amy's hand was held by Richard. Seeing it, Allison was pissed off.

"Then I'll leave you alone." Not able to get anything that she wanted, Allison left Richard's office.

It was hard for Sophia not to be able to vent her anger. Therefore, she called Sophia, asking Sophia to come out to be her company.

"Sophia, are you available now? Come out and have a cup of coffee with me?" Allison asked Sophia.

"Allison, why are you calling me? I'm busy. I have to stay at home with Grandma." Sophia did not like Allison, because Allison would also have a share of the family property.

If you do, come to MW Café now. I'll wait for you there." Allison got right to the point.

"Hey, you...." Sophia was pissed off when hearing the beeping sounds,

'What was wrong with the world?

Why did everyone treat me like that? First, it was Amy. She was my enemy.'

'Then, Gina started to fool me. Right now, even Allison, who hadn't married into the Carter family, dared to treat me like this. Was it because I was too kind?'

Anyway, Sophia decided to go to MW Café. She wanted to know what Allison would tell her.

"If you have anything to say, just say it. I'm very busy." Sophia got to MW Café as soon as she could, and Allison was already waiting for her.

"What's the hurry? Do you want to go back and look at Grandma Eva's wrinkled face?" Allison looked at Sophia with disdain.

"How can you say that about Grandma? You will be her daughter-in-law in the future." Sophia lectured Allison.

"When I marry into the Carter family, I am the eldest daughter-in-law. It is not your turn to lecture me.

Sophia, remember that I am the eldest daughter-in-law and you are only the second eldest." Allison smiled and said to Sophia.

"This is outrageous. I'll be leaving now if you have nothing to say."

Sophia was not a good-tempered person.

"Now Amy has the jade bracelet that stands for the matriarch of the Carter family. Aren't you going to do something?" Seeing that Sophia was about to leave, Allison took a sip of her coffee and said to Sophia's back without any emotion.

Sophia paused.

"What do you mean? Don't try to sow discord between us." Sophia returned to her seat.

"Do I need to? Are you close?" Allison said with contempt. Sophia was a greedy woman, which was helpful to Allison.

Sophia thought that Allison was right. Allison didn't need to sow discord between Amy and her. They hated each other. Although Amy was not directly responsible for the bankruptcy of White Group, Amy was an indirect cause.

"Sophia, I'm going to marry Jacob. Then, we'll be family and I'll be your sister-in-law. Our husbands have the same mother. Why don't we get any right in the Carter family? They gave all of it to Richard's wife.

Doesn't it bother you? It bothers me, anyway." Allison looked fierce.

"Of course it bothers me. I am the first daughter-in-law of the Carter family, but they secretly gave the jade bracelet to Amy. Who is she? Has she done anything for the Carter family?" As Allison expected, Sophia was enraged.

"Yes, you are the hardest one. You've taken care of everything of the Carter family. Why did Amy get the bracelet?" Allison took the opportunity to feed the fire.

"Allison, you have no idea how exhausting the family is. I've worked so hard for so long, but what do I get? After you are married, you'll know how hard it is for me." Sophia felt sad.

She didn't have to do housework at the Carter's, but she still felt tired. Because she had to be careful when giving anything valuable to the White family. She was afraid that the Carters would find out about it since she did it so many times that there were little of her jewelry was left. In that case, she should be tired!

Allison smiled, 'Sophia was so simple-minded. It was effortless to get her on the same side with me. But it was good. A simple-minded person was easier to control.

"But why are you telling me this? Weren't you Richard's girlfriend? Why did you leave him and give Amy the opportunity?" Sophia realized something.

"Me? Amy is a bitch. How can I compete with her? I'm a decent woman." Allison cried.

Chapter 144 Working Hand in Glove!

Allison cried, and she cried her heart out. She did not understand. It was for sure that Richard loved her, and everyone in R city knew that. However, the moment Amy appeared, everything changed.

"Hey! Please don't cry. I want to cry as I see you cry." Sophia also cried. In the past, Richard liked Allison, with whom she had no way to compare. As the daughter of the Field family, Allison was rich and beautiful.

What about Amy? Her family was doing a small business, which went bankrupt. The most irritating thing was that she had divorced, but Richard treated her like a treasure. Two frustrated women were crying in the cafe, which shocked the waiters.

"Ladies, what happened?" The manager came to ask them.

"Something happened, but there is nothing you can do about it. Just leave us alone." Sophia was sad.

They had cried for a while.

"Alright, no more tears. Let's get down to business." Allison suddenly stopped crying. She wiped her face with a wet tissue and gave one piece to Sophia.

"As we both hate Amy, we should make things difficult for her. She is complacent now. How could we stand that?" Allison said to Sophia.

"That's right. My mother was blinded. I heard that she has given the jade bracelet of the Carter family to Amy. You are the sister-in-law in the future. It's unfair." Sophia was trying to drive a wedge between Allison and Amy.

Allison hated Amy even more. 'Why does she get all the good things? I am better than her, but I get nothing.'

"I don't care. I'm not interested in the Carter family. I feel indignant at the wrong you have suffered.

Sophia, you married into the Carter family first, you deserve the jade bracelet more than Amy does. How could they give it to her?" Allison seemed generous.

Sophia thought over and found what Allison said was reasonable. The Field family lacked nothing, but the White family had collapsed. She needed to use the Carter family's money to subsidize her family.

"Allison, don't you care about the power of the Carter family?" Sophia was not sure yet.

"Do you think I care? Don't worry, I just want to take my revenge. I have no interest in competing for power of the Carter family. Even if I marry Jacob in the future, I will move out. I don't like living with the old." Allison comforted Sophia.

Now, she hadn't married into the Carter family, so she meant nothing to the Carter family. However, she must work with one of the two women in the family to get rid of the other.

As for Sophia who was stupid, no one loved her, so Allison didn't worry about her at all.

"Oh, Allison, I used to think you were a lofty princess. I never thought you are so kind. I like you so much.

I'm your fan. I've seen all your dances. It's amazing." Sophia flattered Allison.

"I can't dance now. My legs are injured. I can't dance anymore." Allison said sadly. She always threatened Richard with her legs. Although he had made it clear to her that he would never help her in the future.

However, Sophia didn't want to give up.

"I'm sorry. Allison. Grandma Eva will definitely like you." Sophia handed Allison a piece of Chiffon cake.

"I don't care. Sophia, if you want to make a success in the Carter family, you have to please Grandma Eva." Allison looked down on Eva. She would rather please Cathy.

However, Sophia couldn't recognize the truth.

Sophia felt relieved as she found that Allison posed no threat to her. She didn't care about Amy who had no backer. She would have a backer as long as she had Allison's support in the future.

Sophia naively thought that Allison was harmless. The current priority was to get rid of Amy so that she could get the jade bracelet back. Then she would get a foothold in the Carter family.

They lowered their heads and discussed for a while. Allison came up with an idea and she asked Sophia to do as she said.

"Wow! Allison, you're so smart. I would never come up with this without you. Alright, I'll do as you said right away." Sophia thought Allison was smart.

"There's no hurry. You can do it slowly. I think you should take your time.

If you want to drive Amy out of the Carter family forever, you need to be patient. You should make her stink in the eyes of the Carter family. Then she will naturally leave." Allison enjoyed her coffee. It was delicious. Richard liked coffee, and she liked coffee too. However, Richard married the Amy who liked tea.

It was interesting, but it didn't matter. She would try her best to get rid of Amy. Sooner or later, Richard was hers.

After finished talking, they separated. Sophia went shopping in the mall.

She hadn't bought new clothes for a long time because Amy affected her mood. Today she felt happy, so she wanted to reward herself.

She went to R City Department Store, the largest store in R city. She liked several specialty stores there.

She could buy the clothes of all the world-famous brands here, and some of them were limited edition.

It wasn't long since R City Department Store opened, more than two years, but it had attracted 30% of the R City customers.

Here, if you hesitated when you found something you liked, someone would buy it soon. There was no need to worry about sales.

Many of her friends would show off after they had bought things here. She hadn't went shopping for a month. She was so happy to see many people in the R City Department Store.

She went straight to Chanel store. She liked the clothes there, classy and elegant, and she looked better when she wore them.

"Hello, Ms. Sophia. We have new collections today. Would you like to have a try?" The shopping guide welcomed Sophia warmly as she saw her.

Sophia was their VIP. She was generous here, so the shopping guides liked her.

"Alright, I'm going to choose some beautiful clothes to reward myself today." Sophia felt that she was respected here, so the smile on her face deepened.

Chapter 145 Drama in the Shopping Mall

"I want to try this dress." Sophia liked a pink dress, marked sold, but she insisted on trying it on.

"I'm sorry, Ms. Sophia. This dress has been sold. The customer hasn't come to pick it up yet." The shopping guide didn't dare to cross the person who bought this dress, so she did not give it to Sophia to try it on.

"I'm just trying it on, not taking it. Why couldn't I? You know I'm wife of the second young master of the Carters. How dare you treat me like this? Do you want to do business or not?" Sophia felt that the shopping guide looked down upon her.

"I'm sorry for this. I know who you are, but someone has bought this dress. So, we can't let you try it on."

The shopping guide explained patiently to Sophia.

But today, she was brainwashed by Allison, feeling that she was the most powerful person, and everyone should give in. She wanted this dress.

The quarrel attracted the manager.

"What happened? Ms. Sophia, take it easy. What's going on here?"

When the manager walked over, she got a glass of water for Sophia.

"You tell me! This shopping guide is too unreasonable. I asked her to give me that dress to try on, but she refused. Was she afraid that I couldn't afford it?" Sophia chugged the water.

"What's going on?" The manager asked the shopping guide, who pointed at the pink dress in the window. The manager immediately understood.

"I'm really sorry. This dress has been sold. We could show it as the customer didn't take it away. If you like it, we can discuss with the headquarters and see if they can send us the dress which they kept for us." There weren't many for limited edition. This was a privilege that Chanel had given to the R City Department Store. There were only two, one of which had been reserved.

The other one belonged to another shop. In order to appease Sophia, the manager decided to fight for it.

"Since you have another, I'll take this one." Sophia was even more unscrupulous. She was about to open the window to get the dress.

The manager was so frightened that she hurriedly stopped her.

"Ms. Sophia, I don't think this works. The customer will come to get it tomorrow morning. If you like it, I will try to get one for you. There are only ten in the world." The manager patiently explained to Sophia.

"Do you think I can't afford it? Get the person in charge here. I must have this dress." Sophia became unreasonable.

So, those who wanted to enter the shop stood at the door to see the drama, expecting to see how to deal with this wealthy person.

The manager had no other choice but to call the person in charge. She also tried to persuade Sophia, but Sophia did not give way because she was from the Carter family.

"Who's messing around here?" A harsh voice came from outside. The people standing at the door consciously moved aside.

Mrs. Newell walked in gracefully. She narrowed her eyes as she found it was Sophia.

Sophia had almost harmed her daughter. It seemed that she didn't learn a lesson from it. Now, she was bold to come here to make trouble.

Sophia looked at Mrs. Newell and became less arrogant.

"It's me." She replied with less conviction.

"What is it?" Mrs. Newell asked. The shopping guide did not expect to alert the president's wife, and she was afraid that she might be fired.

However, she tried her best to explain the whole story.

"So, Ms. Sophia, do you mean that you can get whatever you want even if other customer has reserved it, right?" Mrs. Newell turned to ask Sophia in a redoubtable voice.

"I can afford it. Why don't you sell it to me?" Sophia didn't give up. The merchants cared nothing but money. They weren't stupid. Why didn't they earn this money?

"The most basic morality of being a person is not to snatch others' stuff. You can't do whatever you want to do. This is the R City Department Store, not the Carter's. You have no right to be wilful here." Mrs.

Newell's voice was not loud, but people around sensed her dignity.

"Ms. Sophia's surname is White, right? It seemed that the White Group just went bankrupt a few days ago. Where did you get the confidence? A woman, whose family was poor, can bully others just by relying on her husband's family, right?"

"Oh, Good point!" Among rubbernecks, the people who hated the Carter family applauded for what Mrs.

Newell said.

Sophia felt that she had lost face. She didn't expect that Mrs. Newell was eloquent.

"What about you? Aren't you relying on Mr. Newell? What are you proud of?" Sophia criticized Mrs.

Newell.

"I have a saying at the R City Department Store. Where do you have a saying? Guards, get this woman out. Tell the security guards at the entrance that the R City Department Store will never allow this woman to come in." Mrs. Newell, surrounded by many people, finished her sentence and left.

"What? What's the big deal with her? I don't want to come here either."

Sophia cursed angrily, pointing at Mrs. Newell.

"I'm sorry, madam. Please leave. You're not welcomed here." Several strong security guards walked over and said politely.

"I will leave. Don't push me. I know the way." Sophia thought Mrs. Newell was really too presumptuous.

Who wouldn't be nice to the Carter family in R city?

Mrs. Newell didn't take people of the Carter family seriously. Sophia must tell Richard that Mrs. Newell was arrogant.

"Mom, leave it to me." When Sophia went home, she helped Cathy with her work, which surprised Cathy. Every day, Sophia did nothing but eating, sleeping, and shopping. Today, Sophia even helped her to arrange the flowers.

"Mom, you run the house all day and you must be tired. Let me help you." Sophia was sweet, and she did help Cathy with her work.

"Is there something wrong? You are weird." Cathy was not used to Sophia's sudden changes.

"Mom, I'm sorry. I should share some of the housework with you. From now on, I want to learn from you and strive to be a good daughter-in-law, a good wife and a good mother."

Chapter 146 Goodbye to Limited Edition

When Sophia returned home today, she was like a different person. Cathy was very curious about what happened to her.

"Well, Sophia, do you have something to tell me?" Cathy treated every child the same, but Addy's two children had always hated her, as if she had stolen their father.

"It's fine. I'm already twenty-six. I was very ignorant in the past, making you worry about me. From now on, I want to follow you as an example. I'll make efforts to manage household affairs." When Sophia said these words, she meant it. Of course, she wanted to manage this rich family. She could definitely raise the White family well with so much wealth.

Cathy was not that easy to deceive. She just looked at Sophia indifferently. 'Anyway, say whatever you want to say. I'm not an idiot.'

"Alright then. Follow me in the future and see what you can do." Cathy said to Sophia.

"Okay, Mom. I'll go see Grandma." After Sophia finished speaking, she went to see Eva. Eva usually went back to her room after meal. In this house, no one paid attention to Sophia during the day. The people she liked would only come back at night.

By the time they got off work, everyone in the family had returned, and the three brothers of the Carter family had returned one after another.

When Amy returned home with Richard, Sophia saw that Amy was wearing the pink dress she saw today.

At that time, the R City Department Store said that this dress was the only one in R City. Amy couldn't be wearing a fake dress. Fake dresses wouldn't have come out this early.

"Amy, you weren't wearing this dress when you went out today, were you?" Sophia moved closer to Amy and deliberately asked.

However, she was even angrier when she saw the jade bracelet on Amy's hand.

"Right. The dress I wore today got dirty. Someone else gave this to me." Amy thought that this dress was especially beautiful. It was simple and elegant, which suited her very well.

"I see." Sophia did not say anything else. It turned out that the dress which Mrs. Newell said was left for Amy. She always felt that there was something between them, but she couldn't tell exactly.

She had Amy drink the drugged drink and delivered her to Mr. Newell, but he did nothing. Didn't he always look at Amy in a perverted manner? Was he afraid of Mrs. Newell? That could not explain it either. Mrs. Newell liked Amy as if Amy was her family. She must find out what was the relationship between Mrs. Newell and Amy.

"Amy, you came back? Wow, this dress is so pretty. It's the limited edition of Chanel this season. There are only ten in the world, and only two in China. It's designed by a master. I didn't expect that you would buy it." Cathy loved this dress so much. She was planning to buy it for Amy.

However, when she arrived at R City Department Store, someone had ordered it. There was nothing Cathy could do about it.

Now that her daughter-in-law was wearing the dress, she was very happy.

However, Sophia got angrier because of Cathy's words.

No Wonder She's Always In The Top 10 Of These Lists

"Mom, this was given by Mrs. Newell. When I met her today, she accidentally dirtied my dress. It was just a coffee stain, but she was very sorry for that. In the end, she gave me this dress." Amy didn't know that this dress was worth over a million, and she also didn't know it was a limited edition. She thought it was just an ordinary dress.

However, when Amy heard that this dress was a limited edition of Chanel, she started to panic.

"Mom, this dress is very expensive, right? I should return it to her. Wait, I've put it on. I should give her the money. I can't put her to a lot of expense. My dress is only hundreds."

"It's fine. It looks good on you. I'll give her the money. You can wear it without worry." Richard had been watching his wife the whole time. She looked very elegant in this dress. Although Mrs. Newell was very strange, he had to admit that she had good taste.

"Alright." Hearing Richard's words, Amy was relieved. She was a person who did not like to take advantage of others. Although she did not know why Mrs. Newell treated her so well, she could not accept such an expensive gift.

"It's dinner time. What are you still talking about? I am starving!" Eva walked over with the help of a servant. Seeing everyone around Amy, she was not pleased.

"Grandma, let me help you." Sophia felt that she was embarrassed. Mrs. Newell did not sell that dress and kept it for Amy.

She walked over with a smile and supported Eva. However, she was too angry. She pinched Eva's arm subconsciously.

"Sophia, what's wrong with you?" Eva looked at Sophia.

"I'm sorry, Grandma. I was distracted." Sophia hurriedly apologized to Eva.

Amy was busy talking to everyone. After that, she hurriedly went up to change her clothes. She couldn't make any stains on such an expensive dress.

"She's really impolite. She hastily left without even greeting to me. How dare she?" Eva looked at Amy's back and said to Richard.

"Grandma, Amy was to change her clothes. She will come down to accompany you in a while." Richard explained to Eva, but Eva thought that Amy was a coquette.

"Richard, there are so many girls who like you. Why would you like her? Girls like Sophia are so great.

Although she is not particularly beautiful, she is virtuous and knows how to respect the elders. Such a girl is the one whom you should live a lifetime with. What's the use of beautiful girls?" Eva didn't like beautiful women.

Cathy was more beautiful than Addy. That was why Eva didn't like her. Women's appearances weren't important, as long as they could work.

For example, although Eva herself was not good looking, she could do many people's work on her own.

But now, men only looked at the appearance of a woman and judged her ability one-sidedly.

"Grandma, don't worry about these things. You just take good care of yourself. Living a few more years is the most important thing. Aren't you still waiting for your great-grandson?" Richard didn't want to argue with her, so he changed the topic.

Chapter 147 Amy's Birth Mother

"Madam, there is an extra deposit in your account." The secretary said to Mrs. Newell, holding the files of her bank account.

"How much?" Mrs. Newell asked the secretary.

"Six hundred thousand," the secretary reported the number to Mrs. Newell.

"Huh, this Amy is really interesting. I went out of my way to accidentally stain her clothes so that I could give her that skirt. I didn't expect her to transfer the money back to me. What a silly lady. Unexpectedly, I shouldn't have hung that skirt up. Sophia must have told her something when she went back and saw it."

Mrs. Newell let out a defeated smile when she saw the extra six hundred thousand in her account.

Mrs. Newell had always wanted to compensate her daughter for what she owed her, but she had never had the chance to do so.

"Then what are we going to do about this, Madame?" The secretary asked Mrs. Newell.

"Forget it. Since it's already transferred to my account, it's not like we should return it. Keep it. The Carter family is not short of this little money. We'll talk about it later."

Mrs. Newell dismissed her secretary.

Stephen was the only one Mrs. Newell would be grateful for in her life. He had raised their daughter to be such a decent lady. And for Amy's sake, he had never remarried. But how could Mrs. Newell repay him?

He definitely wouldn't accept it if she gave him money, nor would he take the company. Stephen was just an honest and simple man, so he wasn't cut out for business. She could only ask Amy to take good care of him. That should be some kind of reward for his kindness in bringing her up.

Mrs. Newell sighed. Although she was Amy's birth mother, she did not fulfill her parental responsibility. And now she could not tell Amy the truth. Given Amy's personality, Mrs. Newell guessed that the young lady wouldn't return to her even if she found out about it. Mrs. Newell could only hide in the shadow and quietly look after Amy.

"Mrs. Newell, is something bothering you?" Mr. Newell walked in and noticed the grave look on his wife's face.

"Mr. Newell, I gave my daughter a dress today, but she transferred the money back to me." Mrs. Newell, or Mrs. Newell Rice, explained to her husband in resignation.

"Oh, that's what you're upset about? It'll be alright. There's still plenty of time. Whatever you want to give her, take your time. The kid is very kind. As you know, she wouldn't even take my shares. If it was someone else, they would have been jealous long ago." Mr. Newell walked over to comfort his wife.

"Mr. Newell, the man I'm sorry for the most in my life is Stephen. Figure out for me how I should repay him." Watching her husband, Mrs. Newell felt relaxed. He could always come up with a thoughtful solution to whatever problem. It was just that Mrs. Newell didn't want to trouble him most of the time.

"The best reward you can give him is to let Amy stay with him. He only cares about Amy, so don't try to take her away from him." Mr. Newell said to Mrs. Newell.

"That's what I'm thinking. But I feel very guilty if that's the only thing I can do. I do wish he will pull himself together again." Mrs. Newell wrapped her arms around Mr. Newell's waist and put her face on his belly.

Mr. Newell was tall and handsome. In his forties, he still looked young.

"Leave this to me, would you? I don't want my wife to be bothered by it." Mr. Newell stroked Mrs.

Newell's hair and comforted her. He knew what she wanted, but there was nothing he could do about it.

Amy was raised by someone else, so they could only keep an eye on her from afar.

"Where's Dexter? It seems that he hasn't returned home for a long time. Is he working on his painting again?" Dexter was so passionate about painting that it was not unfair to call him a painting addict.

"He has grown up. Don't worry about him too much. Dexter is a well-behaved young man. Relax." It was said that mothers were the greatest. It was true. Mrs. Newell was always so worried about her kids.

"I know, but I can't help it. I just keep thinking about them." Mrs. Newell smiled.

"Then let's go out for dinner tonight. I'll pick you up after work. I got some things to deal with now." Mr.

Newell was only here to report his whereabouts to Mrs. Newell.

"Alright, go ahead. I'm handing something as well. See you later." Mrs. Newell let go of Mr. Newell and the two left each other alone.

"Cherry, it's me, Mrs. Newell. I'm back. Let us meet." After Mr. Newell left, Mrs. Newell called her younger sister and asked her out. She didn't take Cherry lightly.

"Why didn't you even bother to greet your grandparents when having a meal?" Noticing that Amy kept eating with her head down, Grandma Eva began to nag.

"Oh. Hello, Grandpa and Grandma." Instead of arguing with Grandma Eva, Amy greeted them since the old lady accused her of not doing so.

"There aren't that many rules here. Hurry up and have your dinner. Don't even talk while you're eating."

Grandpa John was irritated at the sight of Grandma Eva. The family had been very happy, but after her arrival, everything became a mess. William and Sophia stopped coming here for meals, saying that they would cook for themselves.

Grandpa John was very mad at that. He liked to be in a lively family, but he didn't like quarreling. His family used to be so harmonious. But Grandma Eva had been mean and critical to everyone ever since she came here. She disliked the fact that Sophia was from a humble family as if Grandma Eva herself had come from a rich one.

"You got a problem with that? I'm teaching her! It's for her own good. Look at Sophia. She greets me every time she runs into me. See how sweet she is? It's hard for me not to like her." Grandma Eva was annoyed by the fact that her husband acted against her constantly. She felt disrespected.

"Grandma, this is your favorite roasted pork. Have some more." Richard hurried to pick up a piece of roasted pork for Grandma Eva.

Grandma Eva's teeth were not in a very good condition, so she liked to have soft and roasted pork.

Seeing the meat Richard brought to her, Grandma Eva felt her dignity preserved.

"I knew my grandsons are the ones who care about me. They're all nice. Look at how outstanding my four grandchildren are!" Grandma Eva treated her grandchildren very well.

Amy did not bother to argue with Grandma Eva. Anyway, she was an old lady. And the elderly should be treated with patience and respect. Amy had always lived up to that. After dinner, Richard decided to go out for a walk with Amy to help digestion.

"At least help clean it up after dinner. What a lazy brat." Grandma Eva got another chance to taunt Amy.

"Okay. I'll work on it." Amy let go of Richard's hand and went to clean up the table.

"You're not doing it. It's the maid's job to clean the table. You're my daughter-in-law, not a maid. You can do whatever you want after dinner. Act like a hostess." Cathy was unhappy about the fact that Grandma Eva kept making things difficult for Amy.

"No wonder she's like that. Look at that daughter-in-law of yours. She's just like her mother-in-law!"

Grandma Eva unkindly started quarreling with Cathy.

Chapter 148 Halbert's Decision

Targeted by the unkind comment from Grandma Eva, Cathy would not swallow it and stay quiet. She had always been doted on by her family since childhood. She could never tolerate being offended, so if Grandma Eva wanted a fight, Cathy would not hold back.

"Alright, alright. Mom, please stop saying anything. Cathy, don't take it personally." Halbert was in such a dilemma. The family had been peaceful before Grandma Eva came to live here. She had only been here for a few days, yet there were quarrels in the house every day.

"Halbert, I'm old. Do you dislike me already? I'm not educated, unlike someone who dresses up so slutty every day. I'm not endearing anymore, am I?" Grandma Eva clutched Halbert's hands and began to cry.

Realizing that she was maliciously accused before she could utter a word, Cathy turned around and stormed off.

Halbert wanted to follow Cathy, but Grandma Eva grabbed him tightly and refused to let go. Halbert didn't mean to say anything hurtful to his mother. She had been very pitiful living alone outside. Halbert brought her home because he wanted her to be happy. But this was too painful.

"Mom, I know you have been wronged. I will talk to Cathy about it. She is a reasonable woman, and I'm sure she'll understand that you did all these out of the goodness of your heart." Halbert brought Grandma Eva to the sofa and sat her down, slowly comforting her.

Richard and his two older brothers were also there keeping Grandma Eva company. Amy and Hilary sneaked away. They didn't have much to say in what happened between them. Besides, Grandma Eva had been specifically mean to Amy, so Amy was biased towards Cathy, who had stood out for her.

"I have a hard time being here alone. Although Sophia is a good girl, I'm still so old. There's a generation gap when I talk to her. I'm so lonely." Grandma Eva sounded so pathetic. "What do you want, Mom?" Halbert didn't want his mother to leave. Although they quarreled here, they were still families and lived together. Grandma Eva was old, and it was time for him to fulfill his filial duty.

"I knew you always think the best for me, dear. I want to bring Addy over. She is not an outsider. Think about it, she is also the mother of William and Jacob. Although she and you are divorced, she never asked you for anything, did she? She has suffered a lot, too. And I am used to living with her." Grandma Eva said as she observed Halbert's expression.

"Mom, I might need to discuss it with Cathy. She is the one in charge." Deep down, Halbert disliked the idea. But now that his mother brought it up, he was unable to steel himself to reject it directly.

"Grandma has a point, Dad. Ask Mom to move in. She can live with Grandma. Otherwise, Mom will be alone in the countryside when Grandma stays here." William and Jacob had long wanted to live here with their mother.

It was not that they wanted to take good care of their mother. It was just that they wished to reclaim their power in the family with the help of Addy's coming back. Addy was never a pushover. She hated Cathy's guts. But it never came to her that she and Halbert had divorced before Halbert being with Cathy.

Now that his sons were for the idea, Halbert didn't know what to do. In fact, he didn't want Addy to come. But he hesitated since his mother had suggested it.

"Dad, invite Mom here. We'll cover her living expenses ourselves. We won't use the money of the Carter family." William made an unexpected move.

"Richard, what do you think?" Cornered by their demands, Halbert had no choice but to ask Richard, who had been silent the entire time.

As a man, Richard was very influential in the business world. But when it came to family matters, he was not so bright. But all he knew was that his mother's consent was required.

"Dad, I think we should ask for Mom's opinion. Isn't Mom still in charge of the family?" Richard answered.

He had a hunch that if William and Jacob's mother was here, the family would be even more chaotic.

"Dad, why bother to ask Mom? She certainly won't allow our mother to move in. You know, our mom used to be your wife, too. Whatever. Our mother will just have to suffer forever." With that, William and Jacob were both feeling with eyes turned red.

What Halbert felt sorry for Addy was that when he found her, Addy didn't ask for any money from the Carter family.

It wasn't that she had backbone, but that she was timid. Everyone in the village knew that she had married a rich man. Addy was afraid that she would be harmed if she got too much money on her. She didn't ask Halbert for money because she thought that her kids had enough food and clothing while she had enough money.

Over the past twenty years, she had been living with Grandma Eva. The old lady would give her some money from time to time, so Addy was not short of it.

But deep down, Halbert felt sorry for her. He also thought that she was a straightforward woman.

"Dad, don't you know what kind of woman our mother is? When you two divorced, she didn't want anything." William cried as he spoke.

"William, don't cry. I believe Dad will take care of it. Don't cry. Don't be sad." Sophia decided it was time for her to say something.

If her mother-in-law moved in, she wouldn't be afraid of Cathy and Amy anymore. The two were difficult to deal with since they were very close. But if Addy came here, Sophia would have another helper. She was sure that her mother-in-law would help her.

"Halbert, can't you even make the decision for the family? Are you driving your old mother away? I'll leave, then. Just pretend I didn't say it!" Seeing that Halbert was swayed, she gave him a push.

"Alright then. William, Jacob, go invite your mother here. By the way, after you bring her back, ask her to live with your grandma. She will not have a meal with us. Let's eat separately. I'll send some servants over." Halbert pondered for a moment. This was the only way out. Since Halbert gave in, the three had achieved their goal. Anyway, they would bring Addy here first before they slowly reclaimed their power in the family. They would never sit back and watch Richard's mother dominate the family.

Inappropriate as it seemed to be, since his father had made the decision, Richard could not argue. Now that his grandmother was at peace, Richard was relieved.

"Go back to your discussion. I'm leaving to take a shower. I got some meetings tomorrow, so I need to get ready." Richard left the rest of them.

Halbert asked William and Jacob to walk Grandma Eva to her room. He needed to go back and tell Cathy about it.

"What? Addy is moving in? Why? Who made the decision?" When Cathy heard that Addy was coming, she widened her eyes. Did they still want to live together as a family or not?

Chapter 149 The New Vice President

Cathy had been crying in Amy's room for a long time. Amy and Hilary were both comforting her.

"Amy, don't you think it's unfair to me? I'm the head of this family. But no one told me that she was coming." Cathy held onto Amy's hand.

Amy glanced at Hilary. She knew that Addy's arrival must be embarrassing, but she didn't know why Halbert would agree.

No matter what, he should discuss it with Cathy before making a decision. However, Halbert was an elder. Amy could not bad-mouth him, so she could only comfort Cathy.

"Mom, maybe Dad has some difficulties," Amy said.

"Mom, you know that my dad loves you the most. They must have instigated him to do so." Hilary tried to comfort Cathy as well.

"He didn't even tell me about his ex-wife's coming. I don't believe he loves me. They will reunite as a family. Am I the unnecessary person?" Cathy was so angry that she wanted to go back to her mother's house, but she was afraid that her child would be wronged.

"No, no, you're the one who has the final say in our family. You just have to provide for one more person." None of them knew what they were discussing yesterday.

"Forget it. I will wait and see. Your grandpa is sick. I can't cause too much trouble. I'm afraid that it will affect your grandpa's health. Grandpa won't hold on for a long time. If your grandma keeps acting recklessly, I don't know what will happen to your grandpa." Cathy's bark was worse than her bite.

Although she was furious, she still thought about John. She was afraid that John would not be able to take it, so she had to hold back grievances.

Halbert slapped Halbert in the face. Halbert, 50 years old, did not expect his father would slap him.

However, after the slap, he had to immediately support John. John was exasperated.

"Halbert, are you stupid? How can you allow your mother to make trouble? You even agree to take Addy in. Have you discussed with Cathy?" John pounded the walking stick against the ground.

"No, Dad, I..." Halbert was having a hard time. His mother was happy, but his wife and father were angry.

"Cathy is in charge of this house. She is your wife, but you don't even have the least bit of respect for her! After your mother came, she caused a lot of trouble to the family. Cathy is in a difficult situation.

You even want to take your ex-wife in. Do you want to make things difficult for your family?" John blew his beard in rage.

"Dad, don't be angry. Don't be angry. Things have gone so far. There's nothing we can do about it." The two children had gone to pick up Addy, so he couldn't call them and told them not to pick Addy up. John was in a dilemma.

"I'm not angry. I'm dying. I just feel sorry for Cathy for what she is being through. Talk to her!" Get out. I don't want to see you. From today onwards, deliver all my meals to my room. I don't want to see you!"

As soon as Halbert left, John had a servant close the door. It seemed that the family would be thrown into turmoil.

Halbert stood at John's door. He regretted it. Last night, he agreed to his mother's request without careful consideration. Now both Cathy and his father snubbed him. He did regret it!

After standing at the door for a while, Halbert left. Right now, he didn't have anything to do.

Occasionally, he would go out to play football and participate in some activities for the elderly. However, he wasn't in the mood today. His wife was angry, so he had to soothe her no matter what.

Seeing Amy and Hilary, Halbert walked towards them.

"Amy, Hilary, are you guys going to work?" Halbert didn't have anything else to talk about.

"Yes, daddy." Hilary didn't want to pay attention to Halbert. Only Amy spoke to him.

"Amy, you and Hilary don't go to work today. Keep your mother company, okay?" Halbert prepared to start with Amy and ask her to be with Cathy. In this way, Cathy would feel better. Amy was Cathy's favorite.

"You should take responsibility for what you have done. We are going to work. Bye!" However, Hilary did not show respect for Halbert. She pulled Amy away.

"What a naughty girl!" Seeing that his daughter ignored him, Halbert wanted to shout, but she ran away.

There was nothing he could do, so he could only brave it out to talk to Cathy.

"Hilary, I think Dad is pitiful. Mom and Grandpa are both angry with him." In Hilary's car, Amy was thinking about Halbert's pitiful look.

"He deserves it. He makes decisions without consulting others. Our family's affairs are complicated. Amy, I don't want to live at home for the time being. I don't look down on rural people. But Addy and my grandma are selfish and petty, so I disdain them." When Hilary was young, she went to the countryside to see Eva and Addy.

Later on, when she grew up, she didn't go anymore. Eva and Addy were disgusting. She couldn't stand it.

Cathy definitely couldn't stand them. This was all caused by her father. There was nothing she could do about it. He had to face it.

When Amy arrived at the company, she discovered that a new office had been renovated across from the president's office. The facilities inside were not inferior to Richard's office. It was luxurious.

This room had always been lying idle. Why did it suddenly get renovated?

Richard had a meeting today. Just as Amy was about to push the door open and enter, she saw Allison walk out from the opposite office.

"Amy, you finally return to work. Look at the changes in the company during your absence. A new vice president will take office. I heard that she was a woman. Her office has been renovated and I'm the overseer. Richard believes in my taste."

"Then congratulations on winning Mr. Carter's trust." Amy looked at the proud Allison and wanted to laugh.

"Miss Field, what is the relationship between that vice president and you?" Amy pretended to be childish.

"Nothing. I just heard that she was a beautiful and competent woman. Amy, come and see what else is needed in this room. If there's anything wrong, give me some advice." Seeing that Amy did not show any signs of anger, Allison asked Amy to take a look at the decoration on the other side.

"I'm not interested. I have something to do. We can talk later." Amy turned around and was about to enter her office.

"Amy, what do you think of Richard's intention? He even arranged the vice president's office to be opposite him. He can look at her once he looks up. Well, it's hard to see through men." Allison continued to speak behind Amy.

Chapter 150 The Mysterious Female Vice President

Jealous, Allison watched Amy walk into Richard's office. But when she thought of the new female vice president, her jealousy dissipated a little. She could set things up against Amy with that vice president.

Allison did not understand why Richard would care that much for the vice president. When Allison heard this news a week ago, she was furious. What was Richard going to do?

If the female vice president came, wouldn't she have more opponents? But then, Allison thought that she could make friends with this female vice president and then they could work in unison against Amy. Amy was Richard's wife, so she was Allison's greatest enemy. Allison could deal with other enemies later.

Allison entered the vice president's office where the final repair work was being carried on. She looked at the decoration here. It could be seen that Richard was fond of this female vice president. Who could it be? Allison was curious.

Amy did not take Allison's words seriously. Since Richard decided to hire this vice president, she was definitely somebody and was helpful to him. Since Amy could not help him, she wasn't jealous of this vice president.

Amy read through all the documents Richard placed on her desk and commented as much as she could.

She wrote down what she wasn't sure about in a notebook and planned to leave it to Richard after he came back.

Amy quickly finished reading the thick pile of documents. She didn't even have time to catch her breath.

Hannah called her.

"Amy, do you think that Kevin is mad? I told Cadman that I wouldn't go to HA Group. But Kevin threatened Cadman that if I didn't go, he wouldn't talk to HD Group."

Hannah chattered away. Amy held her phone a distance away from her ears, for Hannah's voice was ear-piercing.

"Well, Hannah, speak slowly. I don't understand." Amy picked her ears.

Hannah's voice.

"Alright, I mean Kevin is annoying. He insists that I go to HA Group, but I don't want to go. What should I do?" Hannah felt embarrassed when she thought of Kevin. She wanted to avoid him now. After knowing that Kevin was the little boy she had been missing, she was completely unable to face Kevin.

"Then what are you afraid of? Just go. This will be your order and you will get a high commission." Amy did not know what happened to Hannah.

"Well, I haven't told you about that yet. Kevin is the owner of my necklace. Now I know the truth. How can I face him?" Hannah finally remembered that she hadn't told Amy that Kevin was the person she had been waiting for.

"What did you say? Hannah, aren't you a little off?" Amy knew that there was always someone in Hannah's heart. For Hannah, that person was like a god.

"Wait a moment. I'll talk to you right away. Are you in the office?" Hannah felt that she couldn't explain clearly on the phone. Having confirmed that Amy was in the office, she took the phone and went to Amy's office.

"Amy, why am I so pitiful?" Hannah walked into the office and saw that Richard was not around. She hugged Amy and cried.

"Alright, talk slowly. What exactly is going on? I'm confused." Amy comforted Hannah and asked her to sit down before serving her a cup of tea.

"Here's the story." Hannah calmed herself down. She told Amy that she found out Kevin was the boy she had been missing. She couldn't accept it for a while.

In her mind, that child was a god.

But Kevin was a notorious playboy, so she couldn't accept it. It turned out that the person in her heart was such a person. Thus, Hannah had an inner conflict.

"How could it be like this?" Even Amy felt that this was too absurd.

"I don't want to believe it either, but that's the truth! Amy, what do you think I should do now? He knows that I carried a torch for him when he was a teenager. How pleased he will be with himself and how mercilessly he will laugh at me!" Hannah felt that a person like Kevin would definitely be smug about it if he knew someone had been loving him from a distance for years.

"But I remember you told me that if you met the boy one day again, you would pounce on him to express your feelings. Am I mistaken?" Amy looked at Hannah mockingly.

"I'm so depressed. Amy, stop laughing at me!" Hannah blushed. Back then, she did say that if that boy appeared in her line of sight, she would directly pounce on him.

"I don't understand what you're afraid of. Even if Kevin knows that he is your Prince Charming, he won't eat you. Just go to meet him and earn the commission. If you like him, keep him in touch. If you don't like him, forget about it. Let that boy live in your heart forever." Amy looked at Hannah in confusion. Hannah was much more courageous than her Amy did not expect that Hannah would be so cowardly sometimes.

Hannah listened to Amy's analysis. She didn't cry anymore. It seemed reasonable. There was nothing to be afraid of.

It turned out that she had wasted a lot of time worrying about it. Why did she forget everything out of anxiety? She even forgot to follow her heart.

"That's right. What am I afraid of? It's not embarrassing to like someone. I didn't know that boy was him.

Amy, you're suitable to be a secretary. You are getting better and better at giving people guidance."

Hannah was suddenly enlightened. She hugged Amy and kissed her.

"By the way, Amy, when I came here, I saw that the opposite office was being renovated. I heard that a new female vice president was going to take office. What's going on?"

After Hannah came around, she began to gossip.

"I don't know. I only knew it when I came here today." Amy shook her head.

"Amy, let me remind you. Richard suddenly hired a female vice president. You have to be careful. Their offices are opposite, and they often discuss things together. It's inevitable that something will happen.

What annoys me the most is Allison's complacent expression, as if she knows something!" Hannah reminded Amy._____
